The Rev. L. G. Tandberg officiated at the ceremony attended by 200 guests. The organist, Mrs. Bob Hansen, Minneapolis, played a prelude of nuptial music the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Roe Merry, brother of the groom, as he sang, "Because" and "A Wedding Prayer". A sister of the bride, Jeanine Gusa, sang, "Each For the Other".

Providing the chancel setting were candelabra, potted palms and arrangements of pink gladioli and white mums. White candles, ferns and bows marked the pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta. Styled with a fitted bodice featuring long tapering sleeves and a slightly scooped neckline, the gown was fashioned with a floor-length skirt with detailed side and back fullness that flowed back into a sweeping train. Lace appliques, embroidered with pearls and sequins, graced the bodice and were repeated on the skirt. A matching lace headpiece, embroidered with pearls and enhanced by dainty rosettes of silk organza, secured her veil of silk illusion and she carried an ivy entwined cascade bouquet of sweetheart roses and stephanotis, centered by a large white orchid. Her double of strand of pearls was a gift from the groom.

Jeanine Gusa, Princeton, attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Moe, cousin of the bride and Adell Smith, both of Minneapolis. Louene Gusa, sister of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid. They wore identical floor-length sheath gowns of deep pink brocade fashioned with slightly scooped necklines, elbow-length sleeves and a hem-length watteau panel secured at the back neckline with a pink satin bow. To complete their attire, they wore white gloves, gifts from the bride, pink satin and tulle headpieces and pink shoes. Each carried a cascade arrangement of deep pink carnations and white pompoms.

Debra Merry, Minneapolis, a niece of the groom was flower girl. Her gown, headpiece and bouquet were similar to that of the bridesmaids. Serving as ring bearer was Randy Moe of Thief River Falls, cousin of the bride. Acceloytes were Diane Smith of Anoka and Kevin Kompelien of Thief River Falls. Miss Smith wore a white dress and a pink carnation corsage and Mr. Kompelien was attired in a dark business suit with a white boutonniere.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother Ronald Merry. Groomsmen were Gary Wilson of Elkhart, Iowa, cousin of the bride, and William Merry Jr., brother of the groom. David Wetterlund of Minneapolis, cousin of the bride was junior attendant. Serving as ushers were Randy and Roger Nelson, friends of the groom. The ring bearer and the men of the wedding party wore tuxedos and white carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride and groom were attired in two-piece turquoise dresses with white accessories. Their corsages were sweetheart roses and white pompons.

Honor guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. George Gusa of Middle River paternal grandparents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Roe Merry of Dell Rapids, S. D., paternal grandparents of the groom. The grandmothers wore dresses of navy blue and brown, respectively, and were presented corsages of pink carnations.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony with Mrs. Vernon Songstad and Mrs. Peter Welklunget of Cook Rapids as hostesses. Decorations were in pink and white with arrangements of pink gladioli and white pompons centering the bridal table and serving tables.

The four-tiered wedding cake, decorated in pink and white, was cut and served by Mrs. Roe Merry and Mrs. William Merry Jr., of Minneapolis, sisters-in-law of the groom. Mrs. Rudolph Smith of Newfolden, great aunt of the bride, poured. Gayle Wilson, cousin of the bride, registered the guests while Mrs. Arthur Moe of Thief River Falls and Miss Edna Gusa of Middle River, served the punch. Waitresses were Carol Wetterlund, Susan Olson, Darlene and Shirley Peltzer and the gifts were opened and displayed by Mrs. Lloyd Larson of Holt and Mrs. Vern Wilson of Elkhart, Iowa. Those in charge of serving the reception were Mrs. Kenneth Payne, Mrs. Enock Olson and Mrs. Vernon Reine.

Guests attending were from Paramount, Calif., Sioux Falls and Dell Rapids, S. D., Elkhart, Iowa; St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls, Middle River, Holt, Newfolden, Milaca, Long Lake, St. Cloud, Cambridge, Anoka, Coon Rapids, Minneapolis and Princeton.

For her traveling ensemble, the bride chose a navy blue dress with navy accessories and the orchid corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of the Princeton high school, attending North Central Bible college and prior to her marriage was employed at Mercy hospital in Anoka. The groom is also a graduate of Princeton high school. He is in the United States Navy, presently stationed at Newport News, Va., where the couple is making their home.

Rochelle Dahlen Weds David Reed At Trinity

The marriage of Miss Rochelle Dahlen of Thief River Falls and David J. Reed of Crystal was solemnized at Trinity Lutheran Church of this city at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, June 25. The Rev. Reuben Wangberg officiated at the double ring ceremony. The chancel was lighted by two spiral candelabra in a setting of potted palms and baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums. White satin bows and lighted tapers lined the white-carpeted aisle.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton R. Dahlen of this city, and the groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. James Reed of Ortonville.

As the guests were being seated Mrs. Carl Nordvall of Thief River Falls, organist, played a group of appropriate selections. The processional march was Grieg's "Wedding Day" and the recessional was Verdi's "Triumphal March" from Aida. Solist was Jon Butler of Minneapolis, a friend of the groom, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Wedding Song" as arranged by Flor Peeters, and "I Love Thee" by Grieg.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a semi-sheath of white peau taffeta with a detachable chapel train. The bodice was made with a crescent neckline and above-the-elbow sleeves. Pearled, re-embroidered Alencon lace encircled the natural waistline and was repeated on the sleeves. Her headdress of embroidered organza petals held the tiered silk illusion blusher veil, and the three long panels of illusion ornamented with a scattering of organza petals which formed the train.

The bride's bouquet was an all white cascade of glamellias, baby's breath and ivy. For sentiment she carried a handmade Rosepoint lace handkerchief, a memento from the wedding sixty-five years ago of her paternal grandmother, Mrs. H. S. Dahlen of Thief River Falls. The veil which the bride wore was loaned to her by a close friend, Mrs. Donald Mertz.

Miss eanne Dahlen of Madison, Wisconsin a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Rosemary Dahlen of this city, sister of the bride, Miss Janice Anderson of St. Paul and Mrs. Henning Anderson of Battle Creek, Mich., both friends of the bride, were bridesmaids. All wore floor-length gowns of pale aqua Shan-Charm, simply styled with crescent necklines and two soft cluster pleats adding fullness to the slim lines of the skirts. Narrow bands of avocado velvet accented the waistline ending in bows at the back. Double circles of aqua net secured by flat bows formed their headpieces. Long white gloves and aqua shoes completed their attire. The attendants carried asters of deep amethyst in a cascade arrangement with baby's breath and ivy. The groom's niece, Sandy Brown of Columbus, Ohio, was the flower girl, wearing a floor length empire dress of aqua Shan-Charm and carrying a nosegay.

Richard Moberg of Minneapolis served as best man. Donald Mertz of Park Ridge, Ill., Carl King of East Rochester, N. Y., and Bruce Eggleston of Minneapolis were ushers. All are friends of the groom. The bride's father and the groomsmen wore black stroller jackets, grey waistcoats, and striped trousers and had white carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a sea green three - piece suit of silk and worsted, with jeweled buttons. She wore matching shoes and a hat of green cog feathers, small amethyst flowers and veiling. White rosebuds with an amethyst accent made up her corsage. The groom's mother wore a pink dress with a pillbox hat in a deep rose. Her corsage was similar to that of the bride's mother. An honored guest was the bride's grandmother Mrs. H. S. Dahlen who had a white rose corsage with a touch of blue.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weigelt, godparents of the bride acted as hosts at the wedding dinner and reception given at the church by the bride's parents for about 150 guests.

Aunts of the bride, Mrs. E. A. Ecklund of Minneapolis and Mrs. Lloyd Howick of Thief River Falls, cut and served the four-tiered wedding cake which was decorated with aqua roses and topped with a Christ O Gram. The serving table was draped in white net with swags of aqua net caught with white satin bows and net roses.

Mrs. C. Myron Edberg of Minneapolis and Miss Lydia Dahlen of Thief River Falls, also aunts of the bride, poured.

Serving punch were Mrs. Donald Mertz and Mrs. Bruce Eggleston. Mrs. Carl King registered the guests. Miss Joyce Birkeland of Anoka, Miss Von Person of New Brighton and Mrs. Richard Moberg of St. Louis Park arranged the gifts. They are friends of the bridal couple.

All who assisted at the reception received corsages and gifts from the bride.

Sally and Kathy Nepper of East Grand Forks offered groom's cake to the guests. They wore identical aqua dresses and carried small white baskets ornamented with clusters of purple violas and tiny avocado velvet bows.

Waitresses were Karen Stoner and Fay Swenson of Coon Rapids, students of the bride, Barbara Nepper of East Grand Forks, Sara Howick, Nancy Flynn and Kathy Helm of Thief River Falls. They wore white eyelet aprons, gifts of the bride.

The dinner was catered by the Lois and Joanna circles of Trinity church.

For the wedding trip the bride chose a two-piece dress in black and white with black patent trim and accessories, and wore a glamellia taken from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Minneapolis.

The groom, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, is with Control Data in the personnel division. The bride, a graduate of Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Peter, Minnesota, will resume her teaching position in the Coon Rapids high school.

Out - of - town guests came from Columbus, Ohio; East Rochester, N. Y.; Battle Creek, Mich.; Park Ridge, Ill.; Ortonville, Minneapolis, Coon Rapids, Anoka, New Brighton, St. Louis Park, Duluth, Stewart, St. Peter, Fargo, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks and Beltrami.

Snedeker and Green Vows Spoken at Wheeling, W. Va.

White gladioli on the altar of Mt. Olivet Methodist church at Wheeling, W. Va., formed the setting on Saturday, June 25, for the wedding of Miss Anne Elizabeth Snedeker and Dalen DeForest Green. Officiating at the 2:30 p.m. single-ring ceremony was Rev. Robert C. Snedeker, cousin of the bride. Approximately 200 guests were in attendance.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hanry Parke Snedeker of Wheeling W. Va., and the groom is the son of DeForest Green and Mrs. Maybelle Solney, both of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. C. Glen Cook served as organist and played a selection of traditional nuptial music and cousins of the bride, Mrs. Davie Henry and Mrs. N. J. Schmidt, sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a streetlength gown of crisp white organdy over summer taffeta. Styled in empire sheath fashion, the gown featured a rounded neckline and a skirt of Schiffli embroidered organdy which fell in tiers to the hemline. A large bow of white silk held her bouffant veil of silk illusion and she carried a nosegay of white carnations.

As her only attendant, the bride chose her sister, Edith Louise Snedeker Weir of Stephenson, Va., as her matron of honor. She wore a street length frock of apricot crepe featuring a moire bodice with elbow length sleeves and a boat neckline. Her headpiece was a matching apricot colored bow and she carried a nosegay of aqua tinted carnations.

Dennis Green of Thief River Falls attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Robert Hand of Wheeling, W. Va., a cousin of the bride and David C. Weir of Stephenson, Va., brother-in-law of the bride. They all wore dark business suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Snedeker wore a green lace, two-piece tailored suit complemented by white accessories. The mother of the groom wore a blue summer frock with white Schiffli embroidery. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations. Attending the wedding as honored guests were the grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. M. Verne Reed.

A reception in the church social rooms followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Snedeker served as host and hostess, Miss Elizabeth Henry registered the guests, Mrs. Edward Nolte served the punch and Mrs. Frank Stoy and Mrs. Lester St. Myers cut and served the three tiered wedding cake, iced in white and trimmed with white roses and gold leaves.

Guests from a distance attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Solney and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Green of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeNardo of Pittsburgh, Pa.

For traveling on the wedding trip through New York state and into Canada, the bride wore a pink floral print voile dress with smocked bodice.

The bride a graduate of the Wheeling high school and the West Virginia Wesleyan college, is employed by the Baltimore City board of education at Baltimore, Md. The groom, also employed by the Baltimore City board of education, is a graduate of the University of North Dakota. Following a summer spent in Thief River Falls, the newlyweds will be at home at Baltimore, Md., after Sept. 1.

Farr Defends DFL Convention Plan For Endorsement

"The concept of endorsement of candidates is vital to the success of the Minnesota DFL in the November elections," state George Farr, state DFL chairman.

"The endorsement principle applies equally to all offices under contest in this year's election. In addition to governor and other state officers who will be endorsed, the U. S. Senate candidate, congressional candidates and legislative candidates all will be running with the same indication of party support.

"The DFL has traditionally used this method of concerting its efforts to give our candidates every possible opportunity to win.

"On the state level we have a two-thirds vote requirement for endorsement so that no candidate can receive the endorsement unless he is the choice of at least two-thirds of the party representatives assembled in a convention.

"In the convention just concluded the delegates stayed for two days casting ballot after ballot after ballot before making its two-thirds decision. The rules were not changed to provide for a 60 per cent margin (as is required in the Republican convention) or for any other margin so that the endorsement in 1966 would carry the same weight as it has in every statewide election since the party began.

"Although feelings may be running high at this time, the validity of the endorsement process nonetheless remains. Every spokesman every officeholder, who addressed the convention emphasized the urgency of endorsement. If endorsement is so important to candidates, it is even more important for the programs of liberalism for which the DFL stands.

"If the endorsement principle is seriously questioned on the gubernatorial level, I believe it would pose serious problems in other races and hence raise additional handicaps to the advancement of the programs in which all DFL'ers believe," he said.

190 Have Applied For Admission to Tech. Institute

Entering freshman students at the new technical institute, Crookston, will have a most favorable ratio with the faculty now being assembled, according to Dr. Stanley D. Sahlstrom, institute director. Enrollment as of June 22 totaled 190 applicants.

The number of students per faculty member will be less than the usual number found in Minnesota colleges and students will have a opportunity to obtain individual help in classes and in individual consultation, Dr. Sahlstrom said.

Ardith Johnson Attends Seminar For Court Clerks

Ardith Johnson clerk of district court for Pennington county, attended the second annual seminar for clerks of Minnesota at the highway training center, Arden Hills, on Thursday and Friday. The seminar, conducted by the Nolte center for continuing education of the University of Minnesota, is one of the pilot projects for "on the job training" of public officials in Minnesota.

R. Kay Humphrey, director of the center and guide for the seminar planning, opened the sessions with a welcome on Thursday morning. Douglas Johnson, Slayton, presided at all other sessions as president of the clerks' association.

The Social Security administration's requirements for proof of birth, age, identity, citizenship status, death, etc., were described and explained by Lionel F. Reid, social security claims supervisor for the past five years.

"Accounting Guidelines for Clerks" was the subject of the second study area presented by C. Milton Widen, supervisor of the county audits division of the Public Examiner's office.

Dr. John G. Geier, associate professor of rhetoric, University of Minnesota, presented a group participation study on "Problems in Communication" and a second session on "Persuasive Communication". The second day opened with a presentation of "Court Minutes and the Law" by Professor David L. Graven of the law school, University of Minnesota.

Joseph C. Page, clerk of court of Winona, presented a background paper on court minutes in practice in the courts for civil and criminal cases, special and general terms.

The seminar closed with an afternoon devoted to the "Creative Approach to Problem Solving" presented by F. Thomas Benson, associate professor in oral communication and philosophy and administrative assistant at the university.

The seminars have been organized to increase uniformity of services and upgrade service to the public through the clerks' office throughout the state.

PUBLIC OPINION

To the Editor: June 27, 1966

Fortunate are we to have adequate housing, ample supplies of good food, eager hands to serve any and all needs, friends and neighbors willing to lend a hand, excellent facilities in which to entertain guests, and all this in a beautiful setting!

Someone having a party? Who are these lucky people?

Why, the Falls Squares, hosts to 1,128 square dancers who registered for the 15th Annual Minnesota State Square Dance convention held in Thief River Falls, June 24, 25, and 26, that's who!

We've been bursting with pride as we accepted praise for you who have shared in our convention in so many ways.

Persons who opened their homes to strangers were generous in their hospitality. Lights were on all over town waiting to welcome late dancing guests home, the coffee was perking, and "help yourself" a frequent expression. Our thanks to every one of you.

Square dancers work up a healthy appetite; contented happy dancers were evidence of good food thanks to grocers and restaurants alike. Shoppers at stores and service stations were amazed and delighted by the sincere friendliness. Our merchants can be proud, as are we of cooperative, smiling personnel. Thanks to the Chamber of Commerce members who offered greetings and a copy of the convention issue newspaper to each arrival; to participants in our club officer workshop; to nurses who were in the thick of the excitement, had few casualties; to our teen chaperone (she gives them a badge-of-excellence report); to the news coverage by radio and in print.

Our town, the greatest! Where else would you find a copy of the latest edition delivered to your tent or trailer door with a cheery good morning? It happened at our camp area where wide-eyed campers were greeted two mornings. Hospitality plus; they loved it. Camp supervision and beauty of setting received favorable comments. Supervisor for the Falls Squares headquartered at the park, used that constantly perking coffee often, especially when the rains came. He discovered the tiny bride of one week was becoming accustomed to green grass, a novelty, explained her husband, she being a Brooklyn girl.

We had a "first" at the banquet too. It started on time! Thanks to ladies of the church who are to be complimented for excellent food and service, to our musical entertainment, and the special services for square dancers convenience. Someone realized the need!

The mayor and city council sparked a general feeling of good will as square dancers enjoyed well-cared for buildings in a beautiful town. A phrase that bears repeating "a beautiful town", was heard frequently. A salute to you who make it so.

To the school board, superintendent and personnel responsible for fine facilities, we are ever grateful, and relay the conventioneer's comment, it was "excellent". Dancers filled the gym, cafeteria and halls, then the auditorium at Lincoln for the style show. Special thanks to our lighting expert, special music, assistant and commentator for fine performance. "The 1966 style show is easily the outstanding one in convention history", many guests said.

Host club, the Falls Squares, is not large. Ranks swelled with addition of Red Lake Falls, Crookston and Fertile dancers filling in as hosts and hostesses, while Warren, Gatzke, Roseau and Strandquist dancers stepped in at the registration desk. Need cooperation? Ask your neighbors. We are thankful and indebted to ours.

A successful convention, even "best yet", we are sincere when we say thank you, all you wonderful people in beautiful Thief River Falls in presenting this opportunity for fun to so many. We are a most fortunate group.

To the Editor:

After reading your editorial "Widening the Gap" of June 22, I am left wondering if you know much about A. M. Keith as a legislator and state leader and also whether you think a political party should be more responsive to its leaders rather than the people.

First off, you state that you "sympathize" with Gov. Karl Rolvaag because the delegates at the DFL convention favored Keith over the incumbent governor when endorsing a candidate for the highest office in the state.

You state that the party "walked out" on Rolvaag. However, I feel that Rolvaag has been stepping out on his party of late. He has not been available at a number of meetings (I have been to a half dozen or so in the past three years where the governor didn't show after he had promised) and he has left much of the defending of his programs up to the lieutenant governor. Keith did more to defend Rolvaag's budget in the last legislative session than did the governor. And if Keith says he will be at a meeting or a function, you can be sure he will show up.

But, to get back to the point, I feel the party had no obligation—other than tradition—to go with Rolvaag again. The generally reliable Minnesota Poll has consistently shown that the people favor Keith more than they do Rolvaag. It is heartening to know that political parties of this day put the people ahead of debts to the leaders.

I fail to see your reasons for stating that Keith has not given a satisfactory explanation for his involvement in the American Allied Insurance company case.

In your position you should keep posted on political matters. Mr. Keith, a lawyer, has said time and time again that he became affiliated with the insurance company only as legal counsel. He admits that it wasn't a wise choice, but when he agreed to the job he knew of nothing wrong with the company.

I submit there is not a man alive today who possesses enough foresight to know whether all his decisions will turn out right or wrong.

Keith is a highly intelligent man. He would not blow up a promising political future by knowingly involving himself with a company which is a subsidiary of one run by questionable men. Rational thinkers do not castigate men who make honest errors.

American Allied and subsidiary companies had a number of agents through the state. By your thinking, these agents are just as guilty of wrongdoing by selling the insurance as was Keith. Who was the agent in Thief River Falls. What has he got to offer about his involvement with the company?

As a newspaper editor, you have a duty to inform the people of the beliefs held by the candidates and what they can — or can't do for their constituents. You should not be a party in a trumped up "scandal" without giving the full facts. Statements such as, "He has offered no satisfactory explanation" without listing the explanation, is shoddy journalism.

MSC Has Record Summer Session

A new record high for first summer session enrollment has been recorded at Moorhead State college, according to a report today by Dr. Robert A. Hanson, director of admissions and registrar.

Hanson said on campus enrollment for the first session totals 1,533, compared with 1,466 in 1965 and 1,307 in 1964. The first session runs through July 20 and the second session will be conducted from July 21 to August 24.

Adventists Elect World Conference Heads in Detroit

Election of new leaders for the World conference of Seventh-day Adventists highlighted the 50th World Conference business session which closed Friday, June 24, at Detroit, Mich.

Robert A. Pierson of Salisbury, Rhodesia, Africa was elected president to succeed Reuben R. Figuhr who has headed the 1,508,000-member denomination since 1954. Other leaders named were Neal C. Wilson Tacoma Park, Md., vice president for North America; and Kenneth Emmerson, Washington, D. C., treasurer for the General (World) Conference.

By an overwhelming majority, the 1,400 delegates assembled voted equal treatment for all races. The action authorized a new section for the church's official manual entitled "No Wall of Partition."

Final worship services were held Saturday in the arena of Cobo Hall in Detroit. Delegates from iron and bamboo curtain countries were present.

Nearly 65 million pounds of cheese were produced in Minnesota during the past year.

Hot Weather, Showers Occur In Past Week

Typical early - summer weather, hot and muggy conditions culminating at times in showers and thunderstorms, has prevailed in Minnesota and the entire upper midwest during the past week. Tuesday's high of 90 degrees set a new high mark for 1966, and today promises to be even hotter.

Two heavy rains have occurred during the past week. Rain totaling .57 inch at the airport was measured Thursday. The same shower dropped 1.20 inches of rain at the Anderson brothers farm in Smiley township. A thundershower Friday evening dropped .81 inch of rain, which was measured at the airport at 6 a.m. Saturday.

Today the temperature rose into the low 80's by early morning and stood at 85 at about 11 a.m. Forecast calls for partly cloudy skies today becoming occasionally cloudy tonight with a chance of scattered showers and thunderstorms. Continued hot and humid weather is predicted, with highs today pegged at 88 to 96 and lows tonight from 65 to 75.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded during the past week at the municipal airport are as follows: 88 and 65 on Wednesday; 84, 49 and .57 inch on Thursday; 81 and 53 on Friday; 79, 52 and .81 inch on Saturday; 78 and 53 on Sunday; 78 and 53 on Monday; 90 and 57 on Tuesday; and a low this morning of 65.

of animals on display during the year.

As a word of advice to persons planning to picnic at the park this weekend, the Oen's advise bringing blankets to the picnic area since there are currently only eight picnic tables furnished. The concession building which is now under construction will also likely not be furnished by this weekend but will be an attractive part of the park when completed.

"We have had so many people ask us about when we are going to open the park that we have aimed for the Fourth of July weekend," Oen said. "We will not be entirely ready at that time, but the animals will be on display and the picnic and parking areas will be suitable for use. We invite area residents and their visitors to come to the park Sunday and Monday afternoon."

CLIMBING a tower built within their fence is recreational activity for these goats at the Riverside Animal park which will open Sunday noon. Two towers have been erected in the enclosure, one on either side of a stream, and are connected by a walking bridge. The stream is formed by overflow water from a trout pond which has been stocked with 100 trout. Park visitors may feed the trout a special food and watch the trout a swirl to the surface to snatch the floating pellets. The entire park area of 13 acres includes large trees for shade.

Area Students Named to Dean's List at Concordia

A total of 579 students were included on the dean's list at Concordia college, Moorhead, for the second semester of the 1965-66 academic year. The dean's list was released by Donald Dale, reigstrar.

Named to the dean's list from the local area were Peter Isaacson, James Jaranson, Nancy Newton, Trudel Waale and Eunice Wangberg, all of Thief River Falls; Jeffrey Wold, Trail; Carl Heline, Goodridge; Mary Allen, Greenbush; Mark D. Carlson, Newfolden; Linda Mathsen, Oklee; and Johnnie Skjerven, Plummer.

To be eligible for this academic recognition, Concordia students must carry a minimum of 12 credits and freshmen must earn a grade point average of 3.00 or better while upperclassmen must earn a grade point average of 3.25 or better. Perfect grade-point average is 4.00.

Rep. Fitzsimons Attends Advisory Group Meeting

Rep. Richard W. Fitzsimons, Argyle, attended the quarterly meeting of the Legislative Advisory committee in the office of Governor Karl F. Rolvaag at the State Capitol Monday.

The committee listened to and made recommendations on 51 requests for funds and transfer of funds by various state agencies. One of the major items requested and granted was an appropriation of $25,500 to continue the turkey disease testing program in Minnesota for the next six months.

Other major requests were for land acquisition for state parks, matching funds for counties and communities under the last MORRC appropriation; water pollution control; bureau of criminal apprehension; enforcement of gas tax law; and numerous requests for increased complement in the departments of welfare and corrections.

The Legislative Advisory committee is composed of the chairmen of the House and Senate appropriation committees, the chairmen of the Senate and House tax committees and the Governor.

ALERT to the actions of youngsters moving around the outside of the enclosure is this whitetail doe at the Riverside Animal park on the Ray Oen farm south of Thief River Falls. The Oens have been working on the physical aspects of the park for two years and will open it to the public Sunday noon. An admission of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children will be charged, and will include use of the picnic area located on the 13-acre park site.

Solons Attend Northwest Ass'n. Meeting in RLF

Minnesota state senators and representatives are becoming increasingly interested in conservation of the state's natural resources, as was shown when three members of the legislature attended the summer meeting of the Northwest Association of Conservation clubs held Wednesday evening, June 22, at the Red Lake Falls community hall.

In attendance were Rep. Marvin Christianson of Halstad, Sen. Norman Larson of Ada and Rep. Harvey Wilder of Crookston. Each spoke briefly on matters of interest.

It was resolved that officers of the association review past resolutions and bring them up to date in preparation for the annual Minnesota Conservation federation resolutions meeting to be held July 9 in Delano.

Bill Brummer of Red Lake Falls opened a discussion on spending of natural resource monies obtained through cigarette taxes by the Minnesota Outdoor Recreation Resources commission (MORRC). The question arose as to whether the game and fish division has been receiving its fair share of natural resource funds.

Plans were made for a large dinner meeting to be held in East Grand Forks in November following closing of the deer season. The meeting will be open to members of all clubs belonging to the Northwest association. An effort is under way to bolster the association's strength, and it is hoped that clubs in the northwestern portion of the state, particularly those which have belonged in the past, will join the association.

Local Student at Luther College on Winning Squad

Luther college at Decorah, Ia. smashed eight school records in romping to one of the best season for the Norse thinclads which included an unprecedented fourth straight Iowa conference crown and a 13th place rating in the NCAA college division meet.

Among the 33 letterman on Coach Kent Finanger's team is Rolf Wangberg, son of Rev. and Mrs. Reuben A. Wangberg of Thief River Falls, a junior. The team lost only one meet this past season, an indoor battle with Mankato State of Minnesota. The Norse came back to win easily against Mankato outdoors. Freshmen added strength in the field events.

Luther also was first in Cornell Relays and Viking Olympics and dominated its own Norseman Relays and the Conference Relays. The Norse added a second place showing in the NCAA Regional track meet.

Lettermen Plan Car Wash Project

To raise funds for filming 1966 football games, the Thief River Falls letterman's club will hold a car wash Saturday from 7:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the West Side parking lot on Floyd B. Olson park. Members suggest that the wash will provide an opportunity to residents to have their car cleaned prior to the holiday weekend.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The League Leaders

The trap shoot league will conclude its first half schedule on Wednesday evening, and the only thing that's certain about the outcome is that the Jensen Mink Farm squad will at least have a share of first place. Al Jensen's squad, a fine blend of veterans and youngsters, has posted a record of six wins and no losses. On Wednesday evening the Jensens will be shooting against an improving Union State Bank team. A loss to the bankers, while unexpected, wouldn't be an upset. Last week the Union State Bank recorded a 125.

The Jensen Mink Farm squad, listed as being from Oklee, and most of the boys on the squad are from Oklee, has shown consistent shooting in this its first season in the league. The Jensens opened with a 114 to 110 win over L. B. Hartz; defeated the Coast-to-Coast, 121 to 118; had a 118 to 108 win over Mostue's Floral; a 121 to 116 win over the Times; a 124 to 123 win over the Ekeren Pharmacy; and a 125 to 123 win over the Wilson Bros. last week.

But the leaders will have to come up with a "big" effort if they are to remain unbeaten on Wednesday.

Snyder to Leave the Sippers

Jerry Snyder, who has had exceptional results in coaching the Middle River high school Skippers in basketball and baseball, and who has also been the coach of the Middle River American Legion junior baseball squad, will be leaving this area. Jerry has accepted a position at Staples, and will be assistant basketball coach down there.

It's only a couple of years ago that Jerry coached the Skippers to a District 32 basketball title. And last year the Skippers were favored to win the district title, but an inspired Karlstad Rabbits squad defeated Middle River in the tournament finals.

And Snyder has produced some power house baseball teams, on the junior level, at Middle River. I can recall one of Jerry's teams, with Rick Anderson the leading power hitter on the squad, that gave the local juniors quite a trouncing. Between the Andersons, the Engelstads, the Homes' and the Lorensons, that Middle River squad had plenty of "blacksmith" power at the plate!

Miscellany

Paul Klungness, right halfback on the Dartmouth football squad, and who is spending the summer months employed with a construction company in California, had a misfortune the other day. Paul, along with several Dartmouth classmates, is living right next to the ocean, and while on a surfing expedition Paul suffered a dislocated right shoulder. This makes the second time that Paul, a former Prowler four - sport star, has dislocated that shoulder. And it may be a handicap as he enters his senior year of football for the Big Green since Paul has been on the receiving end of numerous passes . . . That softball championship finals game between Woodward's of Grand Forks and the local Vets was all seriousness, and the score was 1 to 0 until the last half of the sixth inning. But there was a bit of comic relief when, in the fifth inning, Woodward's catcher, Dennis Justice, was safe at first when the Vets' Roy Pederson made a high throw to first base. Justice attempted to move all the way around to third base on the error. He had a head full of larceny, but his feet were honest, and half-way between second and third he stumbled and he tried to crawl the remaining distance to third base. He was out by ten feet, with Don Engelstad making the throw to Pederson. It was quite funny to everybody but Justice.

ACCEPTING the tournament championship trophy from mayor Orin Green are, left, Jim Knoze, and Ray Gordon, of the Woodward's softball team of Grand Forks. The Woodward's, benhind Gordon's two-hit pitching, defeated the local Vets squad, 3-0, in the tourney finals on Sunday evening

PAT POOLE is about to accept the runner-up trophy from mayor Orin Green at the conclusion of the championship game of the softball tournament held here Sunday. The Vets, managed by Poole, dropped a 3-0 decision to the Woodward's team of Grand Forks in the finals.

Fishing Without License Causes Many Arrests

Fishing without license brought the arrest of 24 residents and 14 nonresident fishermen in Minnesota last month, the conservation department reported today. State game wardens arrested a total of 180 persons during May for violations of the state game and fish laws. Fishing violations accounted for 115 of the total.

Fishing with more than one line caused the arrest of 27 persons, 13 were apprehended fishing during a closed season, eight were found taking fish with artificial light, eight others were caught fishing in posted spawning areas and three persons were arrested for taking fish with firearms.

There were only six arrests for big game violations during May, six for trapping and three each of small game and waterfowl offenses.

Transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle resulted in the arrest of 33 persons, for the balance of arrests during the month.

TRF Merchants Win 10-8 from Lake Bronson

The senior baseball Thief River Falls Merchants defeated the Lake Bronson - Kennedy team in an independent game played on the Fairgrounds diamond Sunday evening, winning by a 10-8 score.

Righthanden Tommy Cummings, a recent Prowler graduate, hurled the game for the Merchants, giving up but four hits and striking out 12 batsmen, Gary Olson drove out a two-base hit in the last half of the eighth inning to shove the winning runs across the plate.

Rich Lorenson, who was named president - manager of the local team at a meeting held following the game, was the leading hitter for the Merchants, collecting three of the locals' eight hits.

The next game for the Merchants will be a league encounter against the Badger club at Badger on Sunday, July 3, at 2:30 p.m.

At the meeting held on Sunday, in addition to the appointment of Lorenson as manager, Wally Grovum was named secretary - treasurer, and Bob Ohlhauser was selected as publicity manager. It was also agreed that a practice session would be held every Wednesday evening at the fairgrounds diamond. And prospective team members are requested to attend there practice sessions.

Benefit Softball Games Will Aid Retarded Center

Benefit softball games to assist the local activity center for retarded children will be played July 4 at Plummer and July 10 at St. Hilaire, according to the local board of directors which recently assumed management of the center.

All-stars from the two Red Lake Falls teams, two Plummer teams and the Oklee team in the Red Lake County Softball league will play the St. Hilaire team in both games. Game time on both July 4 and July 10 will be at 2 p. m.

Advance tickets at a cost of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children are now on sale and are good for admission at either game. All proceeds from the benefit games will be used for operation of the day activity center. Last year the benefit provided the center with $103.75 in operating capita.

Local Archers in Roseau Tourney Capture Prizes

Members of the Thief River Falls Archery club claimed several of the top prizes at a tournament held at Bemis Hill Sunday under the sponsorship of the Roseau Bowhunters club.

Ed Krystosek placed first in the instinctive bowman class and Paul Halvorson placed first and William Desrocher second in the instinctive archers class, Herb Monson of the local club was first in the free style expert men's class where bow sights were permitted, and Dale Folger was first in the free style archers class for shooters having bows without sights. Pat Krystosek placed first and LaVonne Forsberg second in the women's instinctive division.

Patrol Gives Tips on Driving with Trailer

Persons about to pull their camping or boat trailer out of the back yard for the summer season have been offered advice by the Minnesota highway patrol.

After having first checked the rules and regulations covering trailers — lights, brakes and safety features, the trailer should be taken in for a safety check. Chances are it has never had a thorough inspection.

And while it's being checked, be sure that the station attendant or mechanic understands about tire pressure for trailers. Trailer tires require more air pressure than automobile tires. Most of the 24 sizes of trailer tires require pressures of 50 pounds or more. Several are in the 90 to 100 pound range.

Newcomers to the trailer cult should know that driving with a trailer is vastly different from driving the car alone. Six special skills are required:

1. Even getting started is different. Drivers should start slowly, allowing more time for other traffic to clear before moving onto the highway. Acceleration should be slow and even, with frequent glances into the mirror to check the trailer and following traffic.

2. Turning a corner with a trailer requires new techniques. The trailer wheels will not follow the exact path of a car's rear wheels. They will cut in closer to the inside of the curve. An outside right-hand mirror helps.

3. In overtaking and passing, drivers need to remember that the trailer will reduce acceleration capability, and they must allow much more distance to pass and return to the proper lane.

4. Being overtaken and passed also calls for special techniques. Speed of cars with trailers will (or should be) slower than that of many others on the highway. When a heavy bus or truck passes, the air it pushes aside will tend to cause the rear of the trailer to move to the right. Almost immediately the same thing will happen to the front of the trailer. Careful steering is necessary, and braking should be avoided.

5. Slowing and stopping should be practiced. The extra weight, length, overall load distribution, effects of springs and shock absorbers and the linking of the two units must be taken into consideration.

Be sure trailer brakes are adjusted to the load; maintain a greater following distance than with the car alone; drive at speeds that will minimize the need for emergency slow-downs and stops; generally avoid high speed lanes, and make extra safety allowances for unfavorable conditions.

6. The most exacting skill of all is backing. It is such a special skill that the American association recommends that backing a trailer be avoided whenever possible.

Remember that the trailer will back in a direction opposite from the way the car's wheels are turned. Practice on a flat, open space before attempting to back into such places as driveways or alleys.

And finally, on the subject of speed — don't be guided only by the speedometer. Some trailer tires travel up to 82 per cent faster than the automobile pulling them. For example, with an average size car traveling 50 mph and pulling a trailer with 4.80x4.00-8 size tires, the trailer wheels will make 67 per cent more revolutions, or the equivalent of 83.4 mph in terms of treadwear.

Agriculture Task Force Speaks Out On Farm Prices

Johnson - Humphrey administration may be losing the war on poverty but it is clearly winning its battle for lower farm prices, states the House Republican Task Force on Agriculture. Odin Langen of Minnesota's Seventh District is task force chairman.

"When Presidential Economic Advisor Gardner Ackley and Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman predicted earlier this year that farm prices would tumble, they weren't just whistling "Dixie", the statement claims. "Freeman has proved to be an exceptionally gifted prophet. On March 31 he called a press conference at which he expressed pleasure over the fact that farm prices had begun to decline and confidently predicted a drop of as much as 10 per cent by year's end.

"Since that time, the parity ratio, which measures prices received by farmers against those they pay for goods and services, has declined from 82 to 79. Over the past two months, farm operating costs boomed to a new record high, while farm prices dropped.

"Paradoxically, while farm prices have been moving downward, retail food prices and the labor department's cost of living index have climbed to new record highs. This confirms an earlier charge by the task force that the farmer is being made the whipping boy for rising living costs when, in fact, the inflationary policies of the administration are to blame.

"The farm price break didn't just happen. It was deliberately planned. Over the last few months the administration has taken several actions which were carefully calculated to push farm prices down. There was the wholesale dumping of government - owned corn and wheat, export controls on hides, slashes in defense department buying of butter, beef and pork, easing of import restrictions on sugar and cheddar cheese and 'jawboning' against food prices by the President himself.

"Today we have a situation where farm prices are 13 per cent lower than they were at the height of the Korean War, while retail food prices are 18 per cent higher than they were at that time. Only in what Freeman himself has described as the 'Great Wonderland' could government bring this about," the task force concludes.

News Management

There has been increasing concern about government management of the news, particularly in regard to the Vietnamese war. Washington officials have been criticized by the press for holding back information which might not be complimentary to the administration, and even handing out news releases which were in direct contradiction to actual facts.

The following is part of a commentary by Morley Safer, CBS television correspondent, which was published in the Overseas Press Club magazine and inserted in the Congressional Record by Rep. Durward G. Hall of Missouri. It is lengthy, but we believe it is of interest to all Americans.

Safer notes that "Washington has been critical of American newsmen in Saigon almost continuously since 1961. That criticism has manifested itself in a number of ways—from the cancellation of newspaper subscriptions to orders to put certain correspondents on ice to downright threat. As my friend and colleague Peter Kalischer puts it, 'The brass wants you to get on the team.'

"To the brass, getting on the team means simply giving the United States government line in little more than handout form. It means accepting what you are told without questions. At times it means turning your back on facts. I know of few reporters in Vietnam who have 'gotten on the team'."

Safer goes on to tell of an incident involving correspondents and two men directly concerned about news stories coming out of Vietnam. These men are Barry Zorthian, minister - counselor at the U. S. Embassy in Saigon. He is referred to as 'the information czar' in Vietnam. The other is Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, a man Safer says is the one man upon whom falls "the burden of responsibility for giving, controlling and managing the war news from Vietnam".

The war correspondent wrote as follows regarding a meeting held by Sylvester with correspondents:

It was a sticky July evening. Zorthian had made the usual Thursday callout to what is known as the inner circle in American correspondents in Saigon. The time was fixed for 9 p.m., just after everyone had finished filing.

I was with Murray Fromson, CBS Southeast Asia Correspondent. As we returned from our nightly broadcast to New York we looked forward to the cool drinks that are always available at Zorthian's villa.

Inside it was cool, the chairs had been arranged around a lower settee where Zorthian usually holds court.

Zorthian opened by saying that this was not to be the usual briefing "for information," but a bull session. "Let's face it, you fellows have some problems covering this war," he said. "I want Arthur to hear what they are. Maybe we can get something done."

Zorthian was less relaxed than usual. He was anxious for Sylvester to get an idea of the mood of the news corps. There had been some annoying moments in previous weeks that had directly involved Sylvester's own office. In the first G-52 raids, Pentagon releases were in direct contradiction to what had actually happened on the ground in Vietnam.

Also, those of us involved in broadcasting were anxious to discuss the increasing problems of communication. There was general opening banter, which Sylvester quickly brushed aside. He seemed anxious to take a stand — to say something that would jar us. He did:

"I can't understand how you fellows can write what you do while American boys are dying out here," he began. Then he went on to the effect that American correspondents had a patriotic duty to disseminate only information that made the United States look good.

A network television correspondent said, "Surely, Arthur, you don't expect the American press to be the handmaidens of government?"

"That's exactly what I expect," came the reply.

An agency man raised the problem that had preoccupied Ambassador Taylor and Barry Zorthian — about the credibility of American officials. Responded the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Public Affairs:

"Look, if you think any American official is going to tell you the truth, then you're stupid. Did you hear that? — stupid."

One of the most respected of all the newsmen in Vietnam — a veteran of World War II, the Indochina War and Korea — suggested that Sylvester was being deliberately provocative. Sylvester replied:

"Look, I don't even have to talk to you people. I know how to deal with you through your editors and publishers back in the States."

At this point, the Hon. Arthur Sylvester put his thumbs in his ears, bulged his eyes, stuck out his tongue and wiggled his fingers:

A correspondent for one of the New York papers began a question. He never got beyond the first few words. Sylvester interrupted:

"Aw, come on. What does someone in New York care about the war in Vietnam?"

We got down to immediate practical matters — the problems of communication, access to military planes, getting out to battles.

"Do you guys want to be spoon fed Why don't you get out and cover the war?"

It was a jarring and insulting remark. Most of the people in that room had spent as much time in actual operations as most GI's.

Two television correspondents walked out, saying they had had enough. A few minutes later, two more correspondents left. The discussion went on. It got worse—more offensive. Only a few stayed—mainly out of regard for Zorthian.

The relationship between reporters and PIO's in Saigon, on the other hand, has been a good, healthy one. The relationship in the field is better, and in dealing with the men who fight the war it is very good indeed.

The PIO's in Saigon have been as devoted to their jobs as any officer or enlisted man in the field. And in many ways they have it a whole lot tougher. They are hog-tied by impossible ground rules. Certain items may be released by them, others only by Sylvester himself. Pity the career man who forgets it.

The implied threat of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Public Affairs — "I know how to deal with you through your editors" — gives some indication of the way the Pentagon tries to exert pressure. Among my colleagues in Vietnam I know of no one who has been asked by an editor to "ease off" or to follow any kind of official line. I do know of attempts by certain American officials in Washington to vilify certain correspondents, among them this one.

It's no secret that the former president of CBS News, Fred W. Friendly, was informed that I was married to an Asian and therefore presumably had some kind of bias in favor of Asians and therefore was not 100 per cent American in my thinking. The fact that I'm not married at all makes the whole thing even more ludicrous.

The pressure can take less subtle forms: "Unless you get Safer out of there he's liable to end up with a bullet in his back."

This is television's first war. It is only in the past few years that the medium has become portable enough to go out on military operations. And this has raised some serious problems — problems incidently which every network correspondent and cameraman in Vietnam is acutely aware of.

The camera can describe in excruciating, harrowing detail what war is all about. The cry of pain, the shattered face—it's all there on film, and out it goes into millions of American homes during the dinner hour. It is true that on its own every piece of war film takes on a certain antiwar character, simply because it does not glamorize or romanticize. In battle men do not die with a clean shot through the heart; they are blown to pieces. Television tells it that way.

The unfavorable has always been reported along with the favorable —but television tells it with greater impact. When the U. S. blunders, television leaves little doubt.

So when a government official, either in Saigon or Washington, denies what television plainly reports and then attempts to give verisimilitude to his denial by damning the reporter — at best that is pure humbug.

The war in Vietnam has become almost entirely an American responsibility. And responsible American officials must accept it. For the most part they have. But there have been glaring examples of miscalculation and a few examples of downright lying. The miscalculations have been reported, the lies have been found out. And it is that kind of honest reporting that in the end measures the rightness of our cause in Vietnam or anywhere else.

GOP Picks LeVander

Minnesota Republican delegates last Saturday selected Harold LeVander as their candidate for governor — paying little attention to the come-back bid of former governor Elmer L. Andersen. It is true that Andersen has alienated a number of the state's influential Republicans, but we feel that his failure to campaign contributed to his defeat in larger measure than past associations.

Since announcing his candidacy, LeVander has been an active campaigner, and Republicans undoubtedly feel that he will carry these efforts into the full election drive. If he hopes to gain a victory in November, he has a considerable amount of work to do during the next several months.

Andersen, on the other hand, showed strong in popularity polls prior to the convention. He first indicated that he would not seek reelection, later said he would be available if the party wanted his services, and then, just before the convention, said that he was a candidate for the office. On the basis of his attitude for the post, we feel that his defeat was proper and deserved.

Barring unforeseen incidents —such as the primary election could provide—LeVander will be matched against A. M. Keith in the gubernatorial race next fall. The campaign, and the results of the election, should be most interesting. Both candidates are capable speakers and each will have plenty of things to say. Keith can talk about how to improve on Gov. Rolvaag's record (and there is room for volumes in that field alone) while LeVander can talk about the records of both Rolvaag and Keith.

Should the candidates choose to take the offensive against each other, Keith is the more vulnerable of the two. His questionable involvement in the insurance scandal which shook the state administration quite visibly last year leaves ample room for discussion of political ethics. LeVander, an attorney, should be able to make the most of such an opponent. He must also, however, present a positive program for state government to Minnesota voters.

Neither Keith nor LeVander were clear-cut choices of their parties. It will be interesting to see how their parties unite—or fail to unite—behind them.

"THE OTHER END OF THE LINE"

NEW 27 minute sound and color film on area progress

"The Other End of the Line" is a colorful look at the resources — both natural and human — that mark a bright future for the three-state area served electrically by Otter Tail Power Company. Through the film, you'll visit all parts of the 50,000 square mile Otter Tail area . . . travel through rich agricultural regions . . . tour dynamic new industries . . . view the scenic beauty of our lakes and all-season playgrounds . . . meet the enthusiastic, vigorous people that are the heart of our communities. The film was produced by Otter Tail — for you to share. We think you'll enjoy it — and gain a new pride in the area in which you live.

Like to arrange a showing for your group?

. . . just contact your local Otter Tail representative. He'll be glad to reserve a print of the film for a convenient showing for your group . . . and be on hand to supervise the running, if at all possible. No charge or obligation of any type, of course.

In the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dimmen and Dean of St. Paul were visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Puppe motored to Hensil, N. D. Friday to attend the funeral of Otto Puppe, a cousin of Bill's. They spent the weekend with the Willis and Earl Puppe families and upon returning home Sunday they were accompanied by three grandchildren, Cindy, Annette and Leslie Puppe, also Mrs. Lila Martinson of Numedal who had been visiting her daughter and family, the Donald Puppes at Hensil. Cindy and Annette spent Tuesday and Wednesday with the Paul Puppe family in Thief River Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Puppe drove down to pick up their children Sunday.

Jerry Dimmen of St. Paul was a Thursday afternoon luncheon guest at the I. E. Dyrdal home and a brief caller at the Daryl Lewises. The Dimmens have been spending the past week in this area vacationing with relatives.

Little Kathy Lamb of Warren is spending several days with her grandmother, Mrs. Marion Hoglo, while her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Lamb and family are vacationing in points west.

Friends enjoyed a social evening Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Merle Wakefield, Beth and Keith at the Paul Furuseth home in Sanders. Beth has recently completed two years in Brazil as a member of the Peace Corps, and she showed slides and told of interesting experiences while stationed there. She plans to return to Brazil to teach when the school sessions begin. Those present besides the before-mentioned and the Furuseth family were Tommy Pedersen of Minneapolis, Mrs. Anna Johnson of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Ernest Melvie, Darlene and Orlette of Viking, Mrs. Deforest Green, Mr. and Mrs. Dake Ayers, Ricky, Randy, and Robbie and Mrs. Daryl Lewis, Timmy and Todd. Mrs. Furuseth served lunch at the close of the evening.

The Oak Ridge Sunday school and congregational picnic held Sunday at the Duane Vatsaas home was well attended with the weather cooperating beautifully. The afternoon was spent socially, ball games were played and the children made good use of the various playground equipment.

Chairman Urges Farmers to Think About ASC Posts

A call for the "best men available" to serve on the ASC community committees was issued today by Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. Community elections will be held in 14 communities in Pennington county on August 1. Individual election places will be announced at a later date.

"The committee system is the backbone of farm programs," the chairman declared. "Its responsibilities include the conservation of natural resources, stabilization of agricultural commodities and price-support activities which protect and improve farm income. We need the best possible cross - section of farmers to insure effective administration of the various measures."

In Pennington county, Knutson explained, approximately 1,350 farmers took part last year in one or more programs administered by the ASC committees. Funds disbursed under the committees' supervision amounted to approximately $1,466,665. Of this amount, $473,-500 was for price - support loans aimed at increasing market returns above what farmers would receive on an unsupported market. Included in the price-support program in this county are such major commodity programs as wheat, oats, barley, rye and flax.

Last year, also, 10,500 acres of farmland were improved under the Agricultural Conservation program cost-sharing arrangement. The total investment in conservation was about $128,000, with about half coming from the participating farmer and the balance from ACP.

The chairman pointed out that any local resident who is eligible to take part in an ASCS farm program may vote, and he may hold office as a committeeman regardless of race, color, creed or national origin. Further information regarding qualifications of committeemen is available at the ASCS county office.

The election of ASC community committees throughout Pennington county will be held on August 1 at meetings in 14 communities. Each community election will choose three community committeemen and two alternates. Regular members elected will serve as delegates to the county convention, where farmers will be elected to fill vacancies on the ASC county committee.

Auto Accidents Can't Be Blamed To Danger Group

A new analysis of traffic accidents conducted by the bureau of public roads show that it is wrong to assume that a small group of careless or dangerous drivers is largely to blame for our highway toll. Rather, the report states, traffic accidents are a general problem that can and do happen to anyone who drives.

The report shows that about 90 per cent of the drivers involved in an accident in one year will not be involved in an accident the following year, and that the drivers involved in all accidents in one year will be involved in only 11.5 per cent of all accidents the following year.

The difference in the number of drivers involved in accidents from year to year can largely be accounted for by factors such as relatively greater driving mileage and consequent greater accident exposure, and by age and sex differences. There was no evidence, however, that specific, identifiable drivers are reasonably certain to be involved in an accident in a given year.

Federal highway administrator Rex M. Whitton says that the danger in pursuing the phantom of the bad driver problem is that undue concentration on the supposed bad drivers too often takes our attention and energy away from what we can and should be doing for all drivers.

Last year 875 people were killed on Minnesota streets and highways. Of this total, only 3.5 per cent of the deaths could be charged to the contributing circumstances of defective equipment or circumstances beyond the driver's control. The remaining 96.5 per cent were charged to driver error, carelessness, drinking and disregard for traffic controls.

10,000 Guardsmen Pass in Review For Gov. Rolaag

Over 10,000 members of the Minnesota National Guard's 47th "Viking Division" commanded by Major Gen. Donald C. Grant passed in review before their Commander-in Chief, Governor Karl Rolvaag, and other distinguished guests Sunday afternoon. Facilities were arranged for a crowd of over 5,000 to view the parade and hear the governor's remarks.

Awards and decorations were presented by Major General Chester J. Moeglein, Minnesota Adjutant guardsmen.

Approximately 7,500 guardsmen began their two-week summer field training on June 18, and an additional 2,500 members of the division's artillery battalions arrived Saturday, June 24, to begin their two-week encampment. This is the first time in recent years that the division has trained in a three-week cycle.

Portions of the 47th Division have been designated by the Department of the Army as members of the nation's Selected Reserve Force R.F.), and for the past several months have been on an accelerated training status. A primary mission for these units during the summer training period involves demonstrating results of the intensified hometown training through the administration of army training tests.

The S.R.F. units have attained a readiness level that will allow them to replace or complement active army units on short notice, should the need arise. Sunday was the first time that the viewers of the parade had been able to see a Selected Reserve Force brigade at 100 per cent full authorized strength.

Balance of the units within the division are designated as Reinforcing Reserve units. These units have not been on accelerated drill status. During field training these units are charged with the responsibility of training new members of the division that have not completed their six-month active duty. Numbering about 1,100, these new guard members are spending all of their time learning basic military subjects.

Wheat Program Is Announced for 1966 Crop Year

Wheat program for 1967 "will assure increased production of needed wheat and at the same time will bring producers more income," Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said recently in announcing major provisions of the program. Key factors in the 1967 program are listed by the secretary as follows:

1. Price - support loan level will be $1.25 per bushel.

2. Domestic marketing certificates on an estimated 520 million bushels will be valued at the difference between full parity as of July 1, 1967 and the $1.25 loan value. (This year's certificate value for the 1966 crop will be about $1.32 per bushel.)

3. Marketing certificates will represent expected production on 40 per cent of the participating farms' farm allotments. These allotments will reflect the increased 1967 national allotment of 59.3 million acres announced earlier this year. (For 1966, the allocation percentage was 45 per cent on an effective national allotment of 51.6 million acres.)

4. There will be no acreage diversion program for wheat. The Cropland Adjustment Program (CAP) as it applies to wheat will be announced later.

5. Wheat may continue to be planted on feed grain acreage on farms participating in both programs, and feed grains may be planted on wheat allotment acreage. Producers will be able to substitute wheat for oats and rye on the same basis as in 1966. If barley is included in the 1967 feed grain program, wheat may be substituted as in prior years; if barley is not included, wheat may be substituted for barley in the same way as for oats and rye.

6. A producer will have the option of planting in excess of his wheat allotment (by not more than 50 per cent) and still be eligible for certificates and price-support loans provided the excess production is stored and the farmer meets other terms and conditions similar to those in effect in 1966.

7. Program provisions regarding participation will be the same as in 1966 except that there will be no required or additional diversion.

According to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, farm allotment notices for the 1967 wheat crop will be sent to producers shortly. The state allotment for Minnesota is 1,061,568 acres.

ALCW To Hold Confab on West Coast July 6-8

Area units of the American Lutheran Church Women (ALCW) will be represented at a triennial convention of the organization in Portland Ore., July 6 through 8 by Mrs. George Gillie, Hallock, conference president, and Mrs. Orville Feragen, Thief River Falls, secretary.

Delegates from Trinity and Zion Lutheran churches will include Mrs. Sylvia Thorson, Miss Carol Urdahl, Mrs. Richard Edlund, Mrs. Alvin Christofferson, Miss Geneva Overum, Miss Ella Overum and Mrs. C. L. Williams.

The convention, expected to attract 5,000 registrants, will elect national officers and transact other business for the organization, an auxiliary of the 2.5 million-member American Lutheran church, with general offices in Minneapolis. Membership of ALCW's 5,000 units is estimated at 300,000.

Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hanover, Germany, a former prisoner under Hitler will be one of the featured speakers at the convention, which will have as its theme "Agents of Reconciliation."

Resale Policy For CCC Wheat Restated by ASC

Resale policy for Commodity Credit corporation - owned wheat for the 1966 - crop marketing year beginning July 1 of this year will be continued as announced last December, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced.

Wheat will continue to be offered at market prices but not less than 108 per cent of the loan rate plus carrying charges. The 108 per cent markup represents about the same margin in cents above the loan rate as 105 per cent did in the past when loan rates were at higher levels.

Wheat supplies for the coming year, according to the June estimate, are indicated at about 1.8 billion bushels. At estimated rates of usage, the total wheat carryover on July 1, 1967, will be below the 555 - million bushel carryover estimated for July 1 of this year.

CCC uncommitted stocks of wheat at the end of May totaled 307 million bushels. In addition, about 65 million bushels of wheat were stored on farms under reseal price-support loans as of April 30. About 45 million bushels of 1965 - crop wheat were still outstanding under loan as of the same date.

LHS Teacher Is Studying German At U of Scranton

Miss Helga Ceravsky, a faculty member at Lincoln high school, will be one of 40 high school teachers from 15 states to begin advanced studies in German today at the University of Scranton, Pa.

The educators will participate in a special National Defense Education Act institute, conducted by the University in cooperation with the U. S. Office of Education. Dr. Joseph G. Brunner, U of S associate professor of modern languages, will direct the institute.

Supported by a $65,010 federal grant, the institute will offer a seven - week intensive course in the study of modern foreign language teaching methods, the use of electronic equipment audio-visual aids and other teaching materials. Participants in the program will use the German language in formal courses and lectures, conversation and entertainment.

Upon successful completion of their courses, participants will be eligible for eight graduate credits toward a masters degree in education. In addition to tuition - free instruction, the 40 selected participants will receive a weekly stipend of $75 plus $15 for each dependent.

USAF Accepting Applications from Married Nurses

The United States Air Force announced today that applications for the Air Force Nurse Corps are being accepted from married registered nurses on the condition that they have no dependents under the age of 18.

The change is of special interest of the young registered nurse whose husband is in the Air Force, as she may now join the Air Force and will be stationed at the same installation with her husband whenever possible.

The second change is the opening up of the program for male registered nurses. Further details on the new changes are available from Sergeant Sellers at the U. S. Air Force Recruiting Office, 112 Federal Office Building, Grand Forks, N. D. 58201.

Reopen Air Force Officer Training School Program

The United States Air Force announced today the reopening of its Officer Training school administrative and technical program. This program offers the young man holding or about to receive a bachelor of arts degree the opportunity to enter the Air Force's Officer Training school at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, Tex.

After the three-month course he will receive a commission as a second lieutenant in the Air Force and be assigned to a job in the career area of his degree. Details are available from Sergeant Sellers at the U. S. Air Force Recruiting Office, 112 Federal Office Building, Grand Forks, N. D. 58201.

Two at Plummer School in BSC Summer Program

Two students from the Plummer high school, Lloyd Erickson of rural Plummer and Renette Novak of Brooks, have been selected to attend the Upward Bound project at Bemidji State college this summer. The session will continue from July 5 through August 20.

Upward Bound is a pre-college program for secondary school students involving a full-time summer school program. The program will include a morning of academic work, while the afternoons and *evenings will be devoted to extra-*curricular activities such as art and drama workshops, journalism, foreign languages, concerts and field trips to museums, theatres, historical sites, parks and local business or government agencies.

"A Friendly Church with a Faithful Message".

It has been said that a family that prays together, stays together. That is one reason we make our Wed. evening prayer meetings a family affair. Oh, we do not meet in one group for we have a group for every age, but we feel that it is good to get the family together on a common night of prayer. We will look for you this Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. The Senior Choir will have rehearsal at 9:15 p.m. following the prayer service.

Thursday evening is the Annual meeting of our Camp at Cooperstown, N. D.

Next Sunday we will be having our Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. and at 11:00 a.m. Pastor Johnson will be speaking at the morning worship service.

Again in the evening at 8:00 p.m. we will have our evening gospel service which can be heard over station KTRF and is known as the "Bread of Life Hour".

ORDINANCE REQUIRES RABIES VACCINATION

For the protection of residents of Thief River Falls, the city ordinance relating to dogs provides the following.

"25.107 Inoculations. No dog, cat or other animal capable of contracting the disease of rabies shall be kept within the City without the same first being inoculated against the disease of rabies by a duly qualified veterinarian or person acting under his direct supervision. The inoculation shall be repeated in the same manner at intervals of not less than one year thereafter and all animals must bear proof at all times of such inoculations. If any animals be found within the City, whether running at large or not, not bearing such proof, the same may be impounded.

"25.1071. If by reason of wildness or ferocity the Special Police Officer is unable to capture any such animal not bearing such proof, he is hereby authorized to summarily kill the animal by firearms or whatever other means he deems necessary."

Dog licenses are now due in the city of Thief River Falls and all dogs in the city are required to be licensed and confined or restrained in accordance with provisions of the ordinance.

News of Past Week from Plummer Area

Mrs. Walter O. Peterson, Plummer, [illegible]

Attend Lutheran Missionary Convention in Bemidji

Mrs. Raymond Laufman and Judy and Mrs. Emil Malwitz were among more than 250 delegates that attended the Minnesota North convention of the Lutheran Womens Missionary League at Bemidji on June 21-23. Convention sessions were held at Trinity Lutheran church in Bemidji and housing and meals were provided at the State College.

Mrs. Edgar Bode, Wood Lake, L.W.M.L. District president, presided at the convention sessions. She was reelected president on the first ballot and will head the L.W.M.L. in the Minnesota North area for the next two years. Re-elected regional vice president from our area is Mrs. Fred Derkey of Perham. As such she will serve on the board of directors which meets quarterly, usually at District headquarters in Brainerd.

The primary objective of this women's organization of the Lutheran church Missouri Synod is the support of mission projects throughout the world. The projects totaling more than $25,000 were approved by the convention delegates. The projects range from scholarships for full-time church workers to supplying needed equipment for missionaries in foreign fields.

Rev. and Mrs. Edward Bertram of Taiwan were introduced and addressed the convention on Wednesday afternoon. They have worked in this mission field since 1960 and plan to return to their home in the fall.

Rev. John Zimmerman, Eldora, Ia., represented the International L.W.M.L. at the convention and brought greetings at the sessions on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Zimmerman formerly served congregations in Minnesota at the Taylor-Munson and Montevideo.

Convention motto was "As for Me and My House We Will Serve the Lord".

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Bartolone, Steve and Damon and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Neil and little daughter, Felicia arrived here last week from Anaheim, Calif. to visit at the home of Mrs. Bartolone parents the Lloyd Jorgensons and also to attend the class reunion of the Plummer high school for 1956-1957 held at the American Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls Saturday evening and at the Plummer school Sunday afternoon as Mrs. Bartolone, the former Pat Jorgenson, was a former graduate.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Runstrom and son of St. Paul are spending a couple weeks at the home of her parents the Nick Gallants.

Records Show June Most Average Month On Record

by Jim Wills
Times Reporter

Strange as it may seem to readers who have been sweltering for days in tropical heat and humidity, and to those who bitterly remember the downpour that rained out the American Legion convention parade June 11, June of 1966 was not abnormally warm or wet. In fact, it was the most normal month ever filed in the Times weather records.

Mean temperature for the month was 64.8 degrees — a scant half-degree above the average June mean of 64.3. Precipitation totaled 3.74 inches, just 02 inch below the normal June total of 3.76. Average high was 77.6; average low 52.0.

The hot, muggy weather of the last 10 days in June was offset by unusually cool daytime temperatures early in the month and nighttime temperatures mostly in the 40's and 50's throughout the month. On June 7, the mercury failed to rise above 56 degrees, and many other daily highs were in the 60's and 70's.

Some real shirt - dampening heat and humidity arrived late in the month, however. The mercury rose to a muggy 90 degrees June 28 and 29, and the 30th, with its high of 95, was the hottest June day recorded since the same temperature was reached June 10, 1956.

Despite the heat and humidity, no tornadoes were reported in the local area. However, three heavy thunderstorms caused some inconvenience and damage. A cloudburst the afternoon of June 11 caused cancellation of the parade planned as a major part of the Ninth District American Legion convention.

A storm on the 23rd dropped .57 inch of rain at the Thief River Falls airport, and 1.20 inches were reported from the Anderson brothers farm in Smiley township. The following evening an electrical storm dropped .81 inch of rain at the airport, and a lightning bolt killed 17 milk cows on the Huot brothers farm near Red Lake Falls.

The following is a list of daily high and low temperature and precipitation readings recorded during June of 1966 by North Central Airlines personnel at the Thief River Falls airport:

Natural Disaster Provided for in ASCS Programs

A. E. Strandquist, office manager of the Marshall county ASCS committee, states that new legislation provides program benefits in natural disaster cases even though the intended acreage is planted to a crop for sale or feed, as long as it is not a crop for which controls are in effect such as feed grain (corn, barley sorghums), wheat and sugar beets for harvest in the current season.

Strandquist advises producers of the above change, and urges those who were not able to seed their wheat and feed grains and had signed up in the 1966 wheat and feed grain programs to come into the office and complete an application for this provision.

The county committee will determine the eligibility of the areas and at least 25 per cent of the farms making applications will be visited.

Lightning Kills 17 Cattle Near Dorothy June 24

The electrical storm which occurred Friday, June 24, had some tragic effects on the dairy industry in the area, it was reported from Red Lake Falls this week. During the storm, a lightning bolt killed 17 milk cows at approximately 10 p.m. on the Huot brothers farm near Dorothy.

The cattle were all killed instantly near the bunk used for feeding the animals. The feeder was of metal construction but it is not known if this was a factor in attracting the bolt. Huot reported that the cattle were partially covered by insurance.

Guardsmen Return Saturday from Summer Training

Friends and relatives welcomed home members of the Minnesota National Guard when 7,500 members of the 47th "Viking" division returned from two weeks of summer training at Camp Ripley Saturday. An additional 2,500 men, members of the Artillery and Tanker Battalions, arrived at Ripley June 25, and will not complete their two-week training period until July 9.

Major General Donald Grant, Golden Valley, commander of the "Viking" division, stated: "This camp, in addition to having the largest body of troops that the Minnesota National Guard has ever trained in one summer period, has been the most productive and rewarding.

"Our Selective Reserve Force elements have done a splendid job. It appears that a majority of the army training tests will be completed successfully. A by-product of these tests has been that the ready reserve elements have improved tremendously through their preparation and critiquing of the tested units.

"One of the more difficult assignments that has befallen the division during this training period has been the training of recruits. It was most gratifying to observe the superb job the ready reserve elements did in providing this training. Further, their officers and non - commissioned officers have profited immensely from the preparation and conduct of the course, Gen. Grant.

Major General Chester J. Moeglein, Minnesota adjutant general and post commander, was pleased by the successful training. "The post, it's training facilities in the cantonment area and in the field are in excellent condition. The problems of supporting the troops over a three-week cycle have been minimal," Moeglein said.

Armed forces personel from all parts of the nation train at Camp Ripley. The army reserve, regular army, air national guard, and woman's army corps all use the facilities of Camp Ripley, which is open for training all year round. In addition, the off base tourist facilities attract the families of guardsmen in training to spend two weeks vacationing in the northwoods resort and vacation areas surrounding Camp Ripley.

DFL Convention Will Reconvene July 10 in Mpls.

Minnesota DFL party's state convention will reconvene at noon, July 10, at the Radisson hotel in Minneapolis, according to George Farr, state chairman.

Business yet to be concluded by the convention includes endorsement of candidates for the offices of lieutenant governor; state auditor, treasurer; attorney general; and railroad and warehouse commissioner.

Other unfinished business includes the election of party officers not elected last week and the adoption of the remaining planks of the party platform.

Platform planks that have been adopted so far include those on labor, state tax policy, transportation, consumer protection, civil rights and civil liberties, government organization, agriculture conservation and natural resources and northeast Minnesota.

Expectant Parent Class Planned at Warren Hospital

Expectant mothers and fathers are invited to attend a series of classes aimed at answering their questions, about having a baby, hospital stay and getting ready for the expected youngster.

These classes are planned to make hospitalization and parenthood a more pleasurable experience. Classes will begin July 11 at 8 p.m. in the Warren hospital dining room. Registration cards may be obtained at the Warren clinic, Dr. A. E. Carlson's office or the county nurse's office in the courthouse, all in Warren.

Crookston Hosts Share-the-Fun Dist. Festival

Six district 4-H share-the-fun festivals will be held during July throughout Minnesota. The festival for this area will be held July 20 at Central high school in Crookston, starting at 8 p.m.

Participants will spend the afternoon at a workshop and dress rehearsals, getting tips on polishing their performances.

Purposes of share-the-fun are to encourage creativeness, develop confidence, and promote fun and fellowship among 4-H'ers, according to Stanley Meinen, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota.

4-H'ers will display their talents in skits, dramatic readings, instrumental and vocal numbers, pantomime, folk and square dancing.

Social Security Man Here Tuesday

Plan Goodrige Swim Program at Local Park Pool

Children from the Goodridge school district will be transported to participate in the swimming program sponsored by Thief River Falls on Wednesday. Two buses will run the first day on the same route as the supplementary reading route which starts at the Harry Paulson farm and ends at the Bernard Sturre farm.

Herman Sturre and John Tanem will be driving buses the first Wednesday. Sturre is driving for the supplementary reading program, according to Dr. David M. Brown, superintendent of schools.

Buses will arrive at the Goodridge school at 8:30 a.m. and Sturre's bus will take the children going swimming into Thief River Falls. On the first day the children will leave Thief River Falls at 11:30 a.m. and return to Goodridge where the supplementary reading children will be picked up at noon and the two buses will again take the students home.

Bus routes and times may be changed on subsequent Wednesdays depending on the children going swimming. The swimming program will be conducted every Wednesday for about six weeks.

Hays Park Study To Be Completed By Firm This Fall

Representative Richard W. Fitzsimons, Argyle, revealed today that he has been informed by the Minnesota department of conservation that a feasibility study of a proposed state park at Hays lake in Roseau county will be completed this fall.

Ordered by the last regular session at the recommendation of the Minnesota Outdoor Recreation Resources commission, of which Rep. Fitzsimons is a member, the study is aimed at identifying for the legislature the need, costs and impact of establishing a state park at Hays lake.

"The legislature appropriated $75,000 from the natural resources fund to allow the department of conservation to employ outside professional consultants to evaluate the proposal," Fitzsimons explains.

The Hays lake park proposal is being studied by Brauer and associates of Minneapolis.

"The legislature felt the study was necessary to find out from an outside source what is involved before the legislature acts," Rep. Fitzsimons said. "The legislature has asked that the costs of land and development be pulled into sharp focus, asked that the suggested site be compared with other lands available and to document and effect of such things as the removal of additional lands on the tax base of the area.

"The legislature also is seeking a projection of attendance and revenues if the park is established, as well as a definite recommendation of plans for development and timetable for land acquisition and development."

The completed study by Brauer and associates will be submitted to the department of conservation which will in turn submit it to MORRC and the legislature for consideration.

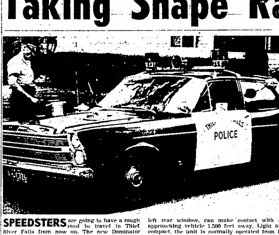
Plans for County Fair Taking Shape Rapidly



SPEEDSTERS are going to have a rough road to travel in Thief River Falls from now on. The new Dominator portable radar unit purchased this spring by the city for traffic control, is accurate within one mile per hour, and the radar bulb, shown on the left rear window, can make contact with an approaching vehicle 1,500 feet away. Light and compact, the unit is normally operated from inside the squad car. It was given its trial run Wednesday afternoon by Patrolman Wally Heaton of the police department.

Building Permits Increase Sharply From May 1965

Twenty permits having a valuation of $119,225 were issued in Thief River Falls in May 1966 for new buildings and repairs and alterations. According to the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, this was an increase from $23,700 for six permits issued in May 1965. The cumulative total for the first five months of 1966 shows that 35 permits valued at $189,825 were issued compared with 21 permits valued at $218,100 last year.

For Minnesota the May valuation decreased from $59,888,924 in 1965 to $55,265,451 in 1966. The cumulative total for the first five months of this year was $205,158,106 compared with $188,512,001 recorded during 1965.

Throughout the Ninth district, the total valuation of building permits issued during May 1966 in 298 permit issuing centers was $82,813,153 for 5,638 permits. In May 1965 there were 6,173 permits issued with a valuation of $86,220,985. The report also stated that the cumulative total for the year showed an increase from $250,114,578 for 15,823 permits in 1965 to $278,891,303 for 17,233 permits in 1966.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindahl Johnson and son, David, returned Thursday morning to their home at Omaha, Neb., after visiting at the home of Mrs. Johnson's mother, Mrs. Gaston Ward.

Adoption Program Held on Thursday

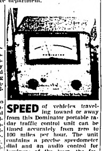
Nine couples met with the representatives of the department of public welfare and the Pennington county welfare department Thursday for an adoptive group meeting held in Thief River Falls. The meeting was organized through the cooperation of the Pennington county welfare department.

Purpose of the meeting was to help the couples become more familiar with adoption in Minnesota and specifically through the public welfare agencies. With the help of Ronald Mooers, Pennington county welfare director, and staff of the department of public welfare in St. Paul, the group discussed the children available for adoption, the agencies which conduct adoption, the procedures and requirements to adopt and the meaning of adoption.

Many questions were answered in helping the couples understand adoption and the meaning that adoption will have for them, Mooers said.

Although this was the only group meeting planned in this area at this time, Mooers said that anyone interested in adopting a child can call his office for information and help as to how to proceed.

Mrs. Adele J. Krug an son, Walter, left Thursday afternoon for their home in Washington D. C., after spending a few days here visiting Jensens. Enroute they plan to visit the Jennings Jensens in Moorhead.



SPEED of vehicles traveling toward or away from this Dominator portable radar traffic control unit can be timed accurately from zero to 100 miles per hour. The unit contains a precise speedometer dial and an audio control for loudness of the buzz, the frequency of which is another indication of the vehicle's speed. The dial can be corrected with a 50 mile-per-hour button and callibrated with a button which stops the speedometer needle at its existing position on the dial, thereby refuting the driver's argument that he really wasn't speeding.

$200,000 Loan Is Approved for New Red Lake Sawmill

Approval of a $200,000 loan to help rebuild a burned-out sawmill owned and operated by the Chippewa Indians of the Red Lake reservation was announced Thursday by Eugene P. Foley, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

Funds will come from the Economic Development administration, U. S. Department of Commerce. Interest on the 15-year loan is four and one-fourth per cent annually.

The reservation will provide $280,000 in proceeds from fire insurance for a total project cost of $480,000.

Rebuilding the sawmill, which was destroyed by fire in December of 1965, will save 64 jobs; and according to the applicant, an additional five jobs will be created when construction is completed in December of 1966. The new sawmill will provide facilities to produce five million board feet of lumber a year.

COUNTY AUDITORS DISCUSS ELECTION

County auditors from Marshall, Red Lake, Polk, Norman, Beltrami, Clearwater, Roseau, Kittson, Mahnomen and Pennington counties met last Tuesday in Thief River Falls. Representing the northern district of the Minnesota association of county auditors, the group discussed and reviewed election procedures for the fall elections. C. W. Rodekuhr, Pennington county auditor is president of the northern district.

Several events for the 65th annual Pennington county fair are taking form rapidly, according to Morris Goddard, secretary of the Pennington County Fair association, Inc. The fair will open with entry day on Thursday, July 21, and continue through Sunday, July 24.

Twenty participants in the Venita Rich talent contest which will be held Saturday evening, July 23, were selected at auditions held recently in Thief River Falls. Winner of the local contest will receive an expense - paid trip to New York City for an audition for the Ted Mack amateur hour television show.

"The show will be varied, fast-moving and very colorful as some very unusual numbers were auditioned," states Miss Venita Rich, who conducted the local audition. "Twenty numbers will be presented and a variety of acts will assure family enjoyment. The audience will also help select the winning number since 40 per cent of the judges' rating is based on audience reaction."

Miss Rich, who recently returned from New York with a group of 41 contest winners and their friends, commented on the audition there by Curtis and Sandra Gruhl winners of the contest here last year. "They did a beautiful rendition of 'Swing Low Sweet Chariot', which was their own arrangement," she said, "and were well received by the audition board in New York."

"We believe this will provide a wonderful opportunity for amateur talent in this area," stated Morris Goddard, commenting on the talent revue for the board of directors. "The board hopes that county and area residents will turn out for the contest to boost their favorite numbers and enjoy 'Minnesota stars under the stars'."

Talent acts selected in the local auditions this year and which will appear on the July 23 program include the following:

The Stripettes dance revue, Crookston; Patricia Bilek, TRF; 4-H music chorus, Oklee; Karen Ferber, Jane and Mary Aakhus, TRF; Becky Juve, Crookston; Sharon Oven, TRF; Marilyn and Brad Byklum, Grygla; Karen Hannah, Fisher; The Happy Songsters, Shelly; Sandra Warne and Lois Byklum, Grygla; Janet Purath, Red Lake Falls; Hamre Brothers, Beltrami; Tom Huseby, Kurt Vandermere and Larry Williams, Halstad; Bruce Parnham, TRF;

Also Country Cousins instrumental revue, TRF; the Four Country Men boys' quartet, Fosston; Gayle Steen, Shelly; Marcia Christianson, Karen Kroening, Ann Fiebelkorn and Norma Strande, Fosston; and Bob Dicken, Dave Sisler and Don Adamson, TRF.

Tractor Pulling

Another popular feature introduced at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls last year—the tractor - pulling contest—will be sponsored again this year. Preliminary plans for the event were made at a meeting of the agriculture committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce late last week. The agriculture committee sponsors the contest in cooperation with the county fair association. Tractor pulling will take place July 23 and 23.

Committee members expect an even larger number of entries this year and competition is expected to be strong in all weight divisions. Persons interested in entering may secure registration blanks at the Conely-Torkelson Vows Spoken at St. John Luth.

Miss Sally Conely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Conely of St. Hilaire and Craig Torkelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Torkelson of rural Thief River Falls, exchanged marriage vows Saturday, May 7, at St. John's Lutheran church in this city.

Rev. Paul Biegner officiated at the 8 p.m. double ring ceremony attended by 175 relatives and friends. Mrs. James Johnson, cousin of the groom, was organist and Mrs. Ted Haugen, twin sister of the groom, sang.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an empire fashioned floor-length gown of white satin, styled with long tapered sleeves and an A-line skirt with a chapel-length train attached to the bodice. French lace appliques enhanced the rounded neckline. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a queen's crown of sequins and pearls and she carried a cascade arrangement of yellow roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Lyle Bjorge, sister of the groom, was matron of honor and Mrs. Neil Bugge was bridesmatron. They wore sleeveless empire fashioned gowns featuring floor-length apricot skirts with an overlay of floral chiffon. Their veiled petal hats were fashioned of the same material as their gowns and each carried a single long stemmed yellow rose. Their spinel pendants were gifts from the bride.

Flower girl, Charissa Ann Bjorge, niece of the groom, was attired in a white empire gown, fashioned similar to the bride's, a veiled petal headpiece and wrist length gloves. She carried a basket of yellow roses and white carnations. Her pearl pendant was a gift from the bride.

All the gowns were designed and made by Mrs. Lyle Bjorge. Mrs. Ted Haugen fashioned the headpieces.

John Monroe of Thief River Falls was the ringbearer.

Charles Carlson of Thief River Falls attended the groom as best man, Larry Conely of St. Hilaire, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Ushers were Oliver Swanson of Thief River Falls, brother-in-law of the groom and Peter Monroe of Radium, cousin of the bride. The men of the wedding party and the ring bearer were attired in black tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a medium blue two-piece suit with black accessories. The groom's mother was attired in a pink two piece knit suit with beige accessories. Both had identical corsages of yellow roses and white carnations.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony with Mrs. Dennis Monroe of Thief River Falls, cousin of the bride, as hostess. Yellow roses and candles graced the four-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. George Monroe of Radium, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. John Hoffman of Holt, cousin the groom. Mrs. James LaMotte of Minneapolis, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Willard Johnson of Thief River Falls, aunt of the groom, poured. Mrs. Oliver Swanson, sister of the groom, registered the guests while Shari Rolland and Gloria Olsen served the punch and Marlys Delorme, JoAnn Wald and Marlene Rolland arranged the gifts. Waitresses were Pam Hanson and Rene Lund.

Guests attending were from Pembina and Grand Forks, N. D.; Truman, Minneapolis, Bemidji, Alvarado, East Grand Forks and surrounding areas.

The newly - weds are graduates of Lincoln high school and are employed in Thief River Falls, the bride at Dow Key company and the groom at Arctic Enterprises, Inc. They are at home at 109 South Merriam, in this city.

Vows Exchanged At Plummer By Sandra Nord and G. Boice

Miss Sandra Nord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Nord of Plummer, became the bride of Gail Boice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Boice of Marvin, S. D., on Sunday evening, June 5, at the Immanuel Lutheran church in Plummer.

The Rev. Robert Amundson officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Duane Huffman, organist, accompanied Clarence Thompson as he sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of silk organza over slipper satin. Fashioned with a double chapel - length train, the gown was enhanced with re-embroidered lace appliques. A pillbox headpiece held her fingertip veil of silk illusion and she carried an arrangement of tropicana roses.

Waivel Prosser, maid of honor and Karen Eskell, bridesmaid, wore floor-length gowns of apricot peau de soie with matching pillbox hats. They carried bouquets of white carnations.

The groom's brother, Duane Boice served as best man and Jim Rutledge as groomsman. Ushers were Steve Farr and Russell Huotari.

A reception with Mrs. Leo Eskell as hostess was held in the church parlors. Miss Jackie Hofius registered the guests while Mrs. James Scott and Miss Phyllis Kees arranged the gifts. The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Russell Huotari and Mrs. Gerald Malwitz, Mrs. Clifford Hills and Mrs. Waymen Prosser poured and the waitresses were Mrs. Darol Braskalla and Miss Ruthella Westlake. Serving the bride as her personal attendant was Mrs. Joe Jaszczak.

VFW Auxiliary Hears Report of State Convention

Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxily to Post 2793 held its regular meeting Monday, June 27, in the club rooms with president Mable Nelson presiding.

Several reports were given including the report by Mary Lou Johnson of the state convention held recently in Mankato. It was also reported that the editorial "I'm a Tired American" by Allen McIntosh of Luverne had been distributed to the high school and junior college students as part of the Loyalty day observances.

A thank-you card was read from the Bridgeman Bridgettes expressing appreciation for the bus trip enabling them to prticipate in the parade at Mankato. They further stated that they won a trophy for their performance.

The attendance prize was won by Mary Matousek and the door prize was awarded to Florence Meyers. Hostesses were Sylvia Battelson, Doris Goulet and Ruth Onkka.

Margaret Weigelt Wins the June 21 Ladies Golf Event

At the Thief River Falls Ladies Golf club luncheon on Tuesday, it was announced that Margaret Weigelt's name had been drawn as the winner of the golf event held Tuesday, June 21. At that event five women tied for first place with identical scores for the least number of times in the rough. Ella Anderson was the winner of the low net with a 41.

President Ella Anderson called the meeting to order. She stated that the club was in need of dish towels, dish cloths and extra serving dishes and asked that members donate some of these items. Pat Johnson reminded the membersh that the league dues were to be paid to her as soon as possible.

Golf and bridge followed the luncheon with the golf event being the total number of puts on nine holes. Sam Rasmussen won the event with 11 puts and Ellan Ranum was the second prize winner. Dorothy Holzknecht and Clario Johnson won first and second prize, respectively, at bridge. For bidding a slam and making it, Ruth Legvold was presented with a prize.

Hostesses at the luncheon served at 1 p. m. were Lois Broughton, Mary June WWurst, Eileen Reiers and Phyllis Moum.

Local Women Are Delegates At LWML Convention

Mrs. Ken Kohler and Mrs. Clarence Semanko of Thief River Falls were among the 256 delegates that attended the Minnesota North convention of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League at Bemidji on June 21-23. Including guests, LWML district board members and pastors, a total of 435 were in attendance.

Convention sessions were held at Trinity Lutheran church in Bemidji with housing and meals provided at the State college.

Mrs. Edgar Bode, Wood Lake, LWML district president, presided at the convention sessions. She was reelected president on the first ballot and will head the LWML in the Minnesota North area for the next two years. Mrs. Herbert Rousch of Bemidji was elected regional vice president and will serve on the board of directors which meets quarterly, usually at district headquarters in Brainerd.

The primary objective of this Women's organization of the Lutheran church - Missouri Synod is the support of mission projects throughout the world. Projects totalling $25,000 were approved by the convention delegates. The projects range from scholarships for full-time church workers to supplying needed equipment for missionaries in foreign fields. The largest was an $8,000 contribution to support missionary work in Caracas, Venez.

Rev. and Mrs. Edward Bertram of Taiwan addressed the convention Wednesday afternoon. They have worked in the Taiwan mission field since 1960 and plan to return there in the Falls. Miss Simonton, nurse from New Guinea, spoke Thursday morning.

Rev. John Zimmerman, Eldora, Iowa, represented the International LWML and brought greetings at the sessions Thursday afternoon. He formerly served congregations at Taylor, Munson and Montevideo.

Convention motto was: "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord".

Marjorie Kay Pope Weds W. Grundhaus In Spokane

At high noon on Saturday, June 18, at Our Lady of Fatima Catholic church in Spokane, Wash., Miss Marjorie Kay Pope became the bride of William Edward Grundhaus. Officiating clergyman was the brother of the groom, Rev. Roger Grundhaus of Thief River Falls.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Pope of 952 East 40th street, Spokane, Wash., and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Grundhaus of rural Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Glenn Tanner, organist, provided a program of traditional nuptial music and Mrs. Patricia Sexton sang. Forming the chapel setting were baskets of gladioli, stocks, delphiniums and pink carnations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor lace with a detachable over-skirt that ended in a bouffant chapel length train. The fitted bodice had long tapered sleeves and a scalloped neckline and the back was enhanced by an organza bow at the waistline. Her bouffant illusion veiling fell from an organza bow headpiece and she carried a cascade bouquet of roses and stephanotis entwined with ivy.

July Kathleen Pope was choosen by her sister as maid of honor. She wore a Copenhagen blue floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta with bow trim. Styled with an empire midriff waitline and short sleeves the gown was fashioned with a modified bell shaped skirt. Her headpiece was of matching color with a circular veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink feathered carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sara Jo Blakkolb of Pullman, Wash., a Chi Omega sorority sister of the bride and Miss Jane Grundhaus of Thief River Falls, sister of the groom. Their gowns, headpieces and flowers were like those of the maid of honor.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Leslie Grundhaus of Thief River Falls. Ushers were John D. Bailey of Seattle, Wash., and Don Pope of Spokane, Wash., brother of the bride.

The mother of the bride was attired in a pink lace sheath gown trimmed in satin. To complete her attire, she wore matching hat and shoes. The groom's mother wore a organza gown with matching accessories. Both mothers wore gardenia corsages.

A reception at the Francis Lester Inn followed the ceremony. Asisting at the reception table were Mrs. Robert Pope, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Mary Stumpf, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Kent Johnson and Mrs. Willis Randall. Sisters of the groom, Miss Mary Grundhaus, and Miss Cindy Grundhaus, repectively presided at the guest book and gift table. Mr. and Mrs. William Reeder and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Vickerman greeted the guests.

For her going-away attire, the bride wore a blue two-toned, three-piece knit suit with matching accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Grundhaus will make their home at Seattle, Wash.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. WILLIAM MATHIEU

This isn't "just another banana bread recipe" as one may judge by glancing at the title. For a true banana - flavored bread, this recipe requires three ripe bananas. Not only does this bread keep well, but is also freezes well without losing any of its flavor.

BANANA BREAD

1 cup sugar
½ cup shortening
1 teaspoon soda
3 tablespoons hot water
3 mashed bananas
2 cups flour
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt.

Method: Mix shortening, sugar and well beaten eggs; add soda dissolved in hot water and mix; then add one cup flour, salt, mashed bananas and the remaining flour, mixing after each addition. Bake in a greased loaf pan for one hour in a 350 degree oven.

The Library Corner

BY FLORA ALLISON

About - to - be - collegians: Precious college hours could be more profitably put to use than by reading literature that could, and should have been read prior to entering college. Why not stop at the library during the summer and catch up on all that required reading in your spare time? A little backlog of unread books can cause a real log-jam in an already - packed college schedule. Don't be caught unprepared.

You're asking about a lot more of the new literature, and we are attempting to answer that request. "The Magus" is John Fowles' second book, right on the heels of his eminently successful "The Collector," which was made into a movie. Magus, translated, means "magician" or "juggler." The stepping stones used by Fowle to fasten the web of this strangely cold-blooded and gripping tale are in London, the isle of Phraxos in Greece, and in war zones.

A love story in the modern tradition, called by many reviewers "one of the most powerful in many generations," brings some warmth to the chilly labyrinthes and dark places of this story. A heart-thumping climax thunders to the closing words after the numbness of its chilling suspense. We reserve personal evaluation as to its merits, bringing you only a hint of the story itself. The evaluation is a matter of your personal reaction.

What's new in the juvenile department? Always something. A tender and reverent prayer alive with the wonder of God's world around us, is Joan Lexau's "More Beautiful Than the Flowers". The illustrations are imaginatively executed to fit the text and are inspiring. "I love you, God, for you can . . . . count the drops of water in all the seas and oceans . . larger than the universe . . . You know me better than myself . . . " A new concept of the Almighty, one which brings out for children a new dimension of awe and wonder of the Infinite.

"The First Woman Doctor" by Rachel Baker, is the story, in all its enlightening truth, of the first woman ever to become a doctor. Her sweeping changes in the hospital where she worked were long overdue and necessary and established a sanitation pattern for later hospitals. She established America's first nursing school and later a medical school for women. But before that, she was to come face to face with personal tragedy, and overcome it. A friend of Florence Nightingale, she wrote numours books on health, and disease and its treatment, books which were later used as texts in many instances. Older girls, in the find the book of this medical pioneer interesting reading.

"The Dirty Dozen" by E. M. Nathanson is another book which has been much acclaimed. Twelve inmates of an English prison during World War II, the motley soldiers, American GIs, most of them sentenced to death for civilian crimes, are offered an honorable death — or perhaps even pardon— if they carry out a hazardous but vital mission. Trained to carry out the mission behind the enemy lines before D-Day, they work, think, and act as a team up to a point, where the individual savagry and other unholy traits come to the fore.

Graphic, ugly, without shame, the team is shown as an unwashed, unkempt, unshaven juggernaut. Men of sharply differing backgrounds and beliefs, they are shown as unbending, unyielding, with no future if the desperate gamble they undertake should prove futile, and with the determination born of that desperation. An incredible collection of fugitives who perhaps in their own interests, perhaps with a higher motive, acquit themselves in the tradition of soldiers, in what could be the biggest gamble for the highest stakes ever undertaken by a high command.

"Up the Down Staircase" by Bel Kaufman, is a takeoff on the education of modern youth, from the standpoint of a college English teacher. This is not a book of pedagogic mouthings in dictionary English, but a book with punch and wit and an occasional hard jab to the solar plexis of the parents of today's students. The kids get in their pitches too, in classroom conversations and in the notes found in the suggestion box.

A few selected at random, such as "Snoopervisors make education more quiet classrooms because I like to sleep a lot. Signed, Dead to the World", give a fair sampling of the contents. Students, parents and the high school crowd alike should find identity with this one. It's shot through with humor, but not indifferent to exposing the multi-faceted problems of today's teachers, with their frustrations, hazards, challenges, defeats, victories and rewards. Read it as a teacher - appreciation course.

Summertime - oriented, especially, are the books on horses; although not new, they are crammed with valuable tips and hints. "The Problem Horse" by an expert in his field, Reginald Summerhays, aims at solution of faulty behavior patterns in horses, whether the problems are commonplace or unusual. The hard - to - mount, water-shy, stable - bucker, hard - to - box, nervous, biting, unwilling and otherwise toublesome horse can be cured of his bad habits, according to the author, if the proper techniques are used. Other problems come in for a fair share of attention in this book also.

"The Saddle Horse," by Lance Phillips, is an excellent word and picture story of the origins of the saddle horse, to the present - day big money - maker. Handling of the saddle horse from its early beginnings as a frightened foal, to the highly - trained and valuable show horse, is told in detail. Pictured in natural poses are some of the most famous of all the show horses, and others. A valuable handbook and guide to all lovers of horses, whether owners, trainers, jockeys or just plain admirers, this book is available at the library and should be helpful as well as enjoyable to all those who fit the above categories.

4-H'ers and others interested in conservation, and that should include each one of us, for the riches of earth are ours to protect and preserve as well as enjoy, can find at the library many books on conservation and related subjects. Durward Allen's "Our Wildlife Legacy" is an excellent source of this information, readable, well-illustrated and informative in this vital area, with its realistic approach to the problems of the wild things of earth who are fighting extinction or at least depletion. Many other volumes on the same subject are awaiting you perusal.

With the addition of an animal park in the vicinity, there will undoubtedly be heightened interest in preservation of wildlife, if for no other reason than the enjoyment it brings to children of all ages to learn of the ways of nature and of nature's children. Do your part. The vanishing wilderness, victim of the encroachment of man and his ways, is ours to protect and preserve or destroy. The right kind of books will be a guideline for those interested enough in future generations to preserve the beauties of the wild for them and for their children after them. Your library will be extremely helpful in this project. Make use of it, won't you?

Moccasin Garden Club Studies the Care of Perennials

"Cure and storage of perennials and bulbs", was the topic of the June meeting of the Moccasin garden club held recently at the Henry Anenson home. Program chairman, Mrs. Julian C. Lendobeja, led the topic and also read a clipping from the Hibbing Herald on the display of 5,000 tulip bulbs at the Al Norman Johnson home in Hibbing, telling of their care and storage of tulip bulbs.

Club president, Mrs. Sidney Wilson was in charge of the garden and history quiz and Mrs. Henry Anenson was the hostess.

Guests attending were Mrs. Elwood Tieman and Mrs. Orlean Walker of Texas, Mrs. Bennie Svanfjord and Mrs. Mary Koglin's niece of Wilmer.

The May meeting was held at the Walter Lendobeja home with Mrs. Lendobeja as hostess and Mrs. Archie Wilson as program chairman. Roll call was information on the Chrysanthemum. Mrs. Wilson showed slides.

The July meeting will be held at the Sidney Wilson home with Mrs. Wilson as hostess and Mrs. Ed Koglin as program chairman. Mrs. Koglin states that this will be a participation program with members sharing ideas of plant diseases and problems.

Five TRF Women To Attend ALCW Meet in Oregon

Local units of the American Lutheran Church Women, organized in 171 conferences, throughout the United States and Canada, will be represented by several women of Thief River Falls at the second triennial convention of the organization on Tuesday through Friday at the Memorial Coliseum at Portland, Ore.

Delegates representing local units who left Sunday night, July 3, from Fargo, N. D. were Mrs. Sylvia Thorstn and Miss Carol Urdahl from the Zion American Lutheran church women and Mrs. Alvin Christofferson and Mrs. Richard Edlund from the Trinity ALCW. They were joined by delegates from the Thief River Falls district of the ALCW who were chosen at the convention held here this spring. They are the district president, Mrs. George Gillie of Hallock and the district stewardship secretary, Mrs. Orville Feragen of this city.

More than 5,000 are expected to attend. In addition to the expected large number of visitors, the convention will include 350 voting delegates.

The national organization, an official auxiliary of the American Lutheran church, with general offices in Minneapolis, will elect officers and members of an executive board, will receive a special cash offering, with a goal of $100,000, to augment its extensive world-wide program of Christian work.

Featured speakers will include Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, Germany; Dr. Fredrik A. Scholtz, president both of the American Lutheran church and the Lutheran World Federation and the Rev. Gordon Ruud of Madagascar, director of a sound recording studio for RVOG (Radio Voice of the Gospel) a broadcasting facility operated by the Lutheran World Federation in Ethiopia.

Bishop Lilje, a prisoner under Hitler during World War II, and former president of the LWF, will give three lectures on the convention theme "Agents of Reconciliation". Participating in panel discussions following each of Bishop Lilje's lectures will be Dr. Elmo Agrimson of Bismarck, N. D.; Dr. Alvin N. Rogness of St. Paul, Mrs. Erling Wold of Grand Forks, N. D., and Dr. Carl Reuss and Mrs. George N. Nelson, both of Minneapolis.

Mrs. Peter Fossum of Northfield will conclude her second three-year term as president of the ALCW. Mrs. Elvin Humble of Rushford has been nominated for the presidency.

Long Holiday May Be Marred By Thunderstorms

Northern Minnesotans who plan to celebrate the Fourth of July outdoors will find the weather warm and humid, but would be well advised to prepare for rain. While no rain was measured at the Thief River Falls municipal airport, a severe thunderstorm occurred to the west in the Grand Forks area late Friday evening.

A chance of widely-scattered thundershowers is predicted for the entire area, today through tomorrow with continued high humdity and little temperature change. Highs today will range from 75 to 85; lows tonight from 62 to 72.

Temperature readings recorded since Wednesday at the airport are as follows: 90 and 66 on Wednesday; 95 and 67 on Thursday; 88 and and 74 on Friday; and a low this morning of 67. No precipitation occurred during the period.

Louis A. Cyr, 74, Retired Oklee Businessman, Dies

Louis A. Cyr, 74, a retired Oklee business man, died unexpectedly Wednesday evening. He collapsed earlier at his residence at Oklee and was taken to St. John's hospital in Red Lake Falls.

A Solemn Requiem High Mass for Louis Cyr was offered at 9 a. m. Saturday, July 2, at the St. Francis Xavier Catholic church at Oklee. Rev. Paul Cardin, officiated and interment was in the church cemetery. Petterson Funeral Home, Oklee, was in charge of arrangements.

Louis Cyr was born April 30, 1892 at Red Lake Falls to Mr. and Mrs. William Cyr. On July 7, 1925 he married Marie Agnes Bourgeois at Brooks.

For 27 years, Mr. Cyr was engaged as a grain buyer and was employed by grain elevators at Red Lake Falls, Middle River, Oklee and Bemidji. Mr. and Mrs. Cyr owned and operated a cafe in Oklee from 1947 until 1957 when they retired and sold the cafe to their son, Vernon.

A veteran of World War 1, he served in France with the U. S. Army. He was a member of the American Legion and a 50-year member of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, Lloyd Cyr of Edwards Air Force base in California and Vernon of Oklee; one daughter, Mrs. Jerome (Carla) McCaigue of Atlanta, Ga., 15 grandchildren and one brother, Leo Cyr of Boyd, Wis.

He was preceded in death by a brother and a sister.

Got All The FACTS?
Take a minute . . . think!
Before you go off the deep end, get the facts first we say. One of the best and most logical ways is to ask your fuel oil man. He's your neighbor and in most cases has been supplying you for years with dependable, low cost home heating. In fact his price has been the same for the past 15 years . . . yes, many other items you buy have gone up in price, but not oil heat.
What Does Oil Heat Offer!
● PRICE ●
Stable for the past 15 years. NO INCREASE. Others fuels, in some instances, have doubled.
● DEPENDABLE ●
Unlike other types of heating that succumb to the elements, oil heating is right on the job working day and night—Yes dependable is the proper word.
● SAFETY ●
You'll have to look a long way into the record books to find where anyone has been a victim of oil heat. Oil heat is one of the most trustworthy, safest heats you can have around.
If you have any questions about oil heating ask a member of the Oilmen's Association a person you can trust and have dealt with for years, he'll be gald to talk to you.

Income Tax Questions Are Answered by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q – Do I need a federal license to sell beer?

A – Yes, you must purchase an occupational tax stamp. Application must be made on special tax return Form 11 before you sell any beer. If you have been registered previously, you must apply for a new occupational stamp for the fiscal year from July 1, 1966, through June 30, 1967, on or before July 1.

Q – Do you have any publication that tells taxpayers what to do if called in for an audit?

A – Yes, IRS Document No. 5202, "If Your Return Is Examined." It can be obtained without charge by writing to our office in St. Paul.

Q – We are thinking about becoming foster parents. If we do, can we claim the children as dependents and do we report the payments we get as income?

A – The children can probably be claimed as dependents if you provide more than half their support for a full year. If the subsistence payments you receive for the children do not exceed the expenses paid by you in supporting them, the payments are not reported as income to you. However, the payments must be considered when determining whether you have provided more than half their support.

Foster children placed in your home, unless for adoption, cannot be claimed as dependents unless they are members of your household for the entire year. They must also be citizens or residents of the United States, or residents of either Canada, Mexico, the Canal Zone, or the Republic of Panama during the year for which you claim the exemption.

Q – We have been invited to a charity ball. The tickets cost $25 including dinner and dance. Will the full $25 be deductible?

A – No. Only that portion of the $25 over and above the value you receive in food and entertainment may be deducted as a charitable contribution. The sponsors of the event should be able to tell you how much that is.

Q – Is the tax you have to pay on plane tickets deductible?

A – No. This is a federal excise tax and which is not deductible unless it represents a business expense.

Q – I received a notice that I made some mathematical error in my tax return. How can I find out what error I committed?

A – If you contact our offices in St. Paul or Minneapolis, we shall be glad to examine your return with you and explain the error.

Q – I always itemize deductions because I have high interest, real estate tax and contributions. I'm always overwithheld and under the new system I will be more overwithheld than before. Isn't there anything that can be done to minimize this?

A – The new law authorizes you to claim additional allowances for situations such as you describe starting next January. Instructions on this will be issued later in the year.

Q – I lost my refund check. What can I do?

A – Report it to our office. You will receive forms to use in certifying the loss and making a claim for another check.

Holiday Traffic Hazards Cited by Highway Dep't.

This year's three-day Fourth of July holiday could result in traffic deaths and injuries to 600 persons on Minnesota's roads, Highway Commissioner John R. Jamieson warned today. He appealed to motorists to drive with caution and common sense over the holiday weekend to cut down on the expected 700 traffic accidents with their attendant human and economic loss.

Jamieson noted that Governor Karl F. Rolvaag has proclaimed the week of June 25 to July as Traffic Safety Week. "This special week, which ushers in the second phase of the governor's crusade for safety with its theme 'The Driver is the Key,' is an ideal device to prepare drivers for the coming holiday," Jamieson said.

Jamieson reviewed the record of last year's three-day Independence Day weekend which, he said, "should serve as an object lesson to all motorists and especially the young."

Over last year's holiday period, Minnesota recorded a total of 626 traffic accidents in which 16 persons were killed and 558 injured, making it the state's bloodiest Fourth on record.

The major contributing causes were illegal or unsafe speed, failure to yield right of way, and following to closely. Illegal or unsafe speed was involved in 36 per cent of the fatal accidents and drinking was a factor in 43 per cent.

Although drivers under 25 years of age comprise only 22.8 per cent of the licensed drivers, they accounted for 40 per cent of the drivers involved in accidents. More than 50 per cent of the killed and injured were under 25.

Some 280 accidents occurred in urban areas and 246 in rural areas. But 14 of the 16 traffic deaths resulted from rural accidents.

Seventy-seven per cent of the drivers were from out of state.

"We haven't had a Fourth of July holiday period without a traffic fatality since 1961," Jamieson said. "And only if every motorist cooperates fully can we hope to do anywhere near that well this year."

Plans Progress For County Fair Here July 21-24

Chamber of Commerce office, and they will soon be available at local banks. Vernon Nelson is chairman of the agriculture committee.

Premium Lists

Considerable interest has been shown in the premium lists for the fair which are available at several downtown locations, including banks, J. C. Penney company, motor vehicle license bureau and the Times office.

Entries in 4-H, FFA and open class competition will be received on Thursday, July 21, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The same evening the grandstand entertainment program will open with the Trans-World Auto Daredevils, another popular program.

In addition to the tractor pulling contest Friday, the 4-H club parade of champions will be held. Saturday, July 23, will feature finals in the tractor pulling contest and the Venita Rich talent revue.

On Sunday afternoon, July 24, the Thief River Falls saddle club will stage a horse show in front of the grandstand at 1:30 p.m. Teen night will be featured in the evening with music and entertainment by Bobby Gaye of Jamestown, N. D., and his orchestra and go-go girls.

Jack Thompson carnival will be on the midway all four days of the free-gate fair. Auto parking will be offered at 25 cents while grandstand admission will again be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Department heads have added several items to the premium list this year, and potential exhibitors are encouraged to check the premium book for divisions which might be of interest to them.

Changes Made in Extension Staff For NW Areas

Changes in the appointments of two members of the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service staff, and the addition of two assistant county agents, have been announced by Luther J. Pickrel, extension service director.

William J. Sliney, associate professor and county extension agent for Beltrami county, has been named area extension coordinator for Beltrami, Clearwater, Cass, Hubbard, Koochiching and Lake of the Woods counties as well as for the Red Lake Indian reservation.

Dennis D. Seefeldt, instructor and soils agent for West Otter Tail county, has been appointed associate extension agent for Carlton county.

Additions to the staff include Richard W. Peterson as instructor and assistant extension agent for South St. Louis county, and David H. Hassinger as instructor and assistant extension agent for Crow Wing county.

The Sliney and Seefeldt appointments are effective July 1. Peterson and Hassinger assumed their new positions June 16.

Sliney has been a member of the Beltrami county extension staff since 1957, when he was named assistant county agent for forestry. He was promoted to county extension agent in 1964, and in 1965 he was raised in academic rank from assistant to associate professor.

Area Students on BSC Dean's List

Bemidji State college dean's list certificates were awarded to 430 students for scholastic honors earned during the spring quarter of the 1965-66 academic year, according to Dr. Judson P. Martin, academic dean.

Students from the local area named to the list include Milan E. Alby, Wallace H. Etter, Kris O. Gelsen, James F. Hageman, Richard A. Jensen and Diane Sundahl, all of Thief River Falls; Ronald L. Dahlen and Gene A. Haugen, Goodridge; Dennis L. Holte and Adelaide M. Lillevold, Grygla; Judy C. Vanleeweg, Red Lake Falls; Phil J. Riveness, Karlstad, Sylvia Griffin, Middle River; and Wesley H. Hanson and Dale P. McCullough, Newfolden;

Also Renay F. Radniecki, Oklee; Richard H. Perreault, Brooks; David G. Odegaard, Gully; Darlene Clemenson, Vance R. Norgaard, Beatrice K. Rowland and Orlan D. Thorbeck, Gonvick; and George W. McReynolds, Kenneth O. Nordlund and Beverly Yoki, Clearbrook.

University Prof Claims Lawyers Are Edible Fish

The same guy who tells you not to judge a book by its cover will throw away every lawyer, catfish and eel he reels in. He will spend all afternoon throwing away ugly fish and go home empty handed cursing his luck.

You won't get much argument in Minnesota that a walleye is pretty good eating, or that a native brook trout sizzling in the frying pan is as good a way to wind up a fishing trip as any you can think of.

And you won't get much argument that a lawyer or a catfish is about as ugly a specimen of piscatorial existence possible.

Lloyd L. Smith professor of entomology, fisheries and wildlife at the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture, says that a lawyer is actually a freshwater codfish. He reports that it doesn't fry too well but should be cooked as directed in any codfish recipe.

Catfish, including bullheads, are also excellent eating and are a high-priced delicacy in several parts of the country. They fry well and the meat has a firm consistency.

"So next time the walleyes or bass aren't biting, give lawyers a try. You might not like them but then you just might," Smith recommends.

Douglas Olson Completes Army Vehicle Course

Army Pvt. Douglas F. Olson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Olson of Thief River Falls, completed a vehicle mechanic course at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., June 27.

During the eight-week course he was trained to repair internal combustion engines and wheeled vehicle chassis components. Instruction was also given in the fundamentals of electrical and transmission systems.

Judy Oski Tells Of Experience in Georgia Exchange

Hi Everyone:

Well, I am back in Minnesota now after a two weeks stay in Georgia and I really miss the southern accent and the great hospitality of the Georgians.

Here are some of the highlights of my stay in Worth county and Georgia: I toured a cotton gin; a peanut bin; and a fertilizer plant in Shinfer, I visited a Georgia dairy farm and a 2,100 acre peach, tobacco, cotton and peanut plantation. I also toured a pickle and peanut butter factory and a textile mill. The greatest of all was my boat trip into Okefenokee Swamp and swimming in the Atlantic ocean.

The Georgia 4-H organization is set up through the public schools. They hold their meetings during school hours once a month and never during the summer season. The enrollment of Worth county in 4-H club work is about 1,240; they are divided into three different groups: the Cloverleafs, juniors and seniors.

All the Minnesota delegates had a "mighty fine" trip coming home. Coming back we toured the University of Georgia in Athens, the Cyclorama and Stone Mountain near Atlanta. We traveled through the Central section of Alabama, the northeastern tip of Mississippi, through Tennessee and Kentucky, along the Illinois - Missouri border until we finally got to St. Louis, Mo. where we stopped and visited the St. Louis zoo, the largest in the world.

From St. Louis we went to the University of Missouri in Columbia. We went through Iowa and finally crossed the Minnesota state line where we went on to Rochester for our final luncheon. One thought of hope, the Minnesota delegates plan on meeting August 28 at the state fair for a "Grand Reunion".

I had a wonderful time and will be glad to share more of my experience with y'all. I have taken a lot of pictures that are now being developed and would be glad to show them to any group or organization.

Thanks to everyone who in any way made this trip for me possible. It was a valuable experience I will never forget!

Sincerely,
Judy Oski
Minnesota-Georgia Exchange
Delegate

Rapid Remodeling Taking Place at Crookston School

Remodeling programs are progressing rapidly at the University of Minnesota Technical Institute at Crookston. The date for completion of the various projects has been set for September 1.

Kiehle building, formerly the administration, library and auditorium of the Northwest school, is being remodeled into an entire library facility on first floor. A new entrance on the south side of the building will enhance the use of the auditorium. At the present time finishing work is being done on concrete structural flooring. Steel erection will begin very soon.

Selvig hall is being remodeled into the new college administration building. The building had formerly been used as a dormitory.

These two buildings will serve both the agricultural and business curriculum for students who will attend the new technical college beginning this fall.

Bids will be received until June 30 for remodeling work on Owen hall which will serve as the center of the business program, and also on the dining hall which will serve as a food service facility for both dormitory and commuting students.

Other buildings on campus are being refurnished and will adequately serve the new college for the immediate future as they are.

Crops and Soils Day Scheduled at Northwest School

Annual Crops and Soils day will be held at the Northwest school and agricultural experiment station, Crookston, on Tuesday, July 12. An invitation is extended to the public to visit the experiment station on this day.

Visitors will be taken on field tours which are scheduled to begin promptly at 9 a.m. Tractor-drawn wagons will go out to major plot areas. Visitors can view the latest research effort in small grains, weed control, sugarbeets, soil investigations, and the specialty crops of Crambe, mustard and sunflowers.

For women attending, there will be a special tour of the garden plots at 10 a.m.

A brief program will begin at 1:15 p.m., following the field tours. Dr. Stanley D. Sahlstrom, director of the new U of M technical institute, will report on the latest developments for the new college. Also on the program will be the subject of "Industry Looks Ahead at Sunflowers." Sam Aronoff and Ken Johnson of Cargill, Inc., and several others will be present to explain to the farming public the nature of their interest and their plans for sunflowers as a crop in the years ahead.

A special clinic for plant diseases, weeds, insects and soils problems will be featured again this year on crops day. Farmers and other persons seeking the latest information on these various problems are encouraged to bring in plant disease and insect specimens and soil samples for identification. The clinic will be manned by specialists from the agricultural extension service, University of Minnesota, St. Paul.

There will be a lunch stand on the grounds, for the convenience of visitors.

New School Board Members Plan To Attend Meet

Harry Oen and Dr. H. R. Achenbach plan to attend the sixth annual orientation meeting for newly elected school board members on July 13 in Minneapolis. The meeting is designed to give persons recently elected to serve in the position of school board members basic information to assist them in serving their school districts.

Clifford Smith, Robbinsdale, President of the association, will open the program by speaking on the "Minnesota School Boards Association." He will be followed by Vice President Glenn Engebretson, Slayton, speaking on the subject of "What It Means To Be a School Board Member," Mankato superintendent of schools, William Nigg, will address the members on the question of "What a Superintendent Can Expect of His School Board."

Newly elected school board members will attend three different clinic sessions during the balance of the day. Milton Altmeyer, Hutchinson, member of the board of directors, will serve as speaker and consultant on the question of school board policies. Theodore Tofte, Wadena superintendent of schools, will serve as speaker and consultant on school budget and finance. W. A. Wettergren, executive secretary of the association, will be the speaker and consultant in the workshop on school board - teacher relations.

Taxpayers Head

Election of Jerry J. Kigin of St. Cloud as president of the Minnesota Taxpayers association was announced this week. Kigin, president of the Northwestern Bank and Trust company of St. Cloud, succeeds James C. Kenady, South St. Paul, who remains on the board.

Elected vice president of the group was Norris K. Carnes, St. Paul, general manager of Central Livestock association, Inc.

New directors elected for five-year terms are Paul Cibuzar, Brainerd; H. C. Nicholls, St. Paul; and Clifford P. Palmquist, St. Paul.

Carnes and Herman Natwick, a Norman county farmer, were re-elected directors for five - year terms.

The Minnesota Taxpayers association is a nonprofit, non-partisan statewide organization interested in and actively working for greater efficiency and economy in government and sound fiscal and tax policies. It seeks to accomplish these objectives through dissemination of factual information to its members and to the taxpaying public in the form of news releases, research bulletins and personal appearances of its staff members, according to Charles P. Stone, executive director.

Services Held At Middle River For W. Wartenberg, 76

Funeral services for Wilhelm A. Wartenberg, 76, of Middle River, were held Saturday, July 2, at 2 p.m. at the First Lutheran church at Middle River. Mr. Wartenberg died Tuesday morning at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls.

The Rev. Kenneth Kramer of Holt officiated. Linda Larson served as organist and hymns were sung by Miss Sharon Gusa. Interment was in the Evangelical cemetery near Middle River with the Collins Funeral home of Middle River in charge of funeral arrangements.

Pallbearers were Floyd Tanner, Christ Sostad, Emmett Wagner, Pat Metsa, Oliver Grondahl and William Maijala.

Wilhelm August Wartenberg, a son of the late August and Minnie Wartenberg, was born April 28, 1890 in Cedar township, Marshall county. He was engaged in farming in Cedar township where he attended school and spent his entire lifetime. He never married.

Wartenberg was active in township and community affairs and had served as township treasurer for 42 years.

He is survived by three sisters, Elizabeth and Amanda Wartenberg and Mrs. George (Martha) Gusa, all of Middle River, and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by three brothers and five sisters.

Instructor Summarizes Middle River FFA Year

The 1965-66 school year was a busy and active one in the Middle River vocational agriculture department, according to Mervin Milsten, agriculture instructor and FFA advisor. A total of 75 students were enrolled in the all-day classes. The theme "Agriculture Is More Than Farming" was stressed throughout the course of study.

Major emphasis was placed on job opportunities, rural community living, livestock production, gas and arc welding, woodworking, small motors repair, mechanical drawing, breeds of livestock, crop selection, crop identification, records and farm management, Millsten said.

Fifty - one high school vocational agricultural students completed one or more productive enterprises under the supervised or directed practices program. The average per student invested in farming was $680. Gross total receipts of $24,386 were realized from vocational agriculture projects. Expenses totaled $15,517 with a net of $8,869.50. This was a new record for the Middle River classes.

The major supervised farming projects were made up of 83 beef cattle, 24 dairy cattle, 109 sheep, 58 acres of grain and four horses. The most common improvement projects were: build or repair fence, 35; welding, 28; sharpen tools, 28; pick rocks, 27; repair buildings, 26; repair machinery, 24; paint buildings, 21; test milk, 17; mix cement, 17; safety clean-up, 17; and overhaul motors, 16.

The Middle River FFA chapter also had a truly banner year, Milsten said. A record of 54 active members participated in a record number of activities. Judging events included public speaking, creed contest, dairy cattle judging, general livestock, dairy products, wildlife, crops, meats and sheep judging. Four teams entered the state FFA judging contest and three teams earned a gold award in the state contest. Six individuals received the gold award. A total of 49 FFA members participated in some phase of the judging contest.

A new certified and registered seed program was started this year. This is to be a revolving fund project. Twenty - one members are starting this new activity.

One member of the chapter qualified for the State Farmer degree last year. One hundred and fifty parents and members took part in the FFA parents' night banquet. Nine regular FFA meetings were held during the year, a grain drive for Camp Courage was conducted and leadership training was promoted through the FFA chapter activities.

1966 was the year that a full-time agricultural instructor was added to the Middle River faculty. Fred Fredrickson was hired in February to work with the adult program. Thirty-five farmers with the assistance of the adult instructor organized an Eastern Marshall County Seed association for the purpose of raising and selling certified blue grass. It is hoped that this will add greatly to the cash crop sales in the Middle River area. Seventeen farmers are enrolled in the farm management and record keeping activity. Forty - two farmers took part in improved enterprise topic meetings.

A summary of the year's activities shows that the agricultural instructors were also busy in many phases of community programs.

Milsten made 118 student visitations and 32 adult visitations during the year. A total of 9,107 miles was traveled. Thirty-one meetings were conducted by Milsten plus 11 class trips, nine judging trips and nine community service and local tours. Twenty - two adults were trained in radiological monitoring for our area and 28 newspaper articles were written to keep the community informed about the vocational agriculture departments' activities.

Basically the program is made up of (1) the all day student program; (2) supervised training; (3) adult program; and (4) community activities. This program is made possible to the community through the action of the school district 440 board and the superintendent, Don D. English.

HOT MUGGY DAYS BOTHER YOU?...
START LIVING
with an air conditioner or dehumidifier
Here's your chance to enjoy summer comfort you've never enjoyed before . . . and save money at the same time! Get away from the heat . . . get away from the humidity. You and your family will sleep better, have more energy, be more comfortable — you might even like each other more.
Buy an electric air conditioning unit anytime between now and August 15 and Otter Tail will give you $20.00 in BONUS BUCKS. Buy a dehumidifier anytime during the same period and Otter Tail will give you $10.00 in BONUS BUCKS.
You can apply these Otter Tail BONUS BUCKS on the purchase of any electric appliance at the same appliance dealer from whom you bought the air conditioning unit or dehumidifier.
We don't care what brand-name you buy, as long as it is electric, and you are an Otter Tail retail customer.
See your local electric appliance dealer today
RECEIVE UP TO $30.00 IN BONUS BUCKS

How Can You Tell If Your Home Needs a BIGGER SERVICE ENTRANCE?
If lights dim, fuses blow and your TV picture shrinks when electric appliances start, you're not getting full use of the electricity you're buying. This is because your electric Service Entrance (that's what we call the wires and main fuse box) is being asked to do more than it can handle. Ask your local electrical contractor to check your home. Otter Tail Power Company will finance the cost of a 100-ampere entrance — or larger — up to $200.00. YOU PAY NOTHING DOWN . . . ONLY $2.59 EACH MONTH, added to your electric service bill
PROTECT your home investment with ELECTRIC HOME HEATING
Will your home be "modern" 10 years from today? If it is, your life-time investment will be protected. And the best way to make sure is to heat your home electrically! Actually, you may find that your home increases in value as the years roll by — because you'll be modern when others are not!
Otter Tail makes it easy for you, too . . . with a Guaranteed Heating Cost Plan . . . and a special $100.00 Wiring Allowance. For full details about both, see your local electrical contractor or local Otter Tail Service Representative.

I Prefer Torture

The best way to travel with children is incognito.

The late Robert Benchley once said the only thing remotely close to going someplace with one's offspring was riding in a third class train through Bulgaria.

I think he meant to add there was a revolution underway at the time.

Each adult setting out on a vacation trip should remember there is only one way to travel with children, and that's the children's way.

Some precautions alleviate the distress until you get where you're going.

Extremely young infants, because they are in the gelatinous state yet and are largely at your mercy, offer no real problems. Armed with a large box of tissues for gurgling and spillage, a double lined bag for diapers, and an ice chest for formula, you're all set. You might add several large bottles of water from home as different water in the formula at each stop increases gurgling and spillage.

Of course, you and your wife will have to put all your wardrobe in one small satchel because the rest of the available space in the car will be taken up with infant wardrobe, portable cribs, sterilizers, and other Spockian necessities.

Baby sitters are available thru Chambers of Commerce, college placement offices, and hospitals where there are bevies of student nurses waiting to commit pediatrics. Credentials are usually good.

Other sources are relatives and light-valued friends whom you will probably never see again. For older children, a country jail seems ideal, but sheriffs who have had more than one term have been subjected to this already and will not perform the service unless you happen to be a constituent.

And now, bidding farewell to infants, we encounter the Mount Everest of all challenges to traveling with children, those from two to four.

Generally weighing about as much as an active and mature wildcat, the two-four group is squirmy, obdurate, loud, easily bored (about the maximum attention span of this group is nine seconds), expert in questions and statements causing maximum embarrassment, and indefatigable

Through some curious metamorphosis they become sticky early in the day, and once total adhesion is reached, accumulate grime in layers to the point a competent archeologist could burrow through and give a reasonably detailed account of where you've been.

Since the inner ear of these lovable tykes is yet imperfectly formed, they are easy prey to carsickness, and herein lies your hope.

Before you pack your car, visit your family physician for a motion - sickness prescription. Most delightful of the side effects is that of narcotizing the two-four group and at least you can drive in relative peace as the child lies in a drugged slumber.

After one or two such trips, you become to family vacations as Erwin Rommel was to desert warfare, and can make advance reservations for baby-sitters, thus depositing the child while he is still groggy.

Taking two-to-four into any public facility is a risk. In restaurants he professes complete disinterest in food until passing the mint rack by the cashier's stand. In museums two-to-four has a penetrating voice that carries through at least three galleries.

That voice always says, "Tired and wanna popsicle." Or, "I gotta got to potty NOW!" Or, "Daddy, look at the funny man."

I've learned "that funny man" is always the size of Sonny Liston, and is always quite sensitive about his appearance.

The intermediate group of boys of four to 13 and girls of four to seven. Boys over 13 are on the lookout for girls, and girls over seven are looking for boys so they can pretend to ignore them.

The intermediate group is not without its pitfalls. For one, most can read.

You must be adament and ruthless as a Farragut to get past a hamburger stand.

They also select various attractions unerringly. The most common type of a ride is one that costs $2.59 and lasts 14 seconds. It provides such a fillip to the equilibrium that the intermediate child needs at least three rides to attain a vertiginous safety.

Some small amusements inside the car are necessities. These may be small toy cars that a sticky hand runs across Daddy's neck when Daddy is trying to pass a semi-truck loaded with nitrogycerin on a hairpin curve.

Anytime you encounter anything educational you will find all children in the intermediate group with their heads buried in comic books, following the exploits of the Blue Beetle or the Phantom or whoever it is in comic books at this late age.

Camping with children is fun. You are quick to discover that the major flora of "Fun Country" as the travel ads have it is poison ivy, stinging nettles, sand burrs, poisonous sumac, and witch's fungi. Your children of any age will take your longhaired dog to it immediately and unerringly and will wallow in it, until you need to get a doctor and a cream can full of calamine lotion for the children and a barber to shave the dog. If you have a short-haired dog, they will find either a porcupine or a skunk for him.

If you have a reasonably tractable mother-in-law, it's suggested you install her in your house to preside over the children until you and your good wife return. The children will be spoiled thoroughly by the time you return, but you'll be sufficiently rested to cope with them.

A Double Standard

Sen. Walter Mondale's current "Report to Minnesota" is quite a political publication piece, designed to encourage support for the Civil Rights legislation being pushed by the administration. We would like to discuss some of his statements and offer some of our own views which are contrary to his.

"One hundred years ago this month the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution started making the rounds of the states for ratification," he writes. "As you know, the Fourteenth Amendment, among other things, guarantees to all citizens the equal protection of the laws."

"Unfortunately, some of our Southern states use a double standard in applying this provision of the Constitution. For them, the law means one thing where most white Southerners are concerned, but offers little or no protection when Negroes or civil rights workers are involved."

He goes on to mention the shotgun shooting of James Meredith on June 6 while leading a march in Mississippi.

"The man who shot Meredith has been arrested and is awaiting trial," Sen. Mondale states. "While we won't attempt to predict the outcome of the legal proceedings against him, the record of Southern state juries in acquitting whites accused of violence against Negroes and civil rights workers raised the question of whether a Mississippi state court will or can consider the assault on Mr. Meredith without regard to color."

Sen. Mondale claims the shooting "demonstrates a conclusive need for the civil rights legislation now pending before the Senate judiciary committee". And then he adds the following:

"Title V of that bill would make it a federal crime to injure or kill a person on account of his race in exercising his constitutional rights. It would also make the killing or injuring of civil rights workers a federal crime.

"While there doubtless exists legislation on the books of the Southern states to punish violence, the pattern of law enforcement in this area does not impress us with its virtue and vigor. And since it is evident that these states are unwilling or unable to do what simple justice demands, they leave no alternative but for the federal government to remedy the delinquency of the states."

We are surprised by the senator's choice of words. For an attorney and a former attorney general in Minnesota, he shows a fair amount of disregard for the legal fundamentals he is supposed to champion. Not only does he say "the man who shot Meredith" instead of "the man ACCUSED of shooting Meredith," he also attempts to influence the jury by intimating that they don't have the courage to find the defendant guilty.

Ridiculous, you say? Perhaps, but this is what the legal profession — from the supreme court on down — is telling the American press today. Signed confessions notwithstanding, the legal eagles claim that men are "innocent until proved guilty" and that newspaper articles influence juries to the extent that the defendant can not get a fair trial. Mondale's comments violate both of these contentions and, we repeat, he is a former attorney general.

As to a federal law covering inter-racial acts of violence, the trend in federal intervention in state affairs holds more danger to the nation than lax enforcement of local laws. The fault does not lie in state laws, but rather in the failure of the legal profession to use these laws as they were intended. It is neither right nor necessary to pass new laws because state laws are not being used; it is much more proper to put existing laws into use.

A big election year furor is being created because one man resorted to violence in objection to one other man's attempts to flaunt his rights. Where was this line of thought months ago when the Watts area riots caused injury, deaths and property damage of a huge amount in Los Angeles? Is there no hint of a double standard here, Senator?

Would a federal law be applied only to the Southern states where "simple justice" is being ignored, senator? Or would it also take from all states the right to handle within their own courts the violations of the law in those states? A federal edict will cover all of the 50 states, will it not, ignoring the good job that perhaps three - fourths of the states have done in order to pacify the minority voting blocs in the other one-fourth. We believe you are promoting a double standard, senator, not really trying to eliminate one.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"The ancient Greeks had the right idea in Locri. Any legislator who wished to propose a law had to appear in public with a hangman's noose around his neck. If his measure was vetoed, he was strangled to death. No new laws were introduced there for 200 years. If present officials would like to revive this idea, I will furnish the rope." (From a letter returned to Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin after his question of his constituents, "What do you think is the most urgently needed law?"

"Why don't you get a job?"
"Why?"
"You could save some money and put it in the bank."

CALL FOR BIDS FOR NUMBER 2 FUEL OIL

Goodridge Public Schools
Goodridge, Minnesota

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN That the School Board of Independent School District number 561 of Pennington and Marshall counties will meet in the art room of The Goodridge Public School, Goodridge, Minnesota on Friday, July 8th, 1966 at 8:00 P.M. for the purpose of receiving bids on the furnishing of Number 2 fuel oil in transport load lots of not less than 5,000 gallons to the oil tanks of the school located at Goodridge, Minnesota during the 1966-67 heating season.

Transport must be able to use 75 ft. hose if necessary. Loads may be split between 7,000 and 8,000 gallon tanks at different locations.

Bids will show the cost per gallon, include all costs as delivered, and be firm for the heating season. Bids may show variation in price for loads varying from 5,000 to 7,000 gallons.

It is estimated that the school will require not more than 75,000 gallons during the season.

Each bid must be accompanied by a good faith certified or cashier's check for $50.00. The successful bidder must furnish a surety bond for $1,000 to insure faithful performance of his offer.

The school board reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to waive any informality in any bid.

All bids should be addressed to the Superintendent of Schools of Independent school district number 561 at Goodridge, Minnesota.

Legion Jr. Team Beats Argyle 6-2

The local junior American Legion baseball team had to play "catch up" baseball to defeat the Argyle juniors, 6-2, in a Northwest American Legion conference game played on the fairgrounds diamond Friday evening.

Coach Lee Swanson's juniors will play the Middle River juniors here on Tuesday evening, July 5, at 7:30 p.m. The Middle River club scored a 6-2 win over the locals in a game played at Middle River last week. On Thursday, July 7, the locals will play at East Grand Forks, meeting the East Grand Forks juniors at 5:30 p.m. and the Grand Forks juniors at 7:30 p.m. (CST).

Argyle, in Tuesday evening's game here, picked up two runs in the first inning, combining a walk, a stolen base, a hit batsmen, a pair of wild pitches and a single by Paul Larson to tally the two runs.

The locals gained a run in the third on doubles by Wayne Liden and Larry Peterson. And the game was knotted in the fifth on a walk to Liden, a stolen base, a throwing error and sacrifice fly by Rocky Wilson. And in the sixth, with Karl Poppenhagen opening with a double and Cummings and Jon Looker following with singles, a sacrifice fly by Dale Erickson, a triple by Liden and a wild pitch combined to rack up four runs.

Cummings pitched shutout ball from the first inning on, and collected 14 strikeouts, and on offense Tommy had three hits in three trips to the plate.

The second round of competition will begin on Wednesday evening, July 6.

In Wednesday evening's shooting the Jensen's had four "25's" with Vern Cyr scoring a 23-6, Elmer Hanson an 17-8, Steve Johnson a 22-4, and Ken Moum a 20-6. Pat Fischer had a 23-0. The losing Union State Bank squad had three "25's" in Fred Sorensen, who had a 23-1, John Moum, who scored a 19-7, and Arnold Narverud, who posted a 20-7. Arnie Johnson had a 16-6 and Walt Fischer had an 18-2.

The Wilson Bros., team kept in contention for the league title by scoring a 123 to 120 win over the Times. For the winners Si Schantzen had a 23-3, Al Tonder a 22-3, Orv Feragen an 18-7, and Merv Skadsem a 23-5. Stan Wilson had a 23-0. For the defending champion Times squad George Mostue, with a 20-7, and Lewie Helfner, with 21-5, had "25's". Bob Mattson scored a 21-2, Leif Erickson had 18-5, and Marv Landin came in with an 18-6.

The Mostue's Floral eked out a one-bird win over the L. B. Hartz squad, winning by a 101 to 100 score. For the florists, Myrt Wilson had an 18-4, Carol Stenseth scored a 16-10, Yvonne Hedlund shot a 5-10, Pat Ball had a 7-10, and Joanie Wilson had a 15-7. For the Hartz, who were short-handed in the match, Carl Carlson had a 21-6, Curt Bottem scored an 18-6, Rich Jorde had a 9-8 and Dick Hoglo marked up an 11-8.

The Ekeren Pharmacy tallied the evening's high team total, a 124, as they defeated the Coast-to-Coast. Sandy Wilson had a 24-0, while Ray Thyren had a 21-4, Floyd Ball a 22-3, Stub Pahlen an 18-8 and George Schlieff a 22-6. The Coast-to-Coast had three "25's". Roube Carlson had a 23-2, Don Kamrowski had a 24-3, and Stan Ranum a 22-8. Don Omdahl scored a 15-6, and Jim Huseth had a 12-8.

BOOM! The above photo shows that nitrogen fertilizer, when properly applied, has an explosive effect on rich Pennington county soil. This underground blast was detonated Wednesday afternoon in a ditch on the Art Forsberg farm in Smiley township. James Richards of the Richard Bros. Blasting firm of Minneapolis planted three 40-pound cylinders of ammonium nitrate mixed with fuel oil and a ferrous (iron) compound four feet deep and several feet apart. He then lit a fuse timed at approximately 38 minutes, which was connected to a length of Prima-cord, which in turn detonated the explosive. The average result of such a blast is a hole measuring approximately 45 feet long, 20 feet wide and seven feet deep, but this hole fell short of these dimensions due to hardness of the clay soil. Since only a hand auger was available, no more charges were set at this location, but Richards later traveled to the Alvin Hyland farm near Goodridge, where the soil is easier to excavate, and blasted four such holes. The holes are blasted in low, wet areas to creat potholes for waterfowl nesting. The method was initially tried last year in Becker county, and this year 40 farms in the state have ordered blasting of potholes.

The city golf league standings, as a result of Wednesday evening's play, finds the Bridgeman's and Froseth's Market sharing first place with 586 strokes, and the Standard Oil is but one stroke behind the leaders, having an aggregate of 587.

The Froseth's Market carded a fine 141 - stroke total to move from fourth place into a share of first place. The Bridgeman's, who had held a five - stroke lead last week, scored a 153-stroke total.

The evening's low net team total was scored by the Hamm's Beer No. 1 team of Wally DuChamp, Morris Nystrom, Emil Larson, and Phil Beving, with the foursome scoring a 139. DuChamp had a gross 41 and a net 36; Nystrom had a gross 41 and net 28 (that net 28 was the evening's low net); Larson had a gross 45 and net 38; and Beving had a gross 46 and net 37.

Low gross individual cards were turned in by John Moum, Mark Steen and Ron Olson, with each golfer posting a one-over-par 37.

It Will Be the Pitching

The 37th annual major league All-Star game will be played next week (there wasn't any game in 1945, and in 1961 the game was called because of rain), and, as has been the case in the last dozen years, the National leaguers will be favored.

The series at present finds the Nationals with 18 wins, and the Americans with 17 victories. But since 1950, with the increase in Negro ball players in the National league, the Nationals hold a decided edge, having won 14 games and lost but five.

The Nationals have won the last three games, and with the pitching they have available they should be top-heavy favorites this season. Consider the pitching that the Nationals will have on tap: Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles; Juan Marichal of San Francisco; Bob Gibson of St. Louis; Jim Bunning of Philadelphia; Bob Veale of Pittsburg; and Jim Maloney of Cincinnati. These hurlers are all strikeout pitchers.

The American league's best, Sam McDowell, is laboring to recover from a sore arm but he may able to go a three-inning stint. And then the Americans can call on Steve Barber of Baltimore, Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees, and Pete Richert of Washington. But even at their best, these American league hurlers do not compare with the pitchers in the National, and in a single game, pitching is about 60 or 70 per cent of the game.

And don't you think that the National league outfield of Willie Mays of the Giants, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves and Roberto Clemente of the Pirates will outplay and outhit Tony Oliva of the Twins, Frank Robinson of the Orioles and Al Kaline of the Tigers?

A Hectic Sunday

If you don't believe that tournament softball can be a hectic sport all you need do is ask Don Engelstad, the veteran first baseman of the Vets. He was fortunate to last out the tourney and play in the championship finals against the Woodward's of Grand Forks.

In a nip - and - tuck game against the Bridgeman's, Don made a fine catch of a pop foul, but he tumbled backward and banged his head against the ground. For a moment he was stunned, but he recovered and finished out the game. Then a short while later he tripped over second base, ripped his trousers and nearly gave himself a spiking. And this was followed by a hard slide into third base that gave Don a "strawberry".

And in making an unassisted putout at first base, Don made an extra long stride and nearly pulled a hamstring muscle. And to top off the day, in an at bat against Woodward's, Don foul - tipped one of Ray Gordon's fast pitches and the ball caromed off the bat and hit Don in the face. He was ready to call it a day!

Softball League Averages

And here is a continued rundown of the city softball batting averages: Jeff Vacura of Hertz, 7 for 14, is at .500; Dennis Bakke of the Hartz, with 4 for 9, is at .444; Lowell Halvorson of the Hartz, 5 for 14, is batting at .358; Ron Euland of Schmidt's has 4 for 12 for a .333; Ike Ellingson of Schmidt's has 5 hits in 15 tries for .333; and Lloyd Noreen of the Schmidt's had 4 for 13 for .308.

It's too bad that the Vets vs. Schmidt's Beer game slated for Monday evening, July 4, was postponed. This game, with both teams boasting four wins and no losses marks, would have produced plenty of fireworks. The game will be played perhaps later in the week, perhaps on Thursday evening if that date is agreeable to the player personnel of the two teams. It is one of the season's "must see" games.

And did you note that Erv. Melvie's Hamm's Beer team gave the Vets quite a tussle on Wednesday evening before losing by a 3-0 score? Melvie has added considerable strength to his Hamm's squad by signing up several players from Red Lake Falls. And you can wager that Erv and his Hamm's team will be pointing for their game against Bob Carlson and the Bridgeman's on Monday, July 25.

Minnesota ranks first in production of non-fat dry milk powder.

Wednesday, July 6.
Bridgeman's vs. Hartz Stores.
Thursday, July 7 (tentative).
Schmidt's Beer vs. V. F. W.

Competition in the city softball league, like the weather the past week, has become hot and humid. And the two teams that are sharing the top rung in the league standings as the first round of play comes to a conclusion, the Vets and the Schmidt's Beer, are slated to meet this week.

The game was originally scheduled for Monday evening, July 4, but because of the holiday the game was postponed. If arrangements can be made the game could be played on Thursday evening, and if the fairgrounds diamond is not available (the girl's softball league utilizes the field on that date) the East Side diamond could be used. The two squads boast records of four wins and no losses, and the game should be a toss-up.

In last week's feature game, that between the Schmidt's Beer and the Bridgeman's, the Schmidt's, behind the shutout pitching of Kerm Malberg, scored a 4-0 win. The game marked the second shutout in four games for Malberg.

And on Wednesday evening the Vets defeated an improved Hamm's Beer team, 3-0. And this game, too, marked the second shutout in four starts for the righthander Harlie Drees of the Vets.

On Tuesday evening, Lowell Halvorson's Hartz Stroes team defeated the Bea's Food Market team, 8-4, but it was not until the late innings that the Hartz squad was able to build up a lead and gain control of the game.

Announce Little League Schedule For This Week

Coach George Schlieff of the Thief River Falls Little League baseball program today announced the following schedule for the coming week;

In the Little American League four games will be played Tuesday, July 5. At 1 p. m. the White Sox will oppose the Tigers and at 3 p. m. the Red Sox will play the orioles. Both games are at the fairgrounds. At the east side diamond it will be the Indians vs. the Twins at 6 p. m. and the Yankees vs. the Angels at 7:30 p. m. The twins will oppose the White Sox at 1 p. m. Friday, July 8, at the fairgrounds.

In the Little National League, two games will be played Wednesday, July 6, and two more on Thursday. At 1 p. m. Wednesday at te fairgrounds the Dodgers will be matched against the Cubs and at 3 p. m. the Astros will oppose the Mets. On Thursday at the East side diamond it will be the Giants vs. the Red Legs at 1 p. m. and the Cardinals vs. the Pirates at 3 p. m.

Friendship Garden Is Dedicated on Sunday

Symbolizing continuing and expanding friendship, and understanding between two North American Nations, flags of Canada and the United States were raised in unison at dedication ceremonies of Friendship Garden at Thief River Falls, Sunday. Sponsor of the project, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793, presented the site to Mayor Orin Green during the ceremony.

Accepting a scroll inscribed with the poem, "Friendship Garden," from post member and author of the poem, Harpo Dexter, Mayor Green said, "From this day on the flags of our two nations shall fly side by side at this site and this area of our park shall be reserved for the use of our nieghbors to the north as a symbol of our great desire for the continuation of an international relationship envied by many and matched by none."

The idea for Friendship Garden, with companion flagpoles for the colors of two nieghborly nations, was suggested by Orville Ellingson of Thief River Falls. Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793 took over the project and following two years of work and considerable expenditure, presented the site to the city as a part of the city park, at the international ceremony Sunday.

Introduced by master of ceremonies Roy A. Jorgenson and speaking in behalf of the Canadian government, guest speaker Bud Sherman, member of Parliament, said, "It is only right that this dedication should fall during the week of our two nations' great holidays, between your Fourth of July and our July First, both of which are revered in our respective countries as days of national pride.

"It is only fitting that the Maple Leaf of Canada and Old Glory of the United States should fly together here, symbolizing the rare and wonderful relationship of two great nations living in peace and friendship with no barrier of stone or machines of war separating the two."

Following Sherman and representing the State of Minnesota, Lt. Governor A. M. Keith thanked Ellingson and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post for their effort toward increasing friendship between the people of two great nations.

"Our two nations are the envy of all others because we have learned to live together on one continent, respecting each other and working together to maintain this relationship," Keith said. "This site, Friendship Garden is certainly a great contribution toward the continuance and expansion of this rare and wonderful social achievement."

Introduced during the dedication were: Mike Popovitch, president, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans of Canada; Robert Pierce, commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Department of Minnesota; and Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Werpy, Ada. Mrs. Werpy is president of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, Department of Minnesota.

During the ceremony Canadian colors were advanced by Ft. Garry No. 60, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada. Unit President Roland Anderson presented the Canadian flag. Acceptance was made by Farrell Harris, past commander of VFW Post 2793. Blessing of Canadian and American ceremonial flags was given by Past Chaplain Myrle Carlson.

Laborers Killed In Shooting at Argyle Monday

Two itinerant farm workers were killed, and two others wounded in a shooting incident between 11:30 and 12 p.m. Monday on the main street in Argyle. The shooting was investigated by the Marshall county sheriff's department.

Killed when struck by bullets from a .22 caliber rifle were Tommy Trevino, about 17, and Angelo Trevino, about 16. Injured were George Ramono, 18, who was transferred to a Grand Forks hospital for treatment, and Greg Treino, 22, who is being treated at Warren hospital for a leg wound.

Marshall county authorities denied comment on whether or not apprehension of any suspects had been made in the shooting.

Cooler Weather Brings Storms to State on Fourth

The long Fourth of July weekend brought relief from the oppressive heat of last week, but the sudden influx of cooler air brought about some violent weather. West central Minnesota, particularly the Detroit Lakes area, was pounded by softball-size hail late Monday, and severe thunderstorms with strong winds also occurred. Tornado funnel clouds were sighted in several areas, but none apparently caused damage.

High winds hampered fishing on Lake of the Woods throughout the weekend, and a thunderstorm on the lake which occurred Monday afternoon drove most of the fisherman to shelter. In the course of the weekend, Thief River Falls received a total of 1.43 inches of rain.

Pleasant summer weather, has displaced the storms in this area. Forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and cooler today through tomorrow. Highs today will range from 68 to 76; lows tonight from 50 to 60.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded by North Central Airlines at the airport are as follows: 86, 65 and a trace on Saturday; 85, 64 and .84 inch on Sunday; 78, 63 and .59 inch on Monday; 70 and 47 on Tuesday; and a low this morning of 57.

Dean Torgerson, 3 Killed In Farm Accident Sunday

Dean Lindsey Torgerson, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Torgerson of Adger township Marshall county, died Sunday as a result of an accident on the farm. He was playing when a tractor tire and rim fell on him, cruching his chest.

Funeral services for Dean Torgerson will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Silver Creek Lutheran church. Rev. Kenneth Kramer will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home until 11 a. m. Thursday and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will follow.

Skaar Attends Progress Meet on Tech Institute

Minnesota's House Appropriations subcommittee on education met June 28 in Crookston. Purpose of the meeting was to discuss progress of the new University of Minnesota technical institute.

Committee members present included: Rodney N. Searle, chairman, Waseca; Mrs. Connie Burchett, Coon Rapids; Andrew Skaar, Thief River Falls; Casper W. Fisher, Marshall; Lyle Farmer, St. Paul; Dwight Swanstrom, Duluth; Carl Iverson, Ashby; and Walter Klaus, Farmington.

Legislative officials, in addition to the committee, who took part in the session were Rep. Richard Fitzsimmons, chairman of the House Appropriations committee; Rep. Harvey Wilder; and Sen. Harveydale Maruska.

At the committee session held at the Technical Institute Hill building, presentations were given by University Vice President Stanley Wenberg and Technical Institute Director Stanley D. Sahlstrom. They stated how the monies that were appropriated are being used and also presented materials to project the future developments and future costs of the institute.

Other University officials present at the hearing were: Dr. William F. Hueg, acting director of the U of M agricultural experiment station, and Ralph Miller of the University college of agriculture office in St. Paul.

Dr. Sahlstrom reported on the developments to date on staffing of the institute, on academic and student affairs and on the status of buildings being remodeled. He also led a discussion on possible future activity in nursing and home economics in the curriculum.

It was announced that to date there are 197 students who have made application for admission to the technical institute which opens September 26. Forty-five counties in Minnesota are represented by the enrollment and two counties in North Dakota. A total of 175 boys and 22 girls comprise the overall figure of 197. Enrollment preferences find approximately one-half in agriculture and one-half in business.

Change Made in Junior College Administration

NEW DEAN at the Thief River Falls Junior college is Victor Charles, who has served for the past two years as dean of Sheldon Jackson junior college at Sitka, Alaska. After a trip back to Alaska to transact necessary business, he will assume full-time work here about July 22.

White Resigns; Victor Charles Appointed Dean

Change in the administration of the fledgling Thief River Falls junior college will take place this month following the resignation of Dean Charles White. Dean White, at the invitation of the state junior college board, has accepted a position with the new junior college at Anoka.

Named as dean of the college at Thief River Falls was Victor Charles, who will move to this city from Sitka, Alaska, where he has been dean of Sheldon Jackson junior college the past two years. Dean Charles is currently in the city and, after returning to Alaska to transact necessary business there, expects to assume the full authority of his office July 22.

In announcing his resignation, Dean White noted that his decision to leave Thief River Falls was made after a great deal of deliberation. As assistant dean at Anoka, he will be in charge of admissions and serve as registrar. The school there expects an enrollment of 1,200 this fall in its second year of operation and is in need of experienced administrative assistance.

"Since I will be able to continue more conveniently my work on a doctorate at the University of Minnesota, and since we were able to secure an immediate replacement in my position here, I made the decision to accept the Anoka offer," Dean White said.

Dean Charles was born in Illinois, graduated from high school at Clinton, Ia., and received his BA degree at the University of Iowa. He holds an MA degree from Colorado State college and has doctoral at the University of Colorado. He also has taken post-graduate work at Stanford University and the University of Alaska, and attended junior college workshops at Moorhead state college.

His family includes his wife, a son David who will be a college sophomore next fall, and a married daughter who lives in Crystal.

Dean White, who guided the junior college here through its first year and who will leave Thief River Falls this month, will begin duties in his new position about August 15.

Windows Broken By Gunfire at Fourtown Chapel

An act of vandalism at the Fourtown Mission chapel east of Grygla was reported today by Kermit E. Skoglund, missionary, American Sunday School union. On Sunday, June 26, it was discovered that a number of .22 bullets had been fired through some large windows on the east side of the chapel. It is believed that the shots were fired from a moving vehicle.

Worship services and Sunday school sessions are conducted at the chapel each Sunday, and the chapel was recently the location of a vacation Bible school session.

Annual ARC Picnic Set July 17 at O. Johnson Farm

Annual picnic of the Pennington-Red Lake Association for Retarded Children will be held at the Oscar W. Johnson farm Sunday, July 17, at 2 p.m. The farm is located 1¾ miles east and ¾ mile south of Thief River Falls. The road will be marked.

Ray Doyle, state president of the ARC, will be a guest. The day activity center will present a program. Games will be played and a pot luck lunch served. The public is invited.

Marlene Torkelson Weds Clarence Dau on June 11

Miss Marlene Torkelson of this city and Clarence A. Dau of Warren exchanged marriage vows Saturday, June 11, at 7:30 p.m., at the Mission Covenant church in this city. Rev. John Lind, assisted by Rev. Harry Dau of Pilot Mound, Iowa, uncle of the groom, officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by 250 relatives and friends.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Sylvin Torkelson of this city and the groom is the son of Mrs. Venus Dau of Viking.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Alvin Dahlstrom, organist, provided a program of nuptial music. For the processional she played "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven". She also accompanied Homer Kendrick, uncle of the groom, as he sang, "Song of Ruth", "Wedding Prayer" and "Crown With Thy Benediction".

Spiral candelabra and large sprays of emerald foliage formed the chancel background for the wedding party. Matching foliage and candelabra marked the pews.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her brother, Allen Torkelson. She was attired in a floor-length gown of Schiffli embroidered organza featuring a controlled bell designed skirt ending in a circular train. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a scooped neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her pill box headpiece, enhanced with seed pearls in front and featuring a satin bow with dainty matching streamers in back, secured her veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade arrangement of red roses.

Mrs. Allen Torkelson of this city, sister-in-law of the bride, attended as matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Norman Lindahl of Little Fork, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Phil Peterson of Chicago, Ill., friend of the bride.

They wore delicate pink floor-length gowns in empire fashion, topped with matching lace jackets. Their pale pink headpieces featured shoulder streamers ending with dainty bows. Each carried a single long-stemmed red rose.

Serving as flower girl was Denise Olson of Newfolden, niece of the groom. Her attire was similar to that of the other attendants. Scot Torkelson of this city, a nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

The groom was attended by his brother, Vernon Dau of Warren. Groomsmen were James Johnson of Warren and Denneth Dau of Viking, brother of the groom. Ushers were friends of the couple, James Erickson of Champlin and Robert Elseth of Warren. The men of the wedding party wore black tuxedos and boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Torkelson wore a pale blue Shantung dress styled with al lace overskirt and jacket. White accessories completed her attire. The mother of the groom was attired in a green and brown floral print jersey dress with beige accessories. Both mothers wore identical corsages of yellow tea roses. Attending as honor guest was Mrs. Pearl Hinman of Wadena, grandmother of the bride.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Erickson as host and hostess. Centering the serving table was a square fourtiered wedding cake topped with a Christogram and a miniature bride and groom. Decorating the cake was a cascade of pink and white roses with ribbons decending to heart shaped cakes.

Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Oscar Terrin of Roseau and Mrs. Bothe Hinman of Wadena, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. A. V. Brodin of Thief River Falls, aunt of the groom. Mrs. Verner Anderson of Roseau and Mrs. Donald Thyren of Thief River Falls, friends of the bride, poured. Miss Ruth Conklin of Minneapolis registered the guests; Mrs. Earl Nord of Hawley and Mrs. Ronald Laycock of Glenwook, cousin of the bride, ladled the punch while Mrs. Frank Smart of Detroit Lakes and Mrs. DuWayne Olson of Holt, sisters of the groom, and Mrs. James Erickson of Anoka, presided at the gift table. Waitresses were Ruth Brodin, Claudia Melvie, Carol Brodin, Jewell Thyren, Karen Anderson and Mary Jane Anderson.

Out-of-town guests attending were from Texas, Kentucky, Iowa, Illinois, Warren, Roseau, Badger, Wadena, Gary, Glenwood, Minneapolis and Viking.

For travel on the wedding trip to Bemidji and northern Minnesota, the bride wore a white three piece ensemble trimmed with aqua.

Following the wedding rehearsal, the wedding party and several close relatives were guests at a luncheon served by Mr. and Mrs. Brodin at their home.

The newly-weds are at home at 835 North Minnesota Street at Warren where the groom is employed by Amundgaard Implement. The bride, a fromer employee of the Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., fluid milk and ice cream division, in this city, will be employed at the State Bank of Warren.

Foster-Anderson Vows Spoken At Orlando, Fla.

First Baptist church of Orlando, Fla. was the scene of the wedding of Miss Jeanne Francine Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. Foster of Orlando, Fla., and Roger James Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Anderson of 220 St. Paul Avenue North, in this city. Officiating at the 11 a.m. ceremony held Saturday, June 2g, was the Rev. Paul Thomas, pastor of the congregation.

Ed Irey was organist and played a tradtional program of nuptial selections as the guests were ushered to their seats. Preceding the wedding march, he chimed the hour of eleven.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line street length gown of white Alencon lace lined with satin. The gown featured a fitted bodice with a scooped neckline and long sleeves. An organza flower on a headpiece of tulle leaves secured her shoulder length veil of silk illusion and she carried a white Bible, her bridal shower gift from her Sunday School teacher. Topping the Bible was an arrangement of yellow sweetheart roses accented my matching roses secured to the ends of long satin streamers. To complement her attire, she wore yellow heels.

Mrs. Betty Ann Wright of Orlando, Fla., was chosen by the bride as her only attendant. She wore an aqua paisley-print two-piece dress accented by pale blue accessories Her corsage was an arrangement of white carnations.

John A. Morales of McCoy Air Force base at Orlando, Fla., was best man. The groom, best man and a friend of the groom from the air force base who served as usher, were dressed in the U. S. Air Force uniforms.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Foster wore a pink dress with a matching jacket enhanced with embroidered sleeves. To complete her attire she wore a white straw hat with a high crown, white shoes and gloves and carried a white purse. The mother of the groom was attired in a powder blue ribbed jersey dress. A matching floral hat and coordinating accessories completed her ensemble. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages as did Miss Terry Foley who served the bride as her personal attendant.

The tiered wedding cake, trimmed in ribbon design, was accented with yellow roses and topped with a minature bride and groom. The knife used for cutting the cake was a wedding gift from the groom's two sisters, Sheila and Lunne Anderson. Decorating the knife and secured by a white ribbon bow was a cluster of three nylon net and organdy roses, made by the mother of the groom.

Among the guests in attendance were the bride's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey W. H Morris of Atlanta, Ga.; the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Warren E. Elder, also of Atlanta and the groom's sisters, Sheila and Lynne Anderson of Thief River Falls.

The wedding trip was spent touring the Smokey mountains.

The bride is a graduate of the Brier Cliff high school at Atlanta, Ga., and is employed as an IBM Data Processing clerk for Orange county. The groom is a graduate of Lincoln high school and is a communications electronic specialist in the U. S. Air Force stationed at Orlando, Fla. He will be leaving this month for a tour of duty at Yakota Air Force base in Japan. His bride will follow. Photo — Millard Smith, Orlando.

Emil Boyums Of Grygla Feted On Their Anniversary

In observance of their 25th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Boyum of Grygla were honored at an open house celebration held Saturday afternoon and evening, June 18, at their home. Approximately 100 relatives and friends called to extend congratulations and best wishes. Mrs. Allard Morken served as hostess. She was assisted by Mrs. Vivian Boyum of Ray, Mrs. Johnny Lillevold, Mrs. Manley Anderson, Mrs. Torrance Lillevold and Mrs. Douglas Miller, all of Grygla.

For the event, Mrs. Boyum wore a shoulder corsage of white carnations and red rosebuds, a gift from Miss Marilyn Morken. The Ritch family of Hawthorne, Calif., provided the carnation boutonnaires worn by Mr. Boyum and Sam Brattall, his attendant 25 years ago, and the corsage of pink and white carnations worn by Miss Lu Ann Lillevold, who was at the guest book in the absence of Mrs. Caroline Ritch of Hawthorne, Calif. The floral arrangement of white mums accented by red carnations that graced the guest book table was also a gift from the Ritch family.

The serving table was centered with a four-tiered anniversary cake topped by a 25th anniversary emblem. The cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Melvin Walberg, was a gift from the Allard Morken family of Grygla and the Ritch family of California.

The silver service used for pouring was a gift from the Boyum families of Ray and International Falls.

Those coming from a distance were Mrs. Lloyd Boyum, Earl, Susan and Patty and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Boyum and family of Ray; Clarence Boyum, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Boyum, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Boyum and son and David Harris, all of International Falls, and Mrs. Ben Johnson of Badger; Also Mr. and Mrs. Morris G. Thompson and girls and Mr. and Mrs. Juel Wold of Green Bay, Wis.; Marilyn Morken of Albert Lea; Elaine, Janice and Mary Joy Anderson, Richard Miller, Mrs. Wendell Bruteng, Diane Hackett and Duane Lillevold, all of Minneapolis, and Roger Anderson of Moorhead.

Miss Kathy Ose left Crosby Sunday noon for Minneapolis where she joined the Gospel Crusaders as pianist. The group will travel for a month giving programs, speaking and singing in various churches and at Bible camps in Minnesoat, Iowa and Missouri.

Judy Larson in Teaching Program At Northwestern

Judy Larson

Miss Judy Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Larson of Thief River Falls, is among 75 college honor graduates from throughout the nation who have been selected to participate in the Master of Arts teaching program at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. for the 1966-67 academic year.

Miss Larson is a 1962 graduate of Lincoln high school and graduated June 5 from the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks. She will spend eight weeks this summer on the Evanston campus as the first phase of her graduate studies in education.

In the fall she will assume her internship teaching duties at South high school in Park Ridge, Ill., teaching in two classes in history and one in geography. In addition, she will carry two courses each quarter at the university toward completion of her master's degree in education.

At the conclusion of the 1966-67 academic year, she will return to Northwestern for six weeks of study to complete her master's degree program.

The program is sponsored jointly by the Ford foundation, participating secondary schools and Northwestern University.

Senator Sinclair Will Seek Sixth Term in Senate

Senator Donald Sinclair of Stephen has announced his filing for a sixth term as state senator representing the 67th legislative district now consisting of Kittson, Marshall, Pennington and Roseau counties.

In his filing statement, Sinclair states that he knows his twenty years seniority and experience will be of particular value to northwestern Minnesota since the recent federal court ordered reapportionment of the legislature, thereby increasing metropolitan area representation.

Senator Sinclair is presently serving as President Pro Tempore of the senate and is chairman of the committee on agriculture. He is also second ranking member of the finance committee and serves on the committees on rules, education, highways, civil administration, public domain and elections and reapportionment.

He is a member of the Minnesota delegation to the National Council on State governments. During the interim he is chairman of the subcommittee studying the drainage, flood control and water laws of the state.

Sinclair is a lifelong resident of the Stephen community, where he owns and operates a farm. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and a U. S. S. Navy veteran.

Judy Spray Seeks Aquacade Crown

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

..(This is the first in a series of personal interview articles on candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the annual Jaycees Aquacade pageant Saturday, July 30. Stories on other candidates will be published in succeeding issues.)

When you ask Judy Spray to list her hobbies, you might as well have a chair—it takes a while for her to run through the list. Among the many are swimming, archery, bicycle riding, skating, rock (agates) collecting, stuffed animals, cooking, sewing, dancing, fishing, playing the piano, organ and violin, etc., etc., etc.....

Nineteen-year-old Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd Spray of Thief River Falls. She is five feet, five and one-half inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, has brown hair, hazel eyes and a 34-22-34 figure. Her talent number in the Miss Thief River Falls contest will be a vocal solo.

A 1965 graduate of Lincoln senior high school, Judy took an interest in a number of school activities. She has been in school orchestra and concert orchestra for four years. As an orchestra member, she participated in the production of high school operettas.

Her other school activities included pep club, Future Homemakers of America (where she held the office of secretary) and Future Teachers of America (where she served as vice president).

A student at the Thief River Falls junior college last year, she sang first soprano in the college choir, singing a lead role in the opera, "The Lowland Sea." In the college talent contest she sang a medley of songs from "West Side Story". Other college activities included work on the school's first prom committee.

Judy has an older sister, Mrs. Will (Vivian) Bartsch of Thief River Falls, and a half-sister, Mrs. Al Smith of Jacksonville, Fla.

At present she is serving as a receptionist in the army recruiting office in Thief River Falls. In the future she would like to attend the University of Minnesota for schooling as a court reporter or legal secretary.

Summer School Expense May Be Tax Deductible

Teachers' summer school expenses may be deductible on federal income tax returns, according to George O. Lethert, district director of internal revenue.

If the course or couses are undertaken to maintain or improve the skills required in the teacher's present employment, or to meet express requirements of the employer to retain current salary, status or employment, then such expenses are deductible, Lethert said.

If the education or training is undertaken to obtain a new position, a substantial advancement in the present position or to fulfill general educational or personal aspirations, the expenses would not be deductible. Travel as a form of education is generally considered personal in nature and expenses for such travel are not deductible. This includes travel while a teacher is on sabbatical leave where the travel was undertaken for its broadening cultural value.

Allowable educational expenses would include amounts spent for tuition, books, supplies laboratory fees and certain travel and transportation costs.

The cost of travel, meals and lodging while away from home overnight for qualified educational expenses may be allowable and claimed on the teacher's return, Lethert stated.

Pine Seedlings Sprayed to Aid Fungus Control

Pine seedlings in state tree nurseries are being sprayed with a fungicide to control a possible outbreak of a disease which may have already killed between four and five million Norway pine.

The Minnesota conservation department's forestry divisionsaid it is not certain whether the fungus suspected is actually the cause of the die-off but the seed beds are being sprayed now rather than wait until laboratory analysis finally establishes the cause.

Forestry officials said the symptoms of the fungus, called Scleroderris Canker resemble that caused by winter-kill. The disease is suspected in tree nurseries in Minnesota and adjoining states.

Tree seedlings are inspected annually by department of agriculture personnel to determine whether the stock to be shipped or transferred is free from insects and disease. This spring, when an unusual number of trees appeared to have suffered winter damage, it was decided to check for the fungus.

Spraying of a fungicide called Maneb is being done on a regularly scheduled basis while laboratory technicians attempt to isolate the fungus. Maneb is non-toxic to man, plants or animal life, forestry officials said.

Officials explained that spraying will result in considerable saving to the state if the treatment proves effective.

VFW Friendship Garden Dedicated Sunday Afternoon

VFW Post and American colors by a member of Canadian Veterans unit. The "Star Spangled Banner" and "O Canada" were played by the American Legion Municipal band. Salute to the colors was by a contingent of the Minnesota National Guard.

Dedication ceremonies of Friendship Garden were concluded with the Binyon Verse, memorial silence and a tribute to veterans of all wars, presented by Alex Cairns, president, International War Veterans alliance. Taps and echoes by the American Legion Municipal band followed by the skirl of the Canadian Pipers piping the "Lament." Benediction was asked by Rev. Leland Steen, pastor of Zion Lutheran church.

Dexter's poem is as follows:

Friendship Gardens"
Here lies a special spot of land,
Reserved for friendly flags to fly.
Where neighbors clasp a neighbor's hand
And friendship grows as time moves by.
No Iron Curtain splits our lands,
No wall of brick or mortared stone,
Our faith is in the proffered hand
Where friendship thrives on trust alone.
Here our two nation's flags shall fly,
Where friendly words of welcome ring.
Here our two flags shall grace the sky,
Proof of the friendship trust can bring.

Indian Wars Veterans Recall Experienecs

Ninety years have faded into history since 264 men led by General George Custer of the Seventh Cavalry took up their stand at Little Big Horn in southern Montana. That date — June 25, 1876 — the war department recorded one-fourth of the names of all those killed in action during the Indian skirmishes. A shocked nation learned that the Sioux under their Chiefs Gallant Crazy Horse had wiped out the entire contingent.

On this 90th anniversary of "Custer's Last Stand", the Veterans administration notes there are but six veterans of America's Indian Wars still living.

The six known survivors of the Indian wars are: Reginald A. Bradley 99, Oakland, Calif.; Harry E. Brockman, 92, Taneyville, Mo.; Fredrak W. Fraske, 94, Chicago, Ill.; Charles G. Jones, 93, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; William Sutphin, 93, South Boston, Va.; and Griffith C. Williams, 89, Coon Rapids.

These six known survivors of the Indian wars make up the smallest band of veterans in the nation and, of course, the oldest.

Congress, respecting the wishes of a grateful nation, has authorized the VA to send pension checks each month to these remaining half-dozen. The original force of Indian fighters numbered 106,000. Of these 1,000 died in service. The VA has 307 widows of veterans of the wars fought between 1860 and 1898 on its pension rolls.

There were other actions involving our troops and the Indians but the VA says the period in which today's survivors served began with an expedition against the Pah-Ute tribe in California in 1860 and ended, officially, with a Chippewa "disturbance" at Leech Lake, Minnesota in 1898. Other involvements were called "police" actions.

There may be a few more than the six Indian Wars veterans left, the VA concedes. Their names may be hidden in the rolls of Spanish-American War veterans.

The hair-raising yarns of ambushes, yelling Indians and all the rest that make up the history of the legendary West seldom come from the lips of this last half-dozen for they enlisted late in the days of the Indian Wars. They encountered no great chieftains like Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse and Geronimo.

The oldest of the known half-dozen at 99 is Reginald A. Bradley, Oakland, California, whose adventuresome life includes careers as a successful artist, buckaroo, homesteader, forest ranger and cattleman, as well as an old Indian fighter. He was a sergeant with Troop C, Fourth Cavalry. Born near London, educated at select schools and the son of a solicitor, he chafed at the confinement of the streets of London.

As he puts it, "I longed for the great outdoors. I was intensely fond of adventure, not in thickly populated places, but in the wilds." Bradley came to American when he was 20 to seek adventure and found it, he said, starting "in the wilds of New Mexico." "Got a job on a ranch owned by Carpenter and Stanley and was paid $15 a month. After a while joined the U. S. Cavalry, I heard of the Indian massacres and wanted to help punish the culprits."

At 99, former sergeant, now artist Bradley, is mentally alert and can even remember the rations issued the Indian fighters: 1¼ lbs. fresh meat, or ¾ lbs. salt meat a day; one pound flour per day; three lbs. coffee per month; three cans tomatoes per month; 22 lbs. potatoes per month; three lbs. sugar per month; four lbs. dry beans per month; salt and pepper; but NO milk, butter, eggs, fruit or other luxuries.

At 89, the youngest of the band, Griffith Williams, Minneapolis, has just been discharged from the Veterans administration hospital in Minneapolis and is now a resident of Parkriver Estates Nursing Home, Coon Rapids, under the VA's community nursing home program. Indian fighter Williams says he only fought in a "tame" war. He was in the National Guard when trouble with the Chippewa broke out. The regular army detachment at Ft. Snelling was badly depleted by the Spanish - American War, so Williams' group was called in. He describes the action.

"We were poorly equipped with arms left over from the Civil War; brass muzzle-loading cannon and sabres and single-shot Springfields, while the Indians had new Winchester repeaters. "However, as it turned out we just stood guard duty while the regulars took care of the Indians. Not much of a war."

William Sutphin, 93, of South Boston, Va., enlisted in the all-Negro 24th Infantry in Pittsburgh. And march he did, from Pittsburgh to Arizona, averaging 25 miles a day. Sutphin vividly remembers the patrols. One dark night, he recalls, he was engaged in a hand-to-hand tilt with several Indians. "I hit two or three on the head and the others ran away."

Harry E. Brockman, 92, of Taneyville, Mo., says he got so patriotic at a frontier dance that he joined up with the Cavalry at Christmas time in 1892 and was ordered to Ft. Grant, Arizona. In their idle hours the lads in his K Troop made sauerkraut by the barrel and sold it to settlers heading West in wagon trains.

Charles G. Jones, 93, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, recounts the relationship of man and his horse in those days when often a sound steed meant survival. Jones served three years in New Mexico. He doesn't remember much action, but his horse, named Sport he recalls as one would his dearest friend. With feeling, Jones recalls Sport nuzzling against him searching for the sugar the cavalryman alway carried in his picket. Jones learned to like horses so much in the cavalry that he became a blacksmith when he was mustered out, just so he could shoe them.

Fredrak W. Fraske, 94, Chicago, Ill. unlike most Indian Wars veterans, did not retire to warmer climes, preferring his adopted city. He was a medical corpsman with the 17th regiment, serving mostly near Cheyenne.

Pastor and Mrs. Jerome Anderson's infant daughter passed away a few hours after birth. May we join in expressing our sympathy.

I guess its about time that we speak up and thank everyone who donated in one way or another to our park fund last year. We appreciated everything we received and the help we got in the park was especially appreciated. We want to thank Bill Hansen for his part in building the shelter, for mowing the grounds and cleaning away brush, etc. We want to thank Clarence and Gordon Borsvold for building the outhouse and Clarence for mowing the grounds and helping with the shelter, etc. Thanks to Andrew Lagerquist for donating a thresh barrel. Thanks to the county Highway Dept. for three big loads of gravel for our road, thanks to Morris Lindstrom for the gravel donated and to the State Highway Dept. for the culvert and park signs. Also thanks to Eddie Nelson for the paint and for his part in getting the road gang to put fill and gravel on our road. Thanks go also to Alphouse Cryer for the big picnic table he donated.

Thank you Philip Hougard for fill in the crossing and to the men who sawed the pile of wood for the fire-place. Also thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hjelle for donating the piece of land for park purposes and to the ladies and children and the 4-H members who have worked off and on in the park ever since we got it and thanks to anyone we may have forgotten who has helped in any way. Following is a list of those who donated money to our fund: Carl Johnson $20.00, Claude Johnson, $20.00, Eddie Nelson, $10 Marvin Boen $10, Leo Henstrom, $5, Lew and Tony Walton $10, Stanley Swanson $5, Merrill Stennes $5, Alton Henrickson $5, Elmer Eskildson $1, Ingvald Rokke, $5, Jensen Bros. $5, Mrs. Dick Weller $1, Henry Schey $1, Carl Johnson $5, James Donaldson $1, Martin Anderson $1, Nels Sundberg $1, John M. North Central Enplanes Record 242 Passengers

North Central Airlines recorded its highest monthly boarding total in the history of the local station during June when 242 passengers were enplaned, according to unofficial figures released by station personnel. The previous all-time high was 227 in December of 1965.

Boarding during the first six months of 1966 are 217 above a year ago, with 1,225 enplaned through June 30 this year as compared with 1,008 during the same period in 1965. The 1965 yearly total was 2,079 boardings.

A comparison of monthly boardings during the first half of 1966 as compared with the first half of 1965 shows an increase everymonth, as indicated in the following table:

Yard 'n Garden

University of Minnesota
Agricultural Extension Service

The home lawn is basic to a good landscape and also to the pride of the home owner. All too often the lawn is so marred by weeds that the home owner spends considerable time trying to keep the lawn free from these pesky plants. Such weeds as the dandelion, chickweed, crabgrass, creeping ivy, knotweed, plantain and quackgrass—all cause the home owner considerable trouble.

The dandelion is probably the most common of all the lawn weeds. Dandelions are perennials and reproduce easily from seeds or root sections. Many home owners spend considerable time cutting the tops of dandelions to remove them. This practice is nearly worthless unless the greater share of the roots can be taken at the same time. A more practical way is to treat the dandelion with the amine form of 2,4-D herbicide. This can be done at any time during the growing season, though early spring and fall are the most practical times.

In cool locations and under shaded conditions chickweed causes considerable trouble. Both the mouse-ear chickweed and the common chickweed are prevalent throughout Minnesota. The common chickweed is an annual and probably is the easier to control. The mouse-ear is propagated both by seed and the rooting of the stems at the nodes. The first step, of course, is to grow good grass, especially such varieties as the creeping red fescue which is more adapted to the shaded conditions of the lawn. Control of the chickweed is through the application of 2,4,5-TP or 2,4,5-T or silvex.

Crabgrass is prevalent in many lawns. Actually, the best control is to put on an early spring pre-emergence type crabgrass killer—such materials as Dacthal, Zytron or the arsenates.

Creeping charlie or ground ivy is common where conditions are cool and moist. Creeping charlie is a perennial and is propagated both by seeds and roting stems. Begin control by raking the plants from the lawn and treating with 2,4,5-TP or silvex. Repeated applications are necessary.

Quackgrass is prevalent in most lawns throughout Minnesota. It is perennial and spreads, primarily through underground stems. Where there are patches of high-density Dalapon can be used for killing out the weed. Then usually in three to four weeks the lawn can be re-seeded or re-sodded. Otherwise, closer mowing and good lawn culture usually will tend to discourage quackgrass from spreading. Eventually it will tend to clump—and the clumps can be treated with a herbicide material.

Black spot is one of the most destructive diseases on roses. Once it has infected a rose planting it becomes quite difficult to control; therefore good culture and chemical control are necessary as a preventive program.

Early symptons of the disease are small yellow spots occurring on the upper side of the leaf. As the disease advances, the yellow spots get larger and the center of this area becomes black—hence the name black spot. As these yellow spots come more numerous defoliation begins. Usually it will start at the bottom of the plant and continue upward.

Site selection is part of the proper culture of roses. Roses should be planted where they get some early morning sun to dry the foliage. Good spacing of the plants to allow proper air circulation is also important. Plants should be spaced approximately two feet apart to allow air movement in and among the paints.

If roses are to be watered in the evening, soak the soil rather than syringing the foliage. Do not leave the foliage wet overnight. To clean the foliage syringe during the morning hours. This allows the foliage to dry quickly and helps avoid the problem of black spot.

Once the disease symptons begin to show, remove all leaves that show the black spot. Pick up any leaves in the rose planting that may have fallen. These leaves should be burned. The next step is to begin a thorough spray program. These sprays may be with such materials as ferbam and sulfur, captam or a fungicide or phaltan. Spraying should be done at regular intervals according to the directions.

With good cultural practices and proper chemical control black spot need not be a problem on your roses.

Roses have often been called the queen of the garden. Certainly the popularity of hybrid roses is ever increasing.

Success with the hybrid tea rose is dependent upon a good cultural program. The site for roses should be in an area where there is at least a half day of full sun. It should be in an area where there is good air circulation and good drainage. The soil should be on the light side rather than a heavy clay soil

Soil preparation begins with the addition of a large quantity of organic mater and the application of a complete fertilizer. The soil should be prepared to a depth of 18 inches. Incorporated into the bed should be about a wheelbarrowful of organic matter such as barnyard manure, compost or commercial peat for each 25 square feet. This will tend to give a high level of nutrients and at the same time a good soil with a good water-holding capacity.

Take special care in planting roses. The hybrid rose bush should be set so that the graft union is about one to two inches below the soil line. The roots should be carefully spread out and the soil firmed so that there are no air pockets after the transplanting. Be sure to water thoroughly.

There are several ways of getting the roses bush started after planting. If it is a dormant rose it may be covered with sphagnum moss commercial peat or mounded with soil. If an inverted plastic bag is placed over the rose buds instead, it should be perforated so a heat build-up will not occur and kill the bush. As soon as the buds begin to develop, the mulch or plastic bag may be removed.

Roses enjoy a high level of moisture or cool soil and a good level of nutrients. When watering the roses do not syringe the foliage unless it has become dusty or dirty. Instead, apply the water directly to the soil and allow it to soak in. Regular feeding with a god rose food is necessary usually after each flush of bloom. Mulching to keep the soil cool is also helpful. Such materials as well rotted barnyard manure, compost, leaf mold or commercial peat can be used for this purpose.

Watch for insect pests and disease and apply a good funcicide or an insecticide as needed.

Fruits and vegetables rich in vitamin C, needed by the body every day include strawberries, cantaloupe, tomatoes, oranges, grapefruit, cabbage, green peppers, broccoli and spinach.

Middle River Tops Local Legion Nine

The Middle River Juniors, scoring three runs in the fifth inning, and with righthander Kirk Holmen striking out Bob Brodin for the game ending out in the seventh inning with the locals having runners on second and third, defeated the Thief River Falls squad 3-1, in Northwest American Legion game played here Tuesday evening.

On Thursday coach Lee Swanson will take this local juniors to East Grand Forks for a doubleheader, meeting the East Grand Forks juniors at 5:30, and the Grand Forks juniors at 7:30 p.m. (CST). Both games will be played on the Stauss field diamond in East Grand Forks.

On Friday night, with game time at 7:30 p.m., the Red Lake Falls juniors will meet the local juniors on the fairgrounds diamond.

In Tuesday evening's game here, the local club gained a 1-0 lead in the second inning when, with two out, Nickie Drees doubled down the right-field foul line, and then scored when Larry Peterson followed with a single to center field.

The locals held that 1-0 advantage until the top of the fifth. Nathan Engevik opened with a ground single past shortstop. Duane Lorenson sent a bouncer to picher Tom Cummings, but when Drees dropped Cummings, throw to second, Middle River had two men on and none out, with runners on second and third. Kirk Holmes lined out to first baseman Tom Tunberg. Bob Engelstad squeezed in a run on a bunt that Cummings was unable to handle cleanly. A walk to Sheldon Lorenson loaded the bases. Cummings, who collected 15 strikeouts during the game, whiffed Dale Nelson, but when Drees muffed Rick Lunsetter's ground ball, two runners scored and the visitors had their 3-1 lead.

The locals made a strong bid in the seventh, Rocky Wilson led off with a ground single to third base, and when Lorenson made a high throw to first base, Wilson advanced to second. Wayne Liden struck out. Karl Poppenhagen grounded to shortstop and Wilson was hung up between second and third and was retired, short to second to third. Cummings singles to right field, with Poppenhagen moving around to third base. Cummings advanced to second unmolested. Holmes struck out Brodin to end the game and the threat.

Spring Waterfowl Count in State Shows Decline

Spring waterfowl counts by the Minnesota conservation department's game and fish division have revealed a decline of one-third in the number of breeding ducks in the state compared with last year.

Ted Shields, state game and fish director, said that most of the decline was in the number of blue-winged teal. The populations of other ducks remained about the same as in 1965 with ringnecked ducks and wood ducks showing some increase in numbers.

Spring mallard population is very close to last year's figure but fewer birds were noted in the southern half of the state and increased numbers observed in the north half.

Number of breeding ducks of all species showed declines in southern Minnesota but, with the exception of teal, registered increases in the north.

Shields said birds were probably attracted to the north half of the state because of the abundant water available there compared with a decrease in the number of water areas in the south.

Practically all of the decline observed in the state's spring duck population was attributed to the decrease in blue-winged teal.

Eagles Midgets Out in Front

After completing one round in the Western Border league, Coach John Aune's Eagles are in first place with three wins and no losses. They have defeated Crookston 8 to 6, East Grand Forks 9 to 2, and Red Lake Falls 14 to 1. Each team will play the other twice more with a single elimination tournament to be played in Crookston July 27. The local boys are the defending champs.

Fish Violations Result in Nine Persons Arrested

Violators of Minnesota fishing laws have been trying to tap state lakes in wholesale quantities recently, according to some of the arrests announced today by the conservation department's game warden service.

Wardens have confiscated 381 game fish comprised of 331 walleyes and 60 northern pike in three separate cases involving nine persons in recent days.

Four Iowa residents were arrested by game wardens for taking over the legal limit of fish from Upper Red lake in Beltrami county. Names of the four, all of rural Cedar Falls, are Dennis Hansen, Phyllis Hansen, Sven Hansen and Wilma Jean Hansen.

Wardens confiscated 146 walleyes from the group and they were fined by C. B. Quale, justice of the peace at Kelliher.

Two St. Paul residents were also apprehended with over-the-legal-limit from Red lake. Glenn Jepsem and Ronald Beck were arrested by wardens when in possession of 150 walleyes and four northern pike. The two were also fined at justice of the peace court in Kelliher.

In the third case, wardens confiscated 55 northern pike and 33 walleyes from three southern Minnesota residents who had taken the fish from Dixon lake in Itasca county.

Names of the three are Raymond Fitzloff of rural Janesville, H. F. Edlund and William Mettler of Mankato.

Crop Depredation By Waterfowl Is Topic of Hearing

Problem of crop depredation by waterfowl in northwestern Minnesota has been ordered the subject of a staff informational study by the Minnesota Outdoor Recreation Resources commission, according to Rep. Richard W. Fitzsimons, Argyle, chairman of MORRC's special studies committee.

To launch the study the commission will hold a public hearing in the Roseau village auditorium at 1 p. m., Monday July 11.

"The study will center on three counties: Pennington, Marshall and Roseau," Fitzsimons said.

"Waterfowl raids on standing crops in the area of the Roseau river, Twin lakes, Thief lake and Agassiz National Wildlife areas are of real concern to farmers in our area. MORRC, in ordering a staff study, recognizes there is a need to document the extent of the problem."

Conservation Commissioner Wayne Olson; James T. Schields, director of the Minnesota division of game and fish; and R. W. Burwell, regional director of the United States Department of the Interior Fish and Wildlife service, are all working closely with the MORRC commission in making available the information and data gathered to date by the interagency waterfowl depredations control committee.

Fitzsimons feels that the findings of the study, to be made available to the interested federal and state agencies, local units of government, farm organizations and farmers in the area will provide the legislature with a documented picture of the scope of the depredation.

During the public hearing MORRC is interested in getting the reaction of property owners in the northwestern part of the state regarding current feeding programs, the success of the various "scaring" programs as well as any suggestions for new programs involving the state of Minnesota.

Drumming Count Of Ruffed Grouse Rises in State

Minnesota conservation department's game and fish division announced today that the annual ruffed grouse drumming count has shown an increase in grouse numbers over last year.

Ted Shields, state game and fish director, said this year's count by field personnel was made on 47 routes scattered throughout the grouse area.

He said last winter was the second year in a row which provided adequate snow for safe roosting cover for grouse. Drumming counts either showed increases or were the same as last year.

Counts were up on 16 routes in the central hardwoods counties. There were also increases on the Chippewa National forest and in southeastern Minnesota. A good spring population of grouse was reported from the Cloquet forest experiment station.

On 21 census routes in northern and northeastern Minnesota, drumming counts remained about the same as in 1965. These areas had shown considerable improvement from previous years and it appears now that last year's gains will be maintained again this year.

Shields said the increase was noticeable in the number of grouse taken by hunters last fall. If nesting conditions are favorable, another increase can be expected this coming fall, he said.

Riverside Animal Park to Continue Daily Schedule

Attendance of more than 600 people was noted Sunday and Monday when Ray Oen's Riverside Animal park opened its gates to visitors south of Thief River Falls.

The Oens informed the Times today that the park will be open to visitors from 3 to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Friday for the remainder of the summer and from 1 to 9:30 p. m. on Saturday and Sunday." Admission prices will remain the same at 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Further work is being done on the 13-acre park site which includes a large picnic area. New and different animals are being added or exchanged at the park each week.

Small Increase Noted in State Pheasant Count

Pheasant breeding populations have shown marked improvements in the counties to the south and southwest of the Twin Cities but have declined in the northern parts of the range. This was the word today from Ted Shields, state director of game and fish, Minnesota Conservation department.

In referring to results of the May roadside counts, Shields noted that "changes in pheasant numbers seemed to be a reflection of weather during the past winter."

Most of the southern counties showed increases of approximately 50 per cent while declines of about 35 to 50 per cent were recorded in many of the central and east central counties.

This area suffered more severe temperatures and greater snowfall, especially in early March, than did the souther counties which enjoyed a comparatively mild and open winter.

"The net result", said Shields, "was that the statewide population as a whole has increased only 10 to 15 per cent, largely due to surplus roosters resulting from light hunting pressure last fall."

Shields added that hunting last fall had no apparent effect upon the number of hens this spring since the greatest population increases noted were in the southern counties which typically receive the greatest hunting pressure.

He said it came somewhat as a surprise to both sportsmen and game managers that pheasant populations did not improve over a broader area since virtually everyone felt that they had been seeing more birds this spring.

"We could still enjoy markedly increased numbers of birds this fall if hatching and rearing success improves," he said. "Spring has generally been later this year than usual, however, especially in the north. In the south, temperatures have been somewhat cool although cover conditions are improved due to dry weather and early seeding."

Shields said improved nesting conditions are anticipated on acres diverted under the Department of Agriculture land retirement programs and along roadways where state and county highway departments have agreed to delay mowing.

"Although we can not hope to have the cover for pheasants and other farm game we had back in the 1930's and 1940's" he said. "It is gratifying to note the cooperation which has developed between state and federal agencies.

"Let's hope that the weather cooperates, too," Shields concluded.

Bible Conferences Set at Baudette And Lake Bronson

Thirteenth annual "Camp Cedar" Bible conference sponsored by the American Sunday School Union will be held July 18-24 at the Galilee Bible camp at Lake Bronson. A number of young people from the Union Sunday schools at Fourtown and Carilou, and from other rural communities and towns in northwestern Minnesota are planning to attend. Last summer over 70 youths were enrolled at camp Cedar.

A Bible conference known as Camp Truth, also sponsored by the union, will be held July 25-30 at the Lake of the Woods Bible camp near Baudette. Young people nine years old through high school are invited to attend these two camps directed by Kermit E. Skoglund, local missionary of the ASSU.

Rev. C. Elmer Snider of Winnipeg Bible college will be the speaker at Camp Cedar. Speaker at Camp Truth will be Rev. Gifford Myers, also of the Winnipeg Bible college. Myers formerly served the Evangelical Free church at Moorhead.

Senior Golf

Sixteen golfers, arranged into two flights, will begin play this week, on a match play basis, in the local golf club's annual men's senior golf competition. The liniment will be flowing freely out at the club the next two weeks or so.

Stan Cockrell, who is the Tournament chairman as well as the defending champion, will be on hand to make a defense of his title. In the championship flight, or as the flight is more commonly called, the "lumbago" flight, the following first-round pairing have been made: Stan Cockrell vs. Justus Larson; Dr. A. E. Jacobson vs. Vic Kvikstad; Rudy Mehlhoff vs. Jarvis Prichard; and Emil Larson vs. L. L. Tygeson.

In the first flight, or the "arthritis" flight, the following first-round pairing have been made: Shorty O'Hara vs. Orvis Olen; Earle Anderson vs. Russ Embury; Frank Tunberg vs. Harvey Patten; and Al Holzknecht vs. Jim Womack.

The intention was to have the championship finals, for the Phil Hess trophy played on Sunday, July 17, but it is doubtful if the finals can be played on that date. On Sunday, July 17 a group of Canadian Legionnaires will invade the local course to play a team match against the local American Legion contingent in an international match. The local post is in possession of the Col. Ralph Webb trophy, and the Canadians will be anxious to regain the trophy, which is named in honor of the late mayor of Winnipeg.

And speaking of the senior golf event, Wally DuChamp of Plummer, who is shy one year of being eligible to participate in the matches, asked for a special dispensation so that he could play. He was turned down by the tournament chairman, and ruled out of order, etc, etc.

And about the matches. If it should come to pass that Shorty O'Hara and Al Holzknecht would be the finalists in the first flight, well, I would be willing to pay an admission fee to join the gallery for that match. While this match is in progress (and it could happen) it would be wise for the tournament chairman to close the course for any other play. Fact is, Shorty and Al would disrupt the farming operations adjoining the course! But it won't happen as Orvis Olen will take care of Shorty in a first-round match.

A Bit Frantic

It appears that the front office of the Minnesota Twins is becoming a bit frantic and is on the verge of pushing the panic button. It's true that the Twins have been losing some ball games through bad breaks, but its also true that they haven't been playing the brand of ball that is expected of a championship club.

The lineup is in a flux, with changes being made every day. And some of these lineup changes are far-fetched and have proven costly. For instance, the experiment of putting Rich Rollins in left field was an awkward maneuver. And the attempt to make a center fielder of Tony Oliva was an error in judgement. Not that Tony won't make a center fielder some day, but his play there this season cost the Twins a couple of games. It's possible that the shift into center field had an ill effect on Tony's batting, for he dropped into a slump shortly after the experiment.

And Harmon Killebrew, whose but they need in the lineupevery day, does not know there he will play until the umpire receives the official lineup card. It's remarkable that Killebrew will take this constant shuffling, knowing that it disrupts his batting tempo.

It was a bit strange to read the report from the front office that they were looking over the waiver list in an effort to pick up a strong pitcher. Well, you won't find the pitchers that the Twins need on the Waiver list.

If the Twins can finish in fourth place or perhaps third, they will have done well.

An Apology

Now that the boys are spending a week in the Flin Flon area, fishing for lake trout in Lake Athapap, I can perhaps slip in a modest apology for the snide remarks I made this spring about the "ship" that belongs to Don Harbott, Ray Thyren and Lloyd Samuelson.

I had expected the "ship" to have become water-logged and to have gone down in the choppy waters of Lake of the Woods. But the boat, which has become a tourist attraction, is still afloat and in its slip on Springsteel Island. It's made a dozen or so trips to Buffalo Bay, and according to fishermen's reports, the boat is a close second to the commercial fishermen's craft in bringing in fish.

It's still afloat, but then you can never tell when the boys, with Ray at the Wheel, will run unto a clam shell! That will be the test.

On their trip to Flin Flon the boys-Sam, Don, Ray and Earl Arnold-were well supplied with frozen smelt, and they had a supply of sucker meat, too. They intend to have a mess of lake trout for the smoke house. And next week the 15th, Vernon Nelson and his wife, along with Leo St. Mikhel and his wife, will be leaving for the Cranberry Portage area and do some fishing in McKenzie Bay for lake trout.

Otter Tail Lets Contract for New RLF Warehouse

Mirnko Metal Buildings, Inc. of Fargo has been awarded the contract for Otter Tail Power company's new Red Lake Falls garage and warehouse, according to Lee Engen, the company's district manager.

The building will be of steel construction, measuring 34x48 feet, and will be insulated and electrically heated. It will house the new area line crew truck and the local service representative's truck, as well as providing storage for line material.

The building will be located just south of the Knutson Potato warehouse. Construction is expected to begin soon and be complete by September 1.

Crops and Soils Day Scheduled For NW School

Annual Crops and Soils day will be held at the Northwest school and agricultural experiment station, Crookston, on Tuesday, July 12. An invitation is extended to the public to visit the station that day.

Visitors will be taken on field tours which are scheduled to begin promptly at 9 a. m. Tractor-drawn wagons will go out to major plot areas. Visitors can view the latest research effort in small grains, weed control, sugarbeets, soil investigations, and also the specialty crops of Crambe, mustard and sunflowers.

For women attending, there will be a special tour of the garden plots at 10 a. m. A complete schedule was listed in Monday's edition of the Times.

35 Cub Scouts Camp Overnight At Bible Campsite

Thirty-five Cub Scouts, 14 leaders and three Boy Scouts from Pack 59, Zion Lutheran church, left Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon, June 25, for a weekend outing at the Baptist Bible camp grounds. A full schedule of activities was planned including softball, relay games, contests, a treasure hunt and swimming.

Adrian Larson, Cubmaster, and Florian Kritz, committeeman, along with a number of "den dads", supervised the activities. Burton Prichard and Greg Kauppila, Explorer Scouts, gave the Cubs a lesson in lashing. The Cubs also received instruction in marching and whistle - making. Flag raising was done by the Webelos den, with Lewis Hill as den dad.

Leaders attending who were not previously mentioned included Pete Probasco; Donald M. Olson, Art Olson, Lowell Swenson, Ed Sisler, Clayton Restad, Capt. Harlan Fredeen, Dr. Donald Goodrich; Neil McEwen, Clarence Beck and Bryant Ulseth.

New Department Of Food Science Established at U

Establishment of a new department of food science and industries in the Institute of agriculture at the University of Minnesota has been approved by the University Board of Regents.

It will be headed by Professor Samuel T. Coulter, presently head of the department of dairy industried which will form the nucleus for the new unit.

According to Sherwood O. Berg, dean of the institute of agriculture, the new department will assume responsibility for teaching, research, continuing education and international programs related to the food processing program.

In the past, research and educational efforts on food science and technology have been conducted in institute.

In commenting upon the new department, Berg said, "The agri in Minnesota and the Upper Midwest have grown beyond that of production alone and increased educational and research efforts are urgently required in the processing and utilization of food and fiber.

"The move will put together programs currently in departments of horticultural science, animal husbandry, poultry science, dairy industries and other areas of the institute.

Turkey Research To Be Continued By $5,000 Grant

University of Minnesota college of veterinary medicine has been awarded a $5,000 grant from the Minnesota turkey research and market development board to support research on turkeys.

Roy C. Munson, board administrator, said the grant will be used to advance research on turkeys that are free of specific disease-causing micro-organisms.

He said the research grant is the first made under a new law passed by the state legislature in 1965. Effective last March, the law created the Minnesota turkey research and market development board and, to finance the board's programs, provides for a compulsory collection on all turkeys marketed.

Turkey producers pay one cent per bird marketed over 10 pounds and one-half cent per bird under 10 pounds. Munson says this money supports two main programs promotion of the finished product and research for control and elimination of turkey diseases.

The board's grant will continue a turkey research project in the college of veterinary medicine's department of veterinary bacteriology and public health.

Benjamin S. Pomeroy, D. V. M., department head, said the project has been under way for the past 10 years, but was intensified in 1961 because of the high condemnation rate from airsacculitis. The disease is a serious inflammatory condition of the lungs and air sacs in birds and the major cause is a type of micro-organism called mycoplasma. Turkeys infected with airsacculitis are condemned by inspectors during processing.

Dr. Pomeroy said diseases account for about 85 per cent of all condemnations and approximately 40 per cent of the condemnations are due to airsacculitis. Thus, turkeys free of mycoplasma could significantly reduce, and possibly eliminate, condemnations of birds because of this condition.

University researchers have built up a flock of some 3,000 mycoplasma - free turkeys. About 800 birds compose the present breeding flock. The remaining turkeys were marketed and none of these mycoplasma - free birds were condemned for airsacculitis.

Outlining plans, Dr. Pomeroy said part of the grant will be used to maintain the present 800 mycoplasma - free birds and to increase the flock to 1,500 to 3,000 birds.

He said the project is now ready to move out of the relatively small experimental stage. The grant will finance research to study the rate and efficiency of gain and overall performance of mycoplasma - free turkeys in a large commercial-type operation.

Dr. Pomeroy praised the Minnesota turkey industry for continued support of research that will help turkey producers improve efficiency and ultimately benefit consumers with more and better meat at lower prices.

Grubby Fish Are OK for Eating, Professor Says

Occasionally fishermen (or their wives) notice yellowish cysts around the fins and in the meat of freshly-caught fish. With a sigh of regret, the fish are tossed into the garbage and the family settles for hot dogs.

According to Lloyd L. Smith, professor of entomology, fisheries and wildlife at the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture, these grubby and parasite - infested fish are perfectly usable when normally cooked.

Smith says that the only parasite of concern to humans, the broad fish tapeworm, is relatively rare. This tapeworm occurs as a tiny cyst in the flesh of various species of fish. The cyst is so small that it would not be noticed. Normal cooking kills this parasite. Smith says that it only becomes a problem in areas where people eat raw fish dishes.

"All other parasites that can appear in Minnesota fish, according to Smith, are harmless to humans because they cannot live in the human system. The various parasites have specific life cycles which require a specific host for each stage of development. Humans are not suitable hosts.

Internal Troubles

The United States has its racial problems, and to hear the nation's top ranked news commentators, we are the only nation which has trouble with interracial situations. There is prejudice and discrimination of some sort or another in virtually every nation today, and in most it has existed for hundreds of years. We read with interest the following editorial from the Orillia Packet and Times in Ontario which was reprinted in the Waseca Herald.

"There are 14,000,000 or more of us, and we have built a nation in this vast country which is the envy of the world, but we have become strangers in our own land. For although we have always thought of ourselves as Canadians, our mother tongue is English. And in the Canada of today, who speaks for us?

"We have always prided ourselves on our individual freedoms and who founded our institutions on the principle of justice for all, are today branded as oppressors of our Quebec brothers and monsters of racial injustice.

Every pundit and commentator takes up the cry and heaps scorn and abuse upon us, tyrants that we are, but who speaks for us?

"We who by hard work and enterprise have built a Canadian economy that is a marvel of its kind are reproached, by those who will not quit the comfortable confines of their own province, for failing to share the wealth of this vast country with them in Quebec, and our governments consider ways of punishing us to our economic temerity. Who speaks for us?

"We had thought that we had defended our nation bravely in four wars, but those who would not enlist with us now brand us as war-mongering imperialists and deride our service as worse than waste.

"Our every institution is rediculed as a reactionary trapping from a colonial past, and foremost in the ranks of our baiters is the CBC which we ourselves created and subsidized. Who speaks for us?

"Our flag, our national anthem, the crown, all the tiny symbols once a treasured part of our national heritage, are taken from us and destroyed as symbols of a past one glorified in, but now suddenly shameful. shameful.

"All the links of brotherhood with the our earliest days in home and schoolroom, are disgraced and spat upon in the strange new land in which we find ourselves, for who speaks for us?

"In a world where English has become a universal language, we find ourselves learning French, yet no one insists that our Quebec neighbors might profitably adopt English in their schools.

"Our national airline is given a French name and its hostesses, serving a million English - speaking Americans, are fluetn only in French.

"Our railroad is gallicized, our radio stations spout French to a mystified audience, and our politicians demand that we consider Quebec not as a province but as a state, equal to all our other provinces lumped together, and prate of a separate Senate for Qcebec.

"For Quebec has identity, vitality, culture; we, the pundits assure us, have none. Les Quebecois sont les Canadians, but who speaks for us?

"Our history is sneered at, our statues defaced, our Queen insulted, but we must understand these things as symptoms of Quebec aspirations, we are told.

"Our leather - jacketed hoodlums are jailed as delinquents, but in Quebec they are interviewed and their banalties widely publicized as socially significant.

"Corrupt politicians exist only in our world; in Quebeck, one comprehends, patronage is a way of life.

"For this is Canada, the racial partnership where the partner who contributes least to the defence of the country, the wealth, the vitality of the country must be permitted to take the most out of it in cash allowances, privileges and perquisites.

"This is the new Canada, and in the inner councils of its vast expanses, who speaks for us?"

Sheer Poetry

In scanning the exchange papers which we receive each week, we came across the following poems which provide a good thought for the day and a bit of wry humor.

DAIRYMAN'S PRAYER

I long for a cow of modern make
That milks five days for leisure sake,
That sleeps on Saturday, snores on Sunday
And starts afresh again on Monday.
I wish for a herd that knows the way
To wash each other day by day.
That never bothers to excite us
With chills or fever or mastitis.
I sigh for a new or better breed
That takes less grooming and less feed,
That has the reason, wit and wisdom
To use the sea and flushing system.
I pray each weekend long and clear
Less work to do from year to year.
And cows that reach production peak,
All in a five-day working week.
I look for officials by the mob
To guide the farmers on their job,
And show these brilliant breeders how
To propagate a five-day cow.

Beatitudes for Friends of the Aged
(By Esther Mary Walker)

Blessed are they who understand
My faltering step and palsied hand.
Blessed are they who know that my ears today
Must strain to catch the things they say.
Blessed are they who seem to know
That my eyes are dim and my wits are slow.
Blessed are they who looked away
When coffee spilled at table today.
Blessed are they with a cheery smile
Who stop to chat for a little while.
Blessed are they who never say,
"You've told that story twice today."
Blessed are they who know the ways
To bring back memories of yesterdays.
Blessed are they who make it known
That I'm loved, respected and not alone.
Blessed are they who know I'm at a loss
To find the strength to carry the Cross.
Blessed are they who ease the days
On my journey Home in loving ways.

Protection Wanted

Dorothy Johnson, in the "Montana Fourth Estate," writes the following comments:

Mrs. Esther Peterson, Special Presidential Assistant on Consumer Affairs, is supposed to protect shoppers from their own stupidity. (Any day there'll be a Matrimony Department to protect people from stupidity in that area.)

Let us hope Mrs. P. is not too far removed from her own washing machine to realize that a woman shopping for detergent, for instance, is influenced by other factors than "truth in packaging."

Some reasons I've bought various detergents lately: Because I've used it before; because I've never used it before; because my hairdresser said it made the dishtowels smell nice; because I wanted the cup-and-saucer premium; because the box was pretty; because the box will fit the shelf; because the brand name was advertised.

What we need to be protected from is the horde of salesmen who highpressure us to buy things that don't come in packages. I just throw these fellows off the steps, but obviously most people don't.

Examples: The cemetery - lot salesman who, when Mr. Jones says No. replies in front of Mrs. Jones, "You don't care enough for your wife to give her decent burial?"

The school salesman who guarantees your daughter a job as an airline stewardess, but when she gets to the school in a distant city they assign her living quarters next door to a street walker.

The man who only wants your opinion on the possible use of teaching machines in the public schools — and then pressures you to buy a compendium of all knowledge at too much a month.

The encyclopedia salesman who quotes $198 on the phone — unwillingly, because he has to see you — and then can't understand why you thought $198 was what he said. The price is around $500.

The traveling photographer who offers a picture of your infant pride and joy for $1 and charges $5 a copy beyond the first one.

Let's see Mrs. Peterson try to subdue those rascals! If you wonder what became of the phonies who used to sell magazine subscriptions to get points in a contest, look under the shrubbery by my front steps.

This Is Economy?

Here is an expensive foot note to the farm rebellion against Washington Democrats which should make all taxpayers mad unless they like $60 telegrams:

A few weeks ago, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman was all smiles when President Johnson came to his department to celebrate cost - cutting achievements.

His visit came a little too early.

In answer to 40 Republicans in the House of Representatives who protested Freeman's treatment of the farmers, Freeman sent 40 identical telegrams, each seven pages in length and ctntaining 782 words.

Rep. Charles M. Teague, R-Calif., noted that Freeman's telegrams cost $60 each and that the total cost to the taxpayers was $2,400.

"The President will have to turn all the lights off in the White House for quite a while to make up for this particular splurge by Orville," the congressman said.

Teague called the incident "Orville's Orgy," saying that Freeman was apparently so upset that he forgot the President's "economize" program.

"Mr. Freeman's office is only about a mile from Capitol Hill. Regardless of the merits of his rebuttal to our charges, it could have been presented in letters delivered through the mails or by one of the 8,000 Department of Agriculture employees in Washington," he said.

The Congressman said he was no more impressed with a telegram than he would be with a cheaper response by letter. Taxpayers can be no more impressed with his expensive manner of expressing himself as farmers are with his farm program.

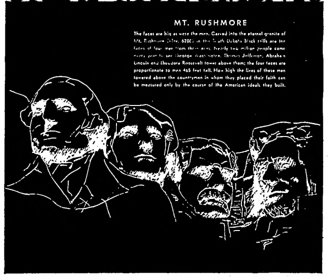
GREAT MONUMENTS



MT. RUSHMORE
The faces are big as were the men. Carved into the eternal granite of Mt. Rushmore (elev. 6200) in the South Dakota Black Hills are the faces of four men from their eras. Nearly two million people come every year to see George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt tower above them; the four faces are proportionate to men 465 feet tall. How high the lives of these men towered above the countrymen in whom they placed their faith can be measured only by the course of the American ideals they built.

. . . commemorate timeless lives

Just as the lives of these men held together their country, so must your life hold together your family. Your loved ones look to you to build for them the family ideals of comfort, of confidence and of protection. Planning now, through life insurance, can solidify these ideals forever. Whether you need executive or educational plans, mortgage protection or insurance for your wife and children, your Modern Woodmen representative can build for your family the comfort you want them to have. The plan which serves your needs can entitle you to Modern Woodmen's unique Fraternal Benefits. See your Modern Woodmen representative soon.

KORLAN 24E

KEEP THE FLIES OFF YOUR CATTLE—WITH KORLAN 24E.

KORLAN* 24E insecticide in oil for backrubbers or in water for sprays controls those pests that worry the pounds off your cattle. Hornflies. Faceflies. Even lice, if KORLAN 24E is used continuously. Mix it with oil and saturate backrubber fibre. Place where cattle regularly travel, and let them do the rest. Or spray cattle according to label directions. KORLAN 24E insecticide stays with them. Flies don't. Protect your cattle this easy, do-it-themselves way. KORLAN 24E is outstanding as a spray, too. See us for KORLAN 24E.

Minnesotan Elected NEA Head in Miami

Minnesota's Dr. Irvamae Applegate, dean of the school of education of St. Cloud state college, is the new president of the nearly one-million-member National Education association (NEA). Installed at the 104th annual convention in Miami, Fla. Friday night, Dr. Applegate is the second Minnesotan to hold the highest elective office in American education.

Francis Hamerlinck of Thief River Falls, president of the Minnesota Education association, was a convention delegate.

Only 45 and the only woman dean of an education school in a comprehensive college or university in the entire United States, Mrs. Applegate succeeds Richard D. Batchelder of Newton, Mass. She has chosen as the theme for her presidential Year: "Individual Commitment to Professional Excellence."

A North Dakota native, Dean Applegate who is the immediate past president of the Minnesota Education association received her bachelor's degree in teaching from North Dakota Agricultural college (now North Dakota State university) in Fargo. She earned her master's degree in audio-visual education and her doctor's degree in education and curriculum from the Uiversity of Minnesota, Minneapolis. She also has completed work in elementary education and spent a summer at the University of Chicago on a Hill Family foundation grant to study programmed instruction.

Mrs. Applegate is certified in several subjects and her teaching career includes junior and senior high school biology, science and English in Minnesota and North Dakota. She also was guidance director and junior high school principal in Hazen, N. D. She joined the St. Cloud faculty in 1956 as a classroom teacher and the supervisor of student teachers. In 1962, she was named dean.

The St. Cloud Business and Professional Women's club named her outstanding woman of the year and she received the state group's Top Hat Award. She is a member of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) and the American Legion auxiliary. Her monthly column for the MEA - "Assignment: Education" - has been published and broadcast throughout Minnesota and border areas.

She's listed in Who's Who in America, Who's Who of American Women, and Who's Who in Minnesota honorary doctor of science degree from North Dakota state for "outstanding education leadership," the president citation from the Minnesota Audio-Visual Coordinators and the Minnesota Elementary Principals' Merit Achievement certificate.

Two months ago the University of Minnesota gave her its Outstanding Achievement award, highest honor the board of regents can bestow:

"In recognition of noted professional attainment..Irvamae Applegate...eloquent champion of education's struggle for importance in society, untiring advocate of high standards of teacher training and certification, effective leader of teachers at both state and national levels."

Langen Calls for Lower Quotas on Foreign Imports

"The American dairy farmer and sugar grower must be spared the unfair price competition caused by foreign sugar-butterfat products presently being imported into our country in record quantities," declared Congressman Odin Langen as he submitted a statement to the department of agriculture supporting a proposed restriction of these imports now under departmental review.

"Already this year, over 35 million pounds of foreign sugar-butterfat products — also known as 'junextype' compounds — have entered the United States," Langen said, "and this represents a thousand per cent increase over such imports for calendar year 1965.

"Much lower import quotas must be instituted immediately, in view of this unfortunate situation. To fail to curtail imports of these sugar-butterfat products is to fail the domestic dairy farmer and sugar grower at a time when they most need a reasonable financial return," continued Langen.

The Congressman again urged the secretary of agriculture to implement the import control provisions of section 22 of the agricultural adjustment act, as well as section 206 of the sugar act, to protect the American farmer from the price-depressing influx of agricultural imports.

"The fundamental problem," Langen stated, "is that the secretary of agriculture has continually passed up opportunities to limit the flow of foreign dairy products and sugar into this country, and has in fact actually raised import quotas for some commodities."

"I thus call upon the secretary to reverse these anti-agriculture practices with action that at least recognizes the farmer's income problems. His approval of the proposal to restrict the imports of these sugar - butterfat products, while just a baby step in the march for adequate income protection for American agriculture, would be a welcome one nonetheless."

Give Advice on Handling Divers Following Injury

National Safety council has issued some advice from the medical profession on how to handle persons who have suffered possible spine fracture while diving.

A New Jersey physician, Dr. William Rado, surveyed 49 hospitals in that state a few years ago and found 17 cervical spine fractures as a result of water accidents.

While the usual reaction of witnesses of such an accident is to rush into the water and haul the diver out — often pulling and manhandling the victim in the process, such action simply aggravates the injury.

The correct procedure is to keep the victim floating in the water with hand support, keeping his head and neck in a neutral position until a rigid spine support can be used for his removal, preferably with trained help. If a spine board is not available, Dr. Rado suggests that a surf board, wood plank or door be used.

To avoid such accidents, swimmers should examine the water into which they are planning to dive, making sure it has sufficient depth and that there are no obstructions below the surface.

Traffic Safety Cited by Chief as Family Problem

"Traffic safety is one of our most pressing problems right now, and one of the most serious threats to the security of the family. While community, government and industry continue to search for a cure, it remains the responsibility of each of us to find the best means of protecting ourselves," states Elton Cummings, Thief River Falls police chief.

"Traffic safety needs to become a family project. It is only reasonable that the family, as a group, should take responsibility for protecting itself in traffic," he continued.

"Just as in pioneer days the family worked closely as a unit for survival in the wilderness, so the family today should work together to survive travel by car.

"Parents, first of all, must realize that: (1) the continuing rise in traffic accidents is an increasing and immediate threat to the family; (2) the next person either killed or seriously injured in traffic could be the son, daughter, mother or father of your family.

"Working together, the family should be able to enforce the practice of established rules of safe driving upon every member, such as: (1) getting periodic motor vehicle inspections; (2) driving with the utmost courtesy; (3) never drive when tired or sick; and a great many others.

"Last year in Minnesota we had a record year for injuries and fatalities, with 875 persons killed and 50,000 injured. So far this year, we are ahead of that record pace of a year ago," the chief added.

"It is both ironic and curious that a man will apparently place a greater value on his job than on his life. The same man who will devote every conscious moment to his work in order to keep his job so he can have nice things for his family, such as a vacation or trip over the holiday weekend, will not put the same effort into driving in order to keep his life. Perhaps he is not yet convinced that travel by car constitutes a real threat to his life. A life is a big price to pay for ignoring the facts," Chief Cummings concluded.

One-Car Mishap Is Worst Killer On State's Roads

Last year 430 people were killed in murderous and mysterious one-car crashes in Minnesota, reports the state highway department. These include those who run off the road, were struck down as pedestrians and bicyclists, or crashed into fixed objects and trains.

This figure constitutes almost 50 per cent of those killed on Minnesota streets and highways. The national average for one-car crashes is 42 per cent.

Researchers are seeking causes of all these crashes by studying driver performance, vehicle design and maintenance and the design of the roadway and its surroundings.

There is no doubt about the deadly effect of the one-car accident. A survey of urban areas revealed that, although the one-car accident comprised only seven per cent of the total accidents, they accounted for 31 per cent of the traffic deaths.

To combat these deadly single-car collisions, the U. S. bureau of public roads has launched a program of research aimed at improving driver performance at the point of decision and judgment making.

Some of the situations termed critical and in need of study are:

Overtaking and passing situations where the abilities of the drivers break down, at the critical moment and cause them to run off the road or into a fixed object;

Fatigue, alcohol consumption, preoccupation with personal problems and momentary distraction or incapacity because of inhaling carbon monoxide;

The increasing speed at which vehicles are driven on city streets, freeways, and rural roads.

The increase in speed and the growth of visual complexity have conspired to gradually increase our visual burden to the breaking point.

Roadside hazards and opposing traffic. Many drivers with poor night vision are run off the road by the glare of oncoming headlights.

Poorly maintained equipment is dangerous. Much could be done to assure good vehicle performance by regular safety checks.

Researchers are seeking a new system for aiding the driver in judging the relative speed and the distance of opposing traffic. It could involve detectors in cars or electronic warning stations at intervals on highways.

They're after something to give the driver more reliable information. The bureau this year will let a contract to independent researchers to find some of the answers.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL, ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

It happened on the very first point as everyone knew it would. The champ was testing the challenger's backhand.

Champs are like that. Right from the start they probe for some flaw in the opponent's game. And when they find it — look out!

Life is just as probing and relentless. Quickly it uncovers our weaknesses . . . then assaults them again and again.

Is that why men go to church? It's one of the reasons!

Victories never come with glorying in our uncertain strength. They come with doing something about our proven weaknesses.

Long ago it became trite to observe that the Church is meant for sinners rather than saints. But it is sound Christian living to recognize honestly our shortcomings . . . and constantly, persistently to seek God's help in overcoming them.

Where's the only credit card that buys stock in a local business?
(automatically—as you use it!)

Right here!

GETS YOU A CASH REFUND EVERY YEAR, TOO!

You save money without really trying! Works the same as any other credit card. Gets you as much (or more) in car care service . . . but here's the difference. It also gets you a year-end refund in cash and company stock.

Savings are automatic—for everyone! All you do is buy from the co-op at the sign of the big, gold CO-OP shield. You share in savings according to your purchases.

You get back cash and stock in the company. Generally, 20% of your savings is paid in cash, the balance in stock. Your stock represents real value . . . backed by the assets of the co-op, and, of course, it makes you part owner. You're in business when you buy from a co-op.

Use your CO-OP credit card for complete service. Fill up with CO-OP gasoline, get a set of tires, new battery, even emergency service. Your co-op matches service with the best.

Buys happiness! Go now—pay later! Use your CO-OP credit card at vacation time to get your car ready for the trip, use it for all car care expenses on the way. It's good in 8 states.

Start saving this painless way. You can start today. Your co-op keeps a record of cash purchases, too. For credit card convenience, fill out and send us the form below. We'll return a credit card application.

From the Great Lakes to the Pacific... Buy at the co-op with the big, gold shield!

We'll send you a credit card application. Just fill out the convenient request form below and mail it to the address shown. You may also pick up an application blank at any local co-op identified by the sign of the gold, CO-OP shield.

QUEEN of the Pennington county 4-H dress revue was crowned Thursday evening at the public revue held in the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Receiving her her crown is Debbie Halvorson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Halvorson and member of the Steiner 4-H club. Performing the coronation is Charlotte Myers, Silverton club, 1965 dress revue queen. Debbie was also named queen of the junior division. At left is Kathy Breiland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Breiland and member of the Happy Acres 4-H club, who was named advanced division queen. At right is Pat Radniecki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Radniecki and member of the Deer Park club, who was named queen in the beginner division. All three will represent this county in the state fair 4-H dress revue.

Debra Halvorson Is 4H Dress Revue Queen

Debra Halvorson, member of the Steiner 4-H club and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Halvorson, was selected as Pennington county 4-H dress revue queen Thursday evening. Coronation was made by Miss Charlotte Myers, Silverton club, 1965 queen, at the public dress revue held in the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Miss Halvorson was also queen of the junior division.

Selected as advanced division queen was Kathy Breiland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Breiland and member of the Happy Acres 4-H club. Beginner division queen was Patricia Radniecki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Radniecki and member of the Deer Park 4-H club. Both girls were named attendants to the county style revue queen, and all three will participate in the Minnesota state fair dress revue as representatives of Pennington county.

Attendants selected in the various divisions included the following: Beginners — Carol Sande, City View, and Marlene Olson, Sanders; Juniors — Janet Holmstrom, New Solum, and LouAnn Johnson, Black River; and Advanced — Barbara Wold, Sanders, and Linda Swanson, Star.

The county queen and her two bouquets of roses by the 1965 queen. Each of the division attendants were awarded corsages. Serving as narrator for the program was Miss Beverly Tveito, Pennington county home agent.

During the day's activities, judging of clothing construction also took place. Results of this judging were not made public, however, and ribbons will be awarded when the garments are displayed at the Pennington county fair July 21-24.

Blue ribbon winners in the style revue included the following girls:

Area Residents Involved in Two Red Lake Mishaps

Two accidents involving area residents were reported today by the Red Lake county sheriff's department. The first occurred about 1 p.m. Sunday and the second about 10 p.m. Monday.

In the first mishap on Red Lake county road 6, one and one-half miles north of Oklee, a car driven by Gary Vran, rt. 2, Goodridge, struck the rear of a car driven by Leslie Wilde, rt. 4, Thief River Falls. Elaine Dahlen, 16, a passenger in the Vran car, was taken to Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls for treatment. Neither driver Gwen Haugen, 17, St. Hilaire, a passenger in the Wilde car, required hospitalization, althrough both cars were extensively damaged.

In the second accident, a car driven west on Red Lake county road 1 just east of the intersection with highway 59 by Bernel Hagland, rural Oklee, was struck from the rear by a car driven by Danny J. Johnson, 18, rural Thief River Falls. A passenger in the Johnson car, Robert Hirst, 17, rural Thief River Falls, was hospitalized in this city. Both cars were listed as total losses by the Red Lake county sheriff's office.

Creamery at Clearbrook To Convert to Cheese

At a special stockholders' meeting of the Clearbrook Cooperative creamery Friday, July 1, the shareholders voted by a two-to-one margin to terminate its contract with Land O'Lakes and go into the production of cheese.

Clayton Steenerson, president of the board, told members before the vote that the results would be taken as a "vote of confidence" or direction by the board and not as a mandate to go into cheese production. The board, he said, will continue to consider action toward cheese manufacture with the "permissive" action taken Friday by the stockholders.

Representatives from Land O'Lakes and the cheese manufacturing business presented costs and returns from creameries and butter plants. Steenerson told stockholders that, based upon present study by the board, it would require about $45,000 to engage in a cheese operation. The vote for the proposal was 14 to six.

PURCHASE HEREFORD BULLS

U of M Student Is Home Agent Trainee Here

Miss Karen Axthelm of Glenwood Springs, Colo., a graduate of the University of Nebraska, has been placed in Pennington county as a home agent trainee for approximately four weeks, courtesy of the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service.

Miss Axthelm will work with and assist the county extension staff during this period of time as she gains experience before being placed in a home economics position in one of the other district counties. There will be no cost to the county as her salary and expenses will be paid by university funds.

Odegaard Herd Tops Red Lake D.H.I.A. in May

T. W. Odegaard and Sons of Crookston had the top producing herd in the Red Lake County Dairy Improvement association during May with an average of 1,496 pounds of milk and 52.8 pounds of butterfat, according to Delbert Schmitz, supervisor.

Greenbush Supt. Heads Six-State Athletic Group

Louis E. Allen, superintendent of schools at Greenbush, was recently elected to the board of directors of the National Federation of State high school athletic associations at the 47th annual meeting held at French Lick, Ind. Supt. Allen will serve as the Section 6 representative for the next three years. This section includes Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, S. Dakota and Wyoming.

The national federation consists of 50 member state high school associations and six affiliated Canadian provinces. The Minnesota State High School league is a member of this group and was represented at the French Lick meetings by B. H. Hill, executive secretary; assistants Kermit Anderson and Murray Freng; President Loren W. Senness, Monticello; and Louis E. Allen, treasurer.

Supt. Allen is only the second man from Minnesota to be elected section 6 representative. The former superintendent of schools at Glenwood, E. N. Nordgaard, served as the section representative from 1949-51. There are approximately 19,500 schools represented in the national federation and nearly 9 million students.

Supt. Allen assumes this new position with considerable experience in league and federation services. He is a former coach of all sports, teacher, principal, sports official and currently a superintendent of schools. Previous to his present position in Greenbush, he served school systems in Gonvick and Mentor. His educational background includes a BA degree from Bemidji state college and an MA degree from the University of Minnesota.

He has served on the Region 8 committee of the Minnesota State High school league for several years and was chairman of this group for four years. He has served on the league board of control since 1963. He is an active member of the Minnesota Education association, the Minnesota Association of School Administrators and the American Association of School Administrators.

The entire Allen family is very much involved in education. His wife, Irene, is teaching English and physical education in Greenbush. His son, L. David, teaches at Wayne State college, Wayne, Neb. One daughter, Julie, teaches physical education at New York Mills, and a second daughter Mary, will begin teaching physical education at Henning this fall.

Three from Area On Dean's List

Judy Larson of Thief River Falls, Helen Brown of Goodridge and Richard Johnson of Greenbush are among 365 students in the College of Science, Literature and Arts at the University of North Dakota who have been named to the 1965-66 second semester dean's list announced P. A. Rognlie, associate dean of SLA.

To be eligible for the dean's list, students must have compiled at least a B average as a full-time student during the second semester.

Dow-Key Co. Announces Move To Denver Suburb

NEIGHBORS proved what friends are for Sunday as they gathered at the Svendsgaard farm west of Goodridge to stack approximately 6,000 bales of alfalfa hay. Dale Svendsgaard, who suffered a leg injury in January when caught in the power take-off connecting his tractor and manure spreader, was scheduled to undergo major surgery in a Rochester hospital today to repair the damaged leg which had not satisfactorily responded to treatment. Sponsored by the Mavie 4-H club and directed by Kermit Maidment, the hay-hauling bee brought friends and neighbors from miles around to lend a helping hand. Charles Svendsgaard, Dale's father, told the Times Sunday that "just to say thank-you is nothing" in expressing appreciation for the assistance offered. More than 30 men and boys assisted in the hay hauling and stacking operation.

Langen Visits Minnesota During Congress Recess

Congressman Odin Langen was in Minnesota last week, taking advantage of the declared Congressional recess to visit with constituents.

While in the district, Rep. Langen met with the Red River Valley Milk Producers board of directors and the district and state representatives of the Minnesota newspaper association. Both meetings were held in Moorhead. In addition to these meetings, he will visit with as many others around the 7th District as time permits.

Congressman Langen returned to the area after participating in the Republican congressional committee candidates' school in Washington. A recognized national authority and leader on the American farm scene, he appeared on an agricultural panel during the school and participated in individual candidate conferences.

Lon Szymanski on Utah Dean's List

Lon Szymanski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Szymanski of Goodridge, a former Goodridge basketball star, has been named to the dean's list in the College of Science at Utah State University, it was reported today by Eldon J. Gardner, dean of the college.

The dean's list includes all students who have a grade point average of 3.5 or above in at least 15 units for the quarter.

Three Mishaps, Lareny Occur in City Saturday

Saturday was a busy day for the Thief River Falls police department. In addition to the afternoon mishap on Highway 32 reported elsewhere in this edition, police received reports of two accidents and a larceny.

At 10:25 p. m. a pickup driven by Darrell Wood, city, was traveling south on Main avenue and while making a left turn onto First street was struck by a car driven by Lloyd Hjelle, rt. 2, Newfolden, which was going north on Main. No estimate of damage is available at this time, and the mishap is under investigation.

At 11:30 p. m. a car owned by Galen Dahlen, city, was parked at the end of the 700 block on Atlantic avenue and was struck in the left front by a vehicle which left the scene. On Monday Rueben Carl Hanson, rt. 3, city, admitted that he was the party who struck the Dahlen vehicle. Charges are pending.

It was reported at 6 p. m. that a sum of money had been stolen from a local service station. Two juvenile boys were apprehended and admitted having taken $15. The case is under investigation.

BRIDGETTE MOMS TO MEET TUESDAY

Mothers of the Bridgeman Bridgettes will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the city auditorium. The regular meeting night has been changed from the first Monday to the second Tuesday of each month.

CONSTRUCTION is progressing at a satisfactory pace on the Redeemer Lutheran church edifice being built on Nora street between Maple and Spruce avenues. Built on the modern "A-frame" design, the building will be brick-faced, and windows will be placed in the double rafter in the center of the roof. The east wing (left) will contain the kitchen, fellowship hall and storage and boiler rooms, while the west wing will contain offices and classrooms, according to Rev. Dennis Rodin, pastor. Prichard Bros. Construction, whose base bid was $201,550, is the general contractor. Tentative completion date is October 1.

Rep. Andrew Skaar

Skaar Will File For Third Term In Legislature

Rep. Andrew Skaar, Thief River Falls area farmer who has served two terms in the Minnesota House of Representatives, announced this week that he will file Friday for a third term. He will be opposed in the new district 67-B (which includes Pennington, Roseau and park of eastern Marshall county) by Rep. Everett Battles of Warroad.

During the last session Rep. Skaar served on the following committees: appropriations, motor vehicles, dairy products and livestock, elections, health and welfare and state and junior colleges. He was vice chairman of the motor vehicles committee and a member of the education subcommittee of the appropriations committee During both terms following his legislative duties he has served as a member of the highway interim commission.

Pennington NFO To Elect Grain Board Thursday

Election of the grain board for the coming year will take place when the Pennington county chapter of the National Farmers organization meets Thursday at 9 p.m. at the Highlanding hall.

Present members of the county grain board include Alex Wold, Plummer; Louis Stenseth, Thief River Falls; Don Bernhardson, Oldrich Hoffman, George Horachek (chairman) and Frank Krechek, Goodridge.

Several definite steps in the dairy industry in the seventh district have been taken, according to Mrs. Edward Stucy, publicity chairman for the county chapter, and will be put to use in the near future. Dairy farmers are especially encouraged to attend the meeting. A free door prize will be awarded.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kiland and family of Hutchenson visited last week at the home of Mr. Kiland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kiland in this city.

Gordon Dow, president of the Dow-Key company of Thief River Falls, has announced plans to relocate the Dow-Key operation to Broomfield, Colo. The move is expected to take place sometime between October 15 and November 30 of this year.

In an interview with the Times this morning, Dow listed the availability of technical and professional people and the more suitable climate as main reasons for the move. He cited the exceptional educational facilities of that area for training of personnel in the electronics field and the air service which is also important to business of Dow-Key's nature.

Dow said that the company has purchased a five-acre tract of land in the Denver suburb and has an option for purchase of five additional adjoining acres. A new building, which will have 15,000 square feet of floor space including office area, has been contructed for and construction is expected to be completed within 90 days. The building will be located just off the Boulder-Denver turnpike.

In the 16 years since it was first incorporated as a Minnesota corporation by Gordon Dow and his father, Paul P. Dow, Dow-Key company has noted a rapid growth. Its first plant at Warren manufactured only semi-automatic telegraph keys.

In December fo 1947 the firm moved to Thief River Falls, locating southeast of the city along highway 59. Since that time the firm has had two expansion programs and is currently operating in crowded conditions. Dow-Key has approximately 45 full-time employees, making it one of the largest employers in this city. The company currently manufactures about 50 types of coaxial relays.

Dow told the Times this morning that all machinery and equipment used in the manufacture of the electronic components will be moved by the company to Colorado. The building is being offered for sale.

Supreme Court Upholds Election In Marshall Co.

Minnesota's supreme court recently refused to upset a school board election in a newly-consolidated school district in Marshall county. The court said the election of school board members would not have any effect on the consolidation which is being challenged in the courts.

Persons opposing consolidation argued that the district court should have honored their request for an injunction to stop the election, since the validity of the consolidation had not been established.

"The mere election of the school board of the new district does not interfere with the operation of the old districts pending determination of an appeal from the order of consolidation, nor does it specially affect the rights" of those opposed to the move, stated Associate Justice Martin Nelson in writing the opinion.

Associate Justice Walter Rogosheske, one of three who joined in a concurring opinion, said he agreed that the lower court had not abused its discretionary powers (in refusing to halt the election), but he saw no reason why the election should have been held until the consolidation matter had been settled.

Fire Destroyed Skallet Barn

Fire resulting from lightning about 6:45 p.m. July 1 destroyed a 34x60 barn on the Alton Skallet farm in Mayfield township about 16 miles southeast of Thief River Falls. Firemen from the Oklee fire department saved a nearby quonset building.

Also lost in the fire were 700 bales of 1966 crop alfalfa hay and about 300 bales of straw. An adjoining milkhouse with a large bulk tank was leveled by the fire and a new barn cleaner was also lost in the blaze. Skallet estimated the total loss at $10,000.

There were 18 head of milk cows and two calves in the barn at the time the lightning struck. All of the cattle were removed from the building as soon as smoke was seen coming from the barn.

Ferdie Browns of Grygla Honored On 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdie A. Brown of Grygla were honored on Sunday, June 26, when a large number of relatives and friends gathered at the Grace Lutheran church at Grygla to help them celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. Among the guests who arrived for the special occasion were their attendants at their wedding 50 years ago, Mrs. Josephine Jorgenson of Marysville, Wash., an aunt of Mrs. Brown, and Roy Brown of Moorhead, a brother of Mr. Brown. Serving as hosts and hostesses for the event were the brothers and sisters of the couple. Members of the Deborah circle assisted by serving the refreshments.

For the program that preceded the reception, the altar was graced by a floral arrangement, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bjorkman and Mrs. Margaret Race of Thief River Falls. Roger Blaine, a god-child of the honored couple, served as acolyte and the ushers were Clifford Bjorkman and Elmer Blaine.

Richard Bjorkman of Thief River Falls, a nephew of the couple, was in charge of the program. Elaine Askeland presided at the organ and the Rev. S. J. Sigurgeirson led in devotions.

A number of nieces participated in the program. They were Bonnie Hoverman, who paid a special tribute to the honored couple; Mrs. Darrell Linthacum, who read a history of the lives of the couple, and Paulette Bucholz, a great-niece, who read the poem, "We Two". Great-nieces and nephews participated by singing "The Happy Anniversary Song" and "Jesus Loves Me". They were Jan and Lisa Hoverman, Ann and Jon Jon Linthacum and Kelly and Tommy Bjorkman.

Other musical numbers included the duet "The King and I" by Mrs. Arnold Larson and Mrs. Roy Nordby and the hymn "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" by Mrs. Raymond Sorenson, Mrs. Arnold Larson, Mrs. Orlean Anderson, Mrs. Art Nordby, Mrs. Henry Holte, Mrs. Harry McLean, Mrs. Harley Bucholz and Margaret Tengesdal. The assembled guests participated by singing "O Happy Home" and "Take My Life and Let it Be". Following the presentation of the gifts from the group by Richard Bjorkman, Mr. and Mrs. Brown responded with words of appreciation.

At the reception, as the guests extended greetings to the honored guests, they were served punch by Bonnie Brown Hoverman and Paulette Bucholz. Gracing the table at which Mrs. Alvin Blaine and Mrs. Harold Einarson registered the guests, was a pair of candles, shaped like a pair of doves. These were gifts from a niece, Mrs. Lee Engelbert Duffield of Boulder, Colo.

Nieces of the couple, Mrs. Richard Bjorkman and Mrs. Harley Bucholz cut and served the pillared anniversary cake while Mrs. Linda Booren of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Myron Miller of International Falls, long-time friends of the couple, poured. Serving the nectar were Holly Blaine and Pamela Bucholz, great - nieces of the couple.

Guests attending were from Spokane and Marysville, Wash.; Allen Park, Mich.; LeSueur, Kenyon, Pengilly, Roseau, Kennedy, Lancaster, Hallock, Thief River Falls, ger, Goodridge and St. Paul.

Gilthvedt and Carlson Vows Exchanged at Roseau

Messiah Lutheran church at Roseau was the scene Sunday, June 26, at 4 p.m., of the wedding of Miss Karen Lucia Gilthvedt and Ronald Wayne Carlson. The Rev. Ernest Thompson officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with an arrangement of yellow roses. Palms in beauty vases graced the chancel, huckleberry sprays marked the pews and smylax bordered the aisle.

The traditional nuptial music was provided by the organist Mrs. R. J. Halvorson, who also played Handel's "Water Music" as the bridal party proceeded to the altar. Gary Gilthvedt, brother of the bride, was vocalist. He sang Handel's "Wedding Hymn" and also chanted "The Lord's Prayer".

Parents of the bridal couple are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Earl Gilthvedt of Roseau and Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Carlson of 707 South Union avenue, Fergus Falls.

The bride, escorted down the aisle and given in marriage by her father, wore a white peau de soie floor length gown in empire fashion. An overlay of Alencon lace enhanced the bodice and matching lace formed the elbow length sleeves and bordered the full length train of silk illusion. A large floral petal headpiece of white chiffon secured her bouffant veil and she carried an arm bouquet of long stemmed yellow roses accented by a bow of willow green ribbon.

Miss Sharon Schroeer of St. Paul park, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Other attendants were Martha Gilthvedt of Hopkins, sister-in-law of the bride and Rosemary Calness of DeKalb, Ill., sister of the groom. They wore willow green floor length gowns of pleated silk chiffon in empire fashion styled with rounded neckline and short puffed sleeves. Thier viels were held by three small roses of the same color and material as the gowns, and each carried an arm bouquet of long stemmed yellow roses.

Clifford Keller of Fergus Falls, a friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Larry Wall of St. Paul Park and Ron Gilthvedt of Roseau, brother of the bride. Ushers were Gary Gilthvedt of Hopkins and Dean Calness of DeKalb, Ill., brother-in-law of the groom.

The men of the wedding party were in semi-formal afternoon attire with white carnation boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a white rose bud.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Gilthvedt wore a lace dress in antique gold over china silk. The groom's mother was attired in a gown of green lace. Both wore identical corsages of yellow roses.

A reception followed the ceremony with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nelson as host and hostess. Centering the serving table was a round three-tiered wedding cake featuring an arrangement of yellow roses topping each tier and cascading down the side. Yellow roses also decorated the individual pieces of cake served to the guests. Aunts of the bride, Mrs. Mel Burrel of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Llyle Thieling, poured. Lola Nelson registered the guests while Sheryl Thieling and Ginnie Burrell served the punch and Mrs. Don Kofstad presided at the gift table.

For travel on the wedding trip to Kenora and Winnipeg, Man., Canada, the bride wore a beige three-piece linen suit.

The bride is a graduate of Roseau high school and Concordia college, Moorhead, and the groom is a graduate of Moorhead State college. They will make their home at St. Paul Park where both are engaged as teachers by the St. Paul Park School District 833.

John Lind will be in charge of the devotional meditation. A report of the National Covenant Women conference held in Chicago, Ill., in June will be given by Mrs. John Lind, who attended the sessions. Special vocal selections will be given by several senior high school girls.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Fred Lorentson, Mrs. Emil Mellem and Mrs. John Anderson.

CORRECTION

In the Zion church announcements appearing in Wednesday's edition it was erroneously stated that the ALCW meeting will be held Wednesday. The meeting will actually be held Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Local Women Win At Recent Area Golf Tournaments

At the Thief River Falls Ladies golf club luncheon on Tuesday it was announced that several women from the club had won prizes at recent tournaments held in the area. On June 28, at Red Lake Falls, Betty Waldera placed second in the first flight and Dorothy Boyer won second place in the fourth flight. The following day at Stephen, Keks Lee won the championship flight, Ella Anderson placed first in the first flight and Phyllis Moum won second place in the fourth flight.

It was also announced that Norma Heyn had won the low net at golf at the local course on Tuesday, June 28.

Hostesses at the luncheon were Dora Mattson, Ella Ranum, Marilyn Charlson and Alice Lee. President Ella Anderson was in charge of the business session. She again reminded the members to bring dish cloths to be donated to the club.

Plans were also made for the in-town tournament and guest day to be held Tuesday, July 19.

Bridge and golf followed the luncheon. The high at bridge was won by Marge Thompson with Mrs. Andy Maguson of Merced, Calif., winning second prize.

At golf, the event was "the same score on most holes." Keks Lee won first with six 6's. Tying for second place were Marie Sorenson, Lois Broughton and Phyllis Moum, with the winner to be announced at the next luncheon. The low net was won by Marvel Van Rooy.

Tournaments scheduled in the area are Karlstad, July 14; Fosston and River Bend at East Grand Forks, July 20; Greenbush, July 26 and Mahnomen, July 27.

Viking Garden Club Entertained At J. Thompsons

Mrs. John Thompson entertained at breakfast at her home at Viking on Wednesday, June 29. Guests were the members of the Viking Town and country club together with Mrs. Clarice Sherva and Mrs. Gene Halvorson.

The theme of the breakfast was "Roses" with the hostess carrying out the motif with tables set with luncheon cloths featuring a rose pattern and napkins imprinted with roses. Centerpieces of roses and rosebuds in low crystal bowls completed the theme.

Following the breakfast, president Mrs. Harold Kagg presided at the brief business session. The group was then taken on a tour of the Thompson lawn to view the blossoming roses, flowers, various shrubs and trees.

The next meeting of the group will be held at Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson's lake cottage.

Johnson-Jorgenson Vows Exchanged Here Recently

Miss Joyce Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson of Aurora, became the bride of Wendell Jorgenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jorgenson of Goodridge at an 8 p.m. ceremony, Saturday, June 11, at the Assemblies of God Tabernacle in this city. The Rev. H. Ray Collver officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by 275 relatives and friends.

Mrs. Ronald Heisel was pianist and accompanied the Rev. James Poppenhagen as he sang "The Lord's Prayer", "O Perfect Love" and "Life's Pathway We Tred". Forming the chancel setting were candelbra and two baskets of white chrysanthemums and white gladioli. A large white candle graced the piano and avocado colored candles marked the first three rows of pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown with long sleeves fashioned of white slipper satin with a sheer chiffon overlay. Rose appliques enhanced the bateau neckline and bodice and formed a border around the semi-full skirt. Matching appliques were scattered across the full length train attached in the back to a cummberbund. A fabric rose petal headpiece held her fingertip bouffant veil of silk illusion and she carried an arrangement of American red roses, white carnations and lilies of the valley, together with her grandmother's feathered wedding fan.

Miss Audrey Johnson of this city attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a floor-length avocado green satin gown in empire fashion styled with a bateau neckline, short sleeves and featuring a mint green straight skirt with chiffon overlay. To complete her attire she wore avocado green shoes, white wrist length gloves and a drop pearl necklace. Her headpiece was a veiled avocado green satin ring and she carried three long stemmed American red roses accented with a white bow.

Other attendants were Miss Sharon Johnson of Minneapolis, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Richard Johnson of Embarrass, sister of the groom. They were dressed and carried bouquets similar to that of the maid of honor.

Nieces of the bride, Denise and Bethany Poppenhagen of Babbitt, served as flower girls. Their white satin floor length gowns were styled in empire fashion with full skirts of white chiffon overlay.

Loren Johnson of Fremont, Calif., brother of the bride, was best man, groomsmen were Richard Johnson of Embarrass, brother of the bride, and Royal Jorgenson of Goodridge, brother of the groom.

Serving as ushers were Glenn Poppenhagen of Babbitt, brother-in-law of the bride, and Wendell Telgland of Wahpeton, N. D. The acolytes were Larry Johnson of this city and Sheldon Thompson of Babbitt, cousins of the bride and groom, respectively. The men of the wedding party wore white dinner jackets, dark trousers and red carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride was attired in an aqua summer-weight woolen sheath dress, with a bow accenting her waistline. The mother of the groom wore a light green dress in a figured print. Both mothers wore white accessories and identical corsages of pink roses and white carnations.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony with Mrs. Nelius Johnson as hostess. Centering the serving table was a 10 tiered wedding cake in the form of a square cross. Decorated with red roses and white bells, accented with mint green leaves, the cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom in a large wedding bell. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Julia McCoy and Mrs. Alma Lindquist while Mrs. Bruce Blazer poured. Mrs. Glen Poppenhagen registered the guests. Mrs. E. Elder served the punch and the waitresses were JoAnn Johnson, Marlys Johnson and Brenda Olson, cousins of the bride. Opening and arranging the gifts were Mrs. Roger Skime, JoAnn Riveness and Mrs. E. Elder while Sharon Sanders and Mrs. Robert Benson served as waitresses for the bridal table.

Guests attending were from Fremont, Calif.; Wahpeton and Grand Forks, N. D.; Sioux Falls, S. D.; Aurora, Babbitt, Embarrass, Minneapolis, Duluth, Two Harbors, Beaver Bay, Fertile, Goodridge, Grygla, St. Hilaire, Clearbrook, Newfolden, Bemidji and Plummer.

For the wedding trip to California, Oregon and Washington, the bride wore an aqua two-piece cotton knit suit with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses and white carnations.

The bride is a graduate of the Hoyt Lakes high school at Aurora and the Thief River Falls area vocational - technical school, department of practical nursing. She is presently employed at the Thief River Clinic. The groom is a graduate of the Goodridge high school and is employed by the Lee Plumbing and Heating. They are at home at 705½ East Eighth street in this city.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. WALLACE REIERSON

The recipe today is for Chocolate Sandwich cookies, a cooky that is generally a favorite among children. Unlike so many sandwich cookies that require rolling and cutting, this is a drop cooky with a creamy marshmallow filling.

Chocolate Sandwich Cookies

½ cup butter or shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup milk
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cocoa

Method: Mix ingredients in order given and beat until smooth. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls on a cookie sheet and bake in a 400 degree oven for seven minutes. Cool.

Filling:
½ cup white shortening
2 cups powdered sugar
1 cup marshmallow creme
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 or 4 teaspoons milk.

Method: Cream shortening and sugar, beat in other ingredients and spread between two cookies.

Mrs. Reierson says that these cookies are a favorite of her family especially of their children, Virginia, 9; Cynthia, 7 and three-year-old William.

The Reiersons, who live on a farm south of the airport, are engaged in dairy and some grain farming. Mr. Reierson also rents three other farms which he operates with outside help during the busy season.

Mrs. Reierson does all her own baking, which includes baking all the bread used by the family. She also sews most of the clothes for the children.

They are active members of the Evangelical Free church in this city. Mr. Reierson is chairman of the congregation and is a member of the choir and quartette. She is serving as program chairman of the Women's Missionary society.

Permits Required To Erect Signs Along State Roads

Permits for billboards and all advertising devices along interstate and trunk highways in Minnesota are being required as of July 1, reports the Minnesota Highway department.

The new permit system, established under the authority of the billboard control law passed by the 1965 state legislature provides for regulation of advertising signs along the 900 miles of interstate and 12,000 miles of trunk highways in the state.

Owners of existing advertising devices along these highways and those planning to erect new ones are required to obtain permits, and those signs for which permits are not obtained will be removed. However, on-premise advertising signs, signs within the corporate limits of municipalities and signs within areas zoned industrial or commercial are generally exempt from the new regulations.

Annual permit fees vary from $2 to $10 per sign, depending upon size, but fees for the balance of 1966 will be half the annual fee. Permits must be renewed by Jan. 2, 1967, and annually after that. Penalty for failure to renew in time will be $2 for each advertising device.

"The purpose of this program," Highway Commissioner John R. Jamieson said, "is enhancement of our roadsides for our state's motorists. Rules governing spacing, condition, safety and size of signs have been worked out to implement the legislature's desire that Minnesota's highways be kept pleasant and attractive for all citizens." He noted that highway department forces had been working diligently since the law was passed completing a statewide inventory of existing signs and drawing up a manual of department policy and procedure which would accomplish the purpose of the law and be fair to advertising companies and local businesses.

Permits may be obtained from the nine highway district offices throughout the state, located at Duluth, Bemidji, Brainerd, Detroit Lakes, Rochester, Mankato, Willmar, Golden Valley and 1246 University avenue in St. Paul. Although permits may be obtained only from highway district offices, permit applications may be secured from highway area maintenance offices at the above locations and at Virginia, Crookston, St. Cloud, Morris, Owatonna, Windom, Marshall and St. Paul Park.

The Library Corner

by Flora Allison

So what else is new? Books and more books, on an unlimited number of topics, both fiction and non-fiction, continue to crowd the library shelves. There's the last one, for instance, from the prolific pen of the late Ian Fleming, "The Octopussy." Strange title; strange tale of Major Smythe, who becomes obsessed with the desire for mastery of an octopus lying off the watery shores of Jamaica, the island paradise of the western hemisphere.

Smythe, intrigued beyond the bounds of caution with the strange denizen which fascinates him, meets with tragedy at its hands, or rather, from its tentacles ... This, and another short novel concerned with the no-man's land between the two Berlins, "The Living Daylights" by name, comprise this volume. All Fleming fans will want to sample these two stories, to round out their following of their idol.

The provocative title, "Memories of the Future," by Paul Horgan, is acclaimed a masterpiece. A novel of our era, with peace and war, brutality and tenderness meeting in its pages, touching, and becoming enmeshed one with the other as they are in the reality of existence, is now available. Our reaction was to agree that it is sensitive and powerful stuff. A masterpiece? You be the judge.

Others just received are Slaughter's new one, "Surgeon, U.S.A.," "The Detective," by Roderick Thorp; "The Last Gentleman" by Percy, and "Two Under the Indian Sun," which is evoking excellent reviews. The Goddens collaborate on this latter story, which deals with two sisters from the exotic East. They return to India, their mother country, where they see the ever - present stark poverty on the one hand, the filthy richness of the monied set, but, as many do not, they also find a middle class, which lives under neither extreme.

In their love and closeness they know that India also contains tenderness, and peace, and a good measure of content. Through their eyes we see a face of India not often recognized nor written about. Perhaps it is their intent to show that there is hope for India's future somewhere, and that her cause is not lost, as is sometimes assumed.

There are also a number of other books soon to be displayed for your pleasure. Watch for them.

"The Mission" by Hans Habe, is another of the stories written about one of mankind's most shocking encounters with senseless brutality, in the form of a war of extermination of a race, which, despite its inroads into their numbers, never quite came off. The systematic, step-by-step plan, carried out in logical progression against the Jews in World War II is the subject of this book. Jewish supression, harassment, and finally, wholesale martyrdom, is set forth in "The Mission's" pages with the mastery of a probing pen a shocking indictment of the twentieth century of man's "civilization".

Joseph Altsheler has another breathless book for juniors in his "The Scouts of the Valley." A page torn from history, with all the savagry of the age of the Indian massacres, this leatherstocking adventure in Pennsylvania is taut with suspense, mystery and heroism. Scalps hanging from Indian belts, the figure of a pioneer woman poised with a tomahawk to protect her life and that of her children, men with guns at the ready, probing the brushlands and the hillsides for the enemy redskins, all are told about with realism so sharply drawn as to cause the reader to step gingerly in spite of himself, lest he too rouse a band of the wary Indians.

The hero of the story, in flight from terror, encounters dangers of another sort in the blizzard, the threat of starvation, the agony of survival with a badly injured ankle and other perils. A thriller that should appeal to the older boys, written by the author voted as one of the most popular boys' writers in America; a favorite with their sisters, too.

A new biography of Billy Graham has been proudly placed on the shelf this week. By Pollock, it pictures with warmth and sensitivity a great evangelist of our day. It draws from its readers a sense of admiration and deep respect for another man to come to the fore with fearless courage and speak out against the evils of our time. Well worth your time. We recommend it, this portrait in words, and predict that it will enjoy quite a rush of popularity and then longer on into later years as a fitting tribute to a fine young man, an ardent crusader and a voice that youth respects and will remember.

Kiddies will love the novel way in which a new book, "The Family Tree", a Parents' Magazine Press Book authored by Komaiko and Rosenthal, explains the rather complicated and complex concept of the family tree. Charmingly told it speaks of this lineage record which is a part of each of us, "as long as there are people who marry and have babies." It's an easy way to elucidate for the youngsters, your own little Miss or Mister, the fact that they are little twigs on a large and spreading tree which will grow on and on, into forever. Illustrations in this little gem are decidedly cute. Moms and Pops will enjoy them too, along with the text.

And speaking of enjoyment, books are a year'round treat, no matter what the time or season, no matter what the need, or reason. Help yourself at the library. If you don't have a card, ask for one. It's painless, and quick. We'd like to have you join our ever-growing family. Wander on in . . .

Brooks Airman Promoted to USAF Staff Sergeant

Fredrick J. Toupin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Toupin of Brooks has been promoted to staff sergeant in the U. S. Air Force.

Sergeant Toupin is a weapons mechanic at Grand Forks AFB, N. D. He is a member of the Strategic Air Command which maintains America's constantly alert force of intercontinental missiles and jet bombers. He is a graduate of Mentor high school.

Plummer Youth Enlists in Navy

Milton Lewis Peterson, son of Leonard Peterson of Plummer, enlisted in the U. S. Navy's 120-day program in ceremonies held Wednesday at the Recruiting Substation, Universal Building, Fargo, N. D.

He will begin his active duty tour within 120 days at the recruit training center of his choice, after which he will be assigned to duty with the operating forces at sea or assigned to one of the many service schools available to qualified Navymen.

The new 120-day program permits qualified young men to continue their jobs or education while accumulating service for increased pay and at the same time satisfying their six-year military obligation.

Test Plots Will Be Viewed for Marshall County

Manitou wheat, Clintfort oats and Conquest barley are some new varieties of grain crops which will be discussed at crop demonstration plot meetings scheduled in Marshall county July 19. Meetings will be held at three plot locations on that date, according to Chuck Nelson, Marshall county agricultural agent.

The meetings are scheduled as follows: Warren — 1 p.m. at plot located on U.S. 75, ½ mile North of Warren on Nelson farms; Middle River and Gatzke — 6:30 p.m. at plot located 11 miles east of Middle River on the Roy Juhl farm; and Grygla — 8:30 p.m. at plot located on 9-mile corner, west of Grygla, Bob Prestebak farm.

Harley Otto, extension agronomist, will be present to lead the discussion. Farmers are invited to attend and bring a neighbor. The plots are open for inspection at any time during the season.

Night Drivers Must Be Alert to Dangers

Drivers who have a constructive fear of the dark can be almost as safe at midnight as at noon. It's mainly a matter of keeping your guard up and your speed down and having good vehicle lights, according to the Minnesota highway department.

Sealed beam headlights on modern cars are designed to provide good, well - distributed light. However, they require proper maintenance and should often be checked for proper adjustment and correct aiming.

A good indication of poorly aimed headlights is repeated flicking from low to high beam by oncoming drivers when you are using your low beam. However, a heavily loaded rear deck or two-wheeled trailer behind might be your problem. If you travel any distance under these conditions, you should have your headlights adjusted to fit your load.

Once your headlights are properly adjusted and maintained, the rest is up to you. The fact is that, mile for mile of travel, the highway death rate after dark is triple the daytime rate.

Most highways have posted reduced speeds for afterdark driving. There is good reason for this because night visibility extends only as far as your headlights reach.

If you drive at night observe the following rules:

Always switch to lower beam when meeting an oncoming car. Do so also when approaching from behind, for blinding glare can be reflected from the rear view mirror. Remember that you, as well as others, can be a victim of your own glaring lights. You should "track" an oncoming car at night by glancing at the center line of the road ahead of that car. By watching the center line you can see the side of the oncoming car and can tell if it is staying in line.

You must make allowance for the greater number of drinking drivers, for fatigued drivers, for persons with poor night vision and for those who contribute to the dangers of darkness.

When you can see nothing but a set of tail lights ahead, the dangers of passing are multiplied many times. Do not pass until you have definite assurance that the road ahead is straight and unoccupied. And even then beware of dips which could hide an oncoming car!

Pedestrians, unlighted vehicles, animals, road defects and other objects can become special hazards in the dark. You must watch beyond your headlights for dark shapes on the road. If poor visibility forces you to look low to find your path, or keeps you from seeing beyond your headlights, pull your speed down to a safe level. If you cannot see well beyond your headlights at night, have your eyes checked. About one driver in four needs eyeglasses or needs his present glasses changed.

Keep your eyes moving and be aware of fixed-stare driving. Many drivers get a fixed stare by picking a speed that forces them to glue their eyes to the road ahead. If they moved their eyes they could not avoid slowing down. (A driver who drinks cannot avoid a fixed stare.)

When you get to the point where you can no longer remain comfortable, or where your eyes want to close, even for a split second this is the time to call it a night or pull over for a rest. If you continue driving in this condition you not only endanger yourself and your family, but you are a menace to every other driver on the road.

The above night driving tips are suggestions made by state police and highway patrol officers of all the states. Compliance with these rules is the mark of a mature, competent driver who has a constructive "fear of the dark" that helps to make night driving a safe, enjoyable experience.

Revenue Service Has Tax Question Answers

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q — I just found out my father paid tax last year on his social security benefits. Is it too late to do anything about it?

A — Security benefits are not taxable and your father is entitled to a refund on the tax he paid on them. This can be done by filing a claim for refund on Form 843 or by filing an amended return.

To file an amended return, use a Form 1040 and write "amended" across the top. Then fill in the return as it should have been and recompute the tax liability.

Q — I am withholding social security taxes for my maid who works in my home. Do I have to withhold income taxes too?

A — No. Household employees are exempt from income tax withholding.

Q — In the restaurant where I work, most of the tips we get come from the service charge that is added on to the bill. Since we get this money from our employer we haven't been reporting this as tip income. Some friends of mine working in another restaurant are reporting this money as tip income. Who is right?

A — You are. Service charges shared by employees are considered wages and are reported as such by your employer. You need not include them when you report to your employer the cash tips you made.

A — I've been out on sick leave for a month now and it looks as it it will be several months more before I can return to work. I am sure I will qualify for the sick pay exclusion when I file next year's return. Can my boss stop withholding income tax on the pay I receive while I'm out?

A — If you receive your sick pay under an employer - financed plan, then you may ask your employer not to withhold income tax on the excludable portion. To do this, your employer has to have evidence that you do qualify for the sick pay exclusion. Therefore, the best thing for you to do is to give the payroll department at your place of employment the information needed for its record.

Q — I received some U. S. savings bonds from my mother's estate. Will I have to pay federal income tax on them?

A — The bonds do not have to be declared as income, but you will have to pay tax on the interest. The year in which you report this income depends on the type of bond. For an explanation, contact our office.

Q — I was audited last year and had to pay additional tax on my income. What are the chances I will be audited again?

A — Just because you have been audited once does not mean that you will automatically be audited the following year. Returns are selected for audit because there are apparent errors on the returns indicating overpayment or underpayment of tax. Returns are also selected for audit on a random basis to test and encourage correct reporting.

At some time or other, all taxpayers may expect to have their returns audited. At present, all returns are mathematically verified. Also, periodic checks on other aspects of a return contribute to sound tax administration.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor, Times
Thief River Falls, Minn.

The Mrs. Jaycees of your community have just completed another year of activities in behalf of their community. I would like to take this opportunity to publicly express the gratitude of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation for the wonderful support your Mrs. Jaycees have given the Cystick Fibrosis program.

Cystic Fibrosis is one of those tragic disorders which causes terrible suffering and possible death for the infants and children afflicted. Cystic Fibrosis is a community problem in that it affects about one out of every thousand children born and causes intolerable burdens on the family. Thankfully, new medical advances in early detection and treatment are literally giving a new breath of life to these unfortunate infants and children.

Without the tireless help and wonderful dedication of the Mrs. Jaycees the Cystic Fibrosis program in Minnesota could not exist as a vital source of help to Cystic Fibrosis children and their families. The support the Mrs. Jaycees have given in the development of the Cystic Fibrosis detection program is just one reflection of the deep interest they hold for the health and welfare of their community.

Our families who have had to face the terrible suffering and untimely death of their C-F child and the families who daily face the agony of caring for their afflicted child hold deep affection for the wonderful efforts of your Mrs. Jaycees. We feel that your community should be aware of their great service to Cystic Fibrosis which works toward the betterment of health for everyone.

Sincerely,
Charles F. Moeller
Executive Director
Minnesota Chapter
National Cystic Fibrosis
Research Foundation.

SEWING is among the hobbies of 18-year-old Mary Jo Walker of Oklee, daughter of James Walker of Ada. A 1965 graduate of Oklee high school, she has attended one year at the Thief River Falls Junior college and is currently employed at J & B Drug store in this city. Her talent number for the Miss Thief River Falls pageant Saturday, July 30, in the Lincoln high school gymnasium, will be a vocal skit.

Mary Jo Walker In Queen Pageant

by Marvin Lundin Times Editor

(This is the second in a series of personal interview articles on candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the annual Jaycees Aquacade Pageant Saurday, July 30. Stories on other candidates will be published in succeeding issues.)

Activity is a natural element for Mary Jo Walker, 18, daughter of James Walker of Ada. Mary Jo is a native of Oklee area where she attended high school, living with her guardian, Mrs. Marie Collette, and graduating in 1965. She attended junior college in Thief River Falls during the past term and is currently employed at J & B Drug store in this city.

Miss Walker is 5' 6¾" tall, weighs 123 pounds, has brown hair and dark brown eyes and a 35-24-35 figure. Her hobbies include oil painting, dancing, singing, playing clarinet, sewing, photography and making scrapbooks of each year's events. Her talent number in the Miss America preliminary pageant July 30 will be a vocal skit.

During her high school years at Oklee she participated in band, choir, instrumental and vocal ensembles, stage band (officer), Girls Athletic association (officer), one-act play contest, pep band and pep club, library staff, annual staff and class plays. She was vice president of the student council her senior year and a member of the Catholic Youth organization.

Among the most memorable events of high school Mary Jo lists such things as becoming a homecoming queen attendant, attending Girls State as a representative sponsored by the Oklee American Legion auxiliary, playing clarinet in an instrumental ensemble hich received "A" rating at the state-area contest and graduating as an honor student.

As a student in the local junior college, she served as vice president of the student council and treasurer of the choir. She was a member of the "Briarwood Singers" which won first place in the college talent contest and served as chairman of the first spring formal held by the college. During the winter quarter she received a scholarship from the Falls-Starekow clinic. She is also a member of the Newman club organized for college and vocational students.

In addition to her father and her guardian, members of Mary Jo's family include an older sister, Mrs. James (Lora Jean) Colvard of Madison, Tenn.; an older brother, John, of Baldwin Park, Calif.; and a younger brother, Kelly.

After attending the local junior college next year, Miss Walker plans to continue her education at Moorhead state college where she will major in psychology.

Lerud Opens Art Exhibit at UND

Donald Lerud, Thief River Falls high school and junior college art instructor, opened an art exhibit in the Chester Fritz library art gallery on the University of North Dakota campus at Grand Forks Sunday. It will be on display through July 22. Landscapes in oils and water and collage are featured.

Lerud received his master's degree from UND in June with a major in art. He also holds a bachelor's degree from the University.

AAA List Tips For Safe Travel On Expressways

America's high-speed expressway are hastening citizens to their favorite vacation spots this summer and, according to the Minnesota AAA, far more safely for those motorists who follow a few helpful tips on expressway driving.

Check the car before leaving on that long vacation trip. Make sure lights, brakes, windshield wipers, and other equipment is operating perfectly. Be sure tires are in good condition. On a long trip at constant speeds, it is a good idea to add an extra four pounds of pressure per tire over the pressure recommended in the owner's manual.

Avoid "highway hypnosis". AAA traffic experts say it's a good idea to stop for a rest at the nearest service or rest area every 100 miles and whenever feeling sleepy or tired.

Keep the seat belt fastened.

Don't tailgate, especially on expressways where high speeds tend to lull drivers into a false sense of security. Maintain a safe distance between your vehicle and the one ahead.

When overtaking to pass, first check to the rear, signal, then move into the passing lane while your car is still well behind the vehicle ahead. After passing, be sure there is plenty of room between your car and the one you just passed (wait until you can see the left front of the vehicle in the rear view mirror, without craning your neck), then signal and return to the driving lane.

Adjust speed to weather conditions.

In event of car trouble, park on the right-hand shoulder well off the concrete. Lift the hood and display a white handkerchief from the driver's door or from an extended radio antenna where it can be seen easily.

Finally the AAA cautions that expressways are not designed for slow-poke drivers. If you want to take a leisurely sight-seeing drive, do it on a road where there is no constant high-speed traffic.

Spray Plane Pilot Injured in Crash Near Warren

Don Illies, owner of Illies Flying Service and manager of the Warren airport, is recovering in Warren hospital after a crash that injured him and demolished his $25,000 spray-equipped biplane.

The mishap occurred when Illies was spraying a field one-half mile north and a mile east of Warren Monday, July 4, at about 11:25 a.m. He was making his first pass over the field in a westerly direction and his speed was boosted by a tail wind. As he looked for the flag boys he struck a telephone wire at the west end of the field which he failed to see. The impact pulled out two poles and somersaulted his plane into the ditch.

Illies broke a window and crawled out and his flag boys, Charles Torkelson and Henry Hammerback Jr., rushed him to the hospital. He received a severe scalp laceration, injuries of his right knee and thigh and multiple bruises. He is reported in good condition.

Hindu Convert to Conduct Meetings At Grygla Church

Jonathan B. Maraj, a converted Hindu from Trinidad who has spent the past five years in India, will conduct a series of meeting tonight (Monday) through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the Grygla Lutheran mission.

Special music will be featured at the meetings. Saturday evening will be "Youth Night." Everyone is invited to attend.

Maraj is a graduate of Prairie Bible institute in Alberta, Canada, and also attended one year at Luther seminary of St. Paul. He is serving under the World Mission Prayer League and has been working in the Nepal area of India.

His wife, who is a doctor from India, and their infant son David are accompanying him. He has spoken in a number of churches in the area prior to leaving for India.

Egg Factory on Oklee Farm Razed By Fire July 1

A three-deck egg factory at the Larry O'Neill farm three miles east of Oklee was destroyed by fire Friday night, July 1. About 6,000 laying hens perished in the flames.

Although firemen from Oklee, Plummer and Gonvick had no chance to save the 32x72 - foot converted barn, they were successful in protecting a nearly new 34x160-foot building nearby which is also an egg factory housing about 6,000 birds.

The burned barn, which had a 33-foot peak, was built in 1933 to replace a barn that burned when struck by lightning that year. It was converted to an egg factory in 1961 and 1962 to accomodate about 7,000 laying hens. O'Neill plans to rebuild as soon as possible.

Yard 'n Garden

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

Gladiolus is one of the most popular summer-blooming tender bulb in Minnesota. Not only does it come in vivid and diverse colors, but also in many different sizes of flowers.

To grow high quality glads it is necessary to start with healthy bulbs or corms. Use the variety of your choice and grow them in a good soil. The soil should be well drained and rich in nutrients. A sandy loam is preferable.

The bulbs or corms should be spaced about six inches apart in rows that are 18 to 36 inches apart. Plant four to six inches deep, depending on the size of the corms. The larger sizes require deeper planting for anchorage. You may wish to group the glads in the flower border rather than plant them in rows. In any event, label all varieties for your reference and also for the benefit of visiting gardeners.

One of the main problems with the gladiolus is the thrip. This tiny insect stays on the leaves and on the flower buds. As a result the flowers may become mottled or misshapen when they open. A dusting with a five per cent DDT dust or a spray made from 50 per cent wettable powder will control this particular pest.

Cut the spikes as soon as the first florets begin to open. Place the stems in water immediately and store in a cool place out of the sun. Use a sharp knife to avoid taking too many of the lower leaves. Leaves left on the plant will help assure a sturdy bulb for the ensuing year.

When glads are grown on a lighter soil a side dressing of fertilizer should be applied about mid-season. This should be a light application of a complete fertilizer such as an 8-8-8 analysis.

Success or failure in growing trees and shrubs may well depend on how well you do the job. When plant materials arrive from the nursery, unwrap them and examine the roots. If they seem dry, plunge them into water for several hours before planting. If the plants are moist, plant them immediately.

Be sure to dig a hole amply large to accommodate the root system of the tree or shrub without crowding. Cut off any broken roots with a pruning shear or sharp knife. Set the tree or shrub in place with the roots well spread out and slightly deeper than in the nursery. Then fill in around the roots with good top soil and firm it by tamping to eliminate any of the air spaces around the roots.

In case the soil is dry, water before the hole is completely filled. Let the water soak in and add loose soil to fill the hole completely. Watering is needed during the first season until the plant is well established.

In heavy soil make the well for watering above grade rather than below grade. This practice is necessary in order to avoid the accumulation of surface water collecting in the hole where the tree is planted. On lighter soil it is acceptable to leave the watering hole below the existing grade.

Newly planted trees and shrubs should be pruned back rather heavily to balance the loss of roots. Often this pruning is done in the nursery. When buying new trees and shrubs be sure to ask if they have been pruned for transplanting.

In pruning, be sure to maintain the natural form of the tree. Thin out branches and prune back lateral shoots to a bud that points out away from the tree. If a tree is planted in a windy location it may be necessary to stake it the first year until the roots become well anchored.

Asparagus and rhubarb are two of the most popular perennial vegetables. Generally they occupy the garden space for several years so they are placed at one end of the garden where they will not interfere with soil preparation the following years.

Both are cool-season crops and can be planted as early in the spring as soil can be prepaed. Although asparagus may be planted from seed, it is more desirable to get one-year-old crowns. Rhubarb rhizomes should be planted to assure a good variety. For a family of five, the garden should have at least 60 asparagus crowns and six to 12 rhubarb rhizomes.

Any of the Washington strains of asparagus are suitable. These are rust resistant and good producers. The Faribo Hybrid asparagus will be twice as productive.

One of the most popular rhubarb varieties is the Chipman's Canada Red. Other good red-stemmed varieties include Valentine and MacDonald Crimson. These appear to be more difficult to obtain.

Set asparagus crowns in a six to eight-inch farrow that has been prepared with some compost or well rotted manure on the bottom and covered with one inch of garden soil. Space the crowns 18 inches apart in rows four feet apart. Cover the crowns with about two inches of soil and fill in the rest of the trench as plants develop.

Rhubarb roots are much like peony roots. Holes are dug wide enough to accomodate the roots and deep enough so that the top buds are placed about two to three inches underground. The usual spacing is three to five feet apart each way.

Don't start harvesting the new plantings of either crop until the spring of the third year. top harvesting asparagus after July 1 and avoid pulling rhubarb longer than an eight-week period. These harvesting pointers will assure enough top growth to store up food for next year's crop.

Allow asparagus to develop fern-like tops for the remainder of the season. Do not remove until the following spring. Remove flower stalks early when they appear on rhubarb plants.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Almost every time you go to a doctor's office, he or his nurse takes your blood pressure. There is a very good reason for this routine procedure. High blood pressure, or hypertension, often shows no symptoms, and, reports the Minnesota State Medical association, it can be a real danger to your health.

Because hypertension adds to the work of the heart and arteries, physicians do not take it lightly. The heart, forced to work harder than normal over a long period, tends to enlarge. A slightly enlarged heart can function as well as ever, but a heart that is very much enlarged may have a hard time keeping up with the demands put upon it.

Hypertension may also cause the arteries and arterioles to become hardened and scarred. When the arteries are narrowed or hardened, they may not be able to deliver as much blood as the organs of the body need to function well, or a blood clot may lodge in a narrowed artery and deprive some part of the body of its normal blood supply.

Hypertension may be caused by some specific disease, but more often the cause is not known. This most common type of high blood pressure is called "essential hypertension." It may result from a disorder of some part of the body, such as the kidneys, emotional upset, or it may even run in the family. Careful observation of the course of the disease by the physician is often necessary to determine the right treatment.

There are several methods of treatment used for hypertension. New drugs have been developed. A special diet may help some patients. At times a change of living habits or counselling from a doctor may be the only treatment that has an emotional basis. According to the medical association, the treatment of hypertension has become much more effective in the last few years, and doctors now view the control of this disease with greater optimism than ever before.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

June 13, 1966

Pursuant to notice of hearing on condemnation of land for highway purposes the County Board met in special session in the Court House at 10:00 A.M., June 13, 1966.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Anderson, Lindberg and Tasa. All present.

Certificate of Posting Notices of hearing were presented as certified by Sheriff. Affidavit and proof of mailing of notice to John Welsch noted and filed.

No one appeared with evidence to present to the Board.

The Board recessed to view the land in question and reconvened and discussed the matter in detail. After discussion Commissioner Hanson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

AWARD

The County Board finds and does hereby award damages to John Welsch for damages for the County of Pennington acquiring a perpetual easement for highway purposes for the alteration and establishment together with the unrestricted right to improve the same free and clear of all encumbrances for County Road No. 15, in that area lying on the West side of and parallel with and adjacent to the present right of way along the East line of said Southeast quarter (SE¼) of Section 22, T-153N, R44W, Pennington County, Minnesota, in the amount of NONE. The benefits accruing from the improvement far exceed the damages.

The foregoing resolution and award was duly seconded by Commissioner Anderson and declared carried.

Moved by Hanson seconded by Lindberg that meeting adjourn. Motion carried.

GLENN TASA, Chairman
Pennington County Board

ATTEST: C. W. RODEKUHR
County Auditor &
EX-OFFICIO, Clerk of the Board.

Jr. Legion Team Loses 6 Straight

The local junior American Legion baseball team makes an effort to break its six-game losing steak when, on Tuesday evening on the fairgrounds diamond, they meet coach Don Willey's highly-rated Roseau juniors. Game time is at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 13, the locals will travel to Devils Lake for a doubleheader against the Devils Lake juniors. On Thursday, July 14, the team will meet the Oslo juniors at Oslo; and on Friday evening, July 15, the Bemidji juniors will play the locals on the fairgrounds diamond.

On Thursday, in a doubleheader played on the Stauss field diamond in East Grand Forks, coach Lee Swanson's squad dropped a 5-0 decision to Grand Forks and a 6-5 decision in ten innings to the Grand Forks juniors. Rich Anderson threw a one-hitter against the locals in hurling East Side to their 5-0 win. Jon Looker's single into left field being the lone safety off Anderson.

In the game against Grand Forks, the locals held a 5-3 lead with Grand Forks coming to bat in the last half of the seventh. Coach Marv Skaar's Grand Forks team scored a pair to send the game into extra innings, and in the tenth inning it was a pair of errors that gave the walking Dick Neward the opportunity to come around the bases and tally the winning run.

On Friday evening on the fairgrounds diamond here, coach Mike Hajostek's Red Lake Falls juniors, leaders in the south sub-district conference, defeated the locals 6-4. Red Lake Falls notched two runs in the first, scoring on Louie Toulouse's single, a triple by Scott Kleven and a sacrifice fly by Chuck Tydlacka. And the visitors racked up three runs in the fourth inning.

The locals picked up single runs in the first and sixth innings, and in the seventh they tallied twice before lefty Mark Petterson was brought in to halt the threat with the typing run on base.

The Hamm's Beer No. 1 squad—Wally DuChamp, Morris Nystrom, Hubert Matt and Ed Broughton—moved from fourth place in last week's standings in the city golf league to first place, six strokes up on the second place Bridgeman's. The Hamm's carded the evening's low team net, a 141-stroke total, to gain first place. The Bridgeman's in Wednesday evening's play, scored a 152-stroke total.

In compiling that low net total for the Hamm's No. 1, DuChamp had a gross 37 and net 32, Nystrom a gross 44 and net 33, Matt a gross 51 and net 40 and Broughton a gross 41 and a net 36.

The low individual net score honors were shared by Milt Relerson, Bob Flynn and DuChamp, with each golfer carding a 32. Jon Larson earned the evening's low gross honors, shooting a one-under-par 35.

Competition in the city golf league has become hectic the past couple of weeks. Bridgeman's, in second place, has a 738-stroke aggregate, and the Standard Oil, in fifth place, has a total of 741, a three-stroke spread.

Hartz Stores vs. V. F. W.

Only one game was officially placed in the league standings in last week's city softball league play, and in this game the Bridgeman's scored a 6-5 come-from-behind win over the Hartz Stores.

In the other game that was played, the Hamm's Beer team defeated the Bea's Food Market squad, but the game was played under protest and a decision on the protest will be made this week. Bea's contend that the Hamm's Beer team had ineligible players in its lineup.

In the Bridgeman's vs. Hartz Stores game, the Hartz, trailing by a 3-1 score, came up with four runs in the sixth inning, with Dwight Tangquist's two-run home run capping the rally. But the Bridgeman's came up with three runs in the last half of the seventh, with Cal Offerdahl's single driving in the tying and winning runs.

This week's slate will find four games being played with a double header being billed for this evening. In the first game, the Bea's Market will meet Bridgeman's, with game time at 6 p.m. And at 7:30 p.m., the Vets and Schmidt' Beer will play off their postponed game, and the league lead will hinge on the outcome of this game.

Armyworms May Pose Problem to Farms in State

Economic infestations of armyworms have been reported in corn and small grain fields in Mower county and in the Waseca-Janesville area of Waseca county.

John Lofgren, extension entomologist at the University of Minnesota, says it is very likely that other localized infestations will occur, especially in the south central and southeastern parts of the state.

He strongly urges farmers to check their fields immediately in order to spot and control armyworms while they are still small and before extensive damage is done.

He says to look for them in lodged small grain or in corn, particularly corn in fields containing some grass or weeds.

Armyworms can grow up to two inches long and vary in color from light gray-green to a dark gray-brown. Along the outer side of each leg, near the middle of the body, is a dark band. Running the length of the body is a series of white, black, brown and orange stripes.

Lofgren says that since the worms feed and move about at night, farmers should look for them down in the whorls of corn or under the soil surface of small grain fields. They should be controlled as soon as they are spotted.

Lofgren says that chemical control will pay if an average of three or four worms are found per square foot in small grain, or if 10 per cent of the corn plants are infested.

Two insecticides, toxaphene or carbaryl (Sevin), are recommended for controlling armyworms. For recommended dosages, contact your county agricultural agent or get Entomology Fact Sheet No. 12, "Armyworms," from the Bulletin Room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. 55101.

County ASC Will Sell Grain Bins On Sealed Bids

Pennington County ASC committee has been authorized to sell 10 round steel grain bins from the Thief River Falls binsite. These bins have a capacity of 3,250 bushels and will be sold on a sealed bid basis.

All bids must be delivered to the Pennington County ASCS office not later than 12 noon on July 22. The bids will be opened by the Pennington County ASC committee at 1:30 p.m. the same day. Interested purchasers are encouraged to be present at the time of the opening of the bids.

The county committee has been authorized to reject any or all bids. All bids must be identified according to the inventory numbers attached to the bins.

Those awarded certificates of sale must make a down payment of 15 per cent of the purchase price within seven days from the date of the award. The balance can be paid for in full or financed by a farm storage facility loan providing the purchaser is deemed to be eligible for a loan. Bins must be removed from the site within 30 days from date of notice of award.

"For bid forms or additional information relative to the sale please feel free to contact the Pennington County ASCS office," stated Patrick Culkins, county ASCS office manager.

Construction Men May Enlist in Seabees Directly

Navy recruiters are now authorized to enlist men into the Seabees with no previous military experience, at pay grades higher than the usual recruit level.

Men can be enlisted, under regulations issued to recruiters, as high as first class petty officers, provided they have completed certain levels of their apprenticeship in civilian life. The new regulations parallel those of World War II, when the Seabee program was initiated.

The need for more Seabees has grown rapidly as the Vietnam action expands, and the forces there find need for more airfields, harbors and other construction work. The requirements have grown so fast that direct recruiting into the higher pay grades has now been authorized.

This program enables a man to fulfill his military obligation and maintain his proficiency in his trade. Men enlisting in the program can enlist for a minimum of two years. Further information is available from the Navy Recruiting office, located in the basement of the city auditorium in Thief River Falls.

ID Bracelets To Be Issued for Medical Problems

Emergency medical identification bracelets and necklaces are now being issued to veterans with serious medical problems, the Veterans administration hospital in Minneapolis has announced. The identification is issued on the prescription of the attending VA physician.

Dr. Edward Mandell, hospital director, said the object of the new identification is to provide information to medical personnel for treatment of the veteran should he become unconscious by accident or sudden illness.

Dr. Mandell said such information will include special needs of the patients such as heart pacemaker, or the patient's reaction to certain drugs. Diabetes and epilepsy also will be identified. The VA's department of medicine and surgery supply service is making initial distribution of the bracelets to all VA hospitals and clinics. They will be furnished without regard to service-connected disability.

Wilson Bros., vs. L. B. Hartz.
Ekeren Pharmacy vs. Union State Bank.
Times vs. Mostue's Floral.

The trap shoot league moved into its final round of competition on Wednesday evening, and the league-leading Jensen Mink Farm squad continued its unbeaten string. The Jensens defeated the L. B. Hartz, 114 to 103. For the league leaders, Elmer Hanson had an 18-7, Al Jensen a 22-2, Steve Johnson a 19-4, Mark Mattson a 16-5, and Goodwin Olson a 15-6. For the Hartz, who were shooting short-handed, with only four gunners on hand, Curt Bottem had a 24-6, Carl Carlson a 20-5, Don Hoganson a 20-3, and Rich Jorde a 7-8.

The Mostue's Floral upset the Union State Bank, winning by a 119 to 110 margin. For Mostue's, Myrt Wilson had a 20-4, Joanie Wilson had a 19-6 for a "25", Inez Mostue scored a 13-10 as did Carol Stenseth, and Pat Ball had a 14-10. For the Union State Bank, Arnie Johnson, with a 20-6, had the lone "25". Arnold Narverud carded a 17-6, Fred Sorensen had an 18-2, Walt Fischer marked up a 19-3 and John Moum had a 14-6.

Wilson Bros., kept within reach of the league-leading Jensens by scoring a 117 to 111 win over the Coast - to - Coast. For the Wilson squad Si Schantzen had a 24-1, Stan Wilson a 23-0, Roy Peterson a 21-2, Wally Vagle a 16-6, and Dan Rawerts a 16-8. Reuben Carlson led the losing Coast-to-Coast with a 24-2, Howard Hagen had a 22-1, Don Kamrowski had a 19-2, Stan Ranum of 16-6 and Jim Huseth a 12-8.

In the closest match of the evening the Ekeren Pharmacy eked out a one-bird win over the Times, 124 to 123. The druggists had four "25's" in Tony Dorn's 22-3, Floyd Ball's 24-2, Stub Pahlen's 19-6 and George Schlieff's 22-4. Sandy Wilson had a 24-0. There were three "25's" for the losing Times squad with George Mostue having an 18-7, Lewie Helfner a 24-3, and Jim Wills a 23-3. Leif Erickson tallied a 20-4 and Marv Lundin scored at 18-6.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

For the League Lead

The second game in this evening's softball doubleheader at the Fairgrounds diamond, with the Vets playing the Schmidt's Beer, will decide the first half leaders in the city softball league. The Bea's Food Market will play the Bridgeman's at 6 p. m. in the opener of the doubleheader. The Vets and the Schmidt's are due to get under way at about 7:30 p.m.

This game, with both teams boasting records of four wins and no losses, is the rescheduling of the game that was to have been played on the Fourth of July. And for good reason, with many of the players out of town, that game was postponed.

This evening's game, Monday, should be a fine one and it will be Kerm Malberg of the Schmidt's against Harlie Drees of the Vets, with Wally Grovum available for relief for the Vets. The Vets boast of having the best "down the middle" strength in the league. Wayne Smith is behind the plate, Dale Erickson at second, Nickie Drees at short and Rick Jensen in center field. At least that's the youngest "down the middle" foursome. Erickson and Drees will be juniors this year in high school, Smith just graduated and Jensen will be a junior at Bemidji state.

But the Vets don't have much youth "at the corners", with Don Engelstad at first base and Roy Pederson at third base. It's a thin slice of the infield, that these "boys" cover! But they claim that they provide the youngest with the "savvy and know how".

And don't forget the lid-lifter. The Bridgeman's, in the midst of a winning streak, will be playing the Bea's Market. This game will start at 6 p. m. That's the hope anyway.

Note from Ole

Helmer (Great Northern Ole) Ness is spending the summer in East Glacier Park, Montana, and this week I received a note from him.

He says: "Just to let you know that the Bears have not got me yet. I am taking up trout fishing and have had pretty good luck, too, but will admit that I caught a few branches and dead-heads. When I get back Al Berge and Martin Gulbranson will be has-beens.

"I still think Lloyd Samuelson would hold first place in burbot fishing out here. I like it very much out here and I am having a good season. When the Minnesota Twins win I am from Minnesota and when they lose I am from North Dakota."

And speaking of bears, and Ole's statement that they aren't bothering him, well, I have learned from a game biologist that the Glacier Park bears don't care for fat and noisy Norwegians who grew up in the Erskine area and who have eaten as many bullheads as Ole!

Miscellany

Fertile's Arlo Brunsberg, who had been on the Detroit Tigers' triple A farm team, Syracuse of the International league, has been returned to the Montgomery Rebels of the Southern league. Arlo played with the Rebels last season. In his first game with the Rebels on the night of his return from Syracuse, Arlo, in a game against Asheville, reached base five straight times, hitting a home run, a double, drawing a pair of walks and reaching first on an error...John Mariucci, late coach of the Minnesota Gophers varsity hockey squad, has been named coach of the United States Nationals for next season, and the United States Olympic team in 1968...And speaking of hockey, a super junior hockey league has been formed in Canada, and will begin play in October. Nine teams are in the organization, which stretches from Winnipeg to the west coast. Frank Boucher, the old New York Rangers center-ice player, is the organizer of the league...That was a unique and crippling mishap that happened to Pat Poole on Tuesday evening. Pat, who is the manager of the Vets softball team, was filling in at second base for the Bea's Food Market in their game against Hamm's Beer. Pat, in running out a ground ball, snapped an Achilles tendon. He had surgery last week to re-join the tendon, but Pat will have his leg in a cast for a month or six weeks. He will be a bench manager for quite some time...Red Thyren, Earl Arnold, Don Harbott and Lloyd Samuelson returned Thursday evening from a lake trout trip to the Flin Flon area. The four anglers came back with 20 trout, with Lloyd's nine-pounder being the largest. And on Friday, Vern Nelson and Leo St. Michel will be going up there, and it's a safe bet to wager that Vern and Leo will catch a trout that weighs more than nine pounds.

MAVIE . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klockman spent the 4th of July weekend at their cabin at Waskish. Guests were Emil, Bernice and Melvin Linslott of Manley, Ia., Ernest Breznay, Wallace Ptacek, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Klockman and family, Paul Troska, Mr. and Mrs. George Breznay, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ptacek, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Svendsgaard, Karen and Kathy.

The Mavie 4-H club will have a tour in all projects except in homemaking on Thursday evening July 14. Chuck Wills will be out and the tour will start at the Joe Skibicki home at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. George Breznay, Mrs. Vern Philipp, Mrs. George Panek, Judy Oski, Paulette Philipp and Gail Steinhauer of the Mavie 4-H club attended the Pennington County 4-H leaders council Tuesday evening July 5 at the court house. Gail Steinhauer and Paulette Philipp were 2 of the junior leaders who attended the junior leadership conference in St. Paul and gave a panel discussion on their trip. Judy Oski is scheduled to give her report on the Minnesota - Georgia exchange trip at the leaders council meeting in September.

Federal Tax Queries Are Answered by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q - When is the highway tax on trucks due?

A - The regular period for the highway use tax on vehicles ends June 30 of each year, and the return, Form 2290, is due by August 31.

The tax showed as owing on the return must be paid on or before the due date for filing the return, unless the installment privilege is chosen.

On newly acquired trucks or other vehicles subject to the tax, a return is due on or before the last day of the month following the month in which the vehicle was first used on the public highways.

Q - I'm attending a convention this summer as a delegate from my church. Will my expenses be deductible?

A - If you are attending as a duly elected delegate and not solely as a member of your church, then your unreimbursed out-of-pocket travel expenses directly connected with the convention are a deductible charitable contribution if you itemize deductions.

Keep adequate records to substantiate your expenses and do not include any personal expenses such as sightseeing. If your wife and children go along, their expenses are not deductible.

Q - How long do you have to check someone's income tax return?

A—The basic statute of limitations for assessment of income tax is three years from the date the return was filed or the date the return was due. In some cases the period is longer. When there is fraud or failure to file a return, there is no limitation.

Q—I'm cleaning out my records. How long do I have to keep copies of my old tax returns and related records?

A—Records should be kept as long as they are material to your tax obligations. Generally speaking, keep copies of your tax returns and related records for at least three years after the return was filed. Some records, such as property acquisitions, capital improvements and the like, should be kept for a much longer period.

Q—I've heard that it's better to give stock rather than cash to a charity or college. Is that true?

A—If you have stock which has appreciated in value, you may avoid paying tax on the appreciation by giving it to a charitable organization. The charity gets full value of the stock; you may deduct the fair market value of the stock at the time of the donation, and there is no tax to pay on the appreciation in value.

Q—My refund was delayed because I forgot to list my social security number. Why is that so important?

A—Master files of all individual and business taxpayers are being created and the only practical way to identify each account is by number. With some 1,300,000 taxpayers named Smith in the U. S., a name identification would present too many problems.

Several years ago, Congress passed a law authorizing use of social security numbers on individual income tax returns. This number identifies transactions for each account. Wages paid, taxes withheld, interest and dividends received estimated tax payments — all are identified by the social security number of the taxpayer.

Besides providing a positive identification for each taxpayer, the numbers also enable computers to process refunds faster.

Editorials . . .

"Certainly we ought to be discontented, we ought not simply to find out ways of making the best of a bad job, and yet if we kill all pleasure in the actual process of life, what sort of future are we preparing for ourselves? If a man cannot enjoy the return of spring, why should he be happy in a labor-saving Utopia?" George Orwell

"With tongue-in-cheek, Jerry Chiappetta, outdoor editor for the Detroit Free Press, recently gazed into his crystal ball and came up with some interesting speculations. In view of the increasing rush to the outdoors, here's the way he thinks an outdoor column might read in 1975:

New licenses for hikers will be issued. Persons with last names starting with the letters A to L will be allowed outdoors on even numbered days and nights following the full moon. M to Z'ers get the odd days and nights after the half moon.

This new license will also allow you to photograph a rabbit, squirrel and partridge in a pear tree. Special permits will be sold if you want to use color film.

Small game licenses in 1975 will allow the hunter to bag one pine squirrel, two starlings (between Eight and Ten Mile Roads only), three field mice and one split-toed mole.

Every other day shotgunners will be allowed one shell in their gun. Otherwise it would be murder in the marsh.

Small game hunting will start at noon on Wednesdays to down crowding and preserve wildlife. It will end at 1:15 p.m. the same day with no hunting allowed during the lunch period.

No firearms will be permitted during the pheasant season when the only legal weapon will be a sling shot made out of the branch of an apple tree from Walpole Island. Slings from peach, pear and other trees will be strictly prohibited.

The 1975 big game season will still be a big attraction and the legal bag will be one buck rabbit only. (Old timers will recall the deer were exterminated in the slaughter of '65.)

Doe rabbits and baby bunnies are now on the protected list.

We foresee a liberalization in fishing laws. Anglers will still be limited to casting lures only in a north-to-south direction to prevent mayhem on the water.

On every 17th day, hooks will be permitted.

Undoubtedly there will have to be some added controls for water skiers who are now restricted to a south-to-north flight pattern (between the fishing lines).

All firearms must be returned to the police by sundown or their weapons will turn into snakes.

If this seems bleak, cheer up. We predict that tickets will be sold to hunting and fishing events and bleachers will be established beside corn fields and around our lakes and streams so you will be able to cheer for your favorite angler or hunter.

Hunting and fishing won't be as widespread in the years ahead but it will be fun to watch.

Somebody's Dead

Writing a general news story is about the easiest form of writing known to the world today. That is, it's the easiest if the facts are available for organization into a story. Such is not always the case.

Take for instance the shooting incident in Argyle last week where two young itinerant farm laborers were killed and two others wounded. There are few who will dispute the fact that a double murder is a newsworthy happening anywhere, and particularly so in a small rural community where news is generally neither abundant nor unusual.

Assuming that it is the business of the news profession to report news—and that a double-murder has public news value—it would seem that news media have an obligation as well as a desire to report what took place. This is where news story writing deviates from the straight and narrow path of plain and simple organization of facts.

Recent rulings by the U. S. Supreme Court—which acts at times like a panel of criminal defense attorneys—have made the newsman's job particularly difficult. Law enforcement officers and members of the legal profession—who devotedly want to do their duty in apprehending criminals and assisting in the administration of justice — find their hands tied and their lips sealed by supreme court edict.

Let's face it—they are afraid. They do not fear physical retaliation or legal prosecution, but they fear that all of their efforts to secure justice can be canceled out in the courts. Rather than take the chance on having what can be described as pre-trial publicity foil their efforts, officials are "laying low and clamming up" in talking to news men. It is apparently better to say nothing, allowing the courts to assume that all potential jurors are idiots incapable of making their own decisions and letting the judges reign supreme in their respective kingdoms.

We are not critical of the law enforcement officials or attorneys who refuse to answer our questions. They have their own problems, as we said before. We are critical of the courts — particularly the U. S. Supreme Court — whose sweeping decisions either directly or indirectly reach down into every community in the nation.

We have known Marshall County Sheriff Oscar Erickson for many years. We respect his ability as a law enforcement officer, and have worked cooperatively with him on a number of cases. There is no reason to believe that he is not satisfied that news information provided by him would be handled in a factual and proper manner in this newspaper. And he was apologetic in withholding information which was relative to the shooting.

Basically, all that was released for publication was the names of the dead and wounded, when and where the shooting took place and the caliber of the gun used. No information was given as to the possibilities of a suspect—much less the name of a suspect—or on any of the incidents leading up to or including the shooting itself.

For all intent and purposes, the news available could be condensed into a sentence stating flatly, "There has been a shooting and somebody's dead." At the rate the supreme court is reading new intent into the laws of the land, how long will it be before we must write only, "Two cars collided yesterday and six people were killed?"

We sympathize with the law enforcement officer. He must make instant decisions in defense of the public's life and property, and then be at the mercy of the black-robed legal deity which leisurely determines to its own satisfaction whether or not he was right in taking the action which he did.

Can't you hear the newsboy's cry to the easiest for mof writing known to the morrow? "Extra, extra, somebody's dead."

Look Who's Talking

In an editorial in the current edition of "Trainman News", official publication of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the American Medical association is severely taken to task. It is a good example of the "somebody else should" principle which seems so prevalent in our nation today.

"Medicare, long needed by the nation's elderly folks, is under way as of July 1, but apparently it continues to be a nasty word in the circles of the American Medical association, bitter foe of the program from the outset," the editorial states.

"Although 'tongue in cheek' appeals were made to doctors to cooperate with the program now that it is in operation, delegates to a Chicago meeting of AMA's policy-making House of Delegates came up with proposals indicating that a few 'monkey wrenches' in machinery of the plan would not be unwelcome.

"There was a strong bid made encouraging the doctors to bill their patients directly rather than to carry out the so-called assignment method in which the doctor handles the paper work and collects allowable benefits from a government - assigned agency.

"In countless instances where elderly citizens are short of funds, they would face a real problem if they were billed directly by the doctor and then would have to wait for their reimbursement from the government agency.

"But it appears that a large percentage of the doctors are eager to get their fees fast—and higher fees whenever and wherever possible.

"Under direct billing, they can charge as they see fit. Their fees will be limited somewhat by the medicare reimbursement schedule.

"Numerous reports have circulated in recent months that doctors have upped their fees to get a new established schedule before the start of medicare on July 1.

"Either payment method is legal under medicare, but it seems that the doctors should be big and considerate enough to remove any possibility of inconvience where their patients are concerned," the editorial says.

Yes, sir, if a person was to believe the BRT line, he would certainly be angry with those nasty old doctors who are both small and inconsiderate. Who do they think they are, anyway, trying to maintain their freedom, high standards of medical practice and the right to obtain equitable fees for their health - giving, life - saving work? Isn't it better that they, who perform the necessary service, battle governmental red tape to secure payment than the person who requested aid and upon whom the service was performed?

Hog wash!

We wouldn't be a bit surprised if doctors have increased their fees in anticipation of medicare. If so, it wasn't to fatten their wallets. It was more likely a cushion against the extra costs of accounting and records which the bureaucrats never take into consideration when they pass these extra burdens on to the public. Uncle Sam pays poor wages for its forced - labor accounting.

And when one speaks of being considerate, one need look no further than the unions themselves for gross ignorance of the word. How "big and considerate" were the unions when their strikes caused millions of dollars in losses in New York, halted vital phases of production in war materials needed by our fighting men in Viet Nam and idled portions of the nation's rail system or steel industry. The "Trainmen News" editor surveys the situation as far as the end of his nose.

Everyone in America — including members of the railroad brotherhood — can be thankful for the nation's medical profession. Practitioners of medicine endure rigors far beyond the scope of the 38 - hour week, double pay for Sundays and holidays and a number of benefits paid for by someone else. They work a 24-hour day, irregularly scheduled, and they place their duty to mankind above their devotion to family and personal desires. They are entitled to compensation for their services without being tools of government.

In looking for something to complain about, the Trainman News editor is throwing punches at a cloud of smoke. His criticism is undeserved and, we might add, look who's talking.

Food for Thought
by BEA ZACHAR

Sorry I missed last weeks addition but I read somewhere —"There's nothing wrong with having nothing to say—unless you insist on saying it." Anything I would have told last week would have been sad and there's enough depressing things in life without my adding to it.

Last night I took my son and my two grandchildren to the drive-in movie. "Ecco" was the name of it. "We dare you to see it", the sign said. No mention of ADULT ONLY. Why even an adult would want to see it is beyond my comprehension. It was gruesome, vulgar and definitely immoral. Movie censorship must have dipped to a new low. We stayed about twenty minutes and it took me an hour to try to convince them that this wasn't really the kind of world we live in. I know a great many young people and they are good, level headed up standing kids and it must be disheartening for them to even remotely feel they might be placed in that category with the young people in "Ecco".

Maybe some of you will think it would have been better for me to say "Nothing" this week also, but you know me, I've got to say what I think.

Naturally, I think you should try shopping at

Rufus Olson Reelected To Head School Board

Thief River Falls board of education held its final meeting of the fiscal year and first meeting of the new year Monday evening at Lincoln senior high school. At the first meeting inter-fund transfers were approved and the financial report of the district approved and ordered filed subject to audit.

All officers of the board were reelected at the organizational meeting of the new board. Rufus Olson was renamed chairman; Dr. George Martin, vice chairman; Robert Bredeson, clerk; and Morris Owen, treasurer. Dr. H. R. Achenbach was seated on the board following his election to succeed Lloyd Howick. Other board members are Harry Oen and D. H. Stewart.

Board salaries were set at $5 per meeting up to 15 meetings per year with clerk and treasurer salaries set at $250 annually. Treasurer's bond of $25,000 was approved. Union State and Northern State banks were named as official depositories for school district funds and the Times was named official newspaper for publication of legal notices. Regular meeting date was set as the second Monday of each month.

A communication was read from Guy Tollerud, director of school plant planning with the Minnesota department of education, stating that the deed for the Lougren property acquired for vocational school use was not acceptable. The deed reserved the right for an access road through the property but did not specify where such road would be located. A new deed specifying the access or leaving the access to the discretion of the school district was requested.

Seven teacher contracts were approved. Among them was that of David Morken to teach vocal music at Lincoln senior high school, replacing Bryant Ulseth. Morken attended Concordia college one year, holds a BA degree from the University of North Dakota, an MA degree from the University of Indiana and has done graduate work at Syracuse university. He has taught for nine years, including the past several years at Grafton, N. D.

Other contracts approved were the following: Richard DeCoster, Bovey, Bemidji state college graduate and first year teacher, fifth grade at Washington elementary school;

Lambert Brunkhorst, graduate of the University of North Dakota and first year teacher, industrial arts at Lincoln senior high school;

Schedule Hearing On Market Order

Proposals for a new federal milk marketing order to regulate the handling of milk in the Minnesota North Dakota marketing area will be considered at a public hearing in Fargo, N. D. on August 15, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today.

Consumer and Marketing service officials said the hearing will begin at 10 a. m. in the Prairie room, student memorial union, North Dakota state university, Fargo. All interested persons-consumers, farmers and handlers are invited to attend the hearing and present evidence.

Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., petitioned USDA for a hearing to consider establishing the order, which, as they propose, would cover 43 contiguous counties-18 in Minnesota and 25 in North Dakota.

Other dairy farmer cooperatives meanwhile, have proposed adding seven more Minnesota and three South Dakota counties to the proposed 43-county area. An alternative proposal from handlers would extend the proposed federal order to the entire state of North Dakota.

The proposed order, patterned after the 73 existing federal milk orders, would set minimum prices which would be the least that handlers distributing milk in the regulated marketing area could pay the dairy farmers supplying their milk. Prices consumers pay would not be regulated, however, officials said.

Handlers would pay for the milk according to how it is used. Class 1 would be fluid milk or bottling milk, which would be priced to the handlers at 20 cents above the comparable price under the Minneapolis-St. Paul federal milk order. Class II would include all milk used for manufacturing dairy products, which would be priced at the level of the Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price series, issued monthly by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Dairy farmers serving the area would receive the same price for

Cast Announced For Community Theatre's Play

Production of "Romanoff and Juliet," the second offering by the Thief River Falls Community theatre, is underway in preparation for presentation Tuesday and Wednesday, July 26 and 27. Staging of the play will be incorporated into the week-long Thief River Falls Jaycees Aquacade July 24-31. Members of the group and others interested will meet tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. in the city auditorium.

Mrs. Pat Johnson is directing the production with James McConnell as assistant director.

A review of the play in the New York Daily News stated the following: "Ustinov, (Peter Ustinov played the role of the General) with a beard, rimmed nose-glasses and padded waistline, is the president of the smallest of mythical countries. It is so small that it has a standing army of two—and the army doesn't even stand, but slouches. This country lies smack between the East and the West, so each of these world divisions seeks to make Ustinov an ally.

Leo Gutierrez, Viking, Charged In Double Killing

Leo Gutierrez Jr., 20, of Viking was bound over to Marshall county district court Friday on two charges of second degree murder and two additional charges of aggravated assault. He was bound over following a preliminary hearing at Warren.

The charges grew out of a fatal shooting incident Monday night, July 4, on the main street of Argyle. Tom Travino, 17, and his brother, Angelo, 18 were killed by wounds inflicted with a .22 rifle. Gregg Travino, 22, a brother of the dead youths, and George Ramon, 18, were hospitalized with wounds. All four were migrant workers from California.

Gutierrez was returned to the Polk county jail in Crookston after the hearing.

Marshall County Sheriff Oscar Erickson, the only witness at the hearing, testified that Gutierrez told him that he "lost his mind" when he saw the four California youths whipping his uncle, Ted Gutierrez, with bicycle chains in front of an Argyle bar.

City Council Rejects Bids For Project

Wurst Reports ICC Examiner Approves Soo Line Proposal

After considering three bids for the projected Chief's coulee extension, the Thief River Falls city council in regular session Tuesday night voted to reject all bids.

Bids were submitted by three Fargo construction firms: Robert Gibb & Sons, Inc. in the amount of $27,822; Sornsin Construction, $27,512; and J. A. Shaw Construction, $28,420. Estimated cost of the project had been set at $15,000.

The council set August 9 as the date for advertisement for bids for construction materials. Labor on the project will be paid by the city's "force account", or day labor hired by the city.

Police Captain Alan Noreen submitted his resignation, effective July 19. This was accepted by the council, as was the resignation of Ken Gustafson as director of Civil Defense.

Police Chief Elton Cummings recommended the appointment of Dennis Pederson of rural Thief River Falls as police patrolman. It was voted to approve the appointment.

City Attorney Robert Wurst reported that the Interstate Commerce Commission examiner reviewing the Soo line hearings recommended that Soo Trains 9 and 10 be discontinued. Interested parties are allotted 30 days in which to file exceptions. The city of Thief River Falls, went on record as continuing its objection to this discontinuance.

Wurst also stated that an alteration must be made in the deed to the vocational school site in the Squaw Point area which was sold by the city to School District 18. To be acceptable to the state of Minnesota, the deed must grant to the school district the right to determine an access road through this property.

Morris Owen, superintendent of utilities, recommended that the city withhold payment of 15 per cent of the cost of the river dredge, due at this time, until the machine's engine is functioning properly. The dredge engine has been running "hot", he reported. The council approved the recommendation.

Ormond Johnson appeared on behalf of the municipal - legion band and requested an additional $130 in city funds to cover expenses incurred by an increase in band membership. The money was granted.

Representatives of the Boyd Holcomb Accounting agency presented the city's 1965 audit report, which was explained to the council's satisfaction.

Mrs. Charles R. Samuelson appeared with a request that sidewalks be constructed in areas of the city where none exist, chiefly the east portion of Third street. The request was taken under consideration by the street committee.

Bills in thee amount of $210 were paid to Albert Koop, John Lang and N. C. Lindberg for appraisals on the Myrin property condemnation proceedings. Additional bills were paid to Hammel & Green in the amount of $850 for library work and $178.46 to Harry Dahl for sewer and water installation on Duluth avenue north of 13th street.

W. G. Mayes spoke to the council, taking exception to the projected removal of six large oak trees

Tractor Pulling Contest Slated At County Fair

Pennington County Fair will again feature two programs of tractor pulling competition, according to Morris Goddard, secretary of the Pennington County Fair association, Inc. Fair dates are July 21-24 with the tractor pulls scheduled for Friday, July 22 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, July 23 at 1 p.m.

Entries this year are being limited to eight per class in each of the six weight classes. Prize money has been increased to $720 by the sponsoring agriculture committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, making the purse the largest in Northwestern Minnesota.

Classes include the following weights: Class A, up to 4,500 pounds; Class B, 4,500 to 6,500 pounds; Class C, 6,500 to 8,500 pounds; Class D, 8,500 to 11,500 pounds; Class E, 11,500 to 14,500 pounds, and Class F, 14,500 to 18,500 pounds.

Classes A, B, and C will compete on Friday evening with tractors to be weighed in by 3 p.m. Classes D, E, and F will compete Saturday afternoon and tractors be weighed in at 10 a.m. In addition to the larger tractors on Saturday, a special competition in the form of a "Powderpuff Derby" will be held with women driving garden tractors in pulling competition.

Prizes in classes A through D will include $30 for first place, $30 for second place and $15 for third. Classes E and F will compete for [illegible] and [illegible] in first, second and third prize money. Cash prizes of $25, $15 and $10 will be offered for first through third places in the Powderpuff Derby.

Entry blanks are available from the Chamber of Commerce office and the first eight entries to be received in each division will be included in the contest. An entry fee of $10 will be charged but will be refunded when the tractor and driver make their appearance to compete at the respective programs.

Marvin Lundin, editor of the Times, will serve as master of ceremonies for the Friday evening pull with Harveydale Maruska of Warren, state senator, to emcee the Saturday afternoon contest.

Pennington Co. Welfare Budget Hits $1 Million

For the first time in history, Pennington county welfare board has adoted an annual budget in excess of one million dollars. Meeting at its annual session Thursday, the board approved a budget totaling $1,015,899 for the 1967 calendar year-an increase of $31,175 over the 1966 budget of $984,724.

In spite of the total increase, however, Pennington county's financing of the total cost will increase by only $7,666 from $287,158 in 1966 to $294,824 in 1967. Due to an anticipated surplus in the budget, however, the welfare board estimated that it could cut the county welfare levy from 45.35 mills in 1966 to approximately 43 mills in 1967.

All officers of the board were reelected at the meeting. They include Glenn Tass, chairman; Carl Anderson, vice chairman; and Merle Lindberg, secretary. Other members of the board include Donald L. Olson, Odin C. Hanson, Mrs. H. O. Chommie and Mrs. Arvid Dahlstrom. Mrs. Chommie began a new two-year term on the board at the annual meeting.

Ronald Mooers, executive director of the county welfare department, told the Times that the new budget takes into consideration the probably affects of medicare in the county. Costs for medical assistance are expected to be reduced for those 65 years of age and older, but an increased case load is expected as a result of the federal program.

The budget approved by the welfare board Thursday will be recommended to the county board of commissioners for approval. All five of the county commissioners serve on the welfare board with all board officers being county commissioners.

Of the total budget of $1,015,899, it is anticipated that [illegible] will come from [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] $4,800 from collections [illegible] total of $721,075. Net county [illegible] collections required will be $[illegible] 081 with an anticipated surplus of $73,743 to bring the county participation to $294,824.

Total amounts budgeted for each of the seven separate funds operated by the department include the following, with comparative 1966 figures listed in parenthesis: old age assistance, $153,285 ($178,500); aid for dependent children, $[illegible] 825 ($152,475); aid to the disabled, $23,295 ($23,838); aid to the blind, $8,065 ($8,400); general relief, $[illegible] 025 ($73,215); administration, $[illegible] 528 ($70,313); medical assistance, $515,875 ($30,200 medical aid to the aged and $451,708 medical aid to the needy).

RESULTS of a tornado which raked Red Lake Falls at about 12 midnight Friday included crumpled trailers at the Detroiter Mobile Home factory. The trailer in the upper photo is still upside down; the one in the lower photo was also overturned but has been righted. James Cameron, production manager, reported that damage totaling an estimated $50,000 had been done to property and coaches at the plant. Nineteen coaches were damaged, and eight are considered total losses. Two appliances at the receiving docks were damaged, and minor damage was done to buildings. The worst of the rubble had been "mopped up" by Tuesday afternoon, when the photos were taken. The plant was able to maintain normal production despite the inconvenience, Cameron said. Some damage in the city ball park was also reported.

Co. Board Orders Condemnation for Two Road Projects

Hampered in two road projects by property owners who have failed to grant easements, the Pennington county board of commissioners Monday instructed County Attorney C. L. Charlson to proceed with condemnation proceedings on the land area needed. Action was taken by the board at its regular meeting in the commissioners' room in the courthouse in Thief River Falls.

Roads in question include County State Aid highway (CSAH) 20, better known as the range line road between Silverton and North townships, and CSAH 2, known as the Kratka road. Both roads are being improved with the future view of bituminous surfacing, and the commissioners expressed the opinion that work has progressed too far on the project to discontinue improvement at the present time.

In other action concerning roads at the commission meeting, the board heard a delegation from the Rustad addition request surfacing of a road in that area. The delegation was informed that surfacing of the road had been considered, and that an economical type of surfacing might be applied in the future when funds become available.

Bids were opened at 10:30 a.m. on the season's supply of No. 5 fuel oil for the courthouse. Low bidder between only two submitting bids was Consumers Cooperative with a bid of 11.8 cents per gallon.

At 11 a.m. bids were opened on graveling and re-graveling of county roads, and Mahnomen construction company was awarded the contract at $29,950 with the county also accepting an option of $2,500 for stockpiling of aggregate.

Approval was also given to a request for North Star Natural Gas company to put in service connections on courthouse grounds while working in that area of the city. No request was made to provide

Transformers Burn At LO'L Turkey Plant; Power Off

Firemen were called to the Land O'Lakes turkey processing plant at 5:20 p.m. Tuesday to extinguish an electrical fire in transformers located on the outer wall of the plant.

Estimated damage from the fire is not available, but its by-product, loss of power, is expected to cause most of the of the loss, according to John Lang, plant manager. Frozen turkeys are being stored in railroad refrigerator cars, and some were taken to the Land O'Lakes plant at Aitkin.

Skilled technicians are expected to arrive soon to repair the transformers and restore power to the plant, Lang said.

Eight File for County Offices; One Race Assured

Eight filings for Pennington county offices have been recorded by C. W. Rodekuhr, county auditor, as of this morning. Six of those filings are incumbents seeking reelection and the other two are for candidates seeking the office to be vacated by William Fridland, register of deeds, who had announced that he will not file for reelection.

Seeking the register of deeds position are Harlow C. Johnson, rural Thief River Falls, and Gordon P. Releraon, former city clerk. Johnson is employed by Production Credit association in this city.

County officers filing for reelection include C. W. Rodekuhr, auditor; Ellsworth Jorgenson, treasurer; Charles Richards, sheriff; A. O. Stokke, surveyor; Donald L. Olson second district commissioner and Merle Lindberg, fourth district commissioner.

C. L. Charlson, Pennington county attorney, has also advised the Times that he will not file for reelection this year. He stated that he plans to devote more time to his private legal practice in this city.

Filings for election close Tuesday, July 19, at 5 p.m. Candidates for county office must file with the county auditor prior to that date. Candidates who wish to file for an office which includes a territory larger than a county must file with the Secretary of State in St. Paul.

ASHES and rubble are all that remains of this two-story turkey barn on the Gordon Johnson farm southwest of St. Hilaire after a lightning bolt burned the building to the ground early Sunday morning. Mrs. Johnson reported that the bold struck during a severe localized electrical storm at about 6 a.m. Sunday. No damage was apparent at first, but when Johnson checked the barn shortly afterward he found the upstairs portion in flames. He called the St. Hilaire fire department, but by the time firemen arrived the barn was completely in flames and they could only protect nearby buildings. The farmhouse, only 35 yards away, was not threatened due to a fortunate wind direction. About 1,500 young turkeys out of the farm's total flock of 6,000 perished in the flames. No estimate of damage is available.

Fuller and Inman Vows Spoken At Silver Creek

Miss Shirley Fuller and Larry Inman exchanged marriage vows Sunday, July 3, at 2:30 p.m. at the Silver Creek Lutheran church. Rev. Kenneth Kramer officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 250 guests.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fuller of rural Thief River Falls and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Inman of Holt.

Baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums, accented with red roses, graced the chancel for the afternoon ceremony. Mrs. David Schwartz, a friend of the bride, served as organist. For the processional she played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring". The recessional was "The Bridal Chorus". She also accompanied Miss Carol Elshen, a friend of the bride, who sang, "Wedding Wish" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white satin fashioned with a fitted bodice, scooped neckline and butterfly sleeves. Designed with a chapel length train attached at the waistline, the gown was enhanced with lace motifs appliqued at the neckline and scattered across the bell shaped skirt. Her elbow length veil of silk illusion fell from a matching satin band adorned with white flowers and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Miss Donna Fuller of Thief River Falls sister of the bride, was chosen to serve as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Christie Inman of Holt, sister of the groom, and Gail Fuller of Thief River Falls, sister of the bride. They wore sleeveless floor-length gowns of a delicate pink brocade styled like the bridal gown. Their headpieces were matching brocade bows made of the same fabric as the gowns and each carried a long-stemmed red rose.

Richard Inman of Oxon Hills, Md., attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Herbert Fuller of Thief River Falls, borther of the bride, and David Inman of Holt, brother of the groom. Ushers were cousins of the groom, Jay and Kenneth Garthus, both of Holt. The men of the wedding party wore dark business suits and white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Inman chose a pale green linen and lace dress. The groom's mother wore a blue two piece lace dress. Both wore white accessories and corsages of red roses and white carnations.

Attending the wedding as honor guests were the grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Wolfgram and the grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Inman and Mr. Ludwig Monson.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lubitz, friends of the couple, as host and hostess. Mrs. Lubitz also baked and decorated the wedding cake that centered the reception table. The base of the cake, designed to form a cross, was topped by a double-tiered cake, enhanced by a satin triple wedding bell emblem.

Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Tom Fuller and Mrs. John Nelson, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively. Mrs. Clarence Talberg and Miss Carol Solberg, friends of the bride, poured. Miss LuAnn Lubitz registered the guests while Miss Judy Pullar and Miss Sally Lettier served the punch and Miss Darlene Hegreness and Miss Shirley Koglin, presided at the gift table. Miss Lynda Anton, cousin of the bride, Miss Linda Lubitz and Mrs. Lyle Austad served as waitresses and Mrs. Robert Hillyer was in charge of the kitchen.

Guests attending were from Oxon Hills, Md.; Oakland, Calif.; Grand Forks, N. D.; Bemidji, Roseau, Erskine, Crookston, Duluth, Kelliher, Newfolden, Holt, Goodridge, Thief River Falls and Grygla.

For travel on the wedding trip to the Lake of the Woods and Canada, the bride was attired in a pale blue linen dress in empire fashion.

The bride, a graduate of Lincoln high school and Bemidji State college, taught in the Crookston school system last year and will teach at Newfolden during the coming school year. The groom, a graduate of the Newfolden high school, is employed as a U.S. poultry grader at Land O'Lakes, Thief River Falls. The newly-weds will make their home on a farm near Holt.

Miss Kathryn Moen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Moen of Newfolden, and Kameron Harstad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Harstad of Viking, were united in marriage Saturday, May 21, at the Bethlehem Lutheran church at Newfolden. The Rev. Loren L. Nielson officiated at the double ring ceremony attended only by the immediate members of both families, together with the grandmothers of the couple.

Mrs. Alton Carlson was organist and played a program of wedding music preceding the ceremony. She also accompanied Miss Doreen Moen of Fargo, N. D., as she sang "The Song of Ruth" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white scalloped lace over taffeta. Her fingertip veil was caught to a crown of pearls and she carried an arrangement of yellow carnations.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Gerald Moen, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a two piece walking suit and carried a bouquet similar to the bride's. Gerald Moen, brother of the bride was best man.

A reception in the church parlors was given by the parents of the bride with Mrs. Kenneth Moen as hostess and Mrs. Doyle Harstad registering the guests. Centering the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake, decorated with yellow flowers and topped by a miniature bride and groom. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Alvin Nelson and Mrs. Leonard Field while Mrs. Otto Harstad, aunt of the groom poured. Miss Donna Lee presided at the punch bowl; Diane and Sharon Moen and Lynnet Harstad arranged the gifts and Mrs. Marn, Mrs. Huistad and Mrs. Sherman Lanze served as waitresses. Those in charge of the kitchen were Mrs. Hans Harstad, Mrs. Pearl Boe; Mrs. Louis Sagstuen and Mrs. Hans Lokstad.

Barbara Jankowski Weds Arnold Bartelson Here

Evangelical Free church of this city was the scene of the wedding of Miss Barbara Jankowski and Arnold Bartelson on Saturday, June 11, at 8 p.m. The Rev. Wesley Johnson officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Clifford Engelstad, friend of the bride, presided at the organ. She also accompanied Mrs. Keith Jankowski of Crookston, sister-in-law of the bride, as she sang "O Perfect Love." The Rev. Wesley Johnson sang, "Together With Jesus". Candelabras and baskets of white gladioli graced the chancel. White bows marked the pews.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jankowski of Warren and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bartelson of Thief River Falls.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nitelite, fashioned with a fitted bodice topped by a bolero of Rachel lace. A crown of crystal and pearls, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Morris Gershman of Grand Forks, N. D., secured her chapel length veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade arrangement of pink roses and baby carnations.

Mrs. Keith Jankowski attended her sister-in-law as matron of honor. Linda Stengrim of Warren, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore mint green dotted Swiss over taffeta, street-length gowns fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves. To complete their attire they wore pillbox headpieces with mint green veiling and each carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses with white carnations.

Keith Jankowski of Crookston, brother of the bride, was best man. Daryle Bartelson of Thief River Falls, brother of the groom, was groomsman. Ushers were a brother of the bride John Jankowski of Warren, a cousin of the bride; Marvin Stengrim, also of Warren, Darryl Trontvet and Orlin Homme, both of Thief River Falls. All the men of the wedding party were attired in black tuxedos, black bow ties and white carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride was attired in a blue pebble chiffon suit with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a blue and white stripped suit, also accented with white accessories. Both wore corsages of pink roses and white carnations. Special guests attending were the grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Stengrim of Dent.

A reception in the church parlors, given by the parents of the bride, followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Christensen served as host and hostess. Mrs. Donald Stengrim, aunt of the bride, registered the guests while Mrs. Gene Sannes, who served the bride as her personal attendant, served the punch.

Highlighting the serving table was a three-tiered, diamond shaped wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Gilford Sannes. Topped by a golden Christogram, the cake was decorated with pink roses. A miniature bride and groom adorned the corner of the bottom tier. Aunts of the bride, Mrs. Len Thompson and Mrs. Gilbert Stengrim Jr., cut and served the cake while Mrs. Herbert Stengrim and Mrs. Elmer Olson poured. Waitresses were Misses Mary Jo, Kathy and Jean Stengrim, cousins of the bride, Cookie Sandberg and Jill Thompson. Opening and arranging the gifts were Ione Shultz, Kathy Nelson and Marlene Ueland.

Approximately 150 guests attended the wedding and reception. They were from South St. Paul, Pelican Rapids, Dent, Stephen, Warren and surrounding territory.

For travel on the wedding trip along the North Shore drive and into Canada, the bride was attired in a green knit dress with white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the Warren high school and the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school of practical nursing. She is currently employed at Northwestern hospital. The groom is a graduate of Lincoln high school and of the electronic department at the local area vocational school. At present he is with the United States Air Force stationed at Lackland AFB in Texas.

NFO Leaders In District Act on Dairy Production

To initiate a plan of action dealing with dairy production in this area, leaders of the National Farmers organization in the counties of Minnesota's Seventh district met recently in Detroit Lakes, according to Mrs. Edward Stucy, publicity director for the Pennington county NFO chapter.

Concensus of the meeting, Mrs. Stucy said, was that the dairy producer can not be satisfied with the $4 dairy support price set recently by Secretary of Agriculture Freeman "because it still falls far short of their cost of production".

Introduced at the meeting were results of studies made by a leading feed company which show a cost of $5.15 to produce 100 pounds of 3.6 test milk, allowing the producer nothing for profit on his investment. It was also stated that the law of supply and demand has failed to function even during periods of drastically reduced milk supplies.

In an effort to bring farm level dairy prices in line with their cost of production, Mrs. Stucy reports, it was decided to take several definite steps immediately. Approval was given to shipping of one cow from each dairy herd to slaughter during the first week in August in all of the 23 counties of the district. Also beginning August 1, each dairyman has been requested to take a cow out of the stanchion for the purpose of vealing calves. These efforts are expected to reduce milk production in the district by 125,000 pounds per day.

"If by August 15 the cost of production plus a reasonable profit has not been achieved in this area," the publicity director said, "the farmers will plan for further steps to be taken."

Consideration is also being given, Mrs. Stucy said, to the possibility introducing a low butterfat dairy spread in Minnesota. It is said to contain 40 per cent pure butter oil plus milk solids. Law currently prohibits interstate shipping of any dairy spread containing less than 80 per cent pure butter oil, she added.

Dairy producers at the meeting also evaluated advantages of selling their production to cooperating plants. The Seventh district NFO is advising other districts in Minnesota and neighboring states of the action being taken and urging them to join in the effort.

Local Witnesses To Attend Confab In Winnipeg

"Off to Canada" is the summer call for the Thief River Falls congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses who will soon be leaving to attend the district convention scheduled July 27-31 in Winnipeg. Over 20,000 delegates from the upper midwest and Canada are expected to attend this mid-summer event entitled "God's Sons of Liberty," according to R. H. Wetenkamp, servant of the local congregation.

This convention is one of a series of 13 North American assemblies scheduled for 1966 which is actually a part of an international tour of Bible seminars bearing the same theme. There will be six assemblies in Canada, six in the continental United States and one in Alaska.

In addition, four "God's Sons of Liberty" assemblies will take place in the British Isles this summer. Early in 1967, the assembly will move southward into Mexico and a number of South American countries. Public address at each assembly is entitled "What Has God's Kingdom Been Doing Since 1914?"

ness diplomats. One of the several high points of this delightful comedy is the scene in which Ustinov shuttles between the rival embassies, listening to their blandishments and threats. This is a hilarious cartoon of diplomacy.

"Why the title, 'Romanoff and Juliet'? The Russian has a son and the American has a daughter named Juliet and these twain fall in love. And love has its sway. National rivalries vanish as the parents are reconciled after a wedding which is remarkable for its lunacy."

MUSIC plays an important role in the life of Diane Hanson, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hanson of Erskine. The Moorhead state college sophomore with a major in music will compete Saturday, July 30, for the title of Miss Thief River Falls at the Jaycee Aquacade Miss America preliminary pageant in Thief River Falls. Her contralto solo talent number will include a medley of songs.

Erskine Girl Is Queen Candidate

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(This is the third in a series of personal interview articles on candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the annual Jaycees Aquacade pageant Saturday, July 30. Stories on other candidates will be published in succeeding issues.)

At the time when most girls use their voices simply to make noise, Diane Hanson of Erskine began using her voice to make music. Now, years later, the 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hanson is a music major at Moorhead state college where she took part in a number of campus activities during her freshman year. She is now attending summer school at MSC.

Diane is five feet, four inches tall, wighs 118 pounds, has dark brown hair and dark brown eyes and a 35½-25-36 figure. She is a 1965 graduate of Erskine high school where she was a member of the band and chorus for four years. Her talent number at the Aquacade pageant will be a contralto solo of a medley of songs.

For most of her 19 years, Diane has been interested in music, particularly singing. While in high school she won "A" ratings in the district music festival four years and also gained an "A" rating in the state area festival. In addition to being a member of the school band, she played alto saxophone in ensembles, dixieland band and stage band.

Diane has served as class secretary, was a member of Future Homemakers of America, Girls' Athletic association, pep club, library club, Cometeer yearbook staff and Comet Tales school paper staff. She was in one-act plays four years, played a role in the junior class play and graduated as valedictorian in her class.

Since beginning college, she has become a member of the concert choir which is planning an European tour next summer. She is also an alto in the Madrigal Singers, participated in the chorus of the opera "Suor Angelica" and is a member of the "Inter-Varsity"—an interdenominational religious group. She was also selected as Phi Mu Alpha Simfonia fraternity sweetheart.

A member of her local 4-H club in 1965, she won the East Polk county share-the-fun contest and participated several times in the talent contest sponsored by the Erskine Parent and Teacher association. She has also had solo appearances for a number of groups at various events.

For two years Diane directed the cherub choir at Grace Lutheran church in Erskine and for three years she was a senior choir member, also doing solo work with the choir. A member of the Hi-League for four years she served as secretary and as president.

Diane has two brothers, Scott, 17, and Darryn, 2, and two sisters, Sherry 10 and Debra, 5.

the building with natural gas service.

Renewal of an agreement with the state of Minnesota for clearing snags from the Thief River between the Thief River Falls city limits and the north Pennington county line was also approved. The state appropriated funds for the project two years ago, with the county board to supervise the operation. Work is expected to be completed this fall.

Uncollected personal property taxes were presented to the board, and included 27 assessments totaling $762. None of the taxes were canceled by the board and the sheriff was instructed to make collection.

Dr. David M. Brown, Goodridge, was reappointed Pennington county school administrator for the term running from July 1 to June 30 at an annual salary of $500. Norman Peterson, administrator at Northwestern hospital, was reappointed to the board of the Northwest Mental Health center at Crookston.

Renewal of a bottle club license for Kife's cafe was also approved.

Date of the annual board of equalization meeting was set back from July 18 to August 15.

Haying Bee Held At Svendsgaards

Families of friends and neighbors of the Dale Svendsgaards gathered at the Svendsgaard farm Sunday to haul and stack more than 5,000 hay bales. Dale Svendsgaard was hospitalized at Rochester where he underwent surgery Monday for a leg injury suffered in a farm accident and which has not responded satisfactorily to treatment.

As many as 52 men and boys were in the field at one time in the hauling and stacking operation, with 102 men, women and children served at lunch. The haying bee was sponsored by the Mavie 4-H club with many of the arrangements made by Kenneth Sanders, Adolph Steinhauer and Kermit Maldment. Women provided, arranged and served dinner, lunch and supper to the workers, 4-H club girls served as baby-sitters and made phone calls prior to the event and Vernon Rogalla provided music for dancing at the close of the day.

Eleven tractors and wagon were provided for hauling and five stacks of bales were built by the workers. So great was the response that the work expected to last until about 9 p.m. was complted by mid-afternoon. Special recognition was given to the Joe Skibicki family which furnished four field workers, and the Roy Nelson family which left its own haying work at home and provided four field workers plus Mrs. Nelson and Jackie to assist at Svendsgaards.

Much of the food and refreshments was furnished by Bridgeman Creameries, Land O'Lakes Creameries, Hartz supermarket and Piggly Wiggly supermarket.

Also Richard Nelson and Brad; Leonard Furuseth; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Sculthorp, Sheryl, Mary Lynn and Dick; Francis "Fink" Johnson, David, Duryl and Steven; Dick Sculthorp; Lewis Runnestrand; Don Bruggeman; Jerry Hamre and Krystal and Lydell Svendsgaard.

Two-Car Crash Reported Tuesday

A two-car collision occurred Tuesday at 4:40 p.m., it was reported today by the Thief River Falls police department. A car driven by Marlene Ueland, Newfolden, was traveling north on Crocker avenue and collided with a panel truck driven by John Bosman, rt. 3, which was going west on Taft street. Damage was estimated at $105 to the Ueland car and $130 to the Bosman vehicle.

Schedule Hearing On Market Order For Milk Sales

their milk, however, regardless of its use through the uniform "blend" price which would even out returns per hundredweight to the farmers.

To have their milk pooled and priced under the order, distributing plants would have to sell on in-area routes at least 15 per cent of their milk receipts for fluid use, and have total route sales of not less than 25 per cent of receipts in July through February, and 20 per cent in other months.

The administrative assessment to handlers doing business under the order would be a maximum of four cents per hundredweight, and the marketing service assessment to dairy farmers would be a maximum of five cents per hundredweight on milk delivered to the market.

Among proposals from milk dealers was one which would provide for payments to dairymen on the basis of individual-handler pooling, and another that would require within-area fluid milk (Class1) sales of 20 per cent to total receipts, to qualify for pooling under the order.

After considering the evidence presented at the hearing, USDA will decide whether federal regulation of milk handling is appropriate for any or all of the area proposed. Everyone interested would then be given opportunity to submit exceptions by USDA in drawing a final decision to be submitted to dairy farmers for approval. Approval by at least two-thirds of the eligible farmers voting in a referendum is required before a market pool order can become effective, with three-fourths dairy farmer approval required for individual-pool orders.

All together, the area as variously proposed for regulation includes the entire state of North Dakota an the Minnesota counties of Becker, Beltrami, Big Stone, Clay, Clearwater, Douglas, Grant, Hubbard, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Ottertail, Pennington, Polk, Pope, Red Lake, Roseau, Stevens, Swift, Todd, Traverse, Wadnea and Wilkin.

Services Held Tuesday For Mrs. Janna Leiran, 76

Funeral services for Mrs. Janna Leiran, 76 of 808 North Knight, a resident of Thief River Falls for the past 50 years who died Friday at Northwestern hospital, were held Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. Harold Peterson officiated. Mrs. Harold Peterson served as organist and selections, including a Norwegian hymn, were sung by the Golden Years choir.

Serving as pallbearers were Louis Sagstuen, Edry Leiran, Simon Breiland, George Moberg, Thorvald Olson and Ed Johnson. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery with Sinding's Funeral Chapel in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Leiran, the former Janna Moberg, was born Oct. 30, 1889 at Rakkenstad, Norway to John and Anne Marie Jenson Moberg. At the age of six years, she immigrated to the United States with her parents living in the Gatzke area until her marriage there to John (Sam) Leiran on April 5, 1916. Since that time she had made her home in Thief River Falls.

She was a member of the Trinity Lutheran church and its Golden years group.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Henry J. (Eleanor) Bothman, Thief River Falls; one granddaughter, Roberta; a sister, Mrs. Mary Johnson, Thief River Falls; a brother, Ole Moberg, Gatzke and a number of nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband in December of 1956, one sister and two brothers.

Mrs. Louise Ness Services Held Monday At Grygla

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Ness, 78, of Thief River Falls, a former long-time resident of the Fourtown area, who died Friday at Northwestern hospital, were held Monday at 2 p.m. at Our Saviors Lutheran church east of Grygla. The Rev. S. J. Sigurgeirson officiated. Mrs. Torgus Johnson was the organist and vocal selections were rendered by Barbara Magnuson. Funeral arrangements were by the Green Funeral home with interment in the Lone Oak cemetery.

Pallbearers were Barnett Benson, Herbert Holthusen, Robert Sundberg, Gullick Byklum, Leonard Newhouse and Gust Johnson.

Mrs. Ness, the former Louise Christine Knutson, was born in Crookston on June 6, 1888 to Mr. and Mrs. Soren Knutson. She attended school in Crookston and in 1903 moved with her parents to a homestead in Minnie township, Beltrami county. She was united in marriage to Sam Ness at Malcolm on Nov. 18, 1912. After her marriage she lived on a farm near Fourtown until two years ago whenshe came to this city of make her home.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Charles (Dorothy) Renfer of Cygnet, Ohio; three sons, Harvey Ness of Grygla and Selmer and Clifford, both of Delphos, Ohio; five grandchildren, four step-grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

She was preceded in death by her husband on Oct. 7, 1949, five sisters and four brothers.

Mrs. D. Laurent, Once Of Wylie, Dies at G. Forks

Mrs. David Laurent, 83, a former resident of the Wylie community, died Thursday at a Grand Forks, N. D., hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. David Laurent were held at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Michael's church at Grand Forks, N. D. with Rev. William McNamee officiating. Interment was in Calvary cemetery.

Mrs. Laurent, the former Nellie McKerney, was born March 28, 1883 at Wylie. She married David Laurent at Red Lake Falls on June 6, 1904. They farmed in the Gentilly area until moving in 1943 to Grand Forks.

Mrs. Laurent was a member of St. Michael's church, its Altar society, the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters and the Catholic Daughters.

Survivors include three sons, Edward Laurent, Grand Forks, N. D.; Rheome, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Leonard of Huston, Tex.; a daughter, Sister Marie David, now living in France; a foster brother, Lawrence LeLaney McKerney of Red Lake Falls; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Her husband preceded her in death in 1960.

George W. Berg, 73, Of Viking, Dies Unexpectedly

George W. Berg, 73, a long-time resident of Marshall county, died unexpectedly Monday at his farm home near Viking.

Funeral services for George Berg will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Zion Lutheran church at Viking. Rev. T. J. Weltzin will officiate and interment will be in the Viking cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home from this evening (Wednesday) until 11 a.m. Thursday and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will follow.

Samuel W. Kezar Services Held Monday At Zion

Funeral services for Samuel W. Kezar, 76, were held Monday at 2 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church with Neil Hendrickson officiating. A resident of Thief River Falls since 1944 and formerly of Middle River, Kezar died Friday at the Veterans hospital at Fargo, N. D.

Special music at the services was provided by Mrs. Neil Hendrickson, soloist, and Mrs. James Dalager, organist. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery with funeral arrangements by the Green Funeral home.

Honorary pallbearers were Art Conklin, Selmer Olson, Calmer Brenna, Ing Gullickson, W. C. Searlee, Elmer Peterson, Lloyd Evans and Helmer Melhouse.

Serving as active pallbearers were Floyd Anderson, Ardell Liden, Robert Reed, Duane Green, Omer Olson and Hilary Stoltman.

Samuel William Kezar, a son of the late William and Sebena Kezar, was born April 14, 1890 in rural Middle River. There he attended school and grew to manhood.

He was united in marriage to Amanda Hanson at Warren on May 5, 1921. After their marriage, they lived at Middle River where he was employed by the State Highway Maintenance department. He also served as maintenance man at the Middle River school. In 1944 they moved to Thief River Falls where he was employed as a machinist at the Soo Line roundhouse until his retirement in 1955.

Mr. Kezar was a veteran of World War I having served in this country and France. He was a member of the local VFW Post 2703 and the Eagles lodge.

He is survived by his wife, Amanda; four sons, Donald Kezar, Minneapolis; Myron, Coon Rapids; Elworth, Phoenix, Ariz., and Dennis of rural Thief River Falls; one daughter, Mrs. Dean (Dorothy) Anderson of Glenwood, and 13 grandchildren;

Also three brothers, Robert Kezar, Hibbing and [illegible] and Asa Kezar, both of Middle River, three sisters, Mrs. Ben ([illegible]) Piker, East Grand Forks; Mrs. Walter (Rose) Thompson, Fosston and Mrs. Art (Lydia) Konerza, Glenco and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by one brother and one sister.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Many a surplus-weary farmer was asked whether our bounteous food production can't be used to feed hungry nations. It's a frequently heard view and it seems reasonable—on the surface. Especially when you look at projections for U. S. wheat and feed grains in 1980.

But look further in to the problem, especially in a country like India, and it turns out not to be very simple.

An Indian economist visiting the University of Minnesota, Raj Krishna, had some sobering views on this point. His argument can be summed up somewhat as follows.

First, U. S. food over the long run couldn't be more than a drop in the Indian bucket even if we sent her all we could spare.

Second, Krishna argues that U.S. wheat, while important as a "gap filler" in lean years in India, increases the very gap that it fills.

To understand what he means, you need to look at how U. S. wheat is handled in India. Currently, the six million tons of U. S. wheat sent there in 1964-65 accounts for about five per cent of demand and supply for that nation.

This wheat is sold through about 100,000 "fair price" shops, recognized by the Indian government as such, which sell U. S. wheat at 25 to 50 per cent under market level prices.

Krishna believes that this sale of low-cost U. S. Wheat has put a damper on incentives among many Indian farmers to increase their own wheat production.

This effect on incentives might be worse, Krishna continues, except that most Indians prefer their own white wheat to the darker wheat from the U. S. Otherwise, he argues, most Indians would rush to the fair price shops and the government would be forced to try feeding everybody.

Nevertheless, the low prices have induced low income Indians to buy the imported wheat instead of coarse grains such as sorghums and millets. The result has been less incentive to produce these crops.

Krishna says India's problem is not a failure to increase production, but failure to increase at a rate fast enough. As it is, India has stepped up grain production at about 3.4 per cent annually.

But India's population goes up faster than food supplies, so far at least. The nation had 429 million persons in 1960 and increases at about 10 million persons each year. Or as Krishna puts it, they produce a Switzerland every six month

The answer, in Krishna's views, is for India to boost her rate of agricultural production increase from the present 3.4 per cent to four or five per cent annually.

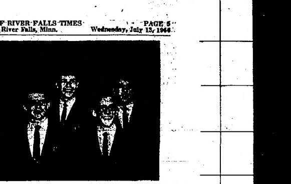
Is it possible? Krishna believes so, and as evidence points to the fact that India's grain production increased from 50 million to over 90 million tons over a ten-year period ending in the early 1960s.

Bad weather last summer forced a cutback to around 80 million tons, but India's potential for producing more food has been shown. And this he believes to be the answer to food problems for developing nations.

There may, of course, be a limited number of countries that cannot feed themselves. Egypt may be an example. Irrigation there is virtually impossible except in the Nile Valley.

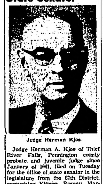
How about African nations? They are not necessarily short on food. Nigeria, whose 35 million population is about equal to Mexico, is a food exporter.

Agricultural economist Vernon Ruttan at the University of Minnesota says that in the long run, population control becomes crucial in countries such as India.



QUARTET from Oak Grove Lutheran high school in Fargo, N.D. will present a concert of sacred music at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls Friday at 8 p.m. In addition to the music, school pictures will be shown by Arnold Tranby, public relations and development man. A free-will offering will be taken. Prospective students and their parents are especially invited to attend and receive information about the school.

Kjos Files for State Senator



Judge Herman Kjos

Judge Herman A. Kjos of Thief River Falls, Pennington county probate and juvenile judge since January of 1941, filed on Tuesday for the office of state senator in the legislature from the 67th District, comprising Kittson, Roseau, Marshall and Pennington counties.

Judge Kjos has served as head of many health, fraternal and community organizations. He has been a resident of Pennington county since 1916 and of Thief River Falls since 1934. Mr. and Mrs. Kjos live in Thief River Falls and are the parents of four children.

"No presently developed country," Ruttan points out, "has had to meet annual increases in food and fiber requirements of three to five per cent per year over a sustained period. Unless positive policies to reduce population growth rates are adopted, neither internal productivity growth nor food aid will be more than a temporary palliative."

Ruttan stresses that while effective food production and population policies are being developed, it is important that U. S. food continue to be used for emergency aid, and here will be an important market.

But Ruttan continues that no food aid program should fail to consider the effect on incentives to produce. India is an example. Krishna argues that without food aid, India would have had more incentive to adjust its agricultural policy to fit its needs.

Yard'n Garden
UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA
AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

The dahlia has become one of the most versatile and interesting garden flowers in recent years. Hybridization has developed many new flower types, improved the purity of color and also the ability of the flowers to last in the home.

The dahlia likes full sun, good air circulation and good drainage. You will find that it thrives best in a cool soil that has been well mulched.

In planting the dahlia be sure that a portion of the stem remains on the root. If the root is broken off too short, no new shoots will be produced. Usually you can see the bud shoots beginning at the upper tip of the root. Carefully dig the hole to a depth of eight inches. The top of the root should be about three inches below the soil surface. Before filling the hole completely place the stake in the hole for staking the plant later. Next, fill the hole and firm the soil so the stake is well supported.

As the shoots begin to emerge from the soil they may be tied to the stake. Use a soft material because the stems of dahlias are quite succulant.

As soon as warm days begin in summer place a heavy mulch about the base of the plant to keep the soil cool and the moisture in the area of the roots.

Most bothersome insects on the dahlia are thrip and stock borer. As a preventive measure dust or spray at regular intervals with DDT. In using insecticides always follow the directions on the label.

Regular fertilization by side-dressing is helpful to keep the plants vigorous and blooming.

On some of the larger flower types disbudding is practiced in order to improve the quality of the flower.

Burglars Hit Supermarket in Bemidji Monday

Burglars got an estimated $10,000 at John's Supermarket in Bemidji early Monday, boldly breaking a large plate glass window and hauling off a well-lighted safe at the front of the store.

A baker working in the back of the store sounded the alarm after hearing breaking glass at about 3:20 a.m., but the thieves made good their escape before police arrived.

Proprietor of the store, John Johanson, is the father-in-law of Neil Lofberg of Thief River Falls, a 1961 graduate of Lincoln high school and 1966 graduate of Bemidji State college. Lofberg is planning to go into business in Phoenix, Ariz.

Foley Discusses Recreation with Rotary Monday

James Foley, city director of parks and recreation, reviewed the summer recreation program at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club Monday noon at the Elks club rooms.

Samples of craft work done by youngsters in the program were shown at the meeting, as well as uniforms used by the Little American league and Little National league baseball teams.

Emphasis of the recreation program, Foley said, is to provide activity of interest to as many people in the community as possible. Swimming classes for children and adults provide instruction to more than 700 people from Thief River Falls, Plummer, St. Hilaire and Goodridge, the director said. Competitive water events are held each week at the Tindolph park pool.

In addition to daily activities listed on the summer recreation schedule, a number of special events are scheduled through the summer. Among these Foley cited the "Balloon to the Moon" contest which will be held Friday when children will release balloons at the fairgrounds and prizes will be awarded later this summer to the children whose balloons travel the greatest distance.

Rufus Olson Is Reelected Head Of School Board

Great Falls, Mont., special education at Lincoln senior high school.

A resignation received from Miss Carol Paavola, vocal music instructor in the elementary schools, was tabled pending obtaining a replacement.

Cooks and bus drivers were officially placed on leave of absence during the summer months to assist them in requirements for Public Employees Retirement act benefits. Miss Sharon Hildreth was granted a high school equivalence certificate.

Kenneth Swenson, principal at Knox and Mark Twain elementary schools explained an experimental program which will be adopted at Knox school this year with approval of the state department of education. It will provide specialized training in English, History, mathematics and science for fifth and sixth grade students during half of the school day. Further details on the program will be announced later.

Contracts were awarded in the amount of $3,911.84 to Northwest Decorators for painting and remodeling of the Lincoln high school auditorium, and $8,020 to Northwest Studio of Minneapolis for stage curtains, track, pulleys and other items incident to auditorium remodeling.

Mrs. Ray Jude was also awarded a contract on an informal bid to replace drapes in the kindergarten departments of Knox and Northrop schools at a total cost of $77[illegible].

Supt. M. R. Hankerson was instructed to call for bids on the season's supply of gas, fuel oil and coal, with bids to be opened at the August meeting.

Richard Whiteman of the architectural firm of Jyring and Whiteman was present to talk with the board regarding the proposed vocational school. He mentioned meetings which had been held with Tollerud and with the architect for junior colleges in the state. Both meetings regarded master planning to make the vocational school compatible with the junior college building proposal.

Hot and Stormy Weather Prevails During Past Week

Weather has been hot and turbulent in Minnesota during the past week, with tornadoes and thunderstorms making headlines. The Twin Cities area was on tornado watch for four hours Sunday afternoon, with several funnel clouds sighted but none apparently touchdown. In the local area, a tornado touched down in Red Lake Falls Friday night and a barn near St. Hilaire was struck by lightning and razed.

Heaviest rain of the year took place Friday night with 1.77 inch measured at the Thief River Falls municipal airport. Minnesota has not been alone with its weather problems, however. To date, 25 persons have died of heat exhaustion in St. Louis, Mo. as the mercury has risen to the 100's for several days.

Forecast calls for fair to partly cloudy skies today through tomorrow with occasional showers and thunderstorms mostly in south and central portions. It will be a little cooler today and tonight with little temperature change seen tomorrow. Highs today will range from 80 to 88; lows tonight from 58 to 65.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded at the airport are as follows: 77 and 48 on Wednesday; 82 and 54 on Thursday; 88 and 56 on Friday; 87, 61 and 1.77 inch on Saturday; 86, 65 and a trace on Sunday; 92 and 57 on Monday; and 87 and 62 on Tuesday.

City Court Tries 12 Cases Monday

Twelve cases were brought before Judge Stanley N. Mortenson in Monday's session of Thief River Falls municipal court.

Ole Bakken of Wannaska was charged by the highway patrol and city police with failure to display 1966 license tabs (the violations occurred on different days). He was fined $10 on the first charge and received a suspended fine of $10 on the second. He was also charged by city police with failure to heed a stop sign and was fined $15.

Other city police cases included Larry Gene Nelson, city, careless driving, accident involved, $50 bond forfeited; Orlene Walker, rt. 4, Red Lake Falls speed, $18 fine with $5 suspended; John Koleinski, Hamtramck, Mich, speed, $19 bond forfeited; Harry Donarski, city, speed, $20 fine; Douglas Wahl, rt. 2, Greenbush, speed, $25 fine; Evelyn Wollin, city, speed, $29 fine with $9 suspended; Donald Scott, St. Hilaire, permitting unlicensed driver to drive, $30 fine with $10 suspended; Walter Thomas, city, permitting unlawful operation of vehicle, $30 fine with $10 suspended; and one person charged with drunkenness.

Cause of Power Failure Obscure, Bureau Reports

No word has been received as to the cause of the power failure which occurred Monday morning and continued for 20 minutes in this city, reported Morris Owen, superintendent of utilities. It is known, however, that the failure was part of an extensive power outage that affected parts of Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Iowa.

Frank Lachicotte, power system operations official for the Bureau of Reclamation at Watertown, S. D. said the cause of the major, but short, outage has not been pinpointed. He said, however, that the trouble might have occurred between Fort Randall in South Dakota and a substation in Sioux City, Ia.

Hardest hit area was eastern Nebraska, where power as gone for 45 to 50 minutes. Bureau of Reclamation officials are now studying photographs taken by multi-element electrical measuring devices in an attempt to locate the source of the power failure.

Announce Change In Band Schedule

A change in schedule has been announced by officers of the municipal-legion band of Thief River Falls. A previously arranged playing engagement in Middle River has been tentatively rescheduled from Saturday, July 16, to Saturday, August 6.

The band will appear at Tindolph park Friday at 7 p.m. Other engagements include Sunday, July 24, at the county fair; Thursday evening, July 28, at the Crazy Day celebration; and Sunday, July 31, at the Jaycee Aquacade in Tindolph park.

Hatchery Meet Set July 19-21 In Minneapolis

American Poultry and Hatchery Federation will hold its annual convention in Minneapolis July 19-21. The three-day convention will celebrate its 50-year history by looking to the future. Topic of the convention is "Appraising the Shape of Things to Come."

Featured speakers included Dr. Walter Judd, former U. S. Representative from Minnesota; Charles B. Shuman, president of the Farm Bureau federation; and Roy Kottman, dean of the school of agriculture at Ohio State university.

A number of other speakers will address the convention on the varying aspects of the future food industry. Marketing and production problems will receive most of the attention on the program.

Jr. Legion Slips Past Roseau 5-4

It was a game of rally and counter-rally at the fairgrounds diamond on Tuesday night as the Thief River Falls juniors defeated the Roseau juniors, 5-4, in a Northwest American Legion league game. Tommy Tunberg's drive into left-center, with the bases loaded, two out and the score knotted at 4-all in the last half of the seventh, tallied Karl Poppenhagen with the winning run.

Coach Lee Swanson will take his juniors to Devils Lake for a doubleheader today, Wednesday. On Thursday the locals will play a league contest at Oslo. And on Friday, July 15, the Bemidji juniors will play a doubleheader against the locals on the fairgrounds diamond.

In Tuesday night's game, the Roseau juniors, coached by Don Ross, held a 3-1 lead — picking up singletons in the first, third and fourth innings — moving into the last half of the sixth inning. In the fifth inning the locals had loaded the bases with two men out, but lefty Mike Baumgartner whiffed Karl Poppenhagen to end the threat.

In the sixth inning with one out, Billy Poole drew a walk; Larry Peterson was safe on an infield error; and Rocky Wilson walked to fill the bases. Tunberg looped a single into right-center, scoring Poole and Peterson and sending Wilson to third. Dale Erickson grounded to second, and Wilson beat the throw to the plate, giving the local juniors a 4-3 lead. Nickie Drees struck out, and Bob Brodin grounded out, second to first.

Roseau came back with a run in the seventh on a single by Jim Nelson, a walk to Baumgartner and a single by Earl Anderson. Tom Cummings struck out Jim Lundbohm and Ian Roadfelt, and Rocky Ammerman bounced into a force play.

In the locals' half of the seventh, Poppenhagen led off with a ground single past second, and Cummings had an infield hit to shortstop. Jim Nelson, attempting to pick Cummings off first base, made a high throw and the locals' had runners on second and third and none out. Baumgartner struck out Poole and Peterson. Wilson drew a walk, and on the first pitch to Tunberg, the youthful first baseman lined a single to left-center, and the locals had a deserved 5-4 win.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Many of your are in the midst of planning for your vacation trip. As you check your route and decide what to see and what to pack, be sure you plan to keep your family as safe and healthy as they are at home. Don't forget to pack a first aid kit in your car so you will be prepared for any minor emergency that might arise as you travel.

Many drug stores carry ready-packed first aid kits, or you can make one at home. According to the Minnesota State Medical Association, your first aid kit should consist of:

A first aid manual;

A bandage scissors or other blunt-pointed scissors;

A fever thermometer;

One or more disposable enema packages;

A roll of one-inch finger bandage;

A roll of two-inch roller bandage;

A tin of finger bandages and "spots" of varying size;

A plastic bottle of Tincture of green soap;

A package of double-ended cotton applicators;

A cotton "picker" package;

A package of sterilized gauze squares in envelopes;

A roll of one-inch zinc oxide adhesive plaster;

A plastic bottle of eye-drops as prescribed by your doctor for use after a long, dusty, sunny drive; and

An 8-ounce plastic bottle of isopropyl alcohol or 70 per cent grain alcohol for skin disinfecting.

If you are prepared, says the medical association, your vacation need not be marred by an accident or minor illness in your family.

Almost all parents at some time contend with a child's refusing to go to sleep or waking up and crying during the night. The causes of sleep problems vary greatly, says the Minnesota State Medical Association. Some sleep problems are directly related to the actions and attitudes of the parents. The main parental difficulties are overanxiety and, with the older infant and child, over-permissiveness. A mother who feels that she must play with the child, sit with him, or visit his room frequently during the evening doesn't give him a chance to fall asleep.

Crying at night may be a habit. If a child discovers that when he cries, his mother will come immediately, he will cry every night. This habit is particularly apt to be formed when a child's sleep is disturbed by genuine pain, such as during teething, and he needs parental care. The wise parent realizes when the pain has gone and takes care that a bad habit is not formed.

Between the age of one and three years, many children go through a stage of negativism. They enjoy the attention they receive when they oppose parental efforts to make them go to sleep.

If naptime is too close to bedtime, a child will not be tired enough to sleep. He may also not sleep if he is too tired. In older children, fear of the dark, worry, or other emotional disturbances may prevent a child from sleeping.

Many sleep problems may be prevented with parental understanding. The management of a child's sleep disturbances involves a balance between the child's need for love and security and his need to learn good habits and reasonable loving discipline, says the Medical Association. Recognizing and understanding the cause of the problem may be the first step in solving it. However, since sleep is so essential to the health of the child, if the problem persists for an unreasonable length of time, the family doctor should be consulted.

Not Bragging

Those of us who are National league ball fans aren't boasting about the results of the All-Star game played on Tuesday afternoon in St. Louis, and which found the Nationals defeating the American leaguers, 2-1, in 10 innings. Some of the "wise" guys in town were picking the American leaguers, and getting a couple of runs, and they are jingling their winnings and wearing big smiles. A game like this is even-up always, and it serves those cookies right who gave up a couple runs.

It is fortunate, too, that the National league won, and are now two-up in the series, as the future appears quite bright for the American league. The junior league has a number of brilliant young players coming up, while the Nationals are staffed with a number of aging stars. The American League was without the services of their fine pitcher, Sam McDowell of Cleveland, The American league's answer to Sandy Koufax. And of course McDowell, at 24 years of age, has seven years on the 31-year old Koufax.

That statement, by a metropolitan writer, that the game was a "must win" for manager Sam Mele of the Twins, and that a win for the American league in the All-Star classic, would muffle the critics of the Twins' manager and justify Mele managerial strategy, was far-fetched and silly. One game isn't any criterion, nor is a seven-game series, or less. The Twins aren't playing the baseball they exhibited last season, and that's all there is to it. The Baltimore Orioles, with a fine mixture of youth and experience, and a strong bull-pen, will be difficult to overtake. They are playing the ball that the Twins put on the field last season.

Take a Look at the Merchants

With the local American Legion juniors playing out of town tonight —they are at Devils Lake for a doubleheader against Swede Lund's juniors—baseball fans will have an opportunity to watch the Thief River Falls Merchants in action. The local senior club will be meeting the Greenbush team under the lights on the fairgrounds diamond.

These boys are trying to keep senior baseball alive, and it is quite a struggle. But I hear that they will have a surprise or two in store for the Greenbush club. And, too, Rich Lorenson, the local team's manager, is a former Greenbush athlete and he will be anxious to beat his old home town club.

It's tonight, Wednesday, at the fairgrounds diamond.

To St. Paul Park

Don Ross, one of the most illustrious all-round athletes to be developed at Roseau high school, and later an All-American defenseman when playing with the North Dakota Sioux, will be teaching at St. Paul Park this season. And Don will be assisting Marv Jorde in coaching the St. Paul Park high school hockey team. And, of course, he will be playing senior hockey down there, perhaps with the South St. Paul Steers.

Don is a solidly-built 200-pounder, and he was nearly at that weight during his junior and senior years in high school. As a Roseau Ram he played football, hockey, golf and baseball—and he was of all -regional caliber in all these sports, and an all-state selection a couple of times in hockey.

Fro the past several seasons he has been playing baseball with the Warroad Muskies, but this year he is busy with the Roseau junior legion club, and in doing greens work at the Roseau golf club.

You can wager that Marv Jorde will be pleased when he sees the burly former All - American show up for the St. Paul Park pre-season hockey drills.

NYC Program in Minnesota Offers Youth Opportunity

Since Neighborhood Youth corps programs began offering employment for youth from low-income families 17 months ago, 8,344 Minnesota boys and girls between the ages of 16 to 21 have been provided with NYC work-training jobs and vocational counseling through the 25 offices of the Minnesota state employment service.

Current interest in NYC is high, according to Robert Brown, state employment security commissioner. Between June 15 and 30, the employment service placed 854 young people in NYC projects around the state. At present 1,570 youth are enrolled in NYC programs in which the state employment service is participating.

MSES offices make referrals to projects for out-of-school youth and summer projects for in - school youth, sponsored by various community groups and agencies, Brown said.

The Neighborhood Youth corps is a division of the U. S. Department of Labor, the same department under which the Minnesota state employment service operates. Projects are funded by the Office of Economic opportunity to provide economically deprived youth with a chance to acquire good work habits and self-confidence, both leading to increased employability, Brown noted.

Priority is given to projects located in economically distressed counties and in areas where there are large numbers of unemployed youth. The programs are planned by local groups who understand local needs.

The role of the State Employment Service in providing supporting services, including vocational counseling for NYC enrollees is extremely important, according to Brown. NYC projects for out-of-school youth are primarily concerned with reaching the hard-core disadvantaged who frequently also need a great deal of help in making the transition from NYC to further training or a job, he pointed out.

"If a boy is placed on a job at the end of his enrollment in NYC, only to quit a few weeks later, we have failed," Brown said. "The state employment service has a responsibility to work with the NYC sponsors in helping these young men and women to adjust to their work careers."

NYC jobs pay $1.25 an hour for up to 32 hours a week, and are open to boys and girls from families meeting certain income limits. Information and application forms are available at all offices of the state employment service, Brown said. The office for the Thief River Falls area is located at 316 LaBree Ave. N.

Freeze Fruit To Make Jelly Later

The modern jelly-maker's song is "freeze fruit now — make jelly later," says Mrs. Shirley Munson, assistant professor of horticultural science at the University of Minnesota. In the good old days grandmother worked long, hot hours every summer to make the tasty jelly treats for her family's bread and butter.

Freezing fruits before jelly making results in greater yields of juice. Freshly made jam and preserves prepared from frozen fruit have better quality than if made in season and stored for several months.

VA Will Admit Veterans Believed To Have Malaria

Vetrans administration hospitals throughout the nation have been directed to admit any recently-discharged veteran without waiting for an eligibility determination if the man thinks he may be suffering from malaria.

Dr. Edward Mandell, director of the Minneapolis VA hospital, advises veterans who have been home for 100 days or less to be on the alert for any symptoms of this disease. The medical departments of the armed forces have found an increase of malaria in personnel returning to the U. S. from duty in Southeast Asia.

Dr. Mandell said a large number of these cases are a type of malaria known as falciparum. This particular form of malaria does not present the usual symptoms of chills and fever. The symptoms may be so mild that they may readily be missed. Use of a new anti-malaria drug may cut in half the number of men stricken by the disease, Dr. Mandell said. The drug also cuts length of illness and helps to prevent relapse.

State Receives Half Million for Game and Fish

Minnesota Conservation department today announced it received $560,285 in federal aid funds July 1 to support state fish and wildlife projects. Under the program, states spend their own funds first on federally approved projects and then are reimbursed up to 75 per cent of the cost.

Federal funds to finance the program are collected through an excise tax on hunting and fishing equipment. The aid funds are apportioned to the states under a formula based on the size of the state and the number of hunting and fishing licenses sold in each state the preceding year.

The July 1 allocation is a preliminary disbursement and a second allocation of funds will be made in the fall.

Minnesota received $161,814 for fisheries projects under the "Dingell-Johnson" act and $398,470 for wildlife projects under the "Pittman - Robertson" Act in this initial allocation.

The federal aid funds are used to help finance the acquisition and thes and other wildlife alnds, to acquire and develop fish spawning sites and public access areas, to conduct lake and stream surveys and for many other types of work. They play a large part in financing Minnesota's fish and game programs.

Fishers Trapped In Minnesota Are Welcome in Wis.

Minnesota fishers, transported from the Superior National forest to Michigan and Wisconsin, have apparently been effective in reducing the porcupine population there.

The Minnesota conservation department's game and fish division reports that in Forest county, Wisconsin, the number of porky seen by highway crews has decreased from 208 in 1954 to about 25 last year.

Along with the decrease in the porcupine population has come a welcome reduction in damage to highway road signs. Porcupines are also in bad repute with foresters for their habit of chewing off the bark of large pines which usually results in the death or deformity of the tree.

A total of 102 fishers has been transferred from Minnesota to Michigan since 1956. Since then, fishers have been observed 50 to 60 miles from release points indicating successful reproduction and a tendency for the animals to travel considerable distances.

The fisher have been live trapped from localities where they are abundant in the Superior National forest. It is one of the few animals which will attack a porcupine.

IMPROVED SIGHT AND SOUND FOR PATRONS OF CABLE TV

In line with our policy of bringing patrons of cable TV the clearest and sharpest pictures possible, we are replacing our entire cable system.

Although our present system is only about 3-years-old — It has been made obselete by new developments in cable maunfacturing. Our system will use Jerrold new aluminum covered, moisture proof cable. Because of its moisture resistance and better insulation outside disturbances and signals will be virtually eliminated in the new cable system.

When our system is completed early this fall, we hope to bring our patrons in addition to better reception, two more channels.

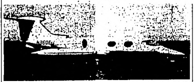
NEWS TEAM from the CBS Midwestern Bureau of Chicago, including a photographer, a writer and two technicians, traveled to Thief River Falls by jet aircraft Thursday to cover events in the parathion-sprayed town of Argyle. Left to right are Isadore Bleckman, photographer; John A. Flottorp, pilot for Executive Jet Aircraft, Inc.; Charles Quinlan, lighting engineer; William - Plante, correspondent; and Barney Kugel, sound engineer. Hopes for a hot disaster story fizzled, however, when it was learned that the lethal chemical which had been mistakenly sprayed on Argyle as mosquito killer was not mixed in a heavy enough concentration to pose a threat to the community.



FIRST JET airliner ever to land at the Thief River Falls municipal airport was this Lear Jet plane owned and operated by Executive Jet Aviation Inc. The twin-jet aircraft was chartered by a CBS news team which traveled to Argyle to cover the activities there following the mistaken spraying of the city with lethal chemical Wednesday night. The plane landed at the airport at approximately 2 p.m. Thursday, after having brought the men from Chicago at a cruising speed of about 550 miles per hour.

"If this life be not a real fight, in which something is eternally gained for the universe by success, it is no better than a game of private theatricals from which one may withdraw at will. But it feels like a real fight—as if there were something really wild in the universe . . . ." —William James

An Industry Moves

It was with a note of sadness that this community received the announcement from Dow-Key company that the firm will relocate in Broomfield, Colo., a Denver suburb. Dow-Key has shown excellent growth while located here, and has certainly been an asset to the local business community.

Now that the announcement has been made public, we fully expect that loose tongues will be wagging about how little was done by the community to keep the company in this city. And, as usual, those who do the most talking will be those who are least informed on the situation but have "heard" (or imagined) certain "information" on the move.

In years to come it will be the tale of some that "we had an electronics plant here a few years ago, but THEY forced that out of town. THEY were afraid it would force the wages up." This is the song we have heard several times as the reason Thief River Falls does not have a sugar beet processing plant. "THEY could have had it," the story goes, "but THEY were afraid it would force the wages up, so THEY turned it down and Crookston got it." (Did you ever count the sugar beet fields within 10 miles of Thief River Falls? We don't raise them here.)

We have known Gordon Dow for about a dozen years, dating back to the early days of his company in Warren. We watched it grow from its infancy in a small, remodeled frame building in that community to a newer building here, and through two expansion programs since that time. It is through growth and keeping pace with the industry that Dow-Key company has survived and become a noted—if relatively small—electronics firm.

While the electronics field has a tremendous potential, it is a highly exacting and technical one. To fail to advance is to wither and die, and to continue advancement requires highly trained and qualified personnel. Unfortunately, very few of these people are content to work and make their homes outside of a metropolitan atmosphere.

Gordon Dow harbors no animosity toward Thief River Falls nor its people. Just as Dow-Key has been good for our community, Thief River Falls has been good to the company. Many offers of help and assistance were offered to induce the firm to remain here. None of these, however, could provide what the firm really needs—qualified professional and technical personnel.

As much as residents of this area are sold on its advantages and proud to be a part of it, we must face the reality that it is not ideal for all people or all businesses. As more and more people are reared in a metropolitan atmosphere, the less they will be inclined to move into the rural areas for employment. They will feel more comfortable in an atmosphere to which they are accustomed, although we personally feel that they are missing a large share of what living really should be.

If we are to face the cold facts of life squarely, however, we must realize that Dow-Key company has no real choice but to relocate. It is inevitable that such a business must move boldly forward or fall continually behind.

Let no man say, however, that every effort which could be made was not made to encourage the company to remain here. It is simply a case of this community's inability to provide what the company needs. We are sorry to see Dow-Key move west, but our best wishes go with Gordon and his administrative personnel as they build a new future in Colorado. May the mountain air bring the same vitality for growth as was evidenced while the firm was here.

We Like It Not

Maybe we're just old-fashioned, but a news release from the Committee for Economic development in New York makes us bristle a little. The committee advocates, in a statement called "Modernizing Local Government", a consolidation and merger proposal that we just plain don't like.

The committee states, "The number of local governments in the United States should be reduced by at least 80 per cent . . .", expressing the opinion that such action is "designed to serve local interests more effectively and to balance central power in the federal system."

Here are the nine major points which the committee proposes:

1) Reduce the 80,000 local gvernments to no more than 16,000.

2) Curtail the overlapping layers of local government now found in most states.

3) Confine popular election to members of the policy making bodies of government, severely reducing the 500,000 locally elected paid or unpaid officials.

4) Put a single chief executive (either elective or appointive) in charge of all administrative agencies and halt the election of department heads.

5) Replace the "partisan 'spoils' system" found in most counties and many other local units with personnel practices based on merit and professional competence.

6) Increase reliance on modernized county governments (except in New England) to solve the problems of rural, urban, and most metropolitan communities.

7) Give local governments, when modernized, broad legal powers to plan, finance, and execute programs suited to the needs, interests, and desires of their citizens.

8) Revamp the 50 State constitutions to provide for boundary revisions, extensions of legal authority, and elimination of needless government units.

9) Revise the terms and conditions of federal and state grants-in-aid to encourage modernization of local governments.

We have vigorously opposed sweeping consolidation of government, contending that centralization of power leads to loss of representation and provides an open invitation to corruption. Too often the "qualified and competent" officials are controlled by strings pulled from behind the scenes, with the result being neither efficiency nor economy.

The closer the public official is to his electorate, the less likely he is to stray from the straight and narrow in performance of his duties. A consolidation of governments would not balance the power of federal government but make it easier for the central government to control all local government. Local government is not wasteful, as the CED report flatly states, but provides dollar value for dollar spent far beyond that of larger governmental units.

The government of the United States is based on a system of checks and balances. Local units of government help to maintain this balance. If the CED wants to study something, we suggest it study ways and means of keeping the federal government out of local problems. That will keep it busy for at least the next 200 years.

The Big Question

One of the big questions before the American public today is whether or not the DFL administration will be able to buy enough votes to retain power in the fall elections before it completely drains available resources and gets caught in its own snare.

With a dexterity never before known in United States government, the federal agencies are passing out grants at an unheard of pace. Money is being tossed to communities with a fiscal benevolence that should make every taxpayer in the nation quake in his boots and pray for deliverance in the future.

We have been particularly awed by the flood of news releases which we have received calling attention to grants being made around the area. While we haven't kept a tabulation, we are certain that the total runs to several million dollars. It should be emphasized that these are grants and not loans—that tax dollars are being given away with absolutely no expectation of financial return.

One of the disturbing factors about the situation is the change in attitude among community officials. Few of them would condone any such practice in private business, but apply for federal grants in wholesale measure. In many cases it provides local political figures with an opportunity to demonstrate activity without appreciably increasing the local tax load.

These officials certainly know that money from Washington is not free money—it has been taken from the pockets of the American public, including their own constituents. Government has no other way to obtain money than to take it from the people. Its attemps at enterprise consistently lose money and are subsidized with tax funds.

The short, sighted, selfish and narrow-minded rationalization that "the money is going to be given away anyway so we might as well get our share" is entirely too prevalent today. Community pride is being eroded by the lure of federal handouts. When a community loses its pride it loses its initiative, and when it loses its initiative it fails to make progress. When any community fails to make progress it goes backward. In effect, federal grants are helping communities to commit business, social, economic, industrial and political suicide.

The tide of federal funds now flowing into communities will just as surely flow out again; it is an economic certainty that government can not go on forever spending more than it collects. Financial chaos is bound to follow. And when the "free" money is no longer available, those communities which have come to depend upon it will not remember how to progress by themselves.

Now is the time for communities to shoulder their own responsibilities, tell the federal agencies that their tainted money is not wanted and stop the inefficient, wasteful and unnecessary drain on the federal treasury.

The present administration has done quite a selling job in encouraging citizens to believe that they are poor and need help. High - priced press agents are constantly telling us the bad condition we are in, while equally high - priced administration "specialists" are shouting about the great affluence of the nation. We need less talking and more economy in Washington. The big question is whether or not we are going to get it.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A lawyer was summoned to the bedside of an aged father who had only a few days to live and wanted to make his will.

"To my son Jim, in fatherly love," the old man began, "I bequeath $10,000. To my son John the same, and to each of my eight grandchildren, $1,000 . . . ."

The lawyer interrupted. "Hold on there!" he said. "Your estate isn't worth more than $3,000. Just how do you suppose these beneficiaries are going to get the money?"

Indignantly the old man reared up in his bed. "Git it?" he shouted. "Let 'em work for it, same as I had to do!" —

'DIALITIS'

It's easy to dial a wrong number — but it's even easier to dial the right number! All it takes to eliminate wrong number calling ("Dialitis") is a little extra care in dialing.

Don't guess at the number; look it up and write it down. Avoid transposing numbers (4231 instead of 4321). Let the dial return normally— "riding" it back can cause the equipment to malfunction.

Remember, every wrong number you dial inconveniences two people: yourself and a total stranger.

Sjulstads Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Swen Sjulstad observed their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday at the Ekelund dining hall with a large host of relatives and friends attending. Pastor Heltne gave devotion and prayer and also announced the numbers presented, which were a song, "O Happy Home" by Mrs. Kenneth Kriel and Mrs. Paul Omlid, and a reading by Mrs. Orlin Hanson. Mr. and Mrs. Sjulstad both spoke briefly. Registering the guests and handing out thank you notes was Mrs. Bobby Zavoral Jr. The lunch featured a beautiful wedding cake which was served by Mrs. Gerald Sjulstad and Mrs. Edwin Sjulstad. Mrs. Evelyn Prigge poured. Kitchen workers were Mrs. John Eidelbes, Mrs. Orlin Hanson, Mrs. Evelyn Prigge, Mrs. Henry Hovet and Mrs. Vernon Iverson. The Sjulstads were married June 29th, 1941 in the Grygla Lutheran Parsonage by Rev. S. T. Anderson. Mrs. Sjulstad is the former Bonnie Zavoral. Mrs. Norris Trontvelt and Edwin Sjulstad were attendants and both were present for this occasion. The Sjulstads made their home near Goodridge until 1962 when they moved to Phoenix, Ariz. They have three daughters, Sandra, (Mrs. Jim Prigge) who lives in Babbitt, Dianne (Mrs. Craig Crumble) living in Phoenix, and Renae at home; also two grandsons, Scott and Jeffrey Prigge. Swen is employed as a custodian and bus driver at a Phoenix school and Bonnie is employed at the J. C. Penney store there.

Enjoying a picnic together July 4th at Tindolph Park were Mr. and Mrs. Erling Dahlen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hammer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gunsten Skreland and girls. The Erling Dahlens also visited Elaine, who was a patient at Northwestern hospital. We are happy to report that Elaine was released Tuesday after a 2-day stay.

The Ekelund ALCW met Wednesday evening at the dining hall with a good attendance. What will the others be worth a year from now?
The Cadillac car holds its value far beyond any other automobile at or near its price. Let your Cadillac dealer explain today why now, more than ever, it's great . . . going Cadillac!

There is one simple way to measure the worth of any other luxury car: compare it to the way a Cadillac keeps its value. For Cadillac is the grand champion in this most telling of all motor car tests—and at resale returns a higher percentage of its original cost than any other car built in the land. There are many reasons. The first is Cadillac quality—recognized wherever automobiles are known. Then there is Cadillac beauty and luxury—so advanced that the car retains its desirability long after others have lost their appeal. And there is Cadillac safety, performance, dependability and operating economy. What will your car be worth a year—or even three years—from now? If it's a Cadillac, the answer is predictably pleasant. Get the facts today from your authorized dealer. He's an expert in serving the world's most demanding motorists—and his interest in your complete satisfaction will continue throughout your ownership. Isn't it time you put a Cadillac in your life?

Minnesota Leads Public Spending Ass'n. Reports

Newly - issued federal figures show that Minnesota is holding firmly to its role as "top public spender" among seven competitive north central states, according to Harold T. Miller, research director of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

In the year ended June 30, 1965, state and local government spending in Minn. amounted to $433.21 per capita, Miller said, citing figures contained in the publication "Governmental Finances in 1964-1965" issued by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

"This spending for education, highways, public welfare, health and hospitals and other purposes was 12 per cent above the national average of $386.73, and ranged from $17 to $102 more per person than was spent in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin - - states with which we are competing for factories and jobs," Miller said.

"Minnesota spent more in every major category of public service than any of the other six competitive states, with two exceptions—Iowa's street and highway costs were $88.45 per person compard to Minnsota's $83.18 and Michigan spent $34.27 for health and hospitals as against Minnesota's $30.88.

"In the last five years the state and local governments in Minnesota have increased their spending by $104.23 per capita. The national average increase was $98.49.

"Inevitably, the brunt of Minnesota's higher spending falls most heavily on those who pay the bulk of taxes to support government—and in Minnesota that means property owners and income taxpayers."

Beware of Fake Otter Tail Men, Company Warns

Several instances of phoney "electrical inspectors" for Otter Tail Power company have been reported by Norman and Otter Tail county sheriff's offices, according to Otter Tail Power company officials.

The men pose as Otter Tail Power company employees. After asking to check the lights, they go to the roof to "check" the lightning rods. When they return, they assess charges of as much as $80 for work they have not done, and ask the homeowner to pay immediately in cash. Reports indicate that these men are neat and well-mannered.

Otter Tail Power Company officials are dismayed by the use of the company name in an operation of this type, and are cooperating in every way possible with local law-enforcement agencies. The company wants customers in its service area to keep several things in mind:

1. OTP employees drive clearly-marked company vehicles. These vehicles are painted either green or orange.
2. Otter Tail employees carry identification cards. Ask to see this card if you do not know the individual who claims to be a representative of the company.
3. In the great majority of cases, no company asks for cash payment at the time service is performed. Unless you are accustomed to paying in this manner, and know the person you are dealing with, wait until you are billed formally before making payment.

Confidence operations of this type are common throughout the nation, especially during the summer months in rural areas when the man of the house can be expected to be at work in the fields. Otter Tail regrets the use of its company name in this particular operation, and warns all residents throughout its service area to be especially wary of strangers selling services of any kind.

Minnesota Timber Volume Increases

Minnesota's timber volume has shown a tremendous increase since 1953, according to a report from the U. S. Forest service.

The Minnesota Conservation department's forestry division has cited a recent report from the North Central forest experiment station showing that 34 million cords have been added to the state's timber volume during the last 13 years.

Most of the gain has been in hardwood or broadleaf species although the annual desirable cut of softwood saw timber such as pine has gone up about five per cent.

The harvesting of timber has failed to keep pace with the increase in the desirable cut; however, Timber cut actually declined from 1.9 million cords in 1953 to 1.6 million in 1960.

Tree planting increased sharply in Minnesota during recent years, the report said. More trees, chiefly Norway pine, were planted from 1955 through 1964 than in all former years combined.

More trees were planted in Minnesota between 1960 and 1963 than in any other state north of the Mason-Dixon line.

Lightning Fire Razes Barn Near Badger July 4

Fire ignited by a lightning bolt destroyed the barn at the John Kukowski farm south of Badger at about 2:45 p.m. Monday, July 4.

Loren Kukowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kukowski, was at home during an electrical storm and heard a crack of thunder near the barn. Seeing nothing wrong, he left for Greenbush to meet his family.

The family later returned and smoke was first noticed at about 5 p.m. Mrs. Kukowski called the Badger fire department, but by the time firemen arrived the entire structure was burning and they could do nothing but protect other buildings.

Two calves were rescued from the barn. Equipment lost in the fire included a milk cooler. Kukowski placed the value of the barn at $3,500, and stated that the building was insured.

Plumber License Exams Slated Sept. 19 and 20

Examinations for the state journeyman and state master plumber's license will be administered at 8:30 a.m. Monday, September 19, and Tuesday, September 20, respectively, at the agricultural building of the St. Paul campus, University of Minnesota. The examinations will be conducted by the state board of health.

The state law relating to the licensing of plumbers provides that in a city or village having 5,000 or more population, and having a system of water works or sewage, no person, firm or corporation shall engage in or work at the business of a master or journeyman plumber unless licensed to do so by the state board of health.

Applications for the examination must be filed with the board of health by August 15. Write to the Plumbing Unit, 359 State Office Building, St. Paul 1, Minn. 55101 for application blank. Applications will not be accepted after August 15 for the September examination. Next examination will be given in March of 1967.

Special Services Set at Fosston

Special services with Rev. C. H. Pegelow, radio pastor and former editor of "Morning Glory," are planned for Monday through Friday at 8:30 p.m. The fellowship meeting will be held at the Don Landsverk home 3½ miles northwest of Fosston.

Rev. Joel T. Peterson of McIntosh, fellowship committee chairman, extends a cordial invitation to the public.

MUST THINK IT OVER!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL. ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

That's what my parents said when I asked if I could go to Eddie's Sunday School.

You see, there are lots of churches in town. And my parents haven't decided which one we ought to attend. These are important decisions. They take time!

But that doesn't make Sunday mornings much fun. With all my friends at church, there's nobody to play with except that bully up the street. And Dad and Mother say I shouldn't play with him.

That's funny! How come parents can decide what kind of boys we should play with, but they can't decide what church we should attend?

Seems to me that going to church next Sunday might help us all decide.

BALLOONS were sent aloft by 250 youngsters at 3 p.m. Friday at the fairgrounds, with the park and recreation department in charge. Cards listing the name and address of each participant were attached to the balloons, and the one which has been sent back from the greatest distance by August 10 will be declared the winner. First prize is $10 worth of merchandise from the Dairy Queen, second prize is two cases of pop and the third place winner will receive one case of pop. A brisk southerly breeze indicated the balloons would be carried a good distance to the north of the city.

65th Annual Pennington Fair To Open Thursday

Pennington county's 65th annual fair will open Thursday for a four-day run and fair officials are again hoping for favorable weather, good crowds, a large number of exhibits and a profitable operation. Although Thursday is designated as entry day, the Jack Thompson carnival has indicated that it will be ready for Thursday crowds and will be on the midway through Sunday. There will be no admission charged to enter the grounds, but a 25-cent fee will be charged for auto parking.

As usual, the Pennington county 4-H clubs will play a major role in the operation of the fair this year. A total of 472 members of county clubs has indicated by advance entry that approximately 1,300 exhibits will be entered at this year's exposition.

Entries will be received on Thursday in both the open class and 4-H division, according to Morris Goddard, secretary of the sponsoring Pennington County Fair association, Inc. Considerable interest from livestock producers outside of Pennington county has been expressed in entry in these divisions, and the facilities are expected to be well filled with cattle, sheep, hogs, horses and poultry exhibits.

Grandstand Programs

Opening grandstand attraction of the fair will be the "Trans-World Auto Daredevils" on Thursday at 8 p.m. This popular fair attraction will feature a number of exhibitions of driving skill and technique, crashes, rolls, jumps and other feats.

On Friday at 8 p.m. the first three classes of tractors entered by area owners will compete in the popular tractor pulling contest. First held at the county fair last year, the tractor pull generated a great deal of interest and enthusiasm among participants and spectators alike. Prize money of $50 for first place, $30 for second place and $15 for third place will be offered in this event.

Saturday afternoon's program will feature heavier tractors in three additional classes, as well as a special "Powderpuff Pull" for garden tractors driven by women.

Exceptions Filed to ICC Examiner's Soo Decision

Extension of the legal battle involving continuance or discontinuance of Soo Line trains 9 and 10 has been assured in action taken by the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission, city of Thief River Falls and possibly other interested parties. The action followed notification of protestants to the Soo Line petition for discontinuance that an ICC examiner had recommended that the Soo request be granted.

A decision by examiner James F. Perrin found ". . . . that the continued operation by the Soo Line Railroad company of passenger trains Nos. 9 and 10 between St. Paul, Minn., and Noyes, Minn., is not required by public convenience and necessity and that the continued operation of such trains would unduly burden interstate commerce."

The Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission advised Thief River Falls City Attorney Robert Wurst that the commission ". . . has decided to file exceptions to this discontinuance and . . to proceed therewith.' Similar action was approved by the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday evening.

Notice of the ICC examiner's decision stated the following:

'"Exceptions, if any, must be filed with the secretary, Interstate Commerce commission, Washington, D.C., and served on all parties in interest within 30 days from the date of service shown above, or within such further period as may be authorized for the filing of such exceptions. At the expiration of said period for the filing of exceptions, the recommended order will become the order of the commission and will become effective unless exceptions have been seasonably filed or the order has been stayed or postponed by the commission.

"If exceptions are filed, replies to exceptions may be filed within 20 days after the final date for filing of exceptions. It should not be assumed that the recommended order has become effective as the order of the commission until a notice or order to that effect has been served."

On Nov. 12, 1964, the Soo line made application to the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission for authority to discontinue trains 9 and 10 between St. Paul and Noyes. The application was denied on May 4, 1965, after several hearings had been held in St. Paul, Glenwood and Thief River Falls, because the trains were not considered intrastate trains within the meaning of the appropriate statute and because the commission determined public necessity required their continuance.

The Soo Line position, summarized in the ICC examiners report, is as follows: " . . . that (1) traffic on trains 9 and 10 has been gradually eroded by the private automobile and other public transportation media using public financed facilities, (2) revenue derived from residual traffic is insufficient to cover expenses directly assignable to those trains, and (3) due to its low rate of return, deferred maintenance and need for new equipment, the net loss sustained from the passenger operation is hindering the upgrading of plant and equipment.

"Soo adds that adequate alternate transportation is available to

Two More File For County Office

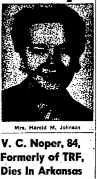
Two additional filings in Pennington county for the fall election were made with C. W. Rodekuhr, Pennington county auditor late last week. Mel Burrell of Thief River Falls filed for the office of register of deeds and L. W. Rullien, former county attorney, filed for the office of county attorney.

Fillings will close Tuesday at 5 p.m. All persons seeking county office must file with the auditor by that time. Persons seeking offices which involve territories larger than county must file with the Secretary of State in St. Paul.

Wurst Elected Alumni Director

Officers and directors of the College of St. Thomas Alumni association were elected at the group's annual meeting April 12 in St. Paul. Robert A. Wurst, Thief River Falls city attorney, was elected to a three-year term on the 25-member executive council of the association.

Mrs. Mae Johnson Heads Department Legion Auxiliary



Mrs. Harold M. Johnson

Mrs. Harold M. (Mae) Johnson of Thief River Falls will provide leadership to more than 45,000 American Legion Auxiliary members in Minnesota during the 1966-67 year after being installed as president of the Department of Minnesota July 9 during the 48th annual convention held in Rochester.

Her eligibility for membership in the American Legion auxiliary was gained through her late husband, Harold, a World War II Veteran, who was active in the American Legion until his death. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were the first husband and wife team from Thief River Falls to provide joint leadership on the district level, serving the Ninth District as commander and president in 1959-60.

Installing officer was Mrs. C. J. Paulson of Bagley, a past department president and close personal friend of Mrs. Johnson. A vocal trio composed of Mrs. Annabelle Cuppett, Mrs. Barbara Restad and Mrs. JoAnn Reeve presented the selection "You'll Never Walk Alone", symbolizing the support given to Mrs. Johnson by her unit, the Ninth district and the Department of Minnesota. Mrs. Johnson was escorted by Robert Reeve, strom Post 117 in Thief River Falls.

Serving as mistress of ceremonies following the installation was Mrs. James Cuppett, past unit president. Mrs. Cuppett introduced Mrs. M. R. Leverson, Thief River Falls, Ninth district president; Mrs. William Norman, East Grand Forks past Ninth district president; Howard Lohman, Moorhead, past department commander; Carlton Mortenson, Fergus Falls, past Ninth district commander; Joe Faust, Moorhead, past Ninth district vice-commander; James Cuppett, Thief River Falls, past commander of Ecklund - Holmstrom Post 117 and Ninth district Vice Commander; and Mrs. Robert Reeve, Thief River Falls, unit president.

Mrs. Cuppett also read some of the many congratulatory telegrams and messages received by Mrs.

V. C. Noper, 84, Formerly of TRF, Dies In Arkansas

V. C. Noper, 84, a former resident of Thief River Falls, died Saturday morning at Hot Springs, Ark.

Funeral services for V. C. Noper are scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday at Hot Springs, Ark., and 11 a.m. Thursday at Macomb, Ill. Interment will be in Illinois.

V. C. Noper was born Feb. 23, 1882. He was a resident of this area from 1012 until 1946 when he moved to Hot Springs, Ark., where he had an apartment building and other property. He returned to Thief River Falls every summer to look after his farming interests here.

He was married to Ruby Moore in Oct. of 1909 and they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary here in 1959.

Survivors include his wife; one son, Randall Noper of this city; two daughters, Mrs. C. J. (Dorothy) McEnelly of Huron, S. D., and Bruce (Marilyn) Harding of Springfield, Va.; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by three brothers and two sisters.

Red Lake County Farmers To Host Foreign Officials

Twenty - seven farmers in the York, Neb., and Red Lake Falls areas will play host to 25 African cooperative officials from seven countries from July 16 to 31, providing information on U. S. farm co-ops based on personal experiences as a voluntary people-to-people contribution to the U. S. government's technical assistance program for the world's developing countries.

The two weeks spent on farms in Minnesota and Nebraska will be followed by another two week period from August 1 to 15, to be spent in the communities of York, Stromsberg and Aurora, all in Nebraska, and Red Lake Falls and Brooks, where the Aricans will receive further practical information on management of U. S. farm cooperatives.

Host families and their foreign guests will include the following: Joe Brunelle, Crookston, hosts; Roger Adjalla, Dahomey; Lawrence Dufull, Red Lake Falls, Soumana Gamatie, Niger; Norman Boucher, Brooks, Miss Marthe Rasoanandrasana, Malagasy Republic; Dona Rock, Mentor, Aliou Traore, Upper Volta; A. Donald Gagner, Mentor, Lamine N'Diaye, Senegal; Maurice Benoit, Carl Augustt, Dahomey; Medy Beauchane, Red Lake Falls, Cire Diop, Mauritania; Vernon Gagnon, Red Lake Falls, Antomy Agbodan, Togo; Don Ste. Marie, Red Lake Falls, Isadore de Souza, Togo; Leonard Gagner, Brooks, Louis Rakotondranalvo, Malagasy Republic.

The Africans are in this country for 3½ months to study and observe development of American cooperatives, through a program of the U. S. Agency for International Development (AID) under contract to the Farmers Union International Assistance corporation, which is programming the project. The group arrived in this country on June 1 and will return to their countries on September 11.

While staying in the homes of farmers in Nebraska and Minnesota, the Africans will gain practical know-how in the role the individual farmers played in developing their own cooperatives in these two states. Many of the host farmers have had long experience in organizational and educational activities of their own cooperatives, according to Dr. John Eklund, Washington, D. C., executive vice president of the corporation.

Daryl Augustine To Study Co-ops On Colorado Tour

Daryl J. Augustine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marian Augustine of Thief River Falls, is among eight officers of the Minnesota 4-H Club federation who will attend the summer conference meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation, Colorado State University, Ft. Collins, Colo. July 31-August 3.

Included in the delegation are top state officers of the Minnesota 4-H Club federation, Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America, Young Adult Citizens clubs and Distributive Education clubs.

During their stay at Ft. Collins, the Minnesota youth leaders will participate in conference sessions and tours studying cooperatives. Over 1,000 youth delegates are expected to join 2,000 adult delegates for the conference. The Minnesota youth delegation is sponsored by the Minnesota Association of Cooperatives, St. Paul.

Storm Damage Is Result of Hot, Humid Weather

Tempedatures in th upper 90's coupled with extremely high humidity have resulted in turbulent weather in central and northern Minnesota during the weekend. Severe thunderstorms warnings were out in the Breckenridge and Detdoit Lakes area Sunday evening, and some storm damage occurred in the local area.

What is belived to be a small tornado apparently touched down at about 10:30 a.m. Sunday on the Mrs. Theresa Koralewski farm located one mile north and three-fourths mile west of St. Hilaire. The farm home is occupied by the Stewart Sweet family.

Mrs. Val Koralewski of Red Lake Falls told the Times this morning that the wind destroyed a 32x50-foot barn and blew a steel grain bin about a quarter of a mile away from its original site. Damage was belived caused by a tornado since no other damage to trees or other buildings on the farm was noted.

Sunday's high of 96 was the highest temperature recorded at the Thief River Falls airport since a high of 99 was reached July 16, 1964. Some relief from the heat is in sight as a cold front enters the state from the northwest. Forecast calls for cooler in the northwest but continued warm elsewhere in the state today. Mostly fair skies are expected tonight and tomorrow, and it will be cooler over the entire state tomorrow. Highs today will be in the 80's; lows tonight from 54 to 62.

Temperature reading recorded at the airport are as follows: 82 and 62 on Wednesday; 84 and 58 on Thursday, 87 and 47 on Friday, 88 and 52 on Saturday, and 96, 57 and a trace of rain on Sunday.

Two Cars Crash West of St. Hilaire Thursday

A two-car collision occurred Thursday at about 6 p.m. at the intersection of SAR 3 (St. Hilaire-Grand Forks road) and SAR 10 (ridge road), the Pennington county sheriff's office reported today. The intersection is located about 12 miles west of St. Hilaire.

A car dirven by Daniel K. Maloney of Kennedy, with Audrey Rinde of Thief River Falls a passenger, was traveling west on SAR 3 and collided with a vehicle driven by Gordon H. Martin of Crookston which had been proceeding in a southerly direction on SAR 10.

It was reported that Martin entered the intersection after seeing a car approaching from the west at a safe distance. He did not see the Maloney car approaching from the east. Maloney applied his brakes and skidded, but was unable to avoid colliding with the Martin auto. Both vehicles came to rest on the south side of the east-west road. No personal injuries resulted. Damage was estimated at $125 to the Maloney car and $25 to the Martin vehicle.

Hamilton Attends C of C School In Colorado

Richard Hamilton, executive secretary of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, is among the 234 executives of chambers of commerce and other industrial associations attending the ninth annual Institute for organization management at the University of Colorado in Boulder.

The six-year program on organization management is directed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and includes three years of the principles of organization, three years of advanced studies and postgraduate studies. Hamilton is participating in the principles courses at the institute.

This year 110 persons are participating in the principles courses, 77 in the advanced studies and 38 in the postgraduate courses.

GUEST performer at the Thief River Falls Jaycees Aquacade pageant Saturday, July 30, will be Kathy Swanson of Detroit Lakes, first runner-up in the Miss Minnesota pageant this year. Miss Swanson will be featured at the pageant in the Lincoln high school gymnasium along with area royalty and nine candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title.

Annual Statement Of City Reviewed

Financial statement for the city of Thief River Falls for the year 1965 was presented to the city council Tuesday night by representatives of the Boyd Holcomb Accounting company who audited the city's accounts.

Total sales at the municipal liquor store were shown to be $527,152.50 in 1965 compared with $517,881.65 in 1964, for a net income figure of $81,333.95 in 1965 and $77,151.18 in 1964. Revenue from the dispensary paid $10,000 in 1965 for retirement of Pennington county courthouse bonds and $12,480 for retirement of hospital bonds issued in 1953.

In the general working fund, total income of the power and light department in 1965 was $668,517.77 compared with $664,533.18 in 1964. Net income was $373,972.81 in 1965 and $380,799.23 in 1964.

Kilowatts billed to customers totaled 25,425,000 in 1965 and 23,427,000 in 1964. City Clerk William Fahey pointed out that these figures reflect only six months of the light rate reduction ordered by the council in July of 1965.

Bonded indebtedness of the city totaled $2,060,000 at the end of 1965, with bonds to be retired in 1987.

Tax valuation amounted to $2,631,539 in 1965 compared with $2,598,095 in 1964 and $2,652,215 in 1963. Taxes levied in both years amounted to 40 mills, however the dollar value of taxes increased from $103,925 in 1964 to $105,258 in 1965 due to the increased valuation. The latter figure was levied in 1965 for collection in 1966. Taxes collected in 1965 totaled $102,268 or 98.4 per cent of the 1964 levy.

Taxes collected in 1965 totaled $102,268 or 98.4 per cent of the 1964 levy.

Total income of the water department was $103,465.67 in 1965 compared with $102,060.39 in 1964 for a net income of $3,164.21 in 1965 and $4,708.74 in 1964. Gallons of water pumped increased from 245,453,000 in 1964 to 271,343,000 in 1965. The increase amounts to 10.55 per cent.

Sewer department's total revenue totaled $24,034 in 1965 and $23,900.73 in 1964. The department showed a net loss of $20,863.69 in 1965 and $19,740.47 in 1964.

Garbage collection total income was $25,393 in 1965 and $25,235 in 1964 for a net income of $8,937.30 in 1965 and $9,151.65 in 1964.

The airport fund was the only department in which the net loss greatly overshadowed the total income. Total income was $9,678.34 in 1965 and $10,567.27 in 1964. Net loss tallied $20,799.33 in 1965 and $19,854.34 in 1964.

A total of $800,000 in street improvement bonds were issued in 1965.

Tickets on Sale For Community Theatre's Play

Tickets are now on sale for the Thief River Falls Community theatre's production of "Romanoff and Juliet" to be staged as part of the annual Jaycee Aquacade July 26 and 27. The play will be presented both evenings at 8:15 p.m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

Mrs. Pat Johnson, director of the production, noted that advance tickets will be sold at $1 for adults and 75 cents for students, while admission at the door will be $1.25 and $1. Tickets may be purchased at the motor vehicle license bureau in this city or from members of the theatre group.

Plot of the play envolves a small, mythical country between the East and the West, a Russian ambassador named Romanoff, his son, an American diplomat and his daughter, Juliet. The younger Romanoff and Juliet provide the romantic interest for the play with other characters providing loads of laughter in this spoof on diplomatic relations.

Treasure Hunt Again Featured At JC Aquacade

One thousand gallons of heating oil will be offered as the grand prize for the Thief River Falls Jaycee Aquacade treasure hunt this year, according to Dr. Donald Goodrich, treasure hunt chairman. Cooperating with the Jaycees in the event is the Thief River Falls Oilmen's association.

With the exception of Jaycees and their families and local oil dealers, their wives and families, all area persons over 18 years of age are eligible to participate in the treasure hunt. First clues will be posted at 9 a.m. Sunday at the Aquacade Open golf tournament held at the Thief River Golf club, and announced at noon and 6:30 p.m. on radio station KTRF.

Clues will be broadcast at the same times daily on KTRF with additional clues added each day until the small, wooden capsule containing a certificate is found. Clues will also be posted at Aquacade events during the week, in the display window at Northern State bank and published in the Wednesday, July 27 issue of the Times. Treasure seekers are advised not to call KTRF for the clues, as they will be given only at the time they are aired.

Chairman Goodrich emphasized that the treasure hunt is not restricted to Thief River Falls residents, since arrangements will be made for the grand prize with their local fuel oil dealer. "People in surrounding communities are welcome to listen and watch for the clues, search for the capsule and win our valuable and unusual prize," he said.

The person finding the capsule must present the certificate enclosed in it to an officer of the Jaycees or their oil dealer within 24 hours after it has been found. If the capsule is disturbed prior to the treasure hunt opening date of Sunday, July 24, the certificate will become void.

Otto Johnsons Honored On Their 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson of St. Hilaire observed their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon, June 26, at an open house celebration at the Calvary Lutheran church at St. Hilaire. Approximately 250 friends and relatives were in attendance.

A program preceded the reception with Paul Roy of Thief River Falls, brother-in-law of Mr. Johnson, in charge. Neil Hendrickson, lay pastor at Zion Lutheran church, Thief River Falls, gave the invocation and concluded the program with the benediction. A group of women sang several hymns, Laurie and David Tangen of Grand Forks, N. D., played a piano duet and the assembled guests participated by singing "Beautiful Savior" and "What a Friend We Have In Jesus", Mrs. Johnson's favorite hymn. Mrs. Dennis Tangen of Grand Forks, N. D., presided at the organ.

The highlight of the program was the reading of two original poems. "The Golden Years", a greeting in verse from the Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence Winter of Sabula, Iowa, was read by Mrs. Ann Ingvalson of St. Hilaire. Rev. Winter was Johnson's former pastor.

The poem, "Golden Memories", read by Mrs. Berdean Anderson, was composed by Mrs Juel Aase of Grygla from the history of the life of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson compiled by Mrs. Alfred Rasmussen. It revealed the courtship from the time Otto Johnson called on his neighbor, Miss Hilda Hauge, using his horse and buggy; the full-day trip by Model A, over corduroy roads, to visit Miss Hauge while she was employed at Bemidji and the marriage which took place June 28, 1916 at the home of the bride's parents, the Rasmus Hauges with the Rev. A. H. Bergford officiating. Attendants were Emma Johnson and Joe Hauge, sister and brother of the couple, who were later united in marriage.

Sam Hauge of Seal Beach, Calif., a brother of Mrs. Johnson; extended congratulations and best wishes to the honored couple in behalf of the family. He also extended the appreciation of the couple to the relatives and friends attending.

At the reception served in the church parlors, Mrs. Edward Wik and Mrs. Alfred Rasmussen served as hostesses. They were assisted by Mrs. Berdean Anderson, Mrs. Oscar Haugen, Helga Kalland, Mrs. Art Vik, Mrs. John Ranum and Mrs. V. G. Brink. Ushers were Elmer Carlson and Norman Bergy.

The serving table was covered with the same linen table cloth used at the wedding reception 50 years ago. It had also been used at the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of Mrs. Johnson's parents in 1927. Serving as centerpiece was a floral arrangement, a gift from the Martin Finstad family, that had graced the altar for the morning worship services. Also making the room festive was a large bouquet of yellow roses, a gift from Mrs. Johnson's nephews at Klamath Falls and Ashland, Ore. A corsage of yellow roses was worn by Mrs. Johnson. Yellow carnations were worn by Mr. Johnson, brothers and sisters of the couple and those assisting with the reception.

A four-tiered anniversary cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Oscar Houske of rural Thief River Falls, a niece of Mrs. Johnson, graced the reception table. It was trimmed with fold colored roses, white tulle and was topped with an elaborate 50th anniversary emblem. Mrs. Freda Ekdahl of Thief River Falls, a niece of Mr. Johnson, assisted Mrs. Houske in cutting and serving the cake. Sisters-in-law, Mrs. Sam Hauge and Mrs. Oscar Hauge, poured. Presiding at the guest book were Mrs. Elmer Carlson of St. Hilaire and Mrs. Norman Bergh of Lynnwood, Calif., while Mrs. Henry Amundson of Minneapolis and Mrs. Warren Hauge of East Grand Forks served the punch.

Special guests in attendance were the couple's brothers and sisters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Roy of rural Thief River Falls, sister of Mr. Johnson; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hauge of Covina, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hauge of Seal Beach, brothers of Mrs. Johnson. Also among the attending relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hauge of East Grand Forks and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Berg of Seattle, Wash. As a child, Mr. Berg, a nephew had made his home with the Johnsons.

Others attending were from Halstad, Shelly, Red Lake Falls, St. Paul and Thief River Falls.

Long-distance calls of congratulations were received from Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hauge of Tacoma, Wash., attendants at the wedding 50 years ago, who on account of illness were unable to attend; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Phillip of Santa Maria, Calif., a niece and her family and Mr. and Mrs. Manley Hauge of Placerville, Calif., a nephew and his family.

Judge and Mrs. Trost of Warren Note Anniversary

Judge and Mrs. Arnold Trost of Warren were honored Saturday afternoon, July 9, when approximately 200 relatives and friends gathered at the Grace Methodist Fellowship hall in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary. At the banquet served in the evening for out-of-town relatives and friends, the Rev. Edwin Shannon of Moorhead invoked the blessing. Rev. Shannon is the son of the Rev. Paul Shannon, now deceased, who officiated at the Trost wedding 50 years ago.

The Trosts were married in North Dana, Mass., and lived at Minneapolis and Eveleth before moving to Warren in 1930. Both Judge and Mrs. Trost have been active in community affairs at Warren. Mrs. Trost has presented pageants, plays and dramatic readings throughout much of northern Minnesota. Judge Trost maintained his private law office until his appointment to the position of Judge of Probate and Juvenile court. During the years, he has also served as County Attorney for three terms and is presently serving on the Board of Governors of the State Bar Association. Both are members of the Grace Meside Country club.

Vacura And Haugen Vows Said June 18 at Roseau

Messiah Lutheran church at Roseau was the scene on Saturday evening, June 18, of the wedding of Miss Ann F. Vacura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Vacura of Roseau, and Glen M. Haugen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Haugen of Thief Riverr Falls. The Rev. E. T. Thompson officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Pre-nuptial music was provided by a friend of the bride, Miss Connie Klema of Roseau, who also accompanied the soloist, Donald Norlin of Canby. He sang the "Song of Ruth" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, escorted down the white-carpeted aisle by her father, wore a floor-length sheath gown in empire fashion. Made of white linen Shantung, the gown was styled with a scoop neckline, bell sleeves and a detachable train. A crown secured her veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade arrangement of white roses with feathered carnations.

Maid of honor was Mary K. Vacura, sister of the bride. Mrs. Douglas Vacura of St. Paul, Sister-in-law of the bride, was bridesmatron and Eldyne Vistad of Bagley was bridesmaid. They wore empire fashioned floor-length gowns of pink nylon dotted Swiss complemented by pink nylon net picture hats, white gloves and white shoes. Each carried a long-stemmed pink rose.

Dennis Haugen of Thief River Falls served his brother as best man. Other attendants were Douglas Vacura, brother of the bride, and Larry Ness of Thief River Falls, friend of the groom. Jeffrey Vacura, brother of the bride, and Jim Pierce, friend of the groom, both of Thief River Falls, were ushers.

Black tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres was the attire worn by the men of the wedding party.

Honored guests attending the ceremony were the maternal grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Swanson of St. Paul, and the maternal grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Thompson of Thief River Falls. The grandmothers had corsages of white carnations and pink roses. The mothers of the bride and groom were dressed in pink and white gowns, respectively, with matching accessories and wore corsages similar to the grandmothers.

A reception for 150 guests was held in the church parlors following the ceremony with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Norlin as host and hostess. The parlors were decorated with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells.

The serving table featured a decorated fourtiered wedding cake which was cut and served by Mrs. Emil Vacura of Badger and Mrs. Charles Rustvold of Fargo, N. D., aunts of the bride and groom, respectively. At the silver service were Mrs. Valdy Vacura of Grand Forks, N. D., aunt of the bride and Mrs. Elmer Wick of Minneapolis, aunt of the groom.

Waitresses were Patty Ross, Kathy Erickson, Elna Braun, Betty Soltau and Camilla Weiss. Mrs. Larry Ness of Thief River Falls presided at the punch bowl and Mary Swanson of St. Paul registered the guests.

The bride is a graduate of the Roseau high school and the Thief River Falls area vocational - technical school. She has been employed by the Real Estate division of the State of Minnesota. The groom attended school at Thief River Falls and the Moler Barber institute at Minneapolis. He is employed by Oxboro Barber shop at Bloomington.

After a wedding trip to the Black Hills of South Dakota, the couple will be at home at 9101 Penn Avenue South, Bloomington.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. EDWIN D. HANSON

Recipes are becoming more simplified every year. Such is the case with today's recipe for date-filled cookies. These cookies are specially created for those who do not like to make rolled cookies, yet they contain a rich date filling.

DATE FILLED COOKIES

1 cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½-teaspoons soda
½ cup warm water
½ teaspoon salt
4 cups flour

Method: Cream shortening, sugar and eggs together; add vanilla and salt. Dissolve soda in warm water and add alternately with flour. Mix well.

FILLING

1 small package dates
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons flour
1 cup water

Method: Cut dates, add other ingredients and boil until dates are soft. Cool.

Drop a rounded teaspoonful of cookie batter on a greased cookie sheet, cover with a teaspoon of filling; over this place a teaspoon of cookies batter. Bake in a 375 degree oven until nicely browned.

The Edwin D. Hanson live on a 275 acre farm in Rocksbury township, located one mile east and a half mile south of the airport. They have three children, Mrs. William (Ann) Hurber, Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. Russell (Fern) Williams and Dennis Hanson, both of Thief River Falls; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

For relaxation Mrs. Hanson works outdoors with her flowers. She is the current president of the Alice Mae Stuart WCTU unit of Hazel and is vice chairman of the March of Dimes, having assisted in its work for the past 20 years. She has also assisted in the work of the Red Cross, served as 4-H club leader in Rocksbury township and has also done a great deal of baby sitting for working mothers.

Mr. Hanson, in addition to his farming interests, is assessor of Rocksbury township. The Hansons are members of the St. Paul Lutheran church.

Garden Clubs to Plan District Flower Show

The Library Corner

by Flora Allison

Family doing things together? Now with the youngsters tiring of vacation (and actually admitting to frequent spells of boredom, you've probably been improvising diversions for them. Running out of ideas? "Parents' " magazine, anticipating just such emergencies, has compiled a "Family Fun Book" by that name, and our guess is that it'll be popular once you discover it.

There are in it games for sick kids; restless kids who need physical stimulation rather than mental for the time being; games for one, two or more children; hobby suggestions; sports and physical fitness exercises; simple or more complicated things to do as a family, or alone.

An associate editor of "Parents" magazine, working on her doctorate in child psychology, and as a mother of several children, the author is eminently qualified to edit this book and she does a fine job of it. Frances Fickling-Jones has assembled ideas such as rock, insect and flower, stamp, coin and other collections; aquarium building, whether on a simple or more elaborate scale; indoor plants; card magic; making and showing home movies; musical games, and many other diversions, including make-believe play which involves nothing more than your and the child's imagination. A really handy summertime or any leisure-time manual for getting your family out of the ennui rut.

Time's turning the calendar pages brings us once more to that parade of progress, individually and in groups, of an agricultural and cultural society, the annual county fair. Blended with the atmosphere and part of it is the bawling of calves, bleating of lambs, the pig's grunt, the squealing of protesting brakes on the race track, clacking of the tilt-a-whirl, screeches of passengers on the Mad Mouse and other equally mad rides, fluffs of cotton candy on sticks, the smoky aroma of foot-long hot dogs and the patience of the long-suffering JC who endures recurring duckings (and the weather is often COLD) to further a good cause. And people milling around everywhere.

With all of these visitors in town, we expect a large influx of visitors to the library, some just to "look around', others to read magazines or borrow books or read the newspapers, others wondering enviously why their county doesn't wake up and realize the advantages of joining the regional library so that some of the wonderful books on display here could reach THEIR living rooms. A fortune in books for pleasure, profit, entertainment or mental growth is within their reach . . . almost . . . Perhaps some of them will go back home and demand some of this treasure that could be theirs, but for the votes against it by the uninformed who are not aware of the benefits they are denying themselves and their families . . .

Small voices can grow to a roar, a flicker of light to a blinding flood of brightness, if they are joined by others who believe in the cause for which they strive, seemingly alone, and bring these issues to the attention of the right people. A promoter? No. Just a crusader for what is so desired by so many of you, and denied you. Anyway, we hope to have you stop by and see what's here.

Many visitors from much larger towns comment that we have a wider variety of books than many a much larger library they have visited. Find out that they have a reason for the favorable comment. Examine the bookshelves for yourself; how else can you know what is available here? (We'll be looking for you.)

Rural people can find here a wealth of self-help books. One of the most consistently requested is "Diseases of Animals". And how about "Fun" books? Have you read "Country School ma'am' by D. T. Lutes? Or "Country Doctor and Other Stores" by Honore de Balzak? And how about the "Country Kitchen Cook Book" by B. Rowe? There's Tabor's "Sillmeadow Road," and "Rural Life", a delightful study of country living, with its deep-rooted spiritual values, its solitudes, its freedoms.

"The Country Kitchen", by Della Lutes, is a look into the past, a peek into kitchens of several generations ago, before the kilowatt freed women from the inconveniences that a lack of refrigeration, electric lights and modern gadgetry presented. Anyone 40 years of age or older will wallow in memories while reading this charming little idyl, memories of rule-of-thumb, by-guess-and-by-gosh days, of butter made in a stone churn, of woodsheds stacked with firewood for the range, and of a runt pig which the family ALMOST ate for Thanksgiving dinner.

Have you ever wondered what the country store was like? Old-timers will recall them, but the supermarket kids who never shopped anything but a wide-aisled, brightly-lighted, air-conditioned market, will gasp in astonishment at the revolution in food marketing since grandpa's or perhaps even dad's childhood.

The wall telephone always had dead batteries in emergencies; there were pigeonholes for the mail which was sorted at the store and distributed there, and the storekeeper really DID, in many instances, read every card that was sent through it. Vinegar, crackers and kerosene were all stored in wooden barrels, and sugar, salt and flour, coffee (unground) and tea, were displayed in bins with glass fronts and dispensed from huge scoops, and the pot-bellied stove drew its daily quota of old men and the unemployed males in the community, thawing out frozen toes on its nickel-plated collar, and from that position aimed at the spitoon in the corner and hit (or missed it) with streams of tobacco juice. Yes, there's a gulf as wide as the 20th century between those two worlds. 'The Country Store' bridges it in several dozen chapters.

But there are other books here also for the rural folks. Books on conservation, the animal and insect world, weeds and their control and a hundred other phases of country living, past and present. Stop by and get them. Unused, they are as useless as blood that is not being circulated. An unused library is a waste of storage space and the taxpayers' money.

The expanded facilities of the new library, when it opens (and aren't we all getting impatient) will bring everything to the fore, in prominent display. The books that are all but in accessible now will be handily arranged there, and their use should grow and expand. As for the present, if you don't see it, and it's listed in the card catalog, ask us for it. We are always happy to help our patrons, old and new.

There's an incarnate rule for library conduct, and that is SILENCE, a rule that no one should have to be reminded of. Patrons come here to study, to concentrate in a quiet atmosphere, free from distraction, or to flee the noise of everyday living and to find a quiet place to enjoy their favorite novels. A library is not a social club or visiting room. Please respect your neighbor's right to the silence he expects to find here, and do your socializing elsewhere. Your thoughtfulness will be appreciated by everyone.

Once more, a welcome to fairgoers. Come in and discover what you've been missing if you aren't a library user. Stake your claim to a gold mine of treasures. Just a little library card will do it . . . Remember that the day when ignorance was said to be bliss has long vanished. It's smart to be informed and well-read, and ignorance is the ball-and-chain that restrains man from moving forward. This is essential especially in a democracy where we try to govern ourselves.

The upcoming generations have a tremendous need for information, for the truth that will keep them free. And good reading habits start young. Parents can do much to unlock those young minds and let in the bright flood of ideas that young minds thrive on. They were never more ready for it, nor more in need of being informed. And feel the challenge of keeping up with those brilliant, eager and accumulative minds by keeping abreast of the new developments in this ever-changing world. The books at the library are free. Don't pass up a bargain like that!

Frazee Alumni Jubilee Slated

Final plans are announced this week for the Frazee high school alumni 75th jubilee at Frazee July 23, 24 and 25.

Registration will begin Saturday at 9 a.m. and will continue through Sunday noon. Following the Saturday afternoon parade, the alumni band will join the Frazee high school band for a brief concert. Alumni are requested to meet at the VFW hall at 5 p.m. for photographs.

Sunday afternoon immediately following the final pageant performance at the Frazee high school auditorium, various alumni awards will be given. E. G. Chilton of Detroit Lakes, the oldest known alumnus (class of 1907), will be honored. Picnic suppers will be served both nights, weather permitting.

Shirley Rowland Seeks Queen Title

BY Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(This is the fourth in a series of personal interview articles on candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the annual Jaycees Aquacade pageant Saturday, July 30. Stories on other candidates will be published in succeeding issues.)

Memories of a warm night in 1963 are bound to haunt Shirley Rowland of Fosston as she prepares for the 1966 Miss Aquacade pageant to be held July 30 in the Lincoln high school gymnasium. Twenty-year-old Shirley is the daughter of James Rowland of rural Fosston.

It was in 1963 that she was also a contestant in the Miss Thief River Falls Pageant, having graduated from Fosston high school that same year. After participating in evening gown and swimsuit divisions, she suddenly became ill and was unable to continue competition.

The following year she was crowned Northwest Dairy Princess at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls, and as an entrant in the Minnesota Princess Kay of the Milky Way contest was ineligible for Miss Minnesota competition. This year the Jaycee queen committee extended another invitation to Miss Rowland to participate.

Shirley is five feet, six inches tall, weighs 125 pounds, has light brown hair and blue eyes and a 34-24-36 figure. Her hobbies include most outdoor sports including swimming, horseback riding and tennis, as well as singing, listening to music and cooking. Her talent number in the pageant will be a vocal solo.

Among her high school activities she lists membership in the student council and Future Homemakers of America. She participated in the school choir, glee club, madrigals, vocal trio and also did solo work. Several years ago she also made a vocal recording for a small recording company. Shirley has taken private voice lessons for three years.

Carrying on her interest in music while attending Lutheran Bible Institute in Minneapolis, she traveled with the LBI a capella choir on a 17-day tour of Florida in 1965 and a 19-day tour of California earlier this year.

At present she is employed at St. Luke's hospital in Fargo, N. D., where she is a nurse's assistant in the psychiatric unit. She plans to continue her education by taking courses in psychology.

Miss Rowland has an older sister Elona, 23, and a younger sister Kathy, 15.

File Exceptions To Soo Report of ICC Examiner

accommodate the limited number of passengers needing public transportation. From these factors Soo concludes that the present and future public convenience and necessity permit the discontinuance of these trains, and that continued operation will burden its interstate

Testimony of protestants at hearings which were reviewed by the examiner claimed that passenger train service was: "(1) an aid in operations and hence will burden interstate commerce," attracting industry and resort business, (2) needed to transport students to and from school, patients in hospitals, nursing and retirement homes to and from homes and hospitals in the Twin Cities, (3) needed for elderly people unable to drive an automobile, and those not owning cars, (4) needed to transport people to and from public, entertainment and athletic events in the Twin Cities, (5) needed to transport corpses, surgical and hospital supplies and materials to and from the Twin Cities and (6) needed to relieve the congested highways and aid mass transit in and out of the Twin Cities."

Examiner Perrin then comments as follows: "It is true that the above needs are justification for continuation of the trains if the volume of traffic were adequate to make the operation profitable, or at least not occasion a deficit. But the record in this proceeding indicates that, with or without the tour business, the operation cannot be made profitable.

"And, while the local traffic has shown an increase, there is nothing in this record to generate optimism of any accelerated, or for that matter gradual transition from the private automobile and other transport media back to rail transportation. Certainly the operation cannot be continued where dependence is based only on those who rely competely on rail for transportation.

"Reviewing the record as a whole the examiner is of the opinion that the public will not be materially inconvenienced by the discontinuance of the service here involved; that the burden imposed upon the carrier outweighs the convenience, and that the savings to be effected will enable the carrier more efficiently to provide transportation service to the public which remains in substantial demand."

Witnesses To Hear Brooklyn Man This Week

C. R. Hooten, circuit supervisor from Brooklyn, N. Y., will spend the week of July 19-24 with the Thief River Falls congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. He has oversight of 16 congregations in northwestern Minnesota.

Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Hooten will take part in the service meeting; Saturday at 8 p.m. he will speak on "New Things Learned"; and Sunday at 2 p.m. he will climax his visit speaking on the theme: "Christendom or Christianity - Which One has Failed?"

All meeting will be at the Kingdom Hall, 701 State av. N. and are open to the public.

MEMORIES of the 1963 Miss Thief River Falls pageant will be with 20-year-old Shirley Rowland of Fosston as she prepares for competition this year. In the local pageant in 1963, she completed evening gown and swimsuit competition but suddenly became ill prior to talent competition. She is pictured above in part of her 1963 talent number which was a vocal rendition of "I Enjoy Being a Girl". This year her talent number will also be a vocal solo.

Marshall ASCS Takes Requests For Practices

On July 25, the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee office in Warren will begin to take requests for stubble mulching, winter cover and listing for wind erosion practices, according to Marcel Dahl, committee chairman. Anyone intending to carry out the practice should make their request before they start the practice.

Practices are as follows: F-1-(3)-Listing for wind erosion control. Primary purpose of this practice is to encourage listing on summer fallowed land, or land from which row crops are normally removed too late in the fall to establish an adequate cover before the end of the growing season to ensure protection from wind erosion. The operation must be performed with a lister shovel and in such a manner as to throw up a substantial ridge at approximately a two-foot intervals. The operation should be carried out crosswise to the prevailing wind. No federal cost-sharing will be allowed for work performed with standard field cultivator shovels. Cost-share payment is $0.75 per acre.

D-1. Establishment of vegetative cover for winter protection from erosion. A good stand and good growth must be obtained in sufficient time to protect the area in the fall and winter of 1966 and must be maintained on the land until the spring of 1967. Pasturing consistent with good management may be permitted, but none of the growth may be harvested for hay or seed, except that the state committee may authorize the harvesting of the growth for hay or silage in areas where it determines that a serious shortage of hay or silage exists due to adverse weather conditions and the growth harvested is needed for use on farms in the area. The minimum seeding per acre for oats, barley or rye is three pecks and for flax one peck. The flax seeding must be made by Aug. 15, 1966. Volunteer stands will not qualify for cost-sharing. Cost-share payment is $0.50 per acre for oats and $1 per acre for barley, rye and flax.

E-1. Stubble Mulching to Improve Soil Permeability and to Protect Soil from Wind and Water Erosion. One of the primary purposes this practice is to encourage stubble mulching of land from which small grain crops or flax have been harvested, rather than having such land fall plowed and left unprotected from wind and water erosion over winter. A stubble mulch must be maintained by performing tillage operations which will leave sufficient crop residue on the surface or mixed in the upper part of the soil to provide protection against wind and water erosion. No federal cost-sharing will be allowed if the acreage has been burned over and grazed. Cost-share payment is $0.50 per acre.

Deaf Man Perfects Tiny Hearing Aid

OFFERS FREE MODEL

A remarkable tiny hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small device has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and represents a new unusual design idea in a product to restore natural hearing.

IT WAS DEVELOPED FOR PEOPLE WHO ARE NOW WEARING A HEARING AID AND FOR ALL PEOPLE THAT HEAR BUT CANNOT SEPARATE THE WORDS.

This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television and radio at his ear. Due to the use of transistors, the user cost is extremely low.

A true life actual size replica, (Not actual Aid) of this small, all-in-the-ear hearing aid will be given absolutely free to anyone sending in this advertisement while supply lasts. So we suggest you write for yours now. No obligation whatsoever. Write to: TELEX, DEPT. M15 BOX 231, MITCHELL, S. DAK.

Marshall County ASC Elections Scheduled

Election of the ASC community committee for Marshall county will be held on August 1 at 9 p.m. For each community where elections are being held, three regular committee members and two alternates will be elected.

Chairman, vice chairman and third regular member of the elected ASC comunity committee will also serve as delegates to the county convention where farmers will be elected to fill vacancies on the AC county committee, and where the committee's chairman and vice chairman will be chosen for the coming year.

Alternate committeemen will also serve as alternate delegates to the convention. The county convention will be held August 15, in Warren, at 9:30 a.m.

The county committee supervises the ASCS county office and is responsible for administering the price support, acreage diversion, agricultural conservation and other programs in the county. The community committees assist the county committee and are particularly responsible for keeping their neighbors informed about the programs.

Generally, a farm owner, tenant or sharecropper may vote in the community committee election if he is eligible to take part in one or more of the programs administered by the ASC commitees.

Qualifications of persons eligible to hold office as committeemen include eligibility to vote in the election and being a local resident. It is also highly desirable that nominees be currently active farmers who are qualified for community committee work and who will be representative of the various sections and types of agriculture in the community. Further information on committeeman qualifications may be obtained from the ASCS county office.

Polling places in the Times area of Marshall county include the following:

Billy Graham Film Set in Fosston

"The Resless Ones," considered the most successful motion picture yet produced by Evangelist Billy Graham, will be shown at the Lesdan theatre in Fosston July 21-24. Show times are 6 and 8:30 p.m. with an additional matinee beginning at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, July 23, and Sunday, July 24.

This feature-length film, produced by World Wide Pictures of Minneapolis is described as a hard-hitting story of a group of teenagers set in the background of the 1963 Billy Graham Los Angeles crusade.

Beware of Food Poisoning During Warm Weather

Don't flirt with food poisoning this summer! In giving that warning, Grace Brill and Verna Mikesh, extension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota, point out that food for the picnic, the lunch box or for large gatherings — such as family reunions or wedding feasts — needs to be kept cold from the time it's prepared until it's eaten or until it's cooked and served hot.

Bacteria causing food spoilage do not develop readily at temperatures below 40 degrees F and above 140 degrees F., the nutrition ists explain. But if most food is contaminated and the temperature is suitable, bacteria will increase rapidly enough to cause food poisoning.

The safe way to transport food to the picnic is in insulated containers. The nutritionists say food can be kept cold or hot for a very short time by wrapping it in layers of newspapers. Cold foods for the picnic should be kept at the temperature of a home refrigerator — about 40 degrees F. or below that is particularly true for foods like ground and other meats, salads, sandwich fillings, eggs, cream-filled or custard-filled cakes and other soft desserts.

As a matter of fact, such foods will spoil quickly in hot weather when left on the kitchen counter for any length of time.

When food is prepared in large quantity, it is important to cool it quickly by spreading it in shallow layers and stirring it occasionally. Since chicken or turkey broth is an ideal medium for the growth of bacteria, it is advisable to cool the broth and meat separately.

Food spoilage can also occur from contamination. The nutritionists emphasize the importance of washing the hands thoroughly before handling food, of avoiding food preparation if you have an infection and of taking special precautions if you have a cold. People who have colds should never prepare large quantities of food, the nutritionists say.

Rep. Fitzsimons

Rep. Fitzsimons States Record in Filing Statement

Rep. Richard W. Fitzsimons of Argyle announced today that he has filed for election as State Representative in District 67A. Previous to the re-apportionment act of 1966, Rep. Fitzsimons represented Marshall county for the past 14 years in the state legislature.

The reapportionment act of 1966 added Kittson county. Eight townships and un-organized territory including the village of Grygla in eastern Marshall county.

Rep. Fitzsimons is married to the former Janice Kyseth, former Marshall county home agent and they have two children. He lives on and farms the same 200 acre farm on which he was born near Argyle. Fitzsimons has been very active in community and civic affairs before and during the time he has been serving in the legislature.

He has been active as a 4-H club member and adult leader, having served as an adult leader of the Argyle Hustlers 4-H club for the past 22 years. He was the recipient of the state 4-H club Alumni recognition award for outstanding contribution to the 4-H club program on a local and state level. He was selected at King Agassiz at the Red River Valley Winter shows in 1961 for his leadership in agriculture and agriculture business in the Red River Valley. He has been active in the Marshall county and Minnesota Historical society executive council. Fitzsimons was the recipient of the national award of merit in 1965 from the American Association of State and Local history for his outstanding contribution to local and state history.

Rep. Fitzsimons is a member of the board of Marshall County Fair association, represents Marshall county on the board of the Red River Valley Development association and served on the board of the Argyle Co-op Creamery association as well as the Red River Valley Dairymen's association for several years. He is an active member of the Argyle Lion's club and is a past president of the club.

During the past two sessions of the Legislature Rep. Fitzsimons served as chairman of the House appropriations comittee. He was a member of the House rules committee which is the policy making committee of the House, the agriculture committee, public domain and reapportionment. He has been a member of the Minnesota Outdoor, Recreation and Resources commission since it was created by the 1963 session of the Legislature.

Rep. Fitzsimons is also serving as chairman of a special sub-committee of the appropriations committee that is studying the ways and means of providing more doctors for Minnesota and will report its findings to the next session of the legislature. He is a member of the Legislative Advisory committee composed of two members of the House, two members of the Senate and the Governor.

In his filing statement Rep. Fitzsimons reports that he is very proud of the great gains that have been made in higher education in northwestern Minnesota during the past two sessions. These gains in higher education have been matched in education in general, welfare and the program for the mentally retarded in particular. The natural resources program has been one of the most significant programs in conservation and state park development ever enacted into law in Minnesota.

In closing Rep. Fitzsimons stated that, with re-apportionment his seniority and committee chairmanship will be of great value to the people of the district. He stated that if elected he would continue his efforts as chairman of the House appropriations committee and part of the House leadership to help the people of northwestern Minnesota receive their fair share of the economic growth of the state and of the money spent for state service.

Marshall County Adopts Budget Totaling $709,907

A county budget totaling $709,907 for the calendar year starting Jan. 1, 1967 was adopted by the Marshall county board of commissioners during their semi-annual meeting held Monday and Tuesday of last week in Warren.

The new budget represents a decrease of $5,920 from the current budget which totaled $715,827, Charles G. Cheney, county auditor, reported. While it was found necessary to increase the budget for several funds, a $15,000 reduction in the welfare fund made possible the reduction of the levy, Cheney said.

The levy for 1966 and 1967 follows:

Revenue	150,000	150,000
Road & Bridge	160,000	160,000
Welfare	236,955	251,955
T. B. Sanatorium	12,000	12,000
School Tuition	65,610	63,472
School Transp.	8,240	2,400
PERA	30,000	30,000
County Buildings	10,000	10,000
Ag. Extension	14,14	13,375
Agric. Society	8,000	8,000
Mental Health	7,962	7,265
Historical Society	4,000	4,000
Civil Defense	3,000	3,000
Total	709,907	715,827

Veterans Given Preference Under New G.I. Bill

While most of the interest shown in the new GI Bill has been concerned with educational benefits, there are certain little-noted provisions that give Minnesota veterans affected under the new law certain civil service job preferences.

John R. Murphy, manager of the St. Paul, said, such veterans get five points added to their scores in civil service tests and 10 points if they were disabled or were awarded the Purple Heart.

In addition to the actual five or 10 points being added to their civil service tests score, those veterans who have served since January of 1955 become eligible for veterans' preference in job selection. Prior to the enactment of the new GI Bill, veterans who served since 1955 did not receive veterans' job preference even though they rated high on the tests.

Chicken and turkey are excellent sources of high-quality protein and also provide iron, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. An average serving of chicken and turkey contains fewer calories than a similar serving of most meats.

Wage and Salary Employment Sets Three Records

Minnesota Employment Security Commissioner Robert J. Brown announced today that nonfarm wage and salary employment in Minnesota in June set three records: (1) it was the highest job level ever recorded in the state, (2) it represented the largest one-year employment gain in Minnesota history, and (3) it marked the 56th consecutive month in which employment in the state eclipsed the comparable "year-ago" figure.

The monthly report of the Minnesota Department of employment Security on state trends showed jobs in June at 1,143,000, up 53,300 over June, 1965, and 24,800 more than in May of this year.

Commissioner Brown also reported that a record-breaking number of new entrants into the labor force last month, especially students, caused a rise of 6,400 in unemployment. However, the 54,100 listed as unemployed last month (3.3 per cent of the labor force) was considerably under the 70,500 (4.3 per cent) who were unemployed in June, 1965.

Brown also reported that production workers in Minnesota's manufacturing industries earned an average of $117.79 per week in June by working an average of 41.9 hours per week for $2.81 per hour. The corresponding figures for May were $116.08 per week, 41.4 hours, and $2.80 per hour; a year ago, $114.42, 41.9, and $2.73.

Gravel Project Set on CSAH 44 Near Fourtown

Successful low bidder for a grade and gravel surfacing contract on CSAH 44 between 5.9 miles northwest and two miles north of Fourtown is Harvey W. Nelson of Lake Park with a bid of $64,351.49.

Work is scheduled to begin July 25 and be completed within 40 working days. County Highway Engineer G. H. Wellner will supervise the work.

The average American family spends about 20 per cent of its net income on food. Britons spend 30 per cent; Russians, about 60 per cent.

Wardens Arrest 246 for Fishing Law Violations

All but 20 of the 266 arrests made by state game wardens in June were for violations of Minnesota's fishing laws, the state conservation department reported today. Non-residents figured prominently in the arrest figures.

There were 55 Minnesota residents and 28 non-residents arrested for fishing with two lines. Fishing without a license resulted in the arrests of 69 residents and 20 non-residents. Of the 35 persons arrested for having over-the-limit catches during June, 21 were visitors from other states.

Other fishing violations observed by game wardens included molesting a spawning bed (five arrests) and fishing with an unattended line (nine arrests).

Game wardens arrested 10 persons for transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle, including one arrest for carrying a loaded firearm in a motorboat.

Three persons were arrested for depositing litter in public waters and two more for making a false statement to obtain a license.

Gifts to Charities Are Tax Deductible

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal Revenue, St. Paul.

Q — I am retiring and will be moving into an apartment. If we give our furniture away can we claim this as a charitable deduction?

A — You can if you give it to a charitable organization such as Goodwill or the Salvation army. The fair market value of the furniture at the time of the donation should be used to determine how much may be deducted.

Q — What about expenses connected with attending military reserve meetings in the evening. Is anything deductible?

A — The cost of your uniform, less any nontaxable allowance, will be deductible but not the travel costs to and from your reserve meetings unless you also worked at your regular job on the same day you attended a reserve meeting. Then the cost of a one-way trip from your regular job to the meeting can be deducted from your gross income.

Q — My return was audited and I actually got a larger refund than I claimed. Does that happen very often?

A — Yes, it happens fairly often. One object of our audits is to make sure that the correct tax is collected from each taxpayer. We find many taxpayers who have overpaid as well as those who have underpaid.

Last year $145 million was returned to taxpayers as a result of audits where claims for refund had not been filed. On the other hand, our examination or returns resulted in the assessment of $2.7 billion in additional taxes and penalties.

Q — Are you getting refunds out any faster with your computers?

A — Yes, we are processing refunds faster and computers are partly responsible. Over 27 million refund checks had been mailed by April 15, 10 per cent more than for a comparable period a year ago. In other words, computers helped to get refund checks to nearly three million more tapayers by April 15 than received them by that date last year.

Q — Hospital insurance is a deductible expense, isn't it? One of your agents has disallowed this deduction which I had taken.

A — Cost of hospitalization insurance is deductible as a medical expense only when these expenses are itemized. Some taxpayers erroneously list hospitalization under "other" expenses where it is not subject to the three per cent floor on medical expenses. Perhaps this is what happened in your case.

Q — Is it true you have to get permission from the Internal Revenue service to leave the country?

A — The law requires that most aliens must show their tax affairs are in good order before they are granted a sailing permit.

To establish this, copies of 1963, 1964 and 1965 tax returns, as well as a statement of income and expenses for 1966, should be brought to your local Internal Revenue office. You should also bring your passport and re-entry permit as well as certain other papers and documents. For a detailed discussion of these requirements you may obtain Internal Revenue Service Document No. 5589, "U. S. Tax Guide for Aliens," free by writing to your district director of Internal Revenue.

These requirements do not apply to U. S. citizens, but if delinquent they should arrange for payment before going abroad.

More than $89 million in highway construction contracts was placed by the Minnesota highway department during the fiscal year 1966, which ended June 30.

Contracts awarded for work on Interstate and regular trunk highways in the state from July 1, 1965 through June 30, 1966 totaled $89,175,860. Of this total, Interstate highway projects came to $55,755,698 and trunk highway projects amounted to $33,420,171.

The projects included 394 miles of grading, 346 miles of miscellaneous base, 46 miles of miscellaneous surface, 537 miles of base and surface, and 105 bridges (including viaducts and grade separation structures). Also involved was extensive work on shoulders and approach courses, drainage and miscellaneous structures, traffic signals and traffic signs) and roadside development (landscaping, sodding and planting).

The largest single category of expense was $25,732,624 for 87 bridges on Interstate highways and 18 on regular trunk highways.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Warm summer weather is pleasant for a change, but people who are not used to high temperatures should exercise moderation in activities which require a great deal of physical exertion, the Minnesota State Medical association warns. The combination of high temperatures and physical exertion may cause heat exhaustion or the more serious condition, heat stroke (sun stroke.)

Heat exhaustion occurs particularly in people who perspire excessively. The victim feels tired, listless and apprehensive. His skin is clammy, and he has a rapid, weak pulse. His body temperature is usually normal or slightly above normal. In severe cases he may lose consciousness.

The heat exhaustion victim should be moved to a cool place. His clothing should be loosened and cold packs placed on his forehead and wrists. Since this condition is often associated with a depletion of the body's salt supply, if the victim is conscious, giving him some salt dissolved in water or salt tablets may aid his recovery.

Heat stroke is a medical emergency, and a doctor should be called immediately. The most outstanding feature of this condition, says the medical association, is an extremely high body temperature, which may damage the tissues of the body. Unlike the victim of heat exhaustion, a person suffering from heat stroke is flushed. His skin is very hot and dry, and his pulse is strong and rapid.

It is imperative that the body temperature be lowered quickly to prevent permanent damage. Placing the victim in a tub of very cold water or wrapping him in cold wet sheets, with electric fans used to increase the rate of evaporation, will help decrease the temperature. The victim's temperature should be checked at least every half hour to make sure it isn't rising again. According to the medical association, recovery from heat stroke is slow and medical supervision is essential.

Many apparently well-fed Americans are starving themselves. They are tired, unproductive and frequently ill because of their eating habits, says the Minnesota State Medical association.

Studies have shown that even in countries where malnutrition is so common it is almost accepted as normal, the problem frequently is not a lack of food. Often poor eating habits or even inadequate caloric intake are due to ignorance, prejudice, inappropriate folklore or poverty rather than a lack of enough food in the family or community.

In this country, poverty is not so much a factor, but many of us are guilty of starving ourselves because of ignorance, prejudice and inappropriate folklore.

What did you have for breakfast this morning—or did you even bother to eat breakfast? Do you know that by breakfast time you've already used up about two-thirds of the energy and nutrients provided by your evening meal? That doesn't leave you much to go on for the rest of the morning, and it's no wonder you feel run down by 11 o'clock.

We place such a premium on the slim, trim figure—the one that looks good on the beach. It's a great temptation to go on a crash diet to lose that extra 10 pounds. But what about the vitamins, minerals and proteins that are sacrificed to the cause?

You could probably find any number of books recommending various kinds of diets—high protein, low carbohydrate, liquid diets. Many teenagers, in particular, subsist on soft drinks and hamburgers. Fad diets and fad foods may keep you from being hungry; they may even help you gain or lose a few pounds.

But the fact remains—we need a well-balanced diet for proper growth and good health. If you are overweight or underweight, your doctor can best advise you on the diet you should follow. For most people, says the medical association, the best diet is three well-balanced meals a day.

As with many stereotypes the common image of the fat person as jolly and happy is not as accurate as many people think. Obesity is a particularly tragic disease among adolescents since adolescence is such an important period of development. According to the Minnesota State Medical association, obesity may not only be a threat to future health, but it may also seriously affect the adolescent's emotional adjustment, social development, peer relationships and school performance.

Many obese teenagers are extremely passive and very dependent on their parents. The overweight teenager often has difficulty making friends and may be unhappy and introverted, finding it hard to show his feelings. The problem of assuming an adult sexual role and learning to handle new and strange impulses, frequently compounded by inadequate sex education, is often exaggerated and threatening. This may be expressed as a reluctance to associate with the opposite sex or to become involved with normal teenage social activities.

Treatment of the obese adolescent is difficult. Simply prescribing a diet may only present another risk of defeat which would again damage an already weakened self-image. Many overweight teenagers are not ready to lose weight. Constructive, individualized therapy, the encouragement and support of the overweight teenager's efforts to be independent and grown-up, and an emphasis on self-improvement rather than weight loss may be more successful than a diet.

When the teenager is motivated and ready to lose wieght, a reducing program, including dietary counseling and planned exercise, can be outlined. Parents should also receive counseling because their attitudes can have a great affect on the adolescent's problem of weight control.

With this kind of an approach to therapy, says the medical association, more obese adolescents can be helped than by rigid dietary measures.

THIS IS A SAFE FARM

THERE ARE
52 WEEKS
OF FARM SAFETY
IN A YEAR . . .
OBSERVE THEM ALL!

July is a month when we observe Farm Safety Week. It's a good practice to follow good safety rules the year around — 52 weeks of the year. Each year, farmers throughout Minnkota-land add more electrical equipment, more appliances, and more power devices to help them with more efficient, labor-saving farming. It's wise to be sure that your wiring is adequate to meet these increased demands. With the busy harvest period ahead, it would be a wise investment to have a mercury vapor yard light to add to your operating safety. The increased use of electricity and power in this area — growing each year — requires that rural electrics plan ahead to meet this demand. Since its inception 26 years ago, Minnkota Power Cooperative has been keeping abreast of the growing power requirements, and will continue to live up to its promise: to provide the best possible service at the lowest possible cost. You live better — you farm better — with rural electric power.

Card of Thanks

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 2793 of Thief River Falls would like to take this opportunity to thank the people of Thief River Falls for turning out to our "Friendship Garden" ceremony to help make this a success. The post would like to thank the city of Thief River Falls Park Board, the City Council and Mayor Green, the American Legion Municipal band, Orville Ellingson, Rev. Leland Steen, the "Sow and Hoe" club and all the members of VFW post for all the cooperation and assistance given in making the event a very outstanding success. Special thanks is given to Arnold Kelley, general chairman for the work over the past three year in carrying this project to a conclusion. VFW Post 2793, Bernard Wold, Commander, Thief River Falls, Minn. 1t57c

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. Winifred Carlson who died July 15, 1965.

What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in days that used to be;
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In Heaven, that happy life.

Sadly missed by Martin Carlson, sons, daughters and grandchildren. 1t57c

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—My niece, the daughter of a 100 percent disabled war veteran, is attending college under the War Orphans Education Act. My husband is also a 100 percent disabled veteran, but the VA says our son is not eligible for this educational benefit. Why?

A—Children of living veterans who are rated 100 percent permanently disabled because of disability incurred in service are eligible. If your husband's disability was not incurred in service, your son is not eligible.

Q—What is the difference in the terms "compensation" and "pension" payments made monthly by the VA?

A—Compensation payments are made to eligible veterans or their survivors for disabilities incurred or aggravated in military service. Pension payments are made to veterans with total and permanent non-service connected disability, to eligible survivors of deceased wartime veterans whose death was not a resul tof military service.

Q—With the new 4.15 per cent interest rate on savings bonds, wouldn't it be to my advantage to cash in my older bonds and buy new ones?

A—No. At the time the interest rate on current savings bonds was increased, the rate on outstanding bonds (those purchased prior to December 1, 1965) was raised proportionately for their remaining period to maturity. By cashing your bonds now, you would also lose the tax deferral advantages you have enjoyed since buying them.

Q—How does the higher interest rate affect my Series H savings bonds?

A—The interest checks you receive each six months from the Treasury will be larger, beginning in June, 1966. Their earnings from now on will be in line with the 4.15 per cent rate announced by the President on new E and H bonds.

Q—The other day, I bought a savings bond and it's no different from the ones I have been buying all along. I thought the rate had been increased.

A—The rate certainly has been increased and your bond is earning interest at the higher rate. But, in the interst of economy, the Treasury is using up its stock of old bonds before printing new ones. The issue date stamped on your bond will assure you of receiving the new rate when you decide to redeem it.

Q—I am a railroad employee who is 67 years old and I plan to retire in 1967. I am also a veteran of World War I. My railroad retirement benefits will be about $200 a month and the benefit for my wife will be about $75 for a total monthly income of $275. This will be my only source of income. Am I correct in assuming that this $275 will not be considered as income when applying for a World War I veteran's pension?

A—All income received during the year is counted by the Veterans administration when determining a veteran's eligibility for a nonservice-connected pension. This includes wages, salaries, dividends, interest, profits, annuities, pensions, social security payments, etc.

Q—In the service medical report that I recived it stated that I have a stomach hernia that I received while in the service. Is it too late to file for a disability pension from the VA?

A—There is no time limit as to when a veteran may file a claim for a disease or injury he feels was obtained while serving in the armed forces.

Q—I lost my son in the service about five months ago. As a dependent parent receiving VA compensation, would I be eligible for the GI home loan or does the VA require that the veteran be alive to be eligible?

A—GI loans are available only to veterans or to unremarried widows of men who served in either World War II or the Korean conflict and who died in service or after separation as a result of a service-connected disability. Parents are not eligible.

Q—I understand that in order for a veteran to use VA hospital facilities for a nonservice-connected disability he must signify that he is unable to pay for the treatment required. Is this right?

A—For a veteran to be treated in a Veterans Administration hospital for a nonservice-connected disability, first it must be determined by a doctor that the veteran needs hospitalization, secondly a bed must be available and thirdly the veteran must state that he cannot afford to pay for his treatment in a private hospital.

Q—Is it true that a veteran who has received a service-connected disability payment for more than 20 years cannot have it taken away from him? My husband received a service-connected disability of 20 per cent in 1945. I was told that after 20 years he could not have his disability taken away from him and also that it could not be reduced. Is this correct?

A—If a veteran has had a service-connected disability for 20 years, the service-connection will not be taken away from him unless it was obtained through fraud and his compensation cannot be reduced below the lowest percentage that he held during that 20 year period.

Q—I am a World War I veteran with three years and 6 months of active service in the army. I have not been well enough to work for over three years. Am I entitled to any kind of disability benefits from the VA?

A—Veterans of World War I, World War II or the Korean conflict, discharged under other than dishonorable conditions after 90 or more days service, or, because of a service-connected disability, who are permanently and totally disabled from reasons not traceable to service and cannot pursue a gainful occupation may be entitled to a nonservice-connected pension if their income from all sources does not exceed $1,800 if single or $3,000 if they have dependents.

Q—I understand veterans have eight years from the date of their discharge to complete training under the new GI Bill. I was discharged Aug. 7, 1960. Must I complete training in 1968?

A—No. Veterans discharged on or before June 1, 1966, have eight years from that date to complete training. Your deadline will be May 31, 1974.

Q—Will VA guarantee a business loan under the new GI Bill?

A—No. Business loans are not authorized. GI loans may be used for the purchase of homes, farms, farm supplies or equipment; to obtain farm working capital; also to make alterations, repairs or improvements in homes already owned and occupied; or, to refinance delinquent indebtedness on the property.

Q—Can the so-called "six-month enlistees" take advantage of the new GI Bill?

A—No. Six-month enlistees, national guard reservists and others who go on active duty for training purposes only are not eligible for the benefits of the new GI Bill.

A—All income received during the year is counted by the Veterans administration when determining a veteran's eligibility for a nonservice-connected pension. This includes wages, salaries, dividends, interest, profits, annuities, pensions, Social Security payments, etc.

Q—If I convert my term insurance policy to the Modified Life Plan, will my premiums remain the same throughout the duration of the contract?

No Teal Season For Minnesotans

Conservation Commissioner Wayne Olson has announced that there will be no special September teal season in Minnesota this year. This decision was reached after surveys of the teal breeding population in Minnesota this year showed a serious decline from 1965.

In January, Minnesota proposed that all states in the Mississippi Flyway be allowed only a five-day season rather than a nine-day season. This proposal was flatly rejected by federal officials.

For the past several months, Minnesota's game and fish officials have been requesting the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service to allow a bonus bag limit of two teal during the early part of the regular October season as an alternative to the September teal season.

Such a bonus season would have provided additional teal hunting in Minnesota without jeopardizing the breeding population.

The proposed bonus season would have resulted in an increased kill of other species of ducks approximately equal to the illegal kill of these species during a September season for teal only.

However, explained Olson, the kill of these other ducks during the bonus season would have been included in the legal bag of hunters whereas the illegal kill of these ducks in a September teal season results in their being left on the marshes to rot.

In addition to denying Minnesota the alternative of a bonus season, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service placed greater restrictions on Minnesota for the September season season than have been placed on any of the other states in the Mississippi and Central flyways.

These other states all are allowed a nine-day September season with an unlimited number of hunters and a daily bag of four teal. Minnesota was offered only a 2½ day season provided not more than 30,000 hunters (one-fourth of Minnesota's duck hunters) were allowed to participate.

Conservation department officials expressed dismay and deep concern over these actions of the federal agency.

Commissioner Olson said that requirements to reduce the number of ducks killed in order to maintain the population of breeding birds is the responsibility of all the states in the flyway, not just the state in which the ducks are produced. If restrictions are necessary, he said, they should be placed equally on all states.

Olson expressed particular concern over the apparent philosophy being advanced by the fish and wildlife service regarding waterfowl management. He said it appears that the northern waterfowl producing states can expect increasing restrictions on duck hunters in order to allow hunters in central and southern states increased opportunities for duck hunting.

He indicated that Minnesota officials will continue to oppose this new philosophy being pursued by the federal agency. However, he said, Minnesota could not allow a further reduction in its blue-winged teal breeding population by joining in a September teal season this year.

Union State Bank vs. L. B. Hartz.
Times vs. Coast-to-Coast.

The highlight match in last week's trapshooting league competition was the 123 to 123 tie between the defending Times squad and the Mostue's Floral. Shooting on a late shift, Pat Ball and Julie Mattson of the Mostue's carded "25's" to gain the tie, with Mrs. Ball having a 15-10 and Mrs. Mattson a 16-10. Myrt Wilson had a 21-4, Inez Mostue a 14-10, and Joanie Wilson an 18-6. For the Times, who scored four "25's", Bob Mattson scored a 22-3, George Mostue had a 21-6, Leif Erickson a 21-5, and Marv Lundin a 22-5. Lewie Helfner had a 21-2.

The Jensen Mink Farm squad continued undefeated in league shooting, posting a 123 to 89 win over a three-man Coast-to-Coast squad. For the league leaders, Pat Fischer had a 24-1, Steve Johnson a 24-3, Ken Moum a 20-6, Goodwin Olson a 22-6, and Mark Mattson an 18-5. For the losers, Reuben Carlson scored a 21-0, Don Kamrowski had an 18-2, and Jim Huseth a 10-8.

The Wilson Bros., kept within two points of the leaders by scoring a 120 to 106 win over the L. B. Hartz squad. Stan Wilson had a 25 straight, Si Schantzen had a 22-1, Al Tonder a 22-4, Orv Feragen a 17-7, and Wally Vaige a 16-7. For the Hartz team, Curt Bottem had a 20-4, Carl Carlson a 21-4, Don Hoganson a 19-3, Rich Jorde a 10-8, and Dick Hoglo a 9-8.

The Ekeren Pharmacy with three "25's", including Sandy Wilson's 25 straight, defeated the Union State Bank, 122 to 108. In addition to Sandy's straight, Ted La Coursiere had a 17-8 and Ray Thyren a 22-4. Tony Dorn scored a 22-2 and Stub Pahlen had an 18-5. For the Union State Bank, Fred Sorenson had a 23-3, John Moum a 13-7, Arnie Johnson a 20-6, Walt Fischer a 14-3, and Arnold Narverud a 16-5.

Bridgeman's vs. V. F. W.

Coach Pat Poole's Vets squad took over first place in the city softball league by scoring an 8-2 win over the Schmidt's Beer team on Monday evening. The two teams had been sharing the top rung, and Monday night's game, which was played under the lights on the fairgrounds baseball diamond, was the playoff of a previously postponed tilt.

The game was much more evenly contested than the 8-2 score would indicate. Nickie Drees drove a ground ball down the left-field foul line that eluded the left fielder of the Schmidt's and was credited as a home run; and in the sixth inning Wayne Smith connected for a three-run home run to right-center to give the Vets an 8-2 lead. The ever-trying Schmidt's loaded the bases in the seventh, with two out, but Vern Solheim gathered in a fly ball to retire the side and end the threat.

On Wednesday evening the Vets, playing without the services of Nickie Drees, Dale Erickson and Wayne Smith, were pressed to edge the Hartz team, 4-3.

The Hamm's Beer vs. Bea's Food Market game of a week ago, which found the Hamm's scoring a 6-4 win, was entered into the records as a win for the Hamm's. The game had been tentatively played under protest, but Bea Zachar of the Bea's Market team, stated that the Bea's would not protest the game.

This week's schedule, with the games being slated for the fairgrounds diamond, will be featured by the Vets vs. Bridgeman's game on Wednesday evening.

Quality of Rainy Will Be Topic of Baudette Meeting

Minnesota Water Pollution Control Commission has scheduled a public hearing for 10 a.m. August 11 in the Baudette high school gymnasium for the purpose of receiving and considering testimony and evidence regarding quality of water in the Rainy River from its source at Ranier on Rainy Lake throughout its length to its mouth at Wheelers Point on Lake of the Woods.

On the basis of testimony heard, the commission will adopt regulations relating to purity of the river, revoke or modify existing sewage disposal permits and issue orders for the abatement and control of existing and future sources of pollution of the river.

Proposed stream classifications and standards, and recommendations relating to modification of permits and abatement of pollution, are on file in the office of the commission secretary at the state board of health building on the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis, and are open to inspection by the public. Copies also will be mailed to any person upon request.

Each municipality or other governmental agency, industry or individual who may be involved with the discharge of sewage, industrial waste or other wastes into these waters is invited to report on the status of plans that have or are being developed to provide adequate treatment works or disposal systems, according to Robert N. Barr, M.D., secretary of the commission.

Any person wishing to present information on the present or potential uses of these waters will be given an opportunity to do so, Dr. Barr said.

The Sheehy Sweepstakes

It appears that Boston college, a Catholic school with a fine hockey tradition, has won the Tim Sheehy hockey sweepstakes. Sheehy, an all-state tournament selection for the past couple of seasons with the state high school hockey champion International Falls Broncos, will continue his education at Boston college.

The fact that Tommy Williams of Duluth (the lone American in National Hockey league) is playing with the Boston Bruins may have been a factor in Sheehy's decision. I don't know what major league team has placed Sheehy on its negotiation list, but you can be sure that he is listed. It may be that the Boston Bruins have, or will be able to get the rights to Sheehy's professional hockey services. And what better exposure could be gotten than to have Sheehy play his college hockey with the Boston college squad?

If Sheehy continues to make the progress that all hockey scouts predict, he should be quite an attraction in professional hockey. And with the expansion program for major league hockey that is now in the blue-print stage, and scheduled to become operative in a couple of years, American hockey players will be at a premium.

It will be interesting to follow the progress of the well-publicized Sheehy as a member of the Boston college hockey squad.

And speaking of eastern schools, Bryan Grand, the fine hockey player with Roseau Rams, will be attending New Hampshire this year. Rube Bjorkman, the former Roseau Rams player, and later a Minnesota Gopher star, is the hockey coach at New Hampshire. And he was instrumental in persuading Grand to enroll there. Roseau's Don Ross expressed the opinion that Grand, who isn't to big physically, is wise in accepting the scholarship offered by New Hampshire. While it is perhaps true that Grand could have handled himself against competition in the Western Collegiate league, Ross felt that the body contact play in this western circuit would pose a hazard.

A Short Summer

It's a fact that the sports seasons are becoming longer and overlapping. The Minnesota Vikings of the National Football league opened their training drills last week. And this evening, Monday, coach Bud Grant's Winnipeg Blue Bombers will play the Ottawa Roughriders in an exhibition game at Winnipeg.

And the Canadian football season will begin play on its 1966 schedule later this week.

Must mention, too, that the ice sheet is in use in the Winnipeg arena, and that hockey season will begin its practice sessions in a couple of weeks.

Miscellany

Don Arlich, who will be remembered as the ace southpaw pitcher of coach Rod Groven's North St. Paul high school team in a state tournament several years ago, has been called up by the Houston Astros of the National league. Arlich, who was signed by the Houston club following the completion of his high school career, has been pitching for the Oklahoma City team of the Pacific Coast league, a Houston farm team. The lefthander had a six wins and four losses mark, and an earned run mark of 2.7 when he was called up . . . John Dow, the Bemidji all-round athlete of a season ago is attending summer school. Dow, who was offered a bonus by the Minnesota Twins has been attending Arizona state, and he is hoping to regain his scholastic eligibility . . . A couple of former States-Dominion hockey players have developed into pretty fair golfers. Ron Castelane, who played with the local Thieves, is one of the better golfers in the Winnipeg area, and he qualified quite easily for the Manitoba amateur golf tournament. And Harry Barefoot, the goalie from Ft. Frances, and who played in the nets for the Warroad Lakers, is a strong golfer around the Ft. Frances area.

Legion Juniors Win 5 Last Week

Winning five of the six games played during the week, including a sweep of the doubleheader played against the Bemidji juniors here on Friday, the local junior Legion baseball team boosted its season's record above the .500 mark. With but one game remaining on their pre-tournament schedule, that a game against the Bemidji juniors on the BSC field at Bemidji on Tuesday at 5:30 p.m., the locals have a mark of ten wins and nine losses.

Sub-district tournament pairings will be arranged at meeting to be held this week. The sub-district tournament will be held the week of July 25.

Following their 6-5 win over Roseau here on Tuesday evening, the locals moved "on the road", playing at Devils Lake in a doubleheader on Wednesday, and meeting the Oslo juniors at Oslo on Thursday. They then closed out the week's play with a doubleheader here against Bemidji on Friday.

Billy Poole shut out coach Swede Lund's Devils Lake juniors, 1-0, in the opening game of the series at Devils Lake. But the Satans came back to edge the locals, 5-4, in the nightcap, making a come-from-behind effort to gain the win.

In a game that was called after five innings of play, with the locals holding an 11-1 lead, the juniors defeated the Oslo juniors at Oslo on Thursday evening.

Friday's doubleheader against Bemidji found coach Lee Swanson's local squad scoring a 2-1 win in six innings in the opening game and then rolling up an 8-4 win in seven innings in the final.

The opening game was slated for five innings, but at the end of the fifth the two teams were deadlocked, 1-1. Billy Poole started on the mound for the locals, but after hurling a pair of runless and hitless innings he came up with a sore arm. Bob Brodin took over the hurling duties, but Bemidji, on a single by Larry Shadlow, a sacrifice by Wayne Olson, a single by Jerry Fruetel, a walk to Dick Barthelemy and a squeeze play bunt by Rich Glas, scored a run to knot the game at 1-1. Tommy Cummings came in from first base to do the pitching, and except for a grand single by Olson in the fifth, the righthander pitched hitless ball.

The locals won the game in the last half of the sixth when Rocky Wilson led off with a single, moved to second on Tommy Tunberg's third hit of the game, and, after Karl Poppenhagen had struck out, Wilson scored when Cummings poled out his second double.

In the nightcap, the locals erupted for five runs in the second inning. With one out, Nickie Drees and Dale Erickson drew walks, and both runners scored on Larry Peterson's triple. Wayne Liden followed with a two-run home run over the fence in left-center. Wilson drew a walk, and Tunberg was hit by a pitched ball. Jerry Fruetel relieved starter Dick Barthelemy, and Poppenhagen greeted him with a single, scoring Wilson.

The locals added a pair of runs in the third on a walk to Erickson, an error, and Wilson's double.

Cummings went the route for the locals, and limited the visitors to four hits and four runs. In the fourth, a single by Tim Hill, a triple by Tom Keyes, and a sacrifice fly by Larry Shadlow accounted for two runs. And in the fifth, two walks and a triple by Hill added a nother two-run cluster to the Bemidji score, but Cummings set down the side in order in the sixth and seventh innings.

Duck Production Looks Good on Canada Prairies

"Excellent production season in sight"—this encouraging news on the current waterfowl situation comes from the "Duckological", prepared by Angus Gavin, general manager of Ducks Unlimited (Canada).

Gavin points out that although first hatched pintails are already on the wing in Alberta, the brood season across the prairies will be prolonged due to cold and snow in late April. He adds, however, that except for east central Alberta, where more rain will be needed, water conditions are excellent and will last until the young ducks are safely on the wing.

The weather has been good ever since early May and there is abundant evidence that the ducks are making a major nesting effort.

Brood production has been good in Alberta and western Saskatchewan, Gavin reports, but delayed in eastern Saskatchewan and Manitoba where the peak of the hatch is just being reached.

Sportsmen Club To Meet Wed.

Pennington County Sportsmen's club will hold its regular meeting Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the club recreation area. Program will consist of maintenance of the grounds, and those with lawn mowers are asked to bring them. Refreshments will be served.

New! Only from Hamm's!

Real Draft Beer in new all-aluminum cans

The first perfect take-home package for draft beer

Beer drinkers know how good a glass of Hamm's draft beer tastes. They know the smooth, mellow, non-filling lightness of draft is light and easy on your thirst.

Until now, the fine draft beer brewed by Hamm's has not been bottled or canned because Hamm's felt they could not insure the high quality and delicate draft beer flavor of Hamm's for you in conventional take-home packages.

All-aluminum protects the delicate flavor of draft beer.

Brewers have known for years that aluminum is the one metal that actually protects the delicate flavor of draft beer. No other container can do the job as well. That's why Hamm's uses only all-aluminum kegs for their draft beer.

Seven years ago, Hamm's and the Reynolds Metals Co. began an extensive research program to develop a take-home package for draft beer.

That patience and research has paid off, with this, the most perfect package for draft beer.

The new seamless, all-aluminum can.

Different from the all-aluminum draft beer keg only in size, shape and tap. You tap the all-aluminum can with a quick snap of the new ring-pull tab.

Now, Hamm's real draft beer, in the new all-aluminum can is the same brewery fresh real draft beer you've always enjoyed before, but only on tap.

New can offers both protection and convenience.

Other advantages of this new all-aluminum can: It's lightweight, chills fast, can't rust. So friendly to the taste of beer. It gives Hamm's real draft beer the protection of aluminum, and the convenience of the new ring-pull tab.

Take a six-pack of Hamm's new all-aluminum cans home today, and tap a can of Hamm's real draft beer . . . refreshing as the Land of Sky Blue Waters.

8-Acre Potato Field Plays Research Role

An eight-acre potato field may be considered small by most commercial growers in the Red River Valley. To a group of researchers at the University of Minnesota's institute of agriculture, the eight-acre plot of potato seedlings at the Northwest experiment station here looks mighty big.

Visitors at the station's annual crops and soils field day Tuesday who looked over the field of some 11,700 seedlings, probably found it to appear pretty much like any other potato field in the Valley.

And while it may, Florian Lauer, associate professor of horticulture at the university's St. Paul campus, explains that these eight acres play a major role in the university's potato breeding program.

Started back in the 1920's, this continuing research effort is aimed at developing new and better potato varieties that are more suitable to the north central area.

"The first step in developing a new variety, which takes about 12 years from crossing and initial selection to variety evaluation and final testing, is the actual crossing of two parent plants.

This work is done at St. Paul and at the North Central experiment station at Grand Rapids. These plants grown from true seed are transplanted into field plots at Grand Rapids.

The largest tuber from each seedling is saved at harvest and brought to Crookston the following spring for planting. It is at the end of this growing season that the initial selections are made on the basis of tuber type, yield and color.

"While the work at Crookston may sound like only a small part of our overall program," Lauer says, "the fact is that the growing of seedlings and initial selection here is actually a key part of our breeding program."

He points out that only about five per cent of the plants grown at Crookston are selected for testing during the following year, which is some indication of how important work done here is to the total research effort.

Plants selected from the Crookston plots are sent on to the Red River Valley potato research farm near Grand Forks, N. D., or maintained at Grand Rapids where they are evaluated for horticultural characteristics, screened and re-evaluated in succeeding years.

The university also cooperates with the U. S. department of agriculture's potato processing laboratory in East Grand Forks on chipping tests and determination of the interior quality of the potatoes.

Potatoes that do well in these tests are tested for disease resistance under the direction of Carl Eide, professor of plant pathology. They are tested for field resistance to late blight at the Rosemount experiment station near the Twin Cities and for scab resistance at the Grand Rapids station.

Clones that prove adaptable after six years of growing are then grown under complete isolation at Embarrass in Northeastern Minnesota by O. C. Turnquist, extension horticulturist.

Replicated yield trials are subsequently made to obtain further information on chipping quality, disease resistance, and horticultural characteristics. The plants then go into growers' demonstration plots throughout the state. Varieties that do well are named and released by the University.

While the development of new potato varieties is considered the main objective of the program, researchers are also interested in investigating more efficient means for carrying out their breeding program, in obtaining genetic information and in developing improved parent plants.

For example, until last year the transplant seedlings were grown in greenhouses, rather than under normal field condition at Grand Rapids. The average size of tubers produced under greenhouse conditions was 0.6 of an ounce, and only from the greenhouse seedlings.

However, by planting the transplant seedlings directly in the field, it was found that the ave. weight of tubers increased eight times, and that several hills could easily be grown from a single tuber.

According to Lauer, this change from greenhouse to field grown seedlings means greater precision in selection, and may reduce the time involved in developing a new variety from 15 to about 12 years.

Finish Is Start In Easy Care Clothing Fabrics

"The finish is the beginning," says Thelma Baierl, extension clothing specialist at the University of Minnesota. "It's the beginning of easy-care clothing."

Finishes are applied to fibers and fabric to change their appearance, their hand or feel, or their performance. And, one finish may combine several characteristics. Also, more than one finish may be used on one garment. Some finishes last only a few launderings and others need to be renewed after cleaning.

Some common finishes used today are: crease or wrinkle resistant, water repellent, water proof, permanent press, stain and spot resistant and shrink resistant.

Only touch up ironing is required for a garment labeled wash and wear, or crease or wrinkle resistant. The finish applied here helps the fabric shed wrinkles and recover a smooth appearance.

Permanent press finishes eliminate the need for ironing after laundering if care instructions found on the label are followed. Many of these fabrics must be tumble dried to be effective.

If a garment is labeled water repellent, the finish only slows down the wetting of the fabric. It does not keep it from getting wet. A water proof finish coats the surface of the fabric, this prevents any absorption of moisture.

Spots and stains are always hard to remove when they have soaked into the fibers. A stain and spot resistant finish keeps spots and stains from soaking into the fibers, thus making them easier to remove.

One of the earliest finishes was one that prevented the fabric from shrinking or stretching during laundering. Some controlled the amount of shrinkage.

Keep a file of care instructions handy to your laundry center. Follow these care instructions for best results.

Mrs. Melvin Most, Maxine, Patty and Donna of Prescott, Wis. accompanied Chestle Ruud here to spend the 4th of July weekend at the Ruud home. On Saturday they and Mrs. Ruud, Bonnie and Terry visited at the Fred Bucholz, Esther Hope and Russell Franzman homes in Grygla.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss Thompson, Robin, Mark and Lisa of Newfolden were visitors at the Arnold McDonagh home a week ago Sunday.

Minimum Tillage Systems Outyield Normal Practice

Besides reducing labor and machine costs, minimum tillage systems for corn can produce slightly higher yields than conventional tillage.

Visitors to the West Central experiment station field day at Morris heard results from an eight-year study conducted by University of Minnesota researchers comparing corn yields and five-tillage systems.

Results showed that yields from tillage systems using minimum seedbed preparation chopped stalk residues and either fall or spring plowing averaged somewhat higher than yields from conventional tillage.

George R. Blake and John M. MacGregor, professors of soil science at the university, and Samuel D. Evans, assistant professor at the Morris station, are conducting the continuing project to study different tillage systems and varying nitrogen rates.

Blake noted that the project's principal objective is to learn more about long term effects of tillage and fertilizers on soil structure and soil tilth.

Comparing five-tillage systems and corn yields over the eight-year period, Blake said the system using minimum seedbed preparation, chopped stalks and fall plowing averaged 56.4 bushels per acre annually — tops for all tillage systems studied.

The tillage system using minimum seedbed preparation, chopped stalks and spring plowing produced 55.3 bushels per acre. Another minimum tillage system—the same as the last one except that stalks were not chopped—produced 54.4 bushels per acre.

With conventional seedbed preparation, chopped stalks and fall plowing, average yields were 54.9 bushels per acre. Lowest average yields were 50.7 bushels per acre from a seedbed prepared by a field cultivator, with stalks being chopped and plowing done in both spring and fall.

Blake said the yield comparison shows that tillage systems using minimum seedbed preparation, chopped stalks and either fall or spring plowing can produce yeilds comparable to or higher than those from conventional tillage.

In addition to equal or slightly higher yields, the minimum tillage systems can mean lower labor costs and fewer total hours of machine operation, plus a time saving because fewer trips are made over the field compared to conventional tillage methods.

This year's study was expanded to include a soil temperature experiment in which James B. Swan, assistant professor and extension soils specialist, is cooperating. Hourly soil temperatures are taken by thermocouples placed at two, four and six-inch depths.

Swan explained that soil temperature stongly affects plant growth. The experiment will study both soil temperature and the soil's ability to transmit heat and relate these to various types of seedbed preparation.

One example of how soil temperature measurements are used is to help explain the different response of corn to starter fertilizer noted in different years.

Popular Questionnaire

Government handout programs have reached a new high as the fall election coms ever closer. Applications for funds which have been collecting dust in federal offices for extended periods of time are being resurrected in time to make appropriations in advance of elections.

Uncle Sam does not have an orchard of money trees from which he can harvest greenbacks each season. Orlin Folwick, publisher of Minnesota News Features, has the right slant on government grants when he states, "every dollar the government spends on its myriads of projects or hands out in free deals to some of us has to be worked for the earned by somebody else. The government doesn't earn a dime; it's the people who work that earn it."

Government calculations of what constitutes poverty are being raised faster than the temporary ceiling on the national debt. The following "Popular Questionnaire" was offered recently in satirical jest by the Truman Tribune, and doesn't miss the truth by a very wide margin.

U. S. GOVERNMENT POVERTY APPLICATION

Dear Citizen:

This form is being provided for use if you have reason to feel you can qualify for a Government Poverty Grant. May we ask that you CAREFULLY STUDY THE IMPORTANT QUESTION on this sheet and answer them to the best of our ability. If it can be determined that you qualify as a povert, then a GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVE will call on you to determine the amont of money you need.

1. Do you eat as well as some of your neighbors. YES NO
2. Do you know other people who have more than you? YES NO
3. Do you need more money to spend YES NO
4. Do you find it difficult to pay monthly bills? YES NO
5. Do you know of any other reason why you should not be able to qualify for a Government Poverty Grant? YES NO

Name ______________________

Address ______________________

In order to assist you with the above questions and to help you qualify for a Government Poverty Grant, we submit the following suggestions:

1. Questions number one (1) and five (5) should be answered "NO".
2. Questions number two (2), three (3) and four (4) should be answered with a "YES".

Please complete this questionnaire and mail in the enclosed envelope which has had the postage paid by the taxpayers.

SPECIAL BONUS OFFER

Do you know of three friends whom you think can qualify for a Poverty Grant? If so, please send their names and addresses and when these people qualify, we will send you a special bonus of $1,000.

Knocking Santa Claus?

Recently the Wheaton "Gazette" ran the following editorial in regard to the present status of the social security program:

"MOST OF US HAVE LITTLE IDEA of how good or how bad it really is, and we rather doubt that anyone really knows its true financial condition," the editor suggests.

Then he points to a recent article in U.S. News and World Report that the Social Security fund is something like 300 million dollars in the red. "It kind of makes you stop and wonder if there'll be anything left by the time you get around to retirement age," the editorial continues.

"At best, you wonder if it's really worth the investment. Somebody put together some figures recently and came up with the almost unbelievable figure of loss the average person can look forward to in his Social Security. The figures show that a young man who is 20 years old today and starts paying into Social Security this week, will pay into the fund for 45 years about $33,000, including his employer's contributions."

THEN COMES THE CLINCHER.

"If he should reach the age of 70 (five years after retirement is the national average), he'll get back from Social Security about $10,000. In any normal retirement nongovernment fund, he could expect to get back not only his full $33,000, but an additional sum for compound interest over the years as well, which would make the total return tremendously higher than the $33,000 figure. It just doesn't add up to us."

Somewhat Prophetic?

When he was speaker of the Virginia legislature in 1910, Harry E. Byrd issued the following warning:

"A hand from Washington will be stretched out and placed upon every man's business; the eye of a federal inspector will be in every man's counting house.

"The law will of necessity have inquisitorial features; it will provide penalties; it will create a complicated machinery . . . .

"An army of federal inspectors, spies and detectives will descend upon the state. They will compel men of business to show their books and to disclose the secrets of their affairs. They will dictate forms of bookkeeping by which men must keep an account of their earnings.

"When the federal government gets a stranglehold upon the individual businessman, state lines will exist nowhere except upon the maps. Its agents will everywhere supervise the commerciall life of the states."

This was the warning of Harry E. Byrd.

Think of the alphabetical agencies which have been created by the federal government and whose tentacles reach out from Washington into the states, the counties, and the very communities and homes of the nation. Was Harry E. Byrd somewhat prophetic?

Faces of Janus

Rep. Richard H. Poff of Virginia takes a hard look at the Great Society and draws these conclusions:

The Great Society is a Janus. Like the ancient Roman diety, the god of gates and doors, one face looks one way and the other looks another. Here is what I mean:

Last year, one face smiled on income tax and excise tax cuts; this year, the other face frowns and restores excise taxes and contemplates income tax increases.

Only a short time ago, one face was preaching the need for American business to expand inventories and make greater investments in capital outlays for new equipment (tax credits were authorized as a stimulus); today, the other face is asking American business to curtail inventories and cancel capital expenditures.

One face is seeking new authority to send more millions of tons of food grains and dehydrated milk to India; the other face is asking Congress to curtail the school lunch and school milk programs here in the United States.

One face is calling for a reduction in land grant college monies for research, the other face is demanding the establishment of an International Education Act authorizing more money for schools in foreign lands.

One face pleads with governors and mayors to reduce state and local spending; the other face asks Congress to launch brand new spending programs such as rent supplements and the Federal Teachers Corps.

One face asks housewives to eat hot dogs instead of steak; the other face wants a three quarter of a million dollar mansion for the Vice President.

Fair and Equal

The following editorial appeared in the Truman Tribune:

America's men in uniform may find comfort and reassurance in the fact that there is almost no discrimination of treatment of the Johnson girls' boy friends. Lucy's guy, Pat Nugent has the suit on of course, but is being kept quite safely tucked away in a duty assignment in Washington, D.C. Pat boy will simply have to forego the combat medals.

Linda Bird's guy is somewhat older and wiser. He's that Georgie Hamilton movie actor, who, for some reason or other, is classified 3A by his draft board and will never even have to bother suiting up. Of course Georgie's draft board had good reason for classifying him 3A, as he is the sole support of his mother, Mrs. Ann Spalding.

Mrs. Spalding has been married four times and it just doesn't seem fair that little Georgie has to pick up for the tab for lack of provision by four grown husbands.

The subject doesn't get so thoroughly confusing until one stops to ponder the fact that while Linda Bird's guy Georgie's mom entitles Georgie to a 3A classification, the poor slob in New York, who is the sole support of a wife and ten kids, gets notice from his draft board to report for induction.

Of course there could be some very simple, logical answer to the entire mess—like a wife and ten kids can live cheaper than one four-time divorced mom.

Why Are We Prosperous?

Before becoming unduly elated over reports of the lowest rate of unemployment in years, it might be well to pause to consider that arsenals are being reactivated, manufacturing plants turning out any type of war material are humming with activity and enlistments and the selective draft are draining off a percentage of manpower which would otherwise be available for civilian pursuits. A boom in the economy based on military necessities is unstable, uncertain and unpredictable. It would be a happier situation all around if peace prevailed, jobs in war industries were harder to get and the impending threat of all-out war were diminished.—New Prague Times.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"The democratic faith is this: that the most terribly important things must be left to ordinary men themselves—the mating of the sexes, the rearing of the young, the laws of the state." —G. K. Chesterton

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

First Farmer: "The Senator shore made us a whoppin' two-hour speech, didn't he?"

Second Farmer: "Yep, but a half hour's rain woulda done us farmers a heap more good!" —Rotarian

Two Spanish detectives were standing over the body of a man named Juan Gonzales.

"How was he shot?" inquired the first.

"I think eet was weeth a golf gun," said the other.

"But what ees a golf gun?"

"I don't know exactly, but eet sure made a hole in Juan."

The first graders on a field trip were listening to their teacher as she pointed to a big flock of birds which was about to start its migration. The birds were noisy and excited before their long trip. "What do you suppose they're saying?" the teacher asked one tot. "I imagine the mother birds are telling their children they better go to the bathroom first," was the reply.

Doings of week at Rosewood

Mrs. Bert Kron, Rt. 2, City 681-2133

A week ago Saturday Mr. Ole Rye and son of International Falls arrived at the Albert Lappegard home to spend the weekend. On Sunday both families went to the Selmer Johnson home at Newfolden for a family reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Swenson, along with other relatives, gathered for a family dinner on the 4th of July at the Lewis Swenson home at Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hellquist recently returned to their home from spending a week in Hibbing with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hagberg and family.

Mrs. John Thompson was hostess at an early morning breakfast for the members of the Viking Town and Country garden club June 29. A short business meeting was also held with discussion held on the garden club booth at the Pennington County fair, flower shows and special outings. Mrs. Thompson conducted a tour around her beautiful yard where her rose garden was the focal point.

Last Sunday Susan and Janet Hook, Jack Halvorson of Newfolden and Joanie Holmstrom of St. Paul were guests of Aaron Hooks at their cabin and went water skiing in the afternoon on Bass lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Carlson and family of St. Hilaire visited last Sunday at the Harold Lambert home.

Last Saturday Mrs. Irwin Johnson and sons were to the Clarence Peterson home in Silverton and helped her father celebrate her birthday.

Over the 4th of July, Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Helgerson and Bobby and Don Belange of Aurora visited at the Albert Walker home.

Mrs. William Bulger attended a bridal shower for her sister, Dianne Parent, at Argyle last Tuesday night.

Last Friday Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wendel and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Stennes and granddaughter, Nanny Pace, of Seattle, Wash. were visitors at the Mike Johnson home. On Sunday a family reunion was held at the home of Mrs. Emma Paulson in Thief River Falls which Mr. and Mr. Mike Johnson, Natalie and Jennifer also attended.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schnathorst and Debra of San Fernando, Calif., John Nelson of Los Angeles and Mrs. Sam Lee of Newfolden called on the Alfred Raftesehs.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Grandstrand and family of Maple Plaine were visiting at their parental homes over the 4th of July. Sunday evening they were guests at the Emil Hellquist home.

Last Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ranum of Thief River Falls visited with Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. William Bulger and family visited with Mr. and Mrs. Omer Parent at Argyle and helped celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Parent. On the Fourth, the William Bulgers attended a family gathering at the Rolland Parent home at Argyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hellquist and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rafteseth attended the Bible camp at Warren last Sunday. Afterwards the Hellquists were coffee guests at the Rafteseth home.

Mrs. Dorothy Lappegard and Sandra of Duncan, Okla. visited Tuesday with the Albert Lappegards. They returned to their home Wednesday after visiting some time with friends and relatives in the area.

More 4-H Activities

The county fair was the main topic of the 4-H leaders council meeting held last Monday at the court house in Thief River Falls. New Solum 4-H junior leaders attending this meeting were Deanna Jarshaw, Susan Holmstrom, Keith and Karen Kron and Douglas Johnson and adult leader, Mrs. Bert Kron. Douglas also took part in the report given to the council by the delegates to the Junior leadership conference held last week in St. Paul.

Last Wednesday afternoon the 4-H projects were inspected on the leaders tour lead by the new Pennington County Agricultural agent Terry Courneya. Taking part in the tour also were Douglas Johnson, Garret Reierson, Harley Lambert, Karen Kron and Mrs. Bert Kron. Projects were shown at twelve homes, questions asked and suggestions made prior to exhibiting at the county fair.

Thursday the county style show was held in Thief River Falls for all the 4-H girls enrolled in clothing projects. Taking part in the modeling of garments they had made were Joy and Janelle Hodik, Deanna Jarshaw, Laura and Karen Kron, Janet Holmstrom and Susan Johnson. Receiving blue ribbons in the style show were Janet Holmstrom, Laura and Karen Kron and Joy Hodik. Janet was also named attendant to the queen of the junior division. All these girls are to be congratulated for their fine work in styling and modeling their clothes.

Mrs. Mike Johnson and daughters spent Friday and Saturday at Fosston where Mr. Johnson is employed on a road construction project.

Wednesday afternoon the Rosewood Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. John Thompson. A lesson on poisons in the home was presented by Mrs. Elmer Rooker. There will be no regular meeting in the busy month of July but a picnic will be planned later. Mrs. Thompson served a dessert luncheon.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Christ Sostad of Middle River were dinner, afternoon and evening guests at the Martin Swenson home.

Mrs. Henry Carlson of Thief River Falls and Olaf Lappegard of Minneapolis visited at the Albert Lappegard home last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Marquis have been enjoying a visit from their daughter and her husband, and Mrs. Richard Rood from Peoria, Ill. who have been spending their vacation here and visiting other relatives. They also were to Detroit Lakes for a few days during their stay.

Sunday night visitors at the Albert Hellquist home were Mrs. Hilda Sagmoen and Mrs. Marie Anderson of Thief River Falls.

The LeRoy Gustafsons of Viking were evening guests Tuesday at the Olaus Mattson home. Visiting with Mattsons on Saturday night were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Nelson, Renae and Mark and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Nelson.

On the 4th of July Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hellquist joined the Albin Langlie family for a picnic dinner at the Bob Evans home at Greenbush.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Thompson and Mrs. Thompson's father of Warren visited Sunday afternoon at the Mike Johnson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Bowyer of Mason, Ohio were house guests at the Bert Kron home from Saturday until Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. James Krohn, Ray and Ward of Minneapolis were also weekend guests there. On Sunday evening this group was joined by Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Meyer of Steiner for a picnic supper honoring Karen Kron on her 18th birthday.

Mrs. Frank Anderson, Mrs. Alvin Grandstrand and Mrs. Harold Kagg of Viking met at the John Thompson home Thursday evening to plan the booth to be put up by the garden clubs at the Pennington County fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Johnson and family were Sunday evening supper guests at the Kenneth Wendel home. Both families later went to the Ernie Droppo home to spend the evening visiting.

Brief callers at the Bert Kron home Sunday afternoon were Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Lamb and family of Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mattson of Silverton.

Mrs. Christine Johnson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Dan Payne of Grygla spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Mike Johnson and girls.

Monday evening Sharon, Susan and Janet Holmstrom, Joanie Holmstrom of St. Paul, Karen and Laura Kron attended the Marshall county style revue which was held this year in the Viking school gym.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Russell Nelson and Nancy Nelson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Bert Kron, Keith, Laura and Leonard were visitors at John Thompsons.

During the past week Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Berg of Waukegan, Ill. have been looking up familiar names and places in this area. The women were the former Clara and Alma Thoranson who grew up on the farm now owned by Emil Hellquists.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Hellquist and Paul of Minneapolis and Mrs. Randi Lee of Ross were guests at the Emil Hellquist home. Mrs. Lee and her daughter, Mrs. Rolland Hellquist showed slides they had taken in 1960 in Norway when they had spent ten months visiting relatives there.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Olson and family of Thief River Falls visited Sunday night at Emil Hellquists and with the Rolland Hellquists.

Numedal . . .

Rev. and Mrs. Peter Waller and Mrs. Winton Knutson visited Tuesday afternoon at their cousin's home, the Oscar Andersons at Thief River Falls. On Thursday afternoon they visited the Milton Kezars and Mrs. Lena Anderson homes at Middle River. In the evening Rev. and Mrs. Waller and Mrs. Knutson were supper guests at the Mark Olson home in Smiley.

Mrs. H. B. Rafteseth of Thief River Falls and Martin Mau visited Wednesday evening at the Ted Halbasch home. Friday William Halbasch, Jean and Wayne were callers there.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Helgeset of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Gilmer Bakken visited Saturday evening at the Ernest Helgeset home.

Mrs. Norval Johnson and Norma Jean visited at the Mrs. Clara Lietzow home Thursday evening.

To prevent loss of vitamin C in vegetables, avoid prolonged storage, advise extension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota. Greens will lose about half their vitamin C after five days' storage, fresh cabbage about a fourth of its vitamin C after two months of refrigerated storage. BLOWN almost on its side by high winds and possibly a full-blown tornado, Sunday morning was this 32x50 foot barn located on the Mrs. Theresa Koralewski farm northwest of St. Hilaire. The damaging wind struck the farm, which is occupied by the Stewart Sweet family, at about 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Angle of the barn may be compared with that of the nearby silo, which is perpendicular.

Minnkota's Huge Loan Means Expansion Here

Receipt of a $56 million loan from the Rural Electrification administration in Washington, D.C., will permit Minnkota Power cooperative in Grand Forks to make a substantial investment in improved service in this area of Minnesota. This is the substance of information received by the Times in a special telephone interview today with Lyle Lund, assistant manager of Minnkota.

The huge loan — third largest in the history of REA — will build a large generating plant in the lignite fields of North Dakota and associated facilities in North Dakota and Minnesota. Completion of the project is scheduled by 1970, with work in both states to be accomplished by that time.

A 115,000 volt transmission line will be built from Winger to Thief River Falls — a distance of 53 miles — at an estimated cost of $773,800. A substantial addition will be made to the existing Minnkota substation eight miles east of the city to step down power from 115,000 volts to 69,000 volts and distribute it in several directions to Minnkota member cooperatives.

Minnkota will contribute approximately $340,000 to a terminal at Winger in cooperation with Otter Tail Power company which plans about $1 million in expansion at Winger. The station there will step down power from the 230,000 volt line running from Fargo, N. D., to Winger to Grand Forks, N. D.

Among cooperatives to be served from the Thief River Falls substation will be PKM Electric cooperative at Warren, Red Lake Electric cooperative at Red Lake Falls, Roseau Electric cooperative at Roseau and North Star Electric cooperative at Baudette. One line will also bring power to the city of Thief River Falls.

Cost of the total expansion at the Thief River Falls substation is estimated at $240,000. Transformation capacity of the station is rated at 20,000 KVA—equivalent to about 27,000 horsepower. Power will be brought into the substation from Winger and distributed over a network of lines north to Baudette and nearly to International Falls, north and west to the Argyle area and south and west to the Huot area.

Substations to reduce power from 115,000 to 12,000 volts will be located near Oklee, Erskine and Highlanding at an estimated cost of $80,400 each. At Huot a substation to reduce power from 69,000 to 12,000 volts will cost about $48,700.

Lund told the Times that the line and transmission improvements will mean better and more reliable service to the area. Use of lignite for generating power is expected to reduce power generation costs with a resulting cost saving to customers. One political figure said the plant and system would mean a

Institute Notes 200th Applicant

Stephen Simones, Lakeville, has recently been accepted as the 200th applicant for admission to the new University of Minnesota technical institute at Crookston The institute, which will open for classes this fall quarter, is still accepting applications for admission to the various two-year programs in agriculture and business.

GIFT of a 7½ horsepower outboard motor was donated to the Minnesota Elks youth camp, located on Pelican Lake north of Brainerd, by Earl Britten of Kennedy, a long-time member of Elks Lodge No. 1308, Thief River Falls. Upon its arrival at the camp, the machine was given a workout on one of the camp's aluminum 14-footers. In the boat are Fred Chapman of St. Paul, camp director, and Jim Wills of Thief River Falls, who transported the local delegation, and the motor, to the camp Sunday. The photo was taken by Marc Warman of Grinnell, Ia., assistant waterfront director, who operated the Times camera after receiving brief instructions from Wills.

Langen Announces Filing for Fifth Two-Year Term

Congressman Odin Langen, eight-year veteran Republican Representative in Washington from Minnesota's Seventh district, filed Monday for his fifth consecutive two-year term. In mailing his filing statement to the Secretary of State in St. Paul, Langen said his decision to seek a fifth term was based on expressions of encouragement and endorsements of his record of service by people from all walks of life in the district.

"I am certainly grateful for the support I have received over the years," Langen said, "and my hope is that my past efforts may have met with sufficient approval so that they merit continued support."

Langen said that many of his constituents had noted his experience of eight years in the Minnesota Legislature plus eight years as a Member of Congress. "My campaign will be based on that experience and my record of service to the people," he said.

Congressman Langen is Minnesota's only Representative on the House appropriations committee and is a member of the subcommittee on agriculture.

The congressman said he didn't know just when he and Mrs. Langen would return to Minnesota to actively campaign. "My first duty is to represent the 7th District in Washington until Congress adjourns," he said, "but when that has been accomplished we will attempt to visit every community in the entire 23-county area.

North Central Sets Record in June Boardings

North Central Airlines achieved the greatest traffic month in its 18-year history when 187,010 passengers boarded Northliner flights in June, according to Frank N. and sales.

June's boardings surpassed the previous record of 166,697, set in August of 1965. August is normally the heaviest month for air travel. Passenger boardings for this June were 26 per cent ahead of 1965. North Central also broke its own time in June, when 7,375 passengers were carried on June 24.

Passenger miles flown jumped to 31,526,052, an increase of 25 per cent over June of last year. While carrying record traffic, North Central completed 99.8 per cent of its scheduled 1,504,601 miles.

Frieght ton miles flown increased 222 per cent over June 1965 to 216,507 miles, and mail too rose 20 per cent.

During the first six months of 1966, the airline has carried 924,761 passengers, 26 per cent over the first half of 1965. Total cargo ton miles flown have risen 20 per cent, with gains of 24 per cent in freight and 23 per cent in mail.

Since inaugurating service in 1948 North Cenrtal has carried 12,603,000 passenger miles without a single fatality or injury to passengers or crew members.

North Central serves 90 cities in 10 Midwest states and Canada over a 7,00-miles route system.

Employer's Tax Return Is Due

This is the due date for reporting and paying withheld income taxes and social security taxes for the calendar quarter ending June 30, 1966, according to Lethert.

Employers should use Form 941 to report their tax liability, and they were urged to use the preaddressed form furnished by the Internal Revenue service.

Lethert pointed out that employers who have made full and timely deposits to pay the entire tax liability for the quarterly period have until August 10 to file their returns

Many Head of Livestock Shipped

A total of 250 livestock shipping associations marketed livestock through Central in South St. Paul during the months of April and May. Shipping associations in the local area who marketed during this period are as follows:

Thief River Falls Livestock Co-op. Shipping association, 445 head; Grygla Co-op. Shipping association, 124 head; Middle River Shipping association, 213 head; Newfolden Co-op. Shipping association, 60 head and Oklee Livestock Shipping association, 46 head, also 61 head marketed through West Fargo.

Only One Contest Slated in County Primary Election

Although a contest is assured for only one office, a primary election will be necessary in Pennington county this fall, according to C. W. Rodekuhr, Pennington county auditor. Filings closed at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Within the county, only the office to be vacated by William Froiland as register of deeds will be sought by more than one candidate. Filing for the post were Harlow C. Johnson, Gordon P. Reierson and Mel Burrell, all of Thief River Falls.

Incumbents filing and unopposed for reelection are C. W. Rodekuhr, auditor; Donald L. Olson, second district commissioner; Merle Lindberg, fourth district commissioner; A. E. Jorgenson, treasurer; A. O. Stokke, surveyor; and Charles Richards, sheriff.

L. W. Rullen, former county attorney, has filed for that office and will be unopposed since C. L. Charlson, present county attorney, has announced he would not seek reelection. No filings were received for the office of coroner now held by Dr. E. O. Thorsgard.

In the 67th legislative district, of which Pennington county is a part, the only candidates for the office of state senator will be incumbent Sen. Donald Sinclair of Stephen and Judge Herman A. Kjos of Thief River Falls. Rep. Andrew Skaar of Thief River Falls and Rep. Everett Battles of Warroad will be contesting for the state House of Representatives from District 67-B.

Crookston Youth Receives Hearing On Arson Charge

A rural Crookston youth received preliminary hearing before Judge J. A. Harren in the municipal division of Red Lake county probate court Monday on a charge of simple arson and was bound over to district court.

Duane Allen Steinbrink, 18, was charged with simple arson by the Red Lake county sheriff's department in connection with the burning of the "Little Red School House' at Huot on June 18. No bond was set by the judge and the youth was released to the custody of his parents.

Gates Open Thursday For 65th Annual Fair

Mid-June City Employment Stays Even with March

Employment in Thief River Falls as of mid-June held practically even with mid-March, according to the Minnesota state employment service.

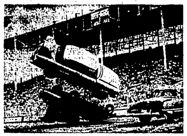
Total employment count as of mid-June was 2,825, a gain of three compared with mid-March. Government employment dropped as a result of school vacation for the summer months. This drop was offset to a considerable extent by a gain in construction employment and a modest gain in local trade. All other employment categories had only minor changes.

Construction employment increased due to local street and building projects. Outside construction was slow in getting started because of unfavorable weather, but has made good progress during the last half of May and the first half of June.

Employment in Thief River Falls is expected to increase substantially during the next quarter. Turkey processing has already started and is expected to run until November. Employment in government will be up with the beginning of a new school term in early September.

The supply of workers as of mid-June is very limited. A tight labor market is expected to continue until next fall. During the past three weeks, practically the only available labor supply has been youth—high school vocational and college students, who are out of school during the summer vacation period.

The demand for workers has been slow up until mid-May. Since then the demand has been quite strong, particularly for hay baling on nearby farms and miscellaneous short-term labor. The demand for restaurant and clerical help is steady, but not heavy.



DIVE-BOMBER crash is one of the most crowd-pleasing —if somewhat spine-tingling — phases of the Trans-World Auto Daredevils thrill show to be presented in Thief River Falls Thursday. The Joey Chitwood show will take place in front of the grandstand at the Pennington county fair beginning at 8 p.m. Protected only by an auto seat belt and helmet, the driver races his car up a high ramp at mile-a-minute speed and then flies into space, crashing head-on into two cars parked in his path.

Womack Elected To Head Hospital Board Tuesday

J. J. Womack, president of Union State bank in Thief River Falls, was elected chairman of the Northwestern hospital board of directors at a reorganization of the board Tuesday evening. He succeeds Hugh Carlson as head of the organization.

Gene Beito was reelected vice president, Clyde Christensen was named treasurer and Wallace Tunberg was elected secretary. Womack had previously served as secretary with Tunberg as treasurer.

Dr. Leo Herber was elected by the medical staff of the hospital as chief of staff to succeed Dr. R. G. Anderson. Dr. E. O. Thorsgard was elected vice chief to succeed Dr. Herber and Dr. H. P. Wendt was elected secretary-treasurer.

Dondelinger Is Elected To Head Auto Dealers

Robert Dondelinger of Northern Motors in Thief River Falls was elected president of the Thief River Falls Automobile Dealers association at a meeting held recently in the Rex cafe in this city.

Les DeBriyn of Wiener Motors was elected vice president, secretary and treasurer of the association. Plans were made for the association's participation in the Crazy Day promotion July 28.

Entries for the 65th annual Pennington county fair will begin filling exhibit space Thursday morning as the four-day exposition gets underway, according to Morris Goddard, secretary of the Pennington County Fair association, Inc. More than $4,000 in premium money will be awarded to exhibitors in 4-H club and open class competition.

Trucks from the Jack Thompson carnival began arriving Tuesday and the midway will be in operation all four days of the fair. Kiddies Day will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday with reduced prices for rides from noon to 6 p.m. each of these three days.

Again this year the fair is being operated with a free gate, permitting the public to enter the grounds and view the exhibits without paying an admission fee. A charge of 25 cents per day will be made for auto parking on the grounds. Grandstand admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children 12 years of age and under at all performances.

Grandstand attractions will open Thursday at 8 p.m. when Joie Chitwood's Trans-World Auto Daredevils present 20 thrilling acts of precision driving, crashes and rolls. Some of the world's top stunt men will participate in the program, using stock model cars with only seat belts and helmets as protective devices.

At 7:35 p.m. Friday the annual 4-H club parade of champions will take place before the grandstand, showing the top livestock entries in the 4-H club division. Following the revue, at about 8 p.m., classes A, B, and C of the tractor-pulling contest will be held. Area drivers will be matching the pulling power of their tractors against that of their neighbors' machines for cash prizes of $50 for first place, $30 for second and $15 for third in each wieght class. Marvin Lundin, Times editor, will be master of ceremonies for the program.

Saturday at 2 p.m. the three heavier weight classes will compete in the tractor-pulling event. Class "D" drivers will compete for $50, $30 and $15 prize money with Class "E" and "F" drivers competing for $75 $50 and $20 in prizes. A special feature will be the "Powderpuff Pull" for garden tractors dirven by women with prizes of $25, $15 and $10 offered. Total purse of $720 for the event is the largest in the area. Harveydale Mariska of Warren will serve as master of ceremonies for the event.

Local and area talent will be on parade Saturday at 8 p.m. in front of the grandstand as 20 acts will compete in the Venita Rich talent review. Grand prize will be a trip to New York City for a national television show audition. Winners last year were Curtis and Sandy Gruhl.

Sunday afternoon will feature exciting entertainment—as well as a few good laughs—as the Thief River Falls Saddle club presents a horse show at 1:30 p.m. Many riders from throughout the area are expected to participate in the varied races and other events on the program. The Legion Municipal

12th Annual Aquacade Will Open on Sunday

CANDIDATES for Miss Thief River Falls title at the Jaycees Aquacade July 30 in Thief River Falls met Sunday for a get-acquainted session and to receive tips from Marlys Mossestad, Miss Thief River Falls, and Connie Ekeren, former Miss Thief River Falls. Seated left to right are Judy Spray, TRF; Miss Mossestad; and Mary Jo Walker, Oklee. Standing are Diane Hanson, Erskine; Ann Winters, TRF; Susan Griffin, Middle River; and Tippi Benson, TRF. Unable to attend the session were LuAine Knutson, Strathcona; Shirley Rowland, Fosston; and Mary Dahlquist, Roseau.

Beginning Sunday, the 12th annual Thief River Falls Jaycees Aquacade will get underway with a full week of activity planned. "From the Aquacade Open golf tournament this Sunday to the free fireworks display July 31, the Jaycees have planned one of the most entertainment - packed weeks in recent years," stated Rick Contos, general chairman of the Aquacade event.

Throughout the week the Jaycees will conduct a treasure hunt, with a small wooden capsule hidden and containing a certificate redeemable for 2,000 gallons of fuel oil made available by the Thief River Falls Oilmen's association. Clues will be posted at Aquacade events, broadcast at noon and 6:30 p.m. on radio station KTRF, carried in the Times and posted in the display window of Northern State bank. Additional clues will be given each day.

Jaycees and their families and members of the oil dealers' association, their employees and families are not eligible to win. Any other persons 18 years of age or older in the area are eligible to compete. Arrangement for delivery of the prize to any area community will be made through the oilmen's association.

One of the highlights of the week will be the Miss America preliminary pageant on Saturday, July 30, at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school gymnasium. Nine young ladies from the area will compete for the title of Miss Thief River Falls and the right to enter the Miss Minnesota pageant next spring. Clyde Payne of KTHI-TV will emcee the pageant and a special guest will be Kathy Swanson of Detroit Lakes, first runner-up to Miss Minnesota of 1966.

"We anticipate a terrific pageant this year,' stated Marvin Lundin and Kenneth Swenson, co-chairmen of the queen committee. "Talent presentations should be especially good and the judges are certain to have a difficult time in deciding a winner. Whoever wins can be truly proud of her title.'

Candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title include the following: Tippi Benson, Thief River Falls; Mary Dahlquist, Roseau; Susan Griffin, Middle River; Diane Hanson, Erskine; LuAine Knutson, Strathcona; Shirley Rowland, Fosston; Judy Spray, Thief River Falls; Mary Jo Walker, Oklee; and Ann Winters, Thief River Falls. Currently reigning as Miss Thief River Falls is Marlys Mossestad.

Aquacade events open with the Aquacade Open golf tournament beginning at 9 a.m. Sunday at the Thief River Golf club. At 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, July 26 and 27, the Thief River Falls Community Theatre will present "Romanoff and Juliet" in the city auditorium.

Retailers will stage their annual "Crazy Day' promotion Thursday with the popular sidewalk sale again incorporated into the carnival atmosphere. At 9 p.m. local teams will compete in a street water fight on Second street between Main and Knight avenues.

On Friday a teenage dance will be held from 8 to 11:30 p.m. at the National Guard armory with music by "The Coming Times". First dance of the International Square Dance Camp-O-Ree will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the city auditorium with Jo Johannson of Transcona,

Personal Injury Mishap Reported

A two-car collision resulting in an estimated $550 damage and a personal injury occurred early Tuesday evening, Thief River Falls police reported today.

At 7:13 p.m. a car driven by Dennis Haugen, rt. 4, was traveling east on Gulf street and collided with one driven by Mrs. Agnes Szepanski, city, which was going north on Crocker avenue. Mary Brooten, a passenger in the Szepanski car, was taken to Northwestern hospital and treated for minor injuries.

Damage was estimated at $500 to the Haugen car and $50 to the Szepanski vehicle. The accident is under investigation.

Police Chief Elton Cummings stated that temporary stop signs will be erected on Arnold, Brooks and Kinney avenues at their intersections with Fourth street for the duration of the county fair to enhance traffic safety. Traffic on Fourth will be controlled with the aid of radar, Cummings said.

Rude-Schachner Vows Spoken At St. Bernard's

Miss Charlene Rae Rude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rude of rural Thief River Falls and A1c Stephen B. Schachner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Schachner Sr., of Charlotte, N. C., exchanged marriage vows recently at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city Rev. Keough Patnodé officiated at the double ring ceremony with 135 guests in attendance.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white nylon crystalette featuring a lace covered bodice, long sleeves and an A-line skirt Lace medallions enhanced the front of the skirt and formed a border across the edge of the watteau train. A coronet of seed pearls and crystals held her veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade arrangement of roses and ivy.

Mrs. Culver Kisch of Hibbing, sister of the bride, was bridesmatron. Other attendants were LaDawn Rude of Thief River Falls, sister of the bride; Mrs. Paul Snider of Grand Forks, N. D., and Carol Rude of Denver, Colo. They wore street-length gowns of royal pieces, royal blue shoes and elbow length gloves. Each carried a single red rose with a red ribbon bow.

Miss Marica Johnson of Thief River Falls was flower girl. Her dress, similar to the bridal gown, was made by her mother, Mrs. Jim Johnson. Clair Mathson of Thief River Falls served as ring bearer.

Best man was Paul Snider of Grand Forks, N. D., friend of the groom Brothers of the bride, Harland and Arlo Rude, both of Thief River Falls and Larry Rude of Hibbing were groomsmen Serving as ushers were Kenny Corriveau of of Thief River Falls and Culver Kisch of Hibbing. The groom wore the United States air force blue dress uniform. The other men of the wedding party were attired in dark business suits.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rude wore a Kelly green dress with white hat and black accessories. The mother of the groom was attired in a beige and green three-piece knit suit with corresponding accessories. Their corsages were yellow roses.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. Mrs. Melvin Torkelson was hostess and Mrs. Jesse Skaaren was in charge of the kitchen.

The three-tiered wedding cake, surrounded by flowers, was decorated with yellow roses and topped by two wedding doves holding wedding bands. Mrs. Henry Lappegaard and Mrs. Leonard Olson cut and served the cake while Mrs. Roy Rude and Mrs Chester Rude poured Charlotte and Candy Rude served the punch, Mrs Kenny Corriveau registered the guests and the waitresses were Ivette Torkelson, Pam Torkelson and Mrs. Harlon Rude. Those in charge of opening and arranging the gifts were Betty Grandbois, Mrs. Roger Lappegaard, Susan Rude and Sandra Skaaren.

Guests attending were from Stanton, Va.; Charlotte, N. C.; Grand Forks, N. D.; Badger, Crookston, Minneapolis, Hibbing and surrounding areas.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed at the City Hall in Grand Forks, N. D. The groom, a graduate of the Catholic high school at Charlotte, N. D., is with the United States Air Force stationed at the Grand Forks air force base. They are at home at 623 North Fourth Street, Grand Forks, N D.

Barbara Nelson Marries Roger D. Baker At Ross

At a candlelite ceremony at Roseland Lutheran church at Ross, Miss Barbara Ann Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Nelson of Badger, and Roger D. Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Baker of Thief River Falls, exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, June 4, at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Vernon Rice officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with white carnations. Approximately 150 relatives and friends were in attendance.

Mrs. Melvin Sovde Jr., organist, played a nuptial program of appropriate selections and Lyle Hanson sang "O Perfect Love' and "The Lord's Prayer'.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length gown of white peau de sole and Alencon lace. In empire sheath fashion, the gown was styled with a scalloped neckline, enhanced with drop pearls, long Mary Stuart sleeves and a detachable chapel length train. Her illusion veil fell in soft folds from an open crown of iridescent sequins and seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses with white carnations and trailing ivy. Her pearl earrings were gifts from the groom.

Jeanette Nelson of St. Paul attended her sister as maid of honor. Other attendants were friends of the bride, Judy Simonson of McIntosh and Mrs. Alan Herling of Two Harbor. They wore lime green brocade gowns in empire fashion with matching trains and headpieces. To accent their attire, they wore long white gloves and white shoes and each carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Harvey Baker of Lake Bronson. Other attendants were Ron Gilsrud of Mankato and Dave Haugen of Bristol, S. D., both friends of the groom. Ushers were Melford Nelson of Badger and Arlen Anderson of Minneapolis, cousins of the bride and groom, respectively. The men wore dark trousers and white dinner jackets with red carnation boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a red rose.

For the reception following the ceremony, the church parlors were decorated with wedding bells and lime green and white streamers. Mr. and Mrs. Nels Braaten served as host and hostess.

Centering the serving table was a square three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Ancel Lindquist and Mrs. Clarence Johnson. The groom's cake was passed by Karen and David Johnson while Tillie Baker and Mrs. Carrie Johnson poured.

Waitresses were Audrey Rinde and Mrs. George Wellen and those in charge of arranging the gifts were Janet Meier, Jane Smith and Mrs. Richard Lorenson. Arla Rude registered the guests and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Haugen served the punch. Those in charge of the kitchen were Mrs. Jonas Vatnsdal, Mrs. Justin Gorden, Mrs. Iver Lunde, Mrs. Oscar Lunde, Mrs. Donald Rinde and Mrs. Chester Rude.

The bride is a graduate of Badger high school and the business department of the Thief River Falls area vocational - technical school. She is employed at the Roseau County Extension office.

The groom is a graduate of the Karlstad high school and Concordia college. He is employed by the Roseau Public schools as a business teacher.

For the wedding trip along the North Shore drive and into Canada the bride wore a blue woolen suit with white accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Baker will make their home at Roseau.

Langen Offers Bill To Restore Veterans Benefit

"Congress must act now to restore the reduction in veterans pension caused by last year's increase in social security benefits' said Congressman Odin Langen today as he presented a statement to the House veterans affairs committee in support of his veterans pension equity bill.

"The added social security benefit was just enough to place certain veterans, widows and dependents in the position of receiving less pension than before, or none at all,' stated Langen. It is estimated that 29,000 veterans now find themselves in this unfortunate situation.

Congressman Langen noted that here is an instance when the direct and substantive increase in one government benefit brought about a reduction of greater magnitude in another governmental income supplement.

65th County Fair Opens Thursday For 4-Day Run

band will play a concert at 6:30 p.m. on the grounds.

Teen night will be observed Sunday evening with entertainment and music by Bobby Gaye of Jamestown, N. D., "The Shillings" orchestra and go-go girls. Teenagers attending will participate in the program with dancing on the track, sing-alongs and other audience participation features. This will be the first attempt at a program of special interest to teenagers at the Pennington county fair, secretary Goddard said.

He emphasized that livestock, crops, garden, home economics, crafts and 4-H club exhibits are open to the public without charge, and encourages everyone in the area to plan on attending the fair at least one day. "It's a good place to meet your neighbors, view the pride of your county on display and have a lot of fun and entertainment," he said.

Minnkota Loan Means Expansion At Substation

saving of $20 million to electricity users in the Minnkota area in the first 10 years of operation. (This would average $40 per year per member - consumer, among the 50,000 consumers served by Minnkota.)

The largest portion of the loan, $36 million, will be invested in the 212,000 kilowatt power plant to be constructed in Oliver county of North Dakota. Included would be a man-made lake to provide cooling for the huge lignite-fueled generating plant. Another $13.5 million will be used to build 400 miles of 230,000 volt lines and terminal equipment. An additional $6.5 million soon will be spent on internal equipment needs to meet Minnkota's expanding power loads.

The plant will use about a million tons of lignite per year. The leased coal field contains in excess of 175 million tons of economically-recoverable lignite. Cost to the cooperative is expected to be about $1.10 per ton delivered to the plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Gustafson of Dayton, Ohio, left this morning (Wednesday) for their home via, Hibbing and Oshkosh, Wis., where they will visit friends. Here they visited their parental homes, the C. Dave Gustafsons and the Carl Hovies and attended the 50th wedding anniversary of the Gustafsons.

Europe Travelers Advised to Watch Gasoline Taxes

If you are one of the 500,000 Americans who will be using an automobile for part of your trip through Europe this year, be cautious about where you fill your gas tank. Such caution, the Minnesota AAA points out, can save you some money.

The motoring organization notes that if you are in Switzerland, for example and intend to cross into France, you can save 26.6 cents a gallon by filling your tank in Switzerland.

The wholesale price of gasoline in Europe is generally the same - it's the tax that makes the difference.

In France the tax is 54.9 cents a gallon, which brings the price to 72.1 cents. The import duty on gasoline in France, conversely, is extremely low - 0.5 cents a gallon.

In Switzerland, the import duty is 26.2 cents a gallon, but the tax is a mere 3.6 per cent. (All prices quoted are in U.S. cents per U.S. gallon.) The contrast between France and Switzerland is one of the most striking.

Other gasoline prices in Europe, with the amount that goes for taxes in parentheses, are: Austria, 46.8 cents (28.6 cents); Belgium, 56.7 cents (33.7 cents); Denmark, 58.6 cents (38.9 cents); Finland, 66.1 cents (42.6 cents); West Germany, 54.4 cents (30.3 cents); Italy, 66.5 cents (46.9 cents); Luxembourg, 52.0 cents (30.1 cents); Norway, 56.0 cents (35.7 cents).

England imposes no retail taxes on gasoline - but an import duty of 37.8 cents a gallon brings the price to 56.8 cents. One consolation for Americans driving in Europe this year is that many of them will be driving small foreign cars which use less gasoline per mile than larger American-made autos.

William Klopp Rites Held Today At Kingdom Hall

Funeral services for William John Klopp, 69, a former long-time resident of the Viking community who died Sunday morning, were held today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. at the Kingdom Hall in this city. R. H. COMPETING in the Miss Thief River Falls pageant Saturday, July 30, at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school gymnasium will be Ann Winters, 19, daughter of L. P. Winters of Thief River Falls. A 1964 graduate of Lincoln high school, her hobbies include music and all sports. Her talent number in the pageant will be a dramatic reading.

Ann Winters Is Queen Candidate

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

This is the fifth in a series of personal interview articles on candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the annual Jaycees Aquacade pageant Saturday, July 30. Stories on the remining four candidates will be published in the Times on Monday and Wednesday of next week.)

A simplified view of patriotism and Americanism will be presented by Ann Winters of Thief River Falls when she presents her talent number at the Jaycees Aquacade pageant Saturday, July 30. Her talent number, a dramatic reading, is perhaps an outgrowth of training received a few years ago when she was a member of the American Legion junior auxiliary.

Nineteen-year-old Ann is the daughter of L. P. Winters of 1404 Birchlane Drive in Thief River Falls and a 1964 graduate of Lincoln high school. She is five feet, eight inches tall, weighs 136 pounds, has brown hair, greens eyes and a 38-25-37 figure. Appropriately enough, Miss Winters will be sponsored by Arctic Enterprises, Inc.

During the past year, Ann attended the new junior college in Thief River Falls for two quarters where she was a member of the junior college choir. While in high school she participated in the Girls Athletic association, class play, band and was a candidate for homecoming queen. Her hobbies include music and all sports.

Two years ago she displayed her interest in helping people by serving as an aide with the day camp for handicapped children held in Thief River Falls under the sponsorship of the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Last summer she served as a counselor for the society at Camp Courage near Annandale.

At present, Miss Winters is employed at Northwestern Bell Telephone company in this city as a switchboard operator. She plans to continue working at the phone company for about a year and then either return to school or enter airline stewardess training.

Ann has two brothers, 20 year-old Bill who is serving in the Air Force, and 16-year-old Joe who is at home.

State Plowing Contest Slated At Le Center

Farmers will try their tractor driving skill in the state plowing contest July 30 at the Francis Seily farm two miles west of Le Center. All farmers, farm women, farm youth and farm employees, 16 years old and older are eligible to compete.

Tractors will be classed according to their pulling capacity—large tractors, four bottoms or more, and small tractors, three bottoms and under.

A program which includes political and farm speakers, prize drawings and a bean feed is set to begin at 11 a.m.

Entry forms and official rules can be obtained from Harry Christian, LeCenter, or Richard Derner, St. Peter.

Schedule for the state plowing contest includes the following:

11 a.m., instructional meeting for all plowing contestants; 12:30 p.m., small tractor plowing match; 2 p.m., program featuring farm and political speakers; 3:30 p.m., large tractor plowing match; 6:30 p.m., bean feed at Le Center fairgrounds; and 8 p.m., awards program at fairgrounds and political speakers.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—In 1918 I suffered TB and was sent to a Naval hospital from which I was discharged a year later with a 100 per cent temporary total service-connected disability. In 1942 I was told that my condition was inactive. I would like to know why there is a difference in service-connected disabilities?

A—The difference in service-connected disabilities is the serverity of each disability. Each case is decided on the degree the veteran is disabled. Just about any ailment or disability can be service-connected if the veteran can prove that the illness or disability occurred during military service.

Public Opinion

Mr. Lundin, Editor
Thief River Falls Times
Thief River Falls, Minnesota

Dear Mr. Lundin:

In a recent edition of the TIMES there was a news item relative to a Supreme Court decision upholding a school board election in Marshall County. This election was that of Grygla Independent School District No. 447. This is the fifth court case involving the Grygla-Gatzke-Skime consolidation, and the fifth failure of Goodridge, Middle River and some Gatzke petitioners to prevent the consolidation. Apparently the concensus and opinions of the County Survey committees; the State Advisory Committee; the State Department of Education; the District Court Judges Chommie, Forbes, Murphy and Swenson; the Minnesota Supreme Court; and the people of the Grygla, Gatzke and Skime districts makes little or no difference. Although 80 per cent of the voters of the Grygla, Gatzke and Skime area favor consolidation, and the highest courts in the State of Minnesota have made five separate decisions favoring our position, Middle River and Goodridge continue to fight us. By so doing they are working against the principles and freedoms on which this nation was founded.

Because of their meddling, the taxpayers of the Grygla district have spent about $7,500 for attorney fees during the last two years. This could have been much better used to educate children. How much have Goodridge, Middle River and the Gatzke petitioners each spent futiley for attorney fees? It has never been printed in any newspaper, so most of their taxpayers do not know. Has it been because they do not want them to know, has it been because they have been footing the bill for the petitioners, or has it been some other reason? We would be surprised if they publicized it as it may be a shock to most of their taxpayers. For two school districts that have a large bonded indebtedness, a high mill rate and are faced with the future replacement of portions of their existing buildings, wouldn't it be wiser to offer a better education to their children, and pay off debts?

Do the Goodridge and Middle River board members care as long as their children do not have to travel to another high school by bus over 50 miles one way? Do they care as long as their children do not get on a bus at 7 a.m. and off after school at 5:45 p.m.? Do they care as long as their children do not live so far that they cannot participate in evening school extra-curricular activities? Do they care as long as they can delay us in the courts? As long as it is questionable if they care about so many things, we hope they do not get so involved dictating to us that they forget to care about their children and taxpayers.

Despite losing numerous court appeals, and the dark outlook for winning future cases, they continue to retain their attorney, Mr. Popovitch. For all school districts involved, wouldn't it be better to spend more money on education rather than attorney fees?

Sincerely,
Board of Education

"Resolute" Again Taking Passengers On Kenora Trip

Most Saturday mornings from now until the first week in September, the U. S. mail boat, M. V. (motor vessel) "Resolute" leaves Warroad harbor, with a group of vacationers aboard for the town of Kenora, Ontario, 100 miles away.

The "Resolute" which has been captained by Fay Young for many years, and is now under the command of former Mate David Kleven, leaves Warroad at 8 a. m. traveling for about three hours in the open part of the lake and arriving at Oak Island just before noon. The second part of the voyage is winding through hundreds of the 14,000 islands of Lake of the Woods.

Kenora is the tourist attraction of western Ontario; a town of 10,000 with old world atmosphere mingled with modern accomodations, restaurants and shops. Beautiful flower gardens, many of which are formal, are among the sights to be seen.

The "Resolute" leaves for Warroad the following morning, stopping at noon at Oak Island, and arrives back in port around 4:30 p. m.

"Thousands of people from every state in the union have made this trip and acclaimed it as one of the most beautiful on the North American continent," Kleven said.

Those wishing further information should write or call David Kleven at 386-1210 at Warroad. Fare for the trip is $10 for adults and $5 for children.

One More Federal Office To Open; Bemidji Is Site

Establishment of a Minnesota field office of the Economic Development administration in Room 409 of the federal building at Bemidji has been announced by Walter R. Thoresen, director of the North Central area office of this U. S. Department of Commerce agency at Duluth.

Eligible counties that will be served by the Bemidji field office of the EDA are: Beltrami, Becker, Cass, Clearwater, Douglas, Hubbard, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Wadena, plus Leech Lake, Red Lake and White Earth Indian Reservations (Title IV areas eligible for the entire program); and Crow Wing, Mille Lacs, Polk, and Roseau (Title I counties eligible for Public Works grants and loans only).

Stanley J. Pechaver, EDA field coordinator who formerly serviced the entire state from the Duluth office, has been named in charge of the new Bemidji office, which will serve 19 northwestern and central Minnesota counties that are eligible for benefits under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965. From the Duluth office Kaarlo J. Otava will continue to serve eligible counties in the eighth congressional district in addition to other areas assigned to him.

Pechaver, formerly of Ely, will assist counties, municipalities, legal entities, development organizations, corporations and individuals in eligible areas in economic planning; and programming and preparation of project applications under the provisions of the act.

The program is designed to offer and expand economic opportunities in eligible areas that will provide new, permanent jobs and help those family and farm incomes which are currently low to equal or rise above the present national average of $3,000 per year.

The Public Works and Economic Development Act provides grants and loans to public entities to help finance public works projects that will directly assist in accomplishing economic goals. Loans to local development corporations, private firms and individuals to help develop new industries or expand existing industries and technical assistance grants and loans to finance feasibility studies directed toward economic development and growth are also available under the act.

The law provides that eligible counties must develop an Overall Economic Development Plan which must be submitted to and approved by EDA before the area can be qualified for the grant, loan and technical assistance programs.

JAYCEES of Thief River Falls, with a crash effort, are nearing completion of their new building at the fairgrounds. The building will house the dunking stand, an annual county fair attraction, and will be used during the year as a storage shelter for Jaycee equipment. Falls Concrete excavated and poured the concrete floor, construction materials were purchased from Home Lumber and labor was furnished by Jaycee "handymen."

ROCK and roll band composed of Don Adamson, Dave Sisler and Bob Dicken was one of 20 contestants in a Venita Rich talent audition selected to compete Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Pennington county fair. Winning act at the fair will be given free transportation to New York City to audition for appearance on the Ted Mack television show.

City Court Tries 12 Cases Monday

Twelve cases were brought for trial before Judge Stanley N. Mortenson in Monday's regular session of Thief River Falls municipal court.

Richard D. Anderson of rt. 1, Alvarado, was charged by the highway patrol with speed and forfeited $25 bond. Charged by the sheriff's office were Gordon Martin, Crookston failure to yield right-of-way, accident involved, $25 fine; and Darwin Moen East Grand Forks, careless driving, $50 bond forfeited.

City police cases included Duane Hinrichs, rt. 3, Red Lake Falls, careless driving, $30 bond forfeited; Gerald Lubarski, Alvarado, speed, $16 bond forfeited; Allen Donarski, rt. 2, Strandquist, speed, $21 fine; and Darrell Wood, city, improper left turn, personal injury accident involved, $25 fine;

Also Rueben Carl Hanson, rt. 3, city, leaving scene of accident, $50 fine with $25 suspended; Richard Kroening, rt. 1, Fosston, improper left turn, personal injury accident involved, $25 fine; Lynn Hiebert, city, careless driving, $25 fine; Wayne Gothe, Fargo, N. D., speed, $19 fine; and Anthony Noel, city, speed, $25 bond forfeited.

GRYGLA . . .

There will be services in both congregations of the Grygla parish during the absence of Pastor Sigurgeirson — at Our Savior's at 2:30 p.m. and Grace Lutheran, 8 p. m. Pastor Peterson from Trinity in Thief River Falls will conduct these services.

Despite the large number of passenger cars sold in recent years, the average age of the cars in operation is about six years, showing very little change over the past 10 years, according to the Minnesota AAA High point of decrepitude was reached in 1946 when the average passenger car, after stoppage of production during the war, was nine years.

$370,990 Spent by State TB Association

Preventing and lessening the impact of the many respiratory diseases which affect every one of us at some time or other has been the business of the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association this past year, according to its 1965-66 annual report.

To reduce the incidence of one of these respiratory diseases — tuberculosis — the association, assisted by physicians, nurses and Christmas Seal volunteers gave almost 350,000 tuberculin tests to check for tuberculosis.

To help detect possible lung damage caused by tuberculosis or other respiratory diseases—emphysema, bronchitis, histoplasmosis, tumors — the association gave 81,121 chest X-rays through its mobile X-ray unit. Added to this number were 76,912 X-rays given by the association's affiliate organizations in Hennepin and Ramsey counties.

The report also states the association conducted workshops in respiratory diseases and other health problems for school teachers and administrators; sponsored a seminar for physicians in chest diseases; conducted radio and press projects for students and sponsored anti-smoking education clinics for both teachers and students. It also contributed toward the support of a teaching position in pulmonary diseases at the University of Minnesota medical school.

The state organization, according to the report, distributed half a million pieces of health education materials, had 2,200 news stories published in Minnesota newspapers, 198 film showings in schools and supplied health information for broadcasting by 85 radio and TV stations.

Expenditures this past year included $92,415.13 for public health education; $8,210.59 for professional education and training; $125,146.13 for community services; $10,670.42 for research; $21,744.16 for public information; $170.42 for field studies and reorganization; $43,529.40 for administration and general expenses; and $89,104.72 for the Christmas Seal campaign—making a total of $370,990.97.

To support the 81-county health program of the association, people contributed $354,929.99, during the 1965-66 campaign for funds—an increase of $1,341.04 over last year. This coupled with other income gave the association $397,982.60 for its health program.

Cost of raising the dollar was $.1830, lowest in the association's history. Last year's cost was $.1915 per dollar.

Breaking down receipts by regions the report lists $41,668 for the Northwest; $44,061, Central; $70,323, Metropolitan (outside of Hennepin and Ramsey counties); $37,822, Southwest; $77,551, Southeast; and $47,134, South Central.

Separate fund campaigns to finance their health programs were conducted by the state organization's three affiliates in Hennepin and Ramsey counties and in the Northeast (St. Louis, Cook, Carlton and Lake counties).

For copies of the report, write to Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health Association, 614 Portland Ave., St. Paul, Minnesota 55102.

Farm Safety Week Is Opened Today

Farm Safety Week activities in Minnesota begin at noon today with a special "kick-off" luncheon at the university's St. Paul campus student center.

National Farm Safety Week this year is July 24-30 and the theme is "Safety Is Victory over Accidents."

Purpose of the luncheon, held each year for the past 11 years, is to bring together persons and representatives of organizations interested in promoting safety and in preventing farm and home accidents, according to Earl Bergerud, assistant 4-H leader and program chairman.

Maynard Speece, WCCO farm service director, will be the master of ceremonies for the luncheon program. There will be displays of proper mountings for SMV emblems, reports from 4-H, FFA and farm organizations and industry on their safety activities and plans for the week.

Farm Safety Week is sponsored in Minnesota by the Agricultural extension service and the agricultural division of the Minnesota Safety council. Hosting the Wednesday noon luncheon is the Minnesota Retail Farm Equipment association.

Wildlife Habitat Will Be Helped By New Program

Minnesota Conservation department announced today that it will cooperate with the Future Farmers of America in a new program to develop and maintain wildlife habitat on private lands.

Wayne Olson, Minnesota conservation commissioner, said the department's game and fish personnel will assist local FFA chapters in setting up wildlife habitat improvement projects.

Olson said the preservation and development of marshes and other wildlife habitat such as safe nesting cover and winter cover for pheasants must be accelerated if wildlife populations are to be maintained or increased.

He said the preservation and restoration of marshes, nesting cover and protective winter cover is of particular importance. Such areas are vital, he said, for wildlife production and to provide opportunities for hunting and trapping.

He pointed out that about 75 per cent of the land in Minnesota is in private ownership and that programs to encourage wildlife production from these lands are essential if game and fish populations are to be maintained.

The new statewide program will be initiated at the state FFA leadership training session in Virginia Thursday.

July is National Hot Dog Month. The popularity of the hot dog is evident from the fact that 18 million youngsters participating in the national school lunch program ate 380,500,000 hot dogs last year.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all who sent cards, gave flowers, memorials and food during the recent death of our beloved husband and father. A special thanks to Pastor Neil Hendrickson for his comforting words, to Mrs. Neil Hendrickson, soloist; Mrs. James Dalager, organist; Green's Funeral Home, to the honorary and active pallbearers; to VFW Post 2793; to Ralph Peterson for taps; to the ladies who served lunch and to all who helped in so many ways. May God Bless you all. Mrs. Sam Kezar and family. 1t58c

Card of Thanks

A special thank you to Rev. Leland Steen for his words of comfort, to the Sinding Funeral Home for fine service given, to the staff of Northwestern hospital for the loving care of our loved one, to Mr. and Mrs. James Dalager for beautiful music rendered at the funeral, to Circles I and II of Calvary Lutheran church of St. Hilaire for refreshments served and to all who gave floral and monetary gifts. Your thoughtfulness and kindnesses will always be remembered. The family of Mrs. Arne (Hilda) Vik. 1t58p

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many relatives and friends who remembered our dear husband and father with cards and visits while he was at the hospital and upon his return home and for the many kind words and deeds bestowed upon us following our bereavement. Special thanks to Rev. Larson and Rev. John Lind for their words of comfort and to all who brought food to the home and also to the Oak Park Ladies Aid. Your kindness will long be remembered. The family of Ole Gunderson. 1t58p

Card of Thanks

We wish to express sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors for all kindnesses extended to us during the long illness and passing of our dear mother and sister, Mrs. Janna Leiran. Thanks especially to Rev. Harold Peterson and the Rebekah circle of Trinity Lutheran Church; to the doctors at the Thief River Clinic, and the nurses at the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Bothman and Roberta, Mrs. Mary Johnson and Ole Moberg. 1t58p

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to all my relatives and neighbors for their visits, and for the lovely cards and gifts I received during my recent stay at Northwestern hospital. Also, special thanks to Pastor Kubik, Pastor Nelson, and to Dr. Van Rooy and the nurses for their excellent care. Ole Aune. 1t58c

Sub-District Legion Tourney To Open Wed.

Arrangements were completed at a meeting held in Middle River on Monday evening for the Minnesota sub-district American Legion junior baseball tournament to be held on July 27, 28 and 29. The tournament will be held at two sites, Thief River Falls and Warren, with the championship finals being slated for Warren at 8 p.m. on July 30.

Only eight members of the 11-team Northwest Conference American Legion circuit will participate in the sub-district tournament. Five of the teams — Middle River, East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls, Crookston and Warroad —were seeded into the sub-district tournament. Six teams — Warren, Oslo, Karlstad, Argyle, Roseau and Newfolden — will participate in playoff games tomorrow, Thursday, to determine the three remaining sub-district tourney berths.

Ratings of the teams in the Northwest conference, with the won-and-lost records, were as follows: (1) Middle River, 8-1; (2) East Grand Forks, 8-2; (3) Thief River Falls, 6-3; (4) Crookston, 6-4; (5) Warroad, 5-5; (6) Roseau, 5-4; (7) Karlstad, 5-4; (8) Warren, 5-4; (9) Oslo, 3-7; (10) Argyle, 1-9 and (11) Newfolden, 1-9.

In playoff games tomorrow, Roseau will play Newfolden at Roseau; Argyle will play Karlstad at Karlstad; and Oslo will play Warren at Warren.

The first-day pairings of the sub-district tournament will find games being scheduled for Warren and Thief River Falls. At Warren, on Wednesday, July 27, Middle River will meet the winner of the Warren vs. Oslo game at 6:30 p.m.; while at 8:30 p.m. Crookston will play Warroad. At Thief River Falls, on the 27th, East Grand Forks will play the winner of the Karlstad vs. Argyle game at 6:30 p.m. At 8:30 p.m., Thief River Falls will play the winner of the Karlstad vs. Argyle game at 6:30 p.m. At 8:30 p.m., Thief River Falls will play the winner of the Roseau vs. Newfolden game.

The sub-district semi-finals are slated for Thursday, July 28, with single games being played at Warren and Thief River Falls, with game time at 8 p.m. The sub-district finals will be played at Warren on Saturday, July 30, at 8 p.m.

Sub-district finalists will advance to the district tournament which is scheduled for the Stauss field in East Grand Forks on August 6, 7 and 8.

Bemidji Defeats Jr. Legion Nine

The Bemidji juniors, behind the three-hit pitching of righthander John Melhus, defeated the local juniors, 4-1, in an American Legion juniors baseball game played on the BSC field in Bemidji Tuesday evening.

The Thief River Falls juniors, in the top of the third inning, gained a short-lived lead when Rocky Wilson opened with a single, stole second, advanced to third on an infield out, and tallied on Karl Poppenhagen's fly ball to center field.

Bemidji, in the bottom half of the third inning, scored three runs on only one hit, but three errors were contributing factors to the scoring spree. Mike McGaurn and Jerry Fruetel gained first on errors. Bob Powell was a strikeout victim. Dick Barthelemy drew a walk to load the bases. An error scored McGaurn, and Tom Hill's single plated two more runs. Melhus drew a walk, and Keyes was hit by a pitched ball. Lefty Tom Tunberg came on in relief of starter Nickie Drees, and Tunberg whiffed Larry Shadlow.

Coach Rollie Johnson's Bemidji squad added a run in the fifth inning when, with one out, Rich Glas singled, stole second and scored on Melhus' single.

The game closed out the local juniors pre-tournament schedule, and left the squad with a season's mark of 10 wins and 10 losses.

The Hamm's Beer No. 1 squad—Wally DuChamp, Hubert Matt, Morris Nystrom, Emil Larson and Ed Broughton — the league leaders for the past couple of weeks, and the Larson Music Company foursome—Justus Larson, John Moum, Jim Solsten and Les DeBriyn — have gained the city golf league playoffs.

The Larson Music squad, in fourth place a week ago, shot a fine 140-stroke net on Wednesday to move up into second place, trailing the league-leading Hamm's No. 1 by six strokes. In last week's play, for the Larsons, Moum had a gross 39 and a net 37, Solsten a gross 41 and net 35, Justus Larson a gross 41 and net 31, and DeBriyn a gross 40 and net 37.

The Hamm's No. 1 came in with a 142-stroke total to maintain their place as league leaders.

Gaining individual honors in last week's competition were Justus Larson of the Larson Music squad, who had a net 31, and Ron Kvikstad, who carded a par 36 for low gross total.

For the Union State Bank squad, Kildahl had a gross 48 and net 37, Adolphson a gross 50 and net 38, Womack a gross 42 and net 36 and Lee a gross 44 and net 31.

Swim Schedule Change Noted for Grygla Youngsters

Change in schedule for the Grygla area youngsters attending swimming lessons at the Roseau community swimming pool has been announced by Kenneth Rusten, principal at the Grygla school. The change will be effective beginning Tuesday, July 26.

Beginning on that date, youngsters riding the Fourtown bus east of Grygla will have lessons at Roseau on Tuesday rather than Thursday, Rusten said. Reason for the change is the crowded conditions resulting from the demand for lessons at the Roseau pool.

Youngsters from the village of Grygla and area to the west of the village will continue to take lessons on Thursday.

Aquacade Shortstop Tourney

The week-long festivities of the annual Jaycees' Aquacade will begin on Sunday July 24, when, at the local golf club, a shortstop golf tournament will be played.

The championship flight will be on a 27-hole medal play basis, with an entry fee of $5. The other flights will be on a nine-hole match play basis, and the entry fee will be $4. And there will be a flight for junior golfers, unless these juniors qualify for the championship flight.

Tee off time will be at 9 a.m. sharp, and tournament chairman Don Goodrich hopes that golfers intending to participate in the tourney will call 681-2955 by 9 p.m. on Saturday and post their qualifying scores.

Unofficial Opening

The annual Pennington county fair will officially open on Thursday, but there will be an unofficial opening at the fairgrounds on Wednesday evening, this evening, at 6:30 p.m., when the league-leading Vets meet the Bridgeman's in a city softball league encounter. This game could provide plenty of "fireworks".

The Bridgeman's have been playing fine softball in their recent outings, while the Vets have been having toubles in remaining undefeated. And, too, the Vets will be without the bench advice of manager Pat Poole, who is on a trip to California.

Fishing Activity—Slow

The dictionary defines these days as "dog days: 1) the period between early July and early September when the hot sultry weather of suummer usually occurs in the northern hemisphere; 2) a period of stagnation or inactivity."

And this definition pretty well describes the fishing and angling activity in these parts. This is particularly applicable to the walleyed pike fishermen. The panfish, that is crappies and blue gills, are providing a bit of excitement and recreation. But the walleyes have been pretty finicky.

Lake of the Woods, and there must be thousands upon thousands of walleyes in that vast water, has been turning in more unfilled limits than filled limits and this is somewhat surprising considering the late and cold spring. It was the belief of experienced lake fishermen that the walleyes would remain inshore for several weeks longer than usual, and that the close in reefs would provide good fishing. Not so.

Of course, there have been reports of limit catches, and I noticed a string of walleyes that Reuben Halvorson, superintendent of schools at Roseau picked up in a couple of hours while fishing at Morris Point. But then I saw a number of fishermen who had only a short string of fish, mostly saugers, hanging from the "meat" hook of their boats.

One necessity for success is to have "shiner" minnows for bait. Early in the spring it isn't so vital to have a shiner on your spinner, but during these days, when various flies are hatching (and there has been a tremendous hatch of horseflies) the fish apparently feed on these newly-hatched flies and hellgrammites.

Did talk to one successful fisherman the other day, though. James Giese of Appleton made a coffee stop in town while on his way to Roseau and Lake of the Woods. He had just returned from a fishing trip to Manitoba's Kississing Lake, and during this trip he had caught a northern pike that weighed 28 pounds and 2 ounces. Giese and his pike have been pictured in the Winnipeg Tribune and the Minneapolis Star. He told me that he used a large "Lynn Thompson" spoon in making the catch, and that when the pike was brought to net only two strands of the 40-lb. test leader remained unbroken. It was quite a fish, and quite an experience for Mr. Giese.

Black Power

The more militant and aggressive Negro civil rights organizations have adopted, as their rallying slogan, "Black Power.' If you read the batting averages of the major leagues, particularly the National league, you will note that this slogan has become an actuality. Here's a recital of the top ten batters, as of July 10, in the National league: Manny Mota, Pittsburgh, .347; Matty Alou, Pittsburgh, .328; Richie Allen, Philadelphia, .322; Rico Carty, Atlanta, .320; Joe Morgan, Houston, .319; and Orlando Cepeda, St. Louis, .319. What all these hitters have in common, in addition to their above .300 averages, is that they are colored. The National league has become the dominant Negro league.

And to explore the Negro batting power in the National circuit a bit further we find that in "runs scored', Hank Aaron of Atlanta; Alou of Pittsburgh; Allen of Philadelphia; and Jim Hart of San Francisco, are the leaders. And in "hits' you will find Alou, Clemente, Vada Pinson of Cincinnati, Alou, and Billy Williams of Chicago, the leaders. Negroes all.

In the vital "rbi" category, Aaron, Stargell, Allen and Willie Mays of San Francisco, are the top producers. And in the "home run" department, only Joe Torre of Atlanta, with 21, is able to break up the monopoly of the colored players, and he trails Hank Aaron and Will Stargell.

Even the American league is feeling the impact of the Negro ball players with such stars as the Twins' Tony Oliva, Baltimore's Frank Robinson and California's Jose Cardenal among the batting leaders.

Small Hay Bales Dry Better Than Standard Size, U of M Reports

Small cube-shaped bales, just a foot-long per side, seem better adapted to artificial hot-air drying and to mechanical handling than standard-sized bales, according to experiments by University of Minnesota researchers.

Visitors to the Rosemount agricultural experiment station's field day Tuesday learned of a continuing project to develop a hay harvesting system that will enable farmers to produce high quality hay and handle it mechanically.

John Strait, project leader and professor of agricultural engineering at the university, said the project's objective is to compare drying and handling characteristics of both 12-inch cubic bales and short standard cross-section bales, 14x18 inches in cross section and 22 inches long.

Experiments show the 12-inch cubic bales dry faster and cost less to dry than the short standard cross-section bales. Cost of drying the cubic bales averaged about $1 per ton less than for the standard cross-section bales, assuming comparable initial moisture content and density.

From 1963 trials: For the 12-inch cubic bales average moisture content was 35.7 per cent; average drying costs were $4.27 per ton; and average bale density was 9.4 pounds per cubic foot. For the short standard cross-section bales, moisture content averaged 38.3 per cent; average drying cost was $6.36 and average bale density was 8.9 pounds per cubic foot.

Using the hay harvesting system under good drying conditions, Strait said a farmer can cut hay in early morning, rake it when moisture content is about 50 per cent, then bale and place it in the batch drier by mid-afternoon. The drier operates overnight and during the next day until the bales' moisture content is safe for storage.

For batch-drying, hay should be baled when moisture content ranges from 35 to 45 per cent. Strait says hay with more than 45 per cent moisture won't dry satisfactorily and even with 40 per cent moisture content, hay may not dry fast enough to process a batch per day. If drying time can be cut to 16 hours or less, a batch of hay can be dried each day, thus increasing the drier's annual capacity.

The experimental batch drier used had a capacity of about four tons of dry hay—about one-third that of a full-scale farm unit—and temperautre of the heated air ranged from 125-145 degrees F. without recirculation and 155-160 degrees F. with recirculation.

Efficiency is reasonably high during early stages of the drying process, but decreases as drying progresses. Recent experiments indicate that recirculating part of the exhaust air can significantly lower drying costs and cut drying time slightly. Strait says recirculation of 65 per cent of the exhaust air has reduced drying costs about $3.50 per ton.

An important factor reducing efficiency is that the top bale layer dries quite slowly and often unevenly. Thus the drier must operate long after most bales reach a moisture content safe for storage. Strait says rearranging the top bales near the end of the drying process will shorten drying time somewhat.

Artificial drying can't make up for quality lost because hay was overmature or damaged by insects. But quality retention has been excellent for batch-dried hay. Very few leaves are lost. Leaves are whole and attached to the plant stem and hay has a bright green color.

SJOBERGS CABLE TV

In line with our policy of bringing patrons of cable TV the clearest and sharpest pictures possible, we are replacing our entire cable system.

Although our present system is only about 3-years-old — It has been made obselete by new developments in cable maunfacturing. Our system will use Jerrold new aluminum covered, moisture proof cable. Because of its moisture resistance and better insulation outside disturbances and signals will be virtually eliminated in the new cable system.

When our system is completed early this fall, we hope to bring our patrons in addition to better reception, two more channels.

Wheat Program Payments To Be Made in August

Wheat farmers who have participated in the 1966 wheat program will begin getting program payments soon after August 8, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural stabilization and Conservation committee. One draft will be made to each participant, covering both marketing certificates and diversion payments where these apply.

As directed by law, the certificates will be valued at $1.32 per bushel — the difference between parity as of July 1 ($2.57 per bushel) and the national average price-support loan rate of $1.25 per bushel. They will be based on the projected production of the planted wheat acreage up to 45 per cent of the farm wheat allotment. This is the participating farm's estimated share of the wheat crop needed for domestic food use.

"In total, these wheat certificates and acreage diversion payments are estimated at about $130,000 for the expected 540 county participants in the 1966 program,' Knutson said. "The payments will raise returns from the 1966 wheat crop substantially. Farmers participating in the wheat program are also eligible for loans averaging $1.35 per bushel in the county on their entire 1966 wheat production.'

7 Million Tree Seedlings Planted On State Lands

Minnesota department of conservation's forestry division announced today that 7,218,000 tree seedlings have been planted on state-owned land during the past 12 months.

Forestry officials estimated that about 7,300 acres were reforested—more than all the acres cut over last year which required planting.

Some forest lands do not require seeding or planting after they are logged since they re-seed themselves from trees left standing after selective cutting.

Most of the trees planted were Norway pine, white spruce, black spruce, jack pine, white pine and black walnut although several other species were planted in smaller amounts.

The more than seven million trees planted on state lands represents only a small part of the 28 million trees shipped from state forest nurseries during the same period for planting on public and private lands.

Minnkota Given $56 Million Loan For Power Plant

A $56 million loan to Minnkota Power cooperative for construction of a new electric generating plant and transmission facilities to serve some 50,00 electric power consumers in northwestern Minnesota and North Dakota has been approved by the Rural Electrification administration.

The loan is the third largest ever made by the REA. New generating and transmission facilities are expected to result in substantial rate reductions to consumers. Minnkota officials have estimated that savings to the consumer over the entire system will total $20 million for the 10 year period after the new 200 megawatt generating plant goes on the line in the fall of 1970—an average of $2 million annually.

Minnkota Power cooperative is composed of 12 member distribution cooperatives — eight in Minnesota serving some 30,000 consumers and four in North Dakota serving some 20,000 consumers.

The new generating plant will be located at Center, N. D., in the midst of North Dakota's lignite fields. Lignite is a low-cost coal deemed usable for thermal electric generation.

The new facilities will not only mean lower power costs to northwestern Minnesota farmers and consumers, but will provide a strong incentive for more industrial development in the northwestern reaction of the state, officials state. Also planned are construction of additional transmission facilities to the Twin Cities area in cooperation with Northern States Power company and to northeastern Minnesota in cooperation with Minnesota Power and Light company.

Eight Minnesota co-op members of Minnkota reportedly have indicated that initial savings to their consumers would total about $450,000 annually. Clearwater-Polk Electric cooperative, Bagley, has estimated that its initial savings will total $33,000; North Star Electric cooperative, Baudette, has estimated savings of $85,000; Beltrami Electric cooperative, Bemidji, about $40,000; Red River Valley Cooperative Power Association, Halstad, $45,000; Wild Rice Electric cooperative, Mahnomen, $42,000; Red Lake Electric cooperative, Red Lake Falls, $75,000; Roseau Electric cooperative, Roseau, $48,525; and P. K. M. Electric cooperative, Warren, $80,000.

Loan Specialist To Visit Bemidji

Harry A. Sieben, regional director of the Small Business administration, has announced that John R. Cronholm, loan specialist, will be in Bemidji on Wednesday, August 10.

In making the announcement, Sieben urged small businessmen in the area who are interested in learning more about the various SBA programs to make plans to visit with Cronholm. Appointments can be made by contacting the Chamber of Commerce, Bemidji avenue and Third street, Bemidji. The telephone number is 751-3540.

It's Fair Time Again

Once again the time has arrived for the Pennington county fair. This year it will be the 65th annual exposition—and that's a lot of years for a community event to continue.

Impossible as it may seem, each county fair is good deal different from the year before. The format is the same with livestock exhibits, carnival, home economics and handicraft displays, grandstand entertainment, food and soft drink stands and various demonstrations annualy included in the event. But each county fair is different.

The fair is different because of the constant change in people participating in it. Really, that's what the county fair is—people and what they do. Visitors to the exhibits exclaim over the time and precision required in handicrafts, the trim appearance of the livestock and the countless hours devoted to project work by 4-H club members and their junior and adult leaders.

And each year brings new exhibitors, new exhibits, different livestock and more varied participation. Young 4-H club members get older and gain more experience, advancing to more difficult projects as they learn by doing. Only by attending the fair each year is it possible to keep pace with youngsters who are so important to the fair—and to whom the fair is so important.

For 65 years the Pennington county fair has stood the test of time, placing on display for all to see the industry and leisure activities of Pennington county and area people. Plan to spend at least a day or two at the fair this year. You won't need to spend a nickel if you don't want to, since the gates are open and the exhibits are free for inspection by all visitors.

We'll see you there at the county fair.

Isn't That Thoughtful?

We note in the monthly newsletter from Congressman Odin Langen that, "The House of Representatives has approved the bill to raise parcel post rates and to increase the weight and size that may be mailed between first class post offices more than 150 miles apart."

The interesting part, however, is Rep. Langen's comment that, "Before passing the House, an amendment was approved so that any employee of a private carrier who loses his job because of the bill would be given a position with the Post Office department with status and seniority rights."

Isn't that thoughtful?

It is surprising that members of Congress will admit that their actions could be harmful to private enterprise. Although they frequently know that their actions will create difficulties for tax-paying industries, it is quite unusual for such an admission to be made. In this case, the lawmakers have not only admitted their action but have written the confession into the proposed bill.

We will not argue the merits of the proposal to expand the parcel post authority of the post office department. We do question, however, the practice of placing displaced employees on the government payroll as a compensation for possibly unnecessary government interference. That seems to be much like fishy politics—in both action and odor.

It would seem that federal action should be able to stand on its own merits without such wishy-washy provisions. Either the legislation is warranted without tossing out hand-outs, or it is not worthy of consideration. Sooner or later politicians should learn that a continuous walk down the middle of the road is an open invitation to being flattened by a truck.

Words Still True

Back in 1922, a penetrating analysis and a disparaging view of America's future was offered by H. L. Mencken, considered to be one of the most capable and experienced observers of the American political scene. He expressed the following opinion:

"It is, for example, one of my firmest and most sacred beliefs, reached after an inquiry extending over a score of years and supported by incessant prayer and meditation, that the government of the United States, in both its legislative arm and its executive arm, is ignorant, incompetent, corrupt, and disgusting—and from this judgement I except no more than twenty living lawmakers and no more than twenty executioners of their laws. It is a belief no less piously cherished that the administration of justice in the Republic is stupid, dishonest, and against all reason and equity—and from this judgment I except no more than thirty judges including two upon the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States. It is another that the foreign policy of the United States—its habitual manner of dealing with other nations, weather friend or foe — is hypocritical, disingenous, knavish, and dishonorable—and from this judgment I consent to no exceptions whatever, either recent or long past. And it is my fourth (and to avoid too depressing a bill, final) conviction that the American people, taking one with another, constitute the most timorous, sniveling, poltroonish, ignominious mob of serfs and goose-steppers ever gathered under one flag in Christendom since the end of the Middle Ages, and that they grow more timorous, more sniveling, more poltroonish, more ignominious every day."

This opion was expressed 44 years ago when Warren G. Harding was President of the United States. It was before Congress dared to interfere with such personal matters as hours of work, rates of pay, hiring and firing of employees, running of schools, businesses, farms and other matters expressly forbidden to it by the Constitution.

It was a time when a person could mention God or honor or patriotism on a college campus and not be laughed at; before the public dole was a federal institution; before the word "politician" was so clearly synonymous with "Santa Claus".

What would Mencken say of our government today?

Pulling the Strings

Anyone who does not think that federal aid means federal control is fooling himself. If the federal government provides the financing which makes wheels turn in the states and local communities, it most certainly can, does and will dictate the direction in which these wheels shall turn.

Take for example the auto and highway safety bill which has passed the Senate in Washington, calling for installation of federally-required safety devices starting with 1968 models. The House public works committee has approved legislation requiring states to set up safety programs. States which did not set up such programs would find their federal highway aid cut.

This would be known in at least several types of business as "tightening the screws". It keeps the pressure on, not actually forcing compliance but making it extremely difficult for any state not to conform to the dictates of the federal program. This is the sort of thing Washington is dishing out to the public today on a "here—it—is—you—better—come—along—with—it" basis.

Americans should never forget that the person who creates the puppet also pulls the strings, and that the puppet is free to move only to the extent that the strings are pulled. Americans are are permitting themselves to be made over from living, vital human beings into listless, lifeless puppets on the strings of a too powerful, too centralized government.

Federal aid means federal control any way you look at it—in the highway program, education, so-called poverty or welfare schemes, medicare and a host of other politically-conceived, bureaucratically-oriented and centrally-controlled programs.

Uncle Sam does not provide the puppet or the purse unless he controls the strings of both.

Apt Definitions

The following editorial appeared recently in the Kenyon "Leader":

Senator John J. Williams a leading advocate of "truth in government" gave his appraisal of the Great Society in a recent speech. The following excerpts are taken from his speech:

"Great Society" is the trade name of an administration that has become recognized as the most extravagant spending, high-taxing, and high-handed group ever to occupy the White House.

The Great Society is a place where the President wants every child to have a good breakfast and then proposes to take away his school lunch.

The Great Society is a place where LBJ wants to do away with the serving of school milk as an economy move but insists on a $750,000 mansion where the Vice President can serve champagne to visitors.

The Great Society is a place where the government tells cattlemen to develop more foreign markets and soon as they have done so, slaps export quotas on cattle hides.

The Great Society is a place where Lady Bird crusades against billboards while LBJ orders that a billboard with his name be erected on every federal building construction site.

The Great Society is a place where they want lenders to state the full cost of credit but believe the public has no right to know the full cost of federal loans and grants.

The Great Society is a place where it is belived that everyone has the right to a job but that no one should have the right to work.

The Great Society is a place where a steel mill sold to Red China is not considered a strategic item for war.

The Great Society claims it is against inflation but is for more spending, where Government sets up guidelines for business but uses pipelines to speed the flow of government funds out of Washington.

The Great Society is a place where communism must be opposed militarily 10,000 miles away but where U. S. funds go to Cuban colleges 90 miles from Florida.

The Great Society is a place where you lower taxes one year to aid prosperity and raise taxes the next year for the same purpose.

The Great Society is a place where tourists are discouraged from going abroad while the Government sends thousands of U. S. officials overseas, where the President calls for curtailment of private investment abroad while shoveling foreign aid funds into foreign economies.

The Great Society is a place where the only criticism you hear of a corrupt public official is when he allows himself to get caught.

Home Fallout Protection Survey Planned in State

Roy V. Aune, Civil Defense chief, announced Tuesday that the federal government has designated Minnesota as one of the first states to be involved in the home fallout protection survey. The program begins today in Minnesota on a statewide basis.

This program was developed by the office of Civil Defense and will be implemented by the Bureau of Census. It will tell many householders that they have basement areas which provide fallout protection equal to, or above, the minimum set for public fallout shelters.

The concept and policy of Civil Defense changed radically when the intercontinental ballistic missile became operative. The cost of providing bomb shelters was prohibitive but providing protection from nuclear radiation was feasible.

From a military standpoint there is a nuclear stand-off in the world today. The point of decision could well be, "which nation can best protect its people.'

Fallout radiation can be deadly over a many-hundred square mile area as opposed to the blast area only of a nuclear weapon. Therefore, a nuclear explosion can effect those many miles away from the impact area, unless they are sheltered.

This resulted in the creation of a program to provide radiation fallout protection for all our people. The public fallout shelter program is working toward this end. To date in Minnesota we have located 3,323, shelters that could protect 2,415,870 people from radioactive fallout. Of these shelters, 2,585, have been licensed and marked, and 2,403 have been stocked with food, water, sanitation kits and medical supplies. Locating, stocking and marking shelters is an on-going program in Minnesota.

The bulk of our best shelter is concentrated in the business districts of our cities. Because of residential location, job location or other factors, such public shelters may not meet an individual's needs. Therefore, we must identify what shelter is available in homes.

A recent nationwide sample survey conducted by the Bureau of Census shows that 10 per cent of American homes offer minimum safety from fallout radiation. It may also be possible that the same area designated as the safest place in the home from fallout would be the safest area of the home during a natural disaster.

Every household in one, two and three-unit structures in Minnesota will be accounted for. Residents in apartment buildings of four or more units, in trailers or other types of dwellings, as well as those with specially constructed fallout shelters, will be asked to state this fact on the questionnaire. These residents will be reached through other survey techniques. Every questionnaire filled out and returned to the Bureau of Census will be answered.

The survey will be conducted by two methods-by mail and by personal interview. The mail method will be used in the metropolitan area in Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth and in the cities of Rochester, Moorhead, Winona, Mankato, North Mankato and St. Cloud. The questionnaire mailed to the householder will ask a few simple questions about the type and construction features of the house; the householder will be asked to fill in the questionnaire and mail it back promptly.

In the remainder of the state, local residents, hired and trained by the Bureau of Census will call at residences and obtain the necessary information.

Information received on the questionnaires or from the interviewer will be analyzed by an electric computer, which will calculate the degree of fallout protection offered in that particular basement. Each householder who has a basement, and who has returned the questionnaire, will received by mail the degree of protection from radioactive fallout in the householder's own basement.

This survey has been in research and development for several years and has nothing to do with the current international situation.

The U. S. Congress has appropriated funds to the Department of Defense, Office of Civil Defense, to pay for the survey.

This survey, undertaken by the Minnesota Department of Civil Defense, will provide the state and local communities with statistics on the number of residents located in a defined geographic area that could be protected from radioactive fallout in the basement of their homes, and will aid local governments in planning to meet shelter shortages in their communities.

All information furnished the Bureau of Census is strictly confidential. Information regarding individuals or individual homes will not be furnished any other government agency, not even to the Office of Civil Defense.

Road Maintenance Contracts Total $6 Million in '66

Minnesota highway department awarded a total of $6,924,403 in highway maintenance contracts in fiscal year 1966, which ended June 30.

The largest share of funds, $3,545,161, was allocated for bituminous resurfacing on 264 miles of state highways. Some $1,380,161 was committed for 1,385 miles of bituminous seal coating.

Other projects involved production and stockpiling of mineral aggregates, liquid application of calcium chloride on gravel roads and co-operative maintenance agreements with municipalities and with bordering states.

Steps Suggested If Home Freezer Stops Running

Having problems with the home freezer? You may be at a loss to know what to do when the food in the freezer has started to thaw, whether it's because one of the children left the door open, you absentmindedly turned all the electricity off when you went on vacation or the power has gone off in an electrical storm.

Mrs. Shirley T. Munson, assistant professor of horticultural science at the University of Minnesota, gives some guidelines to help you decide whether the food can be salvaged.

If the odor of thawed food is questionable, destroy the food. Spoilage may have started.

Because meats and poultry are unsafe to eat when they begin to spoil, be sure to examine each package of meat carefully. If the food still contains some ice crystals it is safe to refreeze it, although the quality may not be as good. However, it is often wiser to cook immediately any meat that is completely thawed rather than to refreeze it. It should be cooked thoroughly.

Do not refreeze vegetables, shellfish or cooked foods that have thawed completely, since their odor will usually not tell you whether they have spoiled, Mrs. Munson cautions. If ice crystals are still present, it is usually safe to refreeze these foods — if it is done immediately.

Fruits usually ferment when they start to spoil. A little fermentation will not make fruits unsafe but it may spoil their flavor. If thawing has not changed the taste or smell of fruits, you can refreeze them or use them for jams or preserves.

To refreeze foods in your freezer, rearrange them to get the warmer packages against the refrigerated surface, and pile packages so the air can circulate around them. However, if your freezer is full of partially thawed foods, it is best to take the food to a commercial locker plant for a quick refreeze.

If the electricity goes off in your area, you can take one of a number of different steps to keep food in the freezer from spoiling: keep the freezer door closed; move the food to a locker plant; or add dry ice.

Food in a chest-type freezer operating at 0 degrees Fahrenheit or lower that is full won't thaw for two days when the power is off, according to Mrs. Munson. In a half-full freezer, food should keep well for one day.

In an upright freezer, food will thaw more quickly. If the electricity comes on in a matter of hours, there's no need to worry. However, don't open the freezer door unnecessarily because by doing so you will let warm air in and raise the inside temperature.

Dry ice can come to the rescue in case the power should be off for more than one or two days. Dry ice will be most effective if you saw a 50-pound chunk into smaller pieces and set these on cardboard on top of the frozen food packages. Wear gloves to keep the ice from touching your skin while you are handling it.

If you arrange with a local freezer plant to transfer your frozen foods there in an emergency, pack them in cardboard boxes with crumpled newspaper around them to protect them from thawing.

AT THE CHURCHES

Evangelical Free Church

246 Kendall Ave. North

"A Friendly Church with a Faithful Message."

It is strange how people complain of the cold and then of the heat. We find it hard to find the perfect situation. Yet, we know that in this life we shall not find the PERFECT situation. We do not claim to be perfect at the Evangelical Free Church, but we preach the Gospel of Christ and offer to all a warm welcome and an invitation to make our church your church home.

Wednesday: 8 p.m. Bible study and prayer for the whole family. The family that worships and prays together shall find real unity in all matters of living.

9:15 a.m. Sunday School hour

Sun., July 24: 9:45 a. m. Sunday School hour classes for all. 11 a. m. morning worship. Pastor Johnson will be speaking. 8 p. m. Evening Gospel service. This service is broadcasted over station KTRF and is known as the "Bread of Life Hour." A team of 6 students of Trinity college and Divinity school od Chicago will present the whole hour of service. These young people have been traveling the whole summer in services in churches and Bible Camps. They will present a great variety of musical numbers and several testomonies. For an evening of inspiration and good music, join us at the church at 8 p. m. This wull be a service you will long remember.
